Introduction

The Organization of the Government of Canada (in French, L'Administration fédérale du Canada) can be used as a guide to the federal government.

A fold-out organization chart at the back shows the relationships of departments and agencies described in the book. Included are all departments and those agencies and Crown corporations listed in the Financial Administration Act, the Main Estimates, and the Public Service Staff Relations Act, as well as a number of other agencies of interest.

The book is divided into three main sections: Legislature, Judiciary and Executive. The same format is used for each department and agency. To make it easier to contact individual agencies, telephone numbers have been included under the heading "additional information". Phone numbers are also given for most regional offices.

Legal titles have been used throughout the book instead of the applied titles adopted by federal organizations under the federal identity program. For example, the legal title, Department of Agriculture has been used rather than the applied title, Agriculture Canada.

Wherever possible, organization charts are included. In some cases, however, a reorganization was taking place at the time of printing and a chart was unavailable. Legal advisers shown on many charts are employees of the Department of Justice. Numbers on the charts indicate the number of positions.

At the beginning of each section, the title of the Minister responsible for the department or agency is given. Members of the Cabinet are listed on page 414; Members of Parliament are listed on pages 27 to 33.

The expiry date of an appointment to a board or commission is given in brackets after the person's name.

Abbreviations and definitions can be found in the appendices.

The Legislature

The Legislature — Introduction

The Legislature of the Canadian government is the Parliament of Canada. It consists of the elected House of Commons, the appointed Senate, and the Sovereign, represented by the Governor General. The general legislative powers of Parliament are defined in Section 91 of the British North America Act, 1867, as amended. There must be a session of Parliament at least every 12 months.

Parliamentary System

Although Canada's written constitution is silent about many of the details, constitutional practice has defined Canadian government procedures. Political parties are the mainspring of the Canadian parliamentary system and the government is formed by the leader of the political party able to command the support of a majority in the House of Commons. The leader becomes the Prime Minister and selects ministers to form his government, usually from the ranks of his supporters in Parliament. Together they form the Cabinet and are responsible for formulating and implementing policies for governing the country. The government also is responsible for preparing legislation and guiding it through Parliament. In order to remain in office, the Cabinet must be able to command the support of a majority of the Members of the House of Commons on an issue of confidence.

The Opposition

Those Members of Parliament who sit in opposition to the government are responsible for questioning and criticizing government policies and actions. They also suggest alternative proposals to government policies. As the possible alternative government, they stand ready with policies and programs formulated, to put forward their leaders and to form the government at the request of the Governor General.

The Legislative Process

In the words of the British legal scholar Sir William Anson: "The most prominent if not the most important function of Parliament is legislation . . ." The acts or statutes adopted by Parliament in the exercise of its legislative powers are originally introduced as bills and may originate in either the Senate or the House of Commons; however, bills which appropriate any part of the public revenue or impose any tax must originate in the House of Commons. Private bills usually originate in the Senate, but it is not uncommon for them to originate in the House. All bills must be read three separate times in each House, be adopted by both Houses, and receive Royal Assent in order to become law.

The Sovereign

Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II

The Sovereign, the person on whom the Crown is conferred, symbolizes Canada's status as a constitutional monarchy, the Canadian form of responsible government. Parliament is composed of the Crown, the Senate and the House of Commons. Formal executive power in Canada is thus vested in The Queen. Her Majesty's powers and authorities are delegated to the Governor General who is appointed by her on the recommendation of the Prime Minister and, who, since 1952, has been chosen from among the nation's most outstanding and respected citizens. Her Majesty comes to Canada from time to time to visit various regions of the country. She has visited Canada 11 times during her reign. The Governor General carries out The Queen's functions; both of course act in accordance with Canadian constitutional practice.

The Crown is seen as a symbol of national sovereignty belonging to all Canadians, a link between citizens of every national origin and ancestry. The Queen herself stated in Toronto, in June, 1973, that "the Crown is an idea more than a person" which should "represent everything that is best and most admired in the Canadian ideal".

In her position at the apex of the Canadian state, government and judicial functions, the Monarch is the fountain of justice in that all judicial functions are carried on in her name. She is also fons honoris, the fountain of honour. In this capacity she is Sovereign of the Order of Canada, and also of the Order of Military Merit, and approves the award of the Canadian Bravery decorations. Among her many associations with various groups across Canada, Her Majesty is Colonel-in-Chief of 11 Canadian Regiments, Honourary Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and Patron of numerous associations and organizations.

The Queen is Head of the Commonwealth and as such is the symbol of the free association of the 32 member countries of this unprecedented, multilingual, international partnership which represents millions, of all races and creeds. As Canadian Head of State, Her Majesty was last in residence at Government House, Ottawa, from October 14 to 19, 1977.

Only the Canadian aspect of the Crown is supported by Canadian funds. When The Queen or other members of The Royal Family are in Canada, the federal or provincial governments meet the expenses involved. The salaries of the Governor General and Lieutenant Governors are borne by the federal government.

Her Majesty's full title, as formally proclaimed at Ottawa on May 29, 1953, four days before her Coronation, is "Elizabeth the Second, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom, Canada and Her Other Realms and Territories Queen, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith" (An Act respecting the Royal Style and Titles).

The Governor General

Schreyer, The Right Honourable Edward Richard, C.C., C.M.M., C.D., B.A., B.Ped., B.Ed., M.A., Hon. LL.D., University of Manitoba and D.U. (Ottawa), 1979. Governor General and Commander-in-Chief of Canada since January 22, 1979.

Chancellor and Principal Companion of the Order of Canada.

Chancellor and Commander of the Order of Military Merit.

Edward Richard Schreyer was born at Beauséjour, Manitoba, December 21, 1935. He is the son of John and Elizabeth Schreyer who were members of a pioneer farm family in the district. After elementary and secondary schooling at Beauséjour, he studied in Winnipeg at United College, St. John's College and the University of Manitoba, earning the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Education and Master of Arts (international relations and economics). While at university he served for two years (1954-56) as second lieutenant in the Canadian Officer Training Corps, Royal Canadian Armoured Corps.

Mr. Schreyer was first elected to the Manitoba Legislative Assembly in the general election of 1958, at the age of 22 and was returned in the general elections of 1959 and 1962. From 1962 to 1965 he was professor of Political Science and International Relations at St. Paul's College, University of Manitoba.

Following the federal general election of 1965 he entered the House of Commons as Member of Parliament for Springfield. He was reelected in the general election of 1968 as M.P. for Selkirk.

On June 8, 1969, he was chosen Leader of the New Democratic Party in Manitoba. Three days later he resigned his seat in the House of Commons. In the provincial general election of June 25 he was returned as Member of the Legislative Assembly for Rossmere and became Premier of Manitoba. In the general election of 1973 he was reelected and commenced a second term as Premier. Though he was reelected M.L.A. in the general election of 1977, his party lost and he became Leader of the Opposition in the Manitoba Legislature.

Throughout his tenure as Premier of Manitoba, Mr. Schreyer held the portfolio of Minister of Dominion-Provincial Relations. He also served as Minister of Finance from 1972 to 1976 and as minister charged with the administration of the Hydro Act from 1971 to 1977.

In 1975, he was given the Vanier Award as an outstanding young Canadian of that year. He has been a member of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association and the Interparliamentary Union.

On June 30, 1960, he married Lily, daughter of Jacob Schulz who was at one time a member of Parliament for Springfield, Manitoba. The Schreyers have four children: Lisa, Karmel, Jason and Toban.

Role of the Governor General

The Governor General is the senior representative of the Crown in Canada. The present incumbent is the twenty-second Governor General since Confederation. The Governor General is authorized "to exercise, on the advice of his Canadian Ministers, all Her Majesty's powers and authorities in respect of Canada" (Letters Patent, October 1, 1947).

One of the most important responsibilities of the Governor General is to ensure that the country always has a Prime Minister. If this office becomes vacant because of death or resignation, it is the Governor General's responsibility to see that the post is filled. He has the same responsibility if the government resigns following a defeat in the House of Commons or an election.

The Governor General summons, prorogues and dissolves Parliament. Cabinet Ministers, as well as other members of the Queen's Privy Council are sworn in before him or his deputy. He also signs Orders in Council, Letters of Commission and many other state documents. He gives his assent to those bills which have been passed by both Houses of Parliament, that thereby become Acts of Parliament with the force of law.

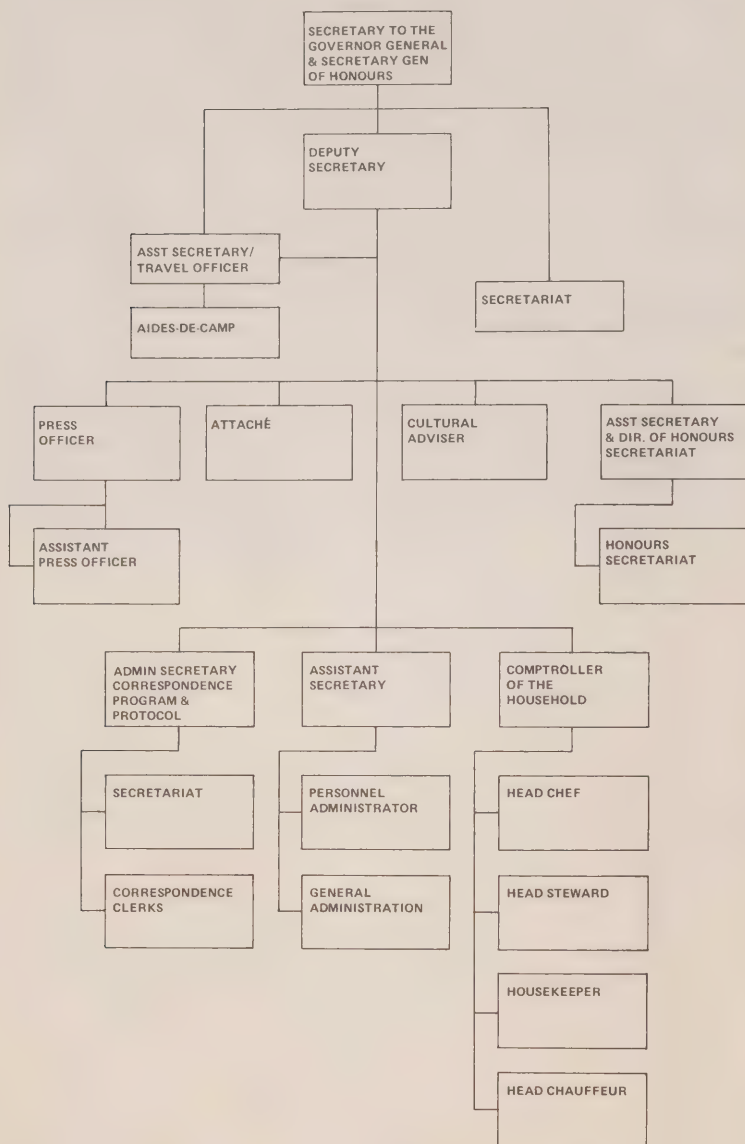

The Governor General and his wife are Canada's hosts to visiting heads of state and other distinguished visitors from abroad. They also extend hospitality in many forms to a large number of Canadians. The Governor General and his wife lend their patronage and support to a great variety of activities.

The Governor General accepts the Letters of Credence and Recall of Ambassadors appointed to Canada and signs the Letters of Credence and Recall of Canadian Ambassadors sent abroad. He receives the Letters of Commission of Commonwealth High Commissioners on their arrival in Ottawa. He also represents Canada abroad by paying official visits to other countries.

The Governor General makes appointments of Canadians to the Order of Canada, and the Order of Military Merit. He also awards decorations for acts of heroism. The Queen is Sovereign of both Orders and approves the award of bravery decorations. The Governor General is Chancellor of both the Order of Canada and the Order of Military Merit and he is responsible for the administration of the Canadian system of honours. He presides at investitures where Canadians are received into the Orders or are decorated for bravery.

Historical Background

Prior to 1927, the office acted as a channel of communication between the governments of Canada and the United Kingdom, His Majesty's Ambassador at Washington, various Colonial Governments, and, when necessary, directed correspondence to the appropriate Canadian government departments for reply. Subsequently, this became a function of the Department of External Affairs and the British High Commission in Ottawa.

Today, the Office of the Secretary to the Governor General is designated as a department, with the Prime Minister as Appropriate Minister within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1903-1952, March 31, 1952).

Overall Responsibilities

The Office of the Secretary is concerned with all matters relating to the Crown of Canada. It provides all the support services required by the Governor General to discharge his constitutional and social obligations.

The constitutional functions of the Governor General have their origins both in tradition in the British North America Act, and in other state documents such as the Statute of Westminster and the Letters Patent of 1947. The office has administrative responsibility for the performance of many of the Governor General's responsibilities, including:

- (a) giving Royal Assent to laws;
- (b) signing various other government documents, including Orders in Council, Commissions of Appointment, Grants of Pardon and Letters of Credence and Recall;
- (c) swearing in the Prime Minister and the members of the Cabinet;
- (d) receiving Letters of Credence and Commission from heads of foreign diplomatic missions;
- (e) opening and proroguing Parliament;

- (f) signing all Officers' Commissions since the Governor General is Commander in Chief of the Canadian Armed Forces;
- (g) extending official hospitality to foreign dignitaries;
- (h) awarding the decorations of the Order of Canada, the Order of Military Merit, and the Bravery Awards;
- (i) maintaining a close relationship with the Office of the Prime Minister and other government departments, as well as with Buckingham Palace.

The office ensures that the Governor General is provided with all the necessary information on a wide variety of topics.

Organization

The Secretary, who is the senior officer, has the general responsibility for the effective and efficient operation of his office. He advises the Governor General on policy matters.

The Deputy Secretary is a senior foreign service officer seconded from the Department of External Affairs. He is responsible for liaison between that department and Government House and between the latter and the Diplomatic Corps. He is also responsible for programming, planning, directing and coordinating the financial and personnel activities of the office. He carries out the duties of the secretary in his absence.

The Assistant Secretary and Director of the Secretariat of Honours is in charge of administering all matters concerning Honours and National orders and of organizing investitures.

The Comptroller of the Household administers the day-to-day operation of the household.

The administrative secretary coordinates the scheduling of the Governor General's activities and, in addition to the day-to-day correspondence, handles the invitations sent to the Governor General and the requests for honorary patronage submitted by many organizations. He is also responsible for the ceremonial and protocol involved in certain of the Governor General's constitutional and social functions.

The Cultural Adviser, as his title suggests, advises the Governor General on major Canadian cultural matters and activities and on the history, fabric, and contents of Government House in Ottawa and of the Citadel in Québec. He is also responsible for the reference and archive centre at Rideau Hall.

The Press Secretary is in charge of information policy at Rideau Hall and as such is responsible for Government House contacts with the media and the public.

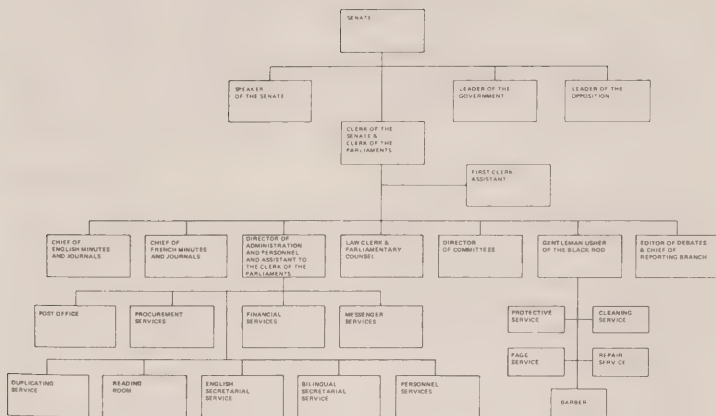

The Attaché is generally a foreign service officer seconded from the Department of External Affairs. He carries out most of the research relating to the role and functions of the Governor General. He prepares notes for the Governor General's speeches and messages.

The Assistant to the Secretary and Travel Officer assists the Secretary in his role and is responsible for the organization of the Governor General's travels in Canada and abroad.

The Department of National Defence assigns three officers who act as aides-de-camp to the Governor General for approximately two-year periods. They attend Their Excellencies both at Government House and on official travels at home and abroad.

Historical Background

As originally constituted, the Senate consisted of three divisions (Ontario, Québec, and the Maritime Provinces), each of which was represented by 24 senators. In 1915 a fourth division comprising the Western Provinces, also represented by 24 senators, was created. As each new province entered the Union it was given representation (Manitoba and British Columbia in 1871, Prince Edward Island in 1873, Saskatchewan and Alberta in 1905, and Newfoundland in 1949). In 1975 Parliament passed an act to entitle the Yukon Territory and the Northwest Territories to be represented in the Senate by one member each.

At the present time the 104-seat Senate has the following provincial representation: Newfoundland six; Prince Edward Island four; Nova Scotia 10; New Brunswick 10; Québec 24; Ontario 24; Manitoba six; Saskatchewan six; Alberta six; British Columbia six; Yukon Territory one; and Northwest Territories one.

Under the British North America Act, "money bills" (i.e. bills for appropriating any part of the public revenues or for imposing a tax or impost) must originate in the House of Commons. In other respects, since both Houses must concur in every piece of legislation, the Senate has an equal voice with the House of Commons.

Appointments

Senators are appointed by the Governor General under the Great Seal of Canada, and hold their places in the Senate until they reach the age of 75. The actual power of appointing senators resides by constitutional usage in the Prime Minister whose advice the Governor General accepts.

To be eligible for appointment a person must:

- (a) be 30 years old;
- (b) be either a natural born or a naturalized subject of the Queen;
- (c) own real property to the value of at least four thousand dollars, (over and above all encumbrances) within the province for which he is appointed;

- (d) have real and personal property together worth four thousand dollars over and above his debts and liabilities;
- (e) be a resident in the province for which he is appointed, and, in the case of Québec, have his real property qualification in the electoral division for which he is appointed or be a resident therein.

Before taking his/her seat, each senator must take the oath of allegiance and make a declaration that by law he/she is duly qualified to be appointed a member of the Senate of Canada.

Vacancies

The place of a senator becomes vacant if:

- (a) for two consecutive sessions of the Parliament, he fails to give his attendance in the Senate;
- (b) he takes an oath or makes a declaration or acknowledgment of allegiance, obedience or adherence to a foreign power, or commits an act whereby he becomes a subject or citizen or entitled to the rights or privileges of a subject or citizen of a foreign power;
- (c) he is adjudged bankrupt or insolvent, or applies for the benefit of any law relating to insolvent debtors, or becomes a public defaulter;
- (d) he is attainted of treason or convicted of felony or of any infamous crime; or
- (e) he ceases to be qualified in respect of property or of residence provided that he shall not be deemed to have ceased to be qualified in respect of residence by reason only of his residing at the seat of the Government of Canada while holding an office under that government requiring his presence there. A senator may resign his place in the Senate by a letter of resignation addressed to the Governor General.

Committees

The following standing committees are established by the Senate at the beginning of each session:

Agriculture
Banking, Trade and Commerce
Foreign Affairs
Health, Welfare and Science
Internal Economy, Budgets and Administration
Legal and Constitutional Affairs
Library of Parliament (Joint) National Finance
Printing (Joint)
Regulations and other Statutory Instruments (Joint) Restaurant of Parliament (Joint)
Standing Rules and Orders
Transport and Communications.

In certain instances, the two Houses (the Senate and the House of Commons) may unite in the formation of a special joint committee (a joint committee means one which includes members from both the Senate and the House of Commons). The Senate may appoint special committees as it deems advisable and may set the terms of reference and indicate the powers to be exercised and the duties to be undertaken by such a committee.

Administrative Organization of the Senate

Speaker

The Speaker is appointed by the Governor in Council by instrument under the Great Seal of Canada. Under a long standing custom the appointment is made for the duration of a Parliament, although Senator Bostock was Speaker from 1922 to 1930 and Senator Drouin was re-appointed in 1958. An English speaking Speaker is succeeded by one who is French speaking and vice versa.

The debates and proceedings, which may be conducted in either language, are governed by rules and orders approved by the Senate and entitled Rules of the Senate of Canada.

Clerk of the Senate

The Clerk of the Senate, appointed by the Governor General, is the chief administrative officer. He ensures publication of intended applications for private bills; he reports to the Senate if for two consecutive sessions a senator has failed to give his attendance in the Senate; he lays upon the table of the Senate, at the beginning of each Parliament, a list of senators who have renewed their Declaration of Property Qualification; he lays before the Senate at each session a detailed statement of his receipts and disbursements for the ending fiscal year; he sends to the Governor General a certified copy of the Minutes of the Proceedings of the Senate of each sitting of the House.

Under the Publication of Statutes Act, the Clerk is also the Clerk of the Parliaments; as such, he has custody of original Acts of Parliament assented to by the Governor General, and is the officer commissioned to certify the authenticity of such Acts. His seal of office is affixed to copies of all Acts delivered to the Registrar General of Canada pursuant to the Publication of Statutes Act or Acts required to be produced before courts of justice.

He holds the rank of deputy head and accounts for his administration to the Committee on Internal Economy, Budgets, and Administration.

He records the proceedings of the Senate; reads in the chamber the commission appointing a new Speaker of the Senate and administers the oath prescribed by law to new senators as a commissioner appointed for that purpose; advises the Speaker and the senators on matters of parliamentary procedure; sees that the rules governing the staff of the Senate are respected.

First Clerk Assistant

Appointed by resolution of the Senate, the First Clerk Assistant reads petitions, committee reports, orders of the day and other documents in the chamber; takes minutes of the proceedings in a committee of the whole, acts as clerk of that committee, and otherwise assists the clerk in the business of the Senate; carries out any such duties as he may be instructed to perform by the clerk; advises the Speaker on the business of the day of each sitting of the House and prepares all the required information in that regard. With the clerk he acts as adviser on all matters pertaining to parliamentary procedure.

Law Clerk and Parliamentary Counsel

The Law Clerk and Parliamentary Counsel to the Senate gives legal advice to the Senate, Committees of the Senate, and individual senators on all matters connected with past or present legislation. He is also required, among other duties, to read all public and private bills which come before the Senate and check the accuracy of all references to Acts or parts of Acts referred to therein; to advise any solicitor upon any matter which may be dealt with in private bills and check the form of such bills; to attend meetings of all Senate committees which are considering legislation (whether public or private); to advise the Chairman and members of each Committee as required; and to advise the officers of the Senate on matters of law.

He also is required to prepare drafts of public bills for senators who wish to present such bills to the Senate. He is appointed by resolution of the Senate.

Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod

This office was originally created in England, in the middle of the 14th century, and its name is taken from the ebony rod topped with a lion in gold which is the symbol of its dignity. The gentleman holding this office was initially attached to the king, and accompanied him when he went to the House of Lords; later he became a civil servant. He now has counterparts in all the countries of British origin in which there is still an upper chamber.

The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod is the personal attendant to the representative of Her Majesty in the Senate. He is responsible for supervising the administrative details in regard to the opening of Parliament. In accordance with an ancient custom, he is sent to the House of Commons to desire the attendance of that House in the Senate chamber at the opening or proroguing of Parliament and for Royal Assent to bills agreed to by both Houses.

He carries out the orders for arrest or imprisonment of persons guilty of violation of privileges or contempt; he is responsible for the security service and certain maintenance services; he is called upon to perform special duties when dignitaries visit the Senate and during conferences such as those held by NATO, the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association and the Inter-Parliamentary Union, and for the installation of a succeeding Governor General. He is appointed by Governor in Council.

Committees Branch

It is the responsibility of this branch to supply secretarial, clerical, and administrative assistance to the standing and special committees of the Senate; to prepare reports of committees for presentation to the Senate, and to arrange for the printing and distribution of the proceedings of the Senate committees.

The officers of this branch carry out extensive liaison with lawyers representing petitioners for private bills, and examine all petitions for private bills to ensure compliance with the rules of the Senate and to certify that all requirements of the law have been met, including the payment of fees. The branch director is, by virtue of the rules of the Senate, the Examiner of Petitioners for Private Bills.

Administration and Personnel Branch

This branch develops, adapts, and implements policies and procedures in respect of the general administrative, financial and personnel services of the Senate and advises the Senate and its committees on such matters.

The branch chief also assists the Clerk of the Parliaments. In that capacity, as delegated by the Clerk, he supervises the custody of the original Acts of Parliament and issues certified copies of Acts over the signature of the Clerk, and supervises the collection of prescribed fees.

Debates and Reporting Branch

This branch is responsible for taking verbatim reports of debates, and for transcribing and preparing manuscripts for daily publication in English and French throughout each session of Parliament. At the end of each session, an edited and revised edition is prepared for printing and is published in bound form as The Debates of the Senate.

In addition, an index service for the debates is maintained and interim indices are published periodically throughout each session. A consolidated index is published as part of the revised bound edition.

This branch also is required to report the evidences given before and the proceedings of standing and special committees as required. The transcript of committees reports is turned over to the committees branch for inclusion with minutes and other papers to be sent to the Department of Supply and Services for printing and selling.

Journals Branch

From the Scroll of the Clerk of the Senate, the branch prepares and edits the minutes of proceedings, the orders of the day, and routine proceedings of the Senate. These reports are published in French and English under the title Minutes of the Proceedings of the Senate of Canada and are available to members of the Senate on the morning after each day's sitting. At the end of each session, the minutes are edited, indexed, and published in bound form as the Journals of the Senate of Canada. The journals constitute the legal and authoritative record of the proceedings of the Senate.

The responsibilities of this branch also include the compilation of the clerk's scroll and the maintenance and publication of an index reference service for the journals, for statutory reports, and for other documents tabled in the Senate; and the preparation of a list of all bills which are to receive Royal Assent. The branch also provides a liaison in the exchange of messages between the two chambers.

A designation is not a constituency. Senators from each province other than Québec are representative of the province "at large", but each senator is also free to designate a geographical area within his province. Each senator from Québec is appointed for one of the 24 electoral divisions of what was formerly Lower Canada. (The limits of the divisions are given in the Consolidated Statutes of Canada, Chapter I, Schedule "A". The spelling of the division's names remain unchanged, except for two. Sorel is spelt Saurel in the 1859 Schedule, and Mille Îles has been spelt Mille Isles, Mille Îles, Mille-lies, Mille Isle ever since 1902 when the list was first published in the Senate Debates).

Historical Background

The British North America Act of 1867 federally united three separate colonies "to form one Dominion under the name of Canada". Canada was divided into four provinces: the pre-Confederation Province of Canada became the provinces of Ontario and Québec, while Nova Scotia and New Brunswick retained their former names and geographical limits.

The British North America Act also provided for an elected House of Commons consisting of 181 Members, of whom 82 would be elected for Ontario, 65 for Québec, 19 for Nova Scotia, and 15 for New Brunswick. A general census was to be taken in 1871 and every tenth year thereafter to re-adjust the representation in the House of Commons without disturbing the proportionate representation of the provinces as prescribed by the Act. As new provinces entered Confederation, they were granted representation in the House of Commons. Section 51 provides the rules whereby the number of members to be elected per province is calculated.

During the 1963 and the 1964-65 sessions, the Representation Commissioner Act and the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act were passed to facilitate the re-adjustment of representation in the House of Commons by province and also to provide for the redistribution of the population within a province to different constituencies. At present there are 282 single-member constituencies. Representation by province is: Alberta 21, British Columbia 28, Manitoba 14, New Brunswick 10, Newfoundland seven, Northwest Territories two, Nova Scotia 11, Ontario 95, Prince Edward Island four, Québec 75, Saskatchewan 14, and the Yukon Territory one.

Electoral Process

The present federal franchise laws are contained in the Canada Elections Act (RSC 1970 c. 14 [1st Supp] as amended). The franchise is conferred upon all Canadian citizens who are 18 years old or will reach that age on or before polling day. However, certain persons are denied the right to vote (e.g. officials holding certain positions — Representation Commissioner, Chief Electoral Officer, Assistant Chief Electoral Officer, returning officers during their term of office, judges appointed by the Governor in Council, inmates of penal and certain other institutions, and other persons disqualified by law).

With certain specified exceptions any elector qualified under the Canada Elections Act may be a candidate at an election. Among the specified exceptions are government contractors, members of the legislature of any province, certain public officers, and persons found guilty of corrupt or illegal election practices during designated periods following a conviction. To be nominated, a candidate must have the signature of 25 qualified electors on his nomination papers and must deposit the sum of $200.

The duration of a House of Commons is approximately five years following each general election, but it is subject to earlier dissolution by the Governor General. In the event of a vacancy occurring by reason of death or resignation of a member during the life of a Parliament, a writ for the holding of a by-election must be issued within six months of the receipt by the Chief Electoral Officer of a warrant for the issuance of such a writ.

Section 20 of the British North America Act provides for a session at least once in every year “so that twelve months shall not intervene between the last sitting of the Parliament in one session and its first sitting in the next session”.

Composition of the House

The House of Commons has a Speaker, a Chairman of Committees of the Whole House (who is also Deputy Speaker of the House), a Deputy Chairman of Committees, and an Assistant Deputy Chairman of Committees.

Speaker

The presiding officer of the House of Commons is the Speaker, who is chosen from the elected members at the opening of each Parliament following a general election. The Speaker's term of office is for the duration of that Parliament. Presiding at all meetings of the House, the Speaker enforces the observance of its rules, maintains its rights and privileges, and acts as the official spokesman of the House as occasion may require. The Speaker is also responsible to the House for the management of its internal affairs and the operation of its branches and services. In the House of Commons, when the language of the Speaker is English, the language of the Chairman of Committees is French.

Chairman of Committees

The Chairman of Committees of the Whole House is also elected at the beginning of the first session of each Parliament following a general election. He acts for the full Parliament. It is his duty to preside over Committees of the Whole House, and also to replace the Speaker in the Chair when required. The Deputy Chairman and the Assistant Deputy Chairman of Committees are elected at the opening of each session and act for that session only. They assist the Chairman and preside over the various Committees of the Whole House and at times take the Chair of the House.

Committees

The House of Commons employs four types of committees: Committees of the Whole House, standing committees, special committees, and joint committees.

Standing Order 65 provides for the appointment of 20 standing committees which consider bills and estimates and perform other functions as required. The standing order also provides for three standing joint committees. The chairmen of the various standing and joint committees are elected at the beginning of each session of Parliament.

The standing committees are: Agriculture; Broadcasting, Films and Assistance to the Arts; External Affairs and National Defence; Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs; Fisheries and Forestry; Health, Welfare and Social Affairs; Indian Affairs and Northern Development; Justice and Legal Affairs; Labour, Manpower and Immigration; Management and Members' Services; Miscellaneous Estimates; Miscellaneous Private Bills and Standing Orders; National Resources and Public Works; Northern Pipelines; Privileges and Elections; Procedure and Organization; Public Accounts; Regional Development; Transport and Communications; and Veterans Affairs.

There are also standing joint committees on Printing; Regulations and other Statutory Instruments and the Library of Parliament. While not provided for by standing order, the Striking Committee also appoints the House membership of the Restaurant Committee. Standing joint committees are composed of Members of the House of Commons and Senators. In addition, special committees and special joint committees are appointed during a session as they are required.

A complete list of committees and their membership is appended to each Wednesday's edition of the House of Commons Debates. Membership changes are published in Votes and Proceedings daily as they are made.

Commissioners of Internal Economy

The Commissioners of Internal Economy are the Speaker and four Ministers of the Crown appointed by order in council. They are responsible, under the House of Commons Act, for the financial administration and control of the internal affairs of the House of Commons.

Management and Members Services Committee

First appointed in 1975, the Standing Committee on Management and Members Services advises the Speaker as well as the Commissioners of Internal Economy on the administration of the House and the provision of services and facilities to members. Chaired by a member of the opposition, the committee is extensively consulted by the Speaker about the needs and views of backbench members in connection with the various administrative decisions he or the commissioners make from time to time. The committee also examines the estimates of the House of Commons.

Officers

Clerk of the House

The Clerk of the House, who is also a commissioner appointed to administer the Oath of Allegiance to Members of the House, holds the rank of deputy minister. He is responsible for the safekeeping of all the papers and records of the House, and has the direction and control of all its officers and clerks, subject to such orders as he may, from time-to-time, receive from the Speaker or from the House. The Clerk is the recording officer of the House, and his minutes are a summary of the daily proceedings of the House. He records all divisions when votes are taken in the House. He is consulted by the Speaker and Members of the House whenever questions arise with respect to the privileges, rules, usages, and proceedings of Parliament.

Sergeant-at-Arms

The Sergeant-at-Arms is responsible for keeping order within the precincts of the House of Commons and, on all required occasions, attends the Speaker with the Mace, the symbol of the authority of the House. He has a chair on the floor of the House. He takes custody of strangers who are irregularly admitted to the House or who are guilty of misconduct, causes the removal of persons directed to withdraw and introduces messengers from the Senate. He controls the Protective and Security Services of the House of Commons. He is also Director of Building Services, and as such is considered "housekeeper" of the House of Commons. He administers various branches such as the Messenger Service, Maintenance Service, the restaurants, and supervises the employees of the Department of Public Works who are responsible for maintaining the different buildings on Parliament Hill occupied by the House of Commons. He is the Speaker's representative on the Parliament Hill Heritage Committee.

Clerks Assistant

The Clerks Assistant advise the Speaker and other Presiding Officers of the House, as well as the members generally, on all aspects of the Standing Orders, parliamentary privilege and parliamentary practice and procedure. Seated at the table below the Speaker, to the right and left of the Clerk of the House of Commons, they are responsible for keeping the records of the House and supervising all procedures in the Chamber. It is their duty to bring to the attention of the Chair unparliamentary procedure or language immediately at any time it occurs in the House. When the House is in Committee of the Whole, they act as the clerks of the committee and keep the committee's minutes of proceedings. They oversee the procedural duties and functions of various House of Commons Branches and Services, particularly of the Journals and Committees and Private Legislation Branches. They must also, from time to time, prepare memoranda for the Speaker or Clerk about different aspects of procedural problems or matters.

The Clerks Assistant are responsible for seeing that all bills, motions, and resolutions being processed through the House and any other documents required by the House are on the table and are available to members. They must also ensure that the proper procedural forms are available for the Presiding Officers of the House. They receive and scan all written questions, notices of motions, amendments and notices of motions for the production of papers submitted by members for inclusion on the Order Paper and Notices to ascertain if they come within the provisions of the Standing Orders and are procedurally correct. They also assist members in drafting motions, written questions or amendments in the form prescribed by parliamentary usage. They read all orders, committee reports and documents or papers required to be read in the House. All papers and documents tabled in the House must be signed by one of the Clerks Assistant and they note on the House copies of bills the dates of the various readings given to them. When divisions are taken in the House, they call the names of the members and count, but do not record, the members' names when votes are taken in Committees of the Whole House.

The Clerk Assistant (Legal) is a commissioner appointed to administer the Oath of Allegiance to Members of the House of Commons when they are elected. He acts for the Clerk of the House in his absence and undertakes special projects and duties for the Clerk from time to time.

Law Clerk and Parliamentary Counsel

The Law Clerk assists Members of the House of Commons in their drafting of bills, motions, and resolutions. The counsel prepares memoranda and opinions on legal and constitutional subjects and practices; advises on proposed amendments to bills, and, when amendments are adopted, inserts them in the reprinted bills, certifies all bills for printing, prepares parchments of "passed" bills for transmission to the Senate.

The Law Clerk is also responsible for the editing of the annual statutes at the close of each session of Parliament.

Director of Administration and Personnel

The Director is responsible for the following services:

- (a) Financial Services Branch prepares the House of Commons estimates and is responsible for the control of expenditures in accordance with the amounts that have been authorized;
- (b) Personnel Branch is responsible for the personnel administration program which includes recruitment, the classification of positions, and the administration of a salary plan. It is also responsible for the maintenance and custody of all personnel records;
- (c) Post Office Branch provides postal and other services to members and staff of the House and Library of Parliament;
- (d) Health Unit provides nursing and first aid services on Parliament Hill;
- (e) Stationery and Office Machines Branch is responsible for the purchase, storing, and issue of stationery supplies and office equipment. The branch also services the office machines used in the various offices in the House;
- (f) Printing Branch is responsible for the internal printing requirements of the House, including those associated with members' offices;
- (g) Language School provides language instructions to members, their spouses and employees of the House of Commons; and
- (h) Press Gallery Branch provides support services — such as receptionist, telephone answering, clerical and messenger — to the Press Gallery members.

Director of Building Services

The Director of Building Services, who is also the Sergeant-at-Arms, is responsible for the following services and branches:

- (a) the Protective and Security Services are responsible for security within the precincts of the House of Commons. They are on guard at all doors, patrol the corridors, check visitors to members' and others' offices, control tourists, investigate disturbances and other breaches of the peace within the precincts;
- (b) the Messenger Service performs a range of services for the members and branches of the House as well as operating the House of Commons truck and mini-bus services;
- (c) the Purchasing and Equipment Branch is responsible for the purchase, storage and allocation of furniture, carpeting and equipment, other than office machines, for all offices in the house. The branch is also responsible for ensuring that House furniture is properly maintained;
- (d) the Maintenance Service is responsible for the cleaning of all the offices, committee rooms and corridors of the House; for setting up rooms for committees and functions; for moving within the House and for general repairs and painting of the interior of the buildings on Parliament Hill;
- (e) the Page Staff provides a messenger service to members within the Chamber of the House of Commons;
- (f) the Restaurant and Cafeteria Service operates the Parliamentary Restaurant, the four cafeterias, the souvenir shop and tuck shops on Parliament Hill;
- (g) Miscellaneous Services include a wide variety of support services such as barber shops, hairdresser, guide service, laundry service, carpenter shop, etc; and
- (h) the Department of Public Works maintains the Parliament Buildings, providing an extremely wide range of assistance from sculpture and architectural services to advice about historical matters in relation to the buildings and providing basic needs such as heating.

Director of Legislative Services

The Director is responsible for the following branches and services:

- (a) the Broadcasting Branch provides, in both languages, coverage of the proceedings of the House of Commons by radio and television. In the form of an electronic Hansard, the coverage is available both live and taped;
- (b) Committee Liaison coordinates service within Legislative Services and between other areas affected by the use of the various committee rooms. The section also provides assistance in the matter of travel arrangements for committees;
- (c) the Committees and Private Legislation Branch provides administrative assistance for the meetings of all standing and special committees of the House; advises on procedure in those committees; and assists the chairmen of committees in the preparation of their reports. The branch also handles matters relating to private bills and petitions;
- (d) the Committee Reporting Service provides a verbatim reporting service of the meetings of all of the committees of the House. The proceedings are edited, translated, printed, and distributed to members in both languages;
- (e) Computer Systems coordinates and controls requirements for electronic data processing and related equipment including the conduct of training programs;
- (f) Electronic Services supplies and services the system of sound amplification and simultaneous interpretation in the House and all committee rooms;
- (g) Hansard Reporting Services provide verbatim reporting of the debates in the House of Commons. Each daily edition of the House of Commons Debates is edited, translated, printed, and distributed in both languages to members and others the following morning. A revised edition, in bound volume, is published progressively during the course of a session together with a separate index at the end of each session;
- (h) the Index and Reference Branches prepare periodic cumulative and sessional indexes in English and French to the House of Commons Debates, the sessional index to the House of Commons Journals and the minutes of proceedings of the standing, special and some joint committees. These branches also provide reference service to members, officials and the public; and
- (i) the Journals Branches are responsible for the preparation, editing, and indexing of the day-to-day minutes of proceedings of the House in both English and French. This report, known as Votes and Proceedings, is issued daily during the session. A copy, signed by the Clerk of the House, is forwarded to the Governor General each day. At the close of each session, the daily Votes and Proceedings are revised and published bound as the House of Commons Journals. These are the official record of the proceedings of the House of Commons.

The branches also prepare the daily bilingual Order Paper and Notices sometimes called the Order Paper or Notice Paper, depending on the context, which details all of the business before the House at any one time. In the course of this work they are responsible for the editing of all notices of written questions, motions, and resolutions, that are received by the table from Members of the House for inclusion in the Order Paper and Notices.

All documents tabled in the House are placed in the custody of the branches and are generally referred to as sessional papers. An information service, with respect to all documents tabled, is available to Senators, Members of the House of Commons, officials, newsmen, and other interested parties. Copies of sessional papers are available to senators and members free but there is a modest charge for all others.

- (j) the Joint Parliamentary Distribution Office daily distributes Senate, House of Commons and public documents to Senators, Members of the House of Commons, officials and others.

Parliamentary Relations Secretariat

The secretariat is a joint Senate/House of Commons Service which supplies administrative and operational support to the six parliamentary associations which Members of the House and Senators may join. Each association elects its own executive and plans its own activities.

The six associations are: Canada-France Inter-Parliamentary Association, Canada-United States Inter-Parliamentary Group, Canadian NATO Parliamentary Association (North Atlantic Assembly), Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, Inter-Parliamentary Union, and the Association internationale des parlementaires de langue française.

The secretariat is also required to make arrangements for the many parliamentary visits both to Canada by foreign parliamentarians and by Canadian parliamentarians going abroad. It is responsible for conducting working-level relations with other parliaments and legislatures and serves as the official liaison between Parliament and the various diplomatic missions in Ottawa.

Library of Parliament

Parliament Buildings
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0A9

Members Responsible

Speaker of the Senate, and
Speaker of the House of Commons

Principal Officers

Parliamentary Librarian .....	Erik John Spicer
Associate Parliamentary Librarian .....	Gilles Frappier
Assistant Parliamentary Librarian .....	A. Pamela Hardisty
Directors
Information and Reference Branch .....	Lloyd Heaslip
Research Branch .....	Philip A.C. Laundy
Technical Services Branch .....	Florence A. Moore
Administration and Personnel .....	J.J. Cardinal

Historical Background

The Library of Parliament was established by An Act in relation to the Library of Parliament (SC 1871 c. 21 — now the Library of Parliament Act [RSC 1970 c. L-7]). The library was formed initially by the amalgamation of the legislative libraries of Upper and Lower Canada after these two provinces were united into the Province of Canada in 1841.

The library is designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act; the Parliamentary Librarian holds the rank of deputy minister.

Overall Responsibilities

The library provides the expert professional personnel to fully utilize its own and other collections of relevant material. Its large collection of books and documents is carefully chosen and organized to meet the information and research demands of its parliamentary clientele.

Organization and Programs

The direction and control of the Library of Parliament is vested in the Speaker of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Commons, assisted by a joint committee appointed by the two Houses. The Parliamentary Librarian and the Associate Parliamentary Librarian are appointed by the Governor in Council.

The library is composed of three branches and an administrative office.

Information and Reference Branch

This branch selects library materials for the collection; answers inquiries directly or through selecting and providing source material for use in speeches and papers, prepares bibliographies, indexes, abstracts, compilations, and current awareness services; maintains a current and retrospective clipping service; provides access to computerized information; operates branches and reading rooms; and lends library materials. This branch also provides substantial assistance to commissions of inquiry and task forces, government departments, the academic community and other non-parliamentary groups and individuals when such service does not interfere with parliamentary priority.

Research Branch

This branch, established in 1965, greatly extends the services provided by the library. Its professional staff of lawyers, economists, political and natural scientists and others, prepares requested research papers for Members of both Houses of Parliament, parliamentary committees and parliamentary delegations. In addition, direct consultation is available and research officers are provided on request to parliamentary committees and delegations.

Technical Services Branch

This branch procures library materials; operates the library bindery; classifies and catalogues the books, serials, official publications, microfilms, and other material added to the collection.

Administration and Personnel

This office provides advice on general policy and attends to the administrative and financial requirements of the Library.

Other Services

The library is also a public information centre for parliamentary information. The Parliamentary Librarian is the Canadian Correspondent for the Inter-Parliamentary Union's International Centre for Parliamentary Documentation at Geneva, and President and Canadian Correspondent for the Parliamentary and Administrative Libraries Section of the International Federation of Library Associations at The Hague. Useful contact is maintained with similar institutions throughout the world.

Since 1954 the Parliamentary Reading Room has been administratively part of the Library of Parliament. It has a large collection of current daily and weekly Canadian and foreign newspapers. A display of popular periodicals and recreational literature supplements the extensive collections of the library itself.

Early in 1973, an additional newspaper, periodical and recreational reading room and a branch library to provide information and reference services were opened in the Confederation Building to serve parliamentarians and parliamentary staff located there. A second branch library is being established in the Metropolitan Building (South Block) to provide library services to parliamentary personnel there.

Additional Information — is available from the office of the Parliamentary Librarian at (613) 992-3122; the Associate Parliamentary Librarian at (613) 992-2427; or the Assistant Parliamentary Librarian at (613) 992-6478.

Parliamentary Committee — the Estimates are normally reviewed by a Committee of the House of Commons and are also approved by the Joint Committee on the Library of Parliament.

Auditor — Auditor General of Canada.

Auditor General of Canada (Office of the)

Auditor General of Canada

James J. Macdonell

The Auditor General is appointed by the Governor in Council by commission under the Great Seal of Canada to hold office during good behaviour for a 10 year term, but not beyond age 65. He is removable only by the Governor in Council on address of the Senate and the House of Commons. During a vacancy in the position, the Governor in Council may appoint a person temporarily to perform the duties of the Auditor General.

Overall Responsibilities

The Auditor General, as auditor of the accounts of Canada, is required to conduct such examinations and inquiries as he considers necessary to enable him to fulfil his twofold statutory reporting responsibilities. Firstly, he is required to express an opinion on the financial statements which are required by section 55 of the Financial Administration Act to be included in the Public Accounts. Secondly, he is required to call attention to anything that he considers to be of significance and of a nature that should be brought to the attention of the House of Commons, including cases where he has observed that:

- (a) accounts have not been faithfully and properly maintained or public money has not been fully accounted for or paid, where so required by law, into the Consolidated Revenue Fund;
- (b) essential records have not been maintained or the rules and procedures applied have been insufficient to safeguard and control public property, to secure an effective check on the assessment, collection and proper allocation of the revenue and to ensure that expenditures have been made only as authorized;
- (c) money has been expended other than for purposes for which it was appropriated by Parliament;
- (d) money has been expended without due regard to economy or efficiency; or
- (e) satisfactory procedures have not been established to measure and report the effectiveness of programs, where such procedures could appropriately and reasonably be implemented.

Under Section 77 of the Financial Administration Act, the Auditor General audits 49 of the 58 Crown corporations described in the schedules to the Act. The Auditor General also audits the accounts of the Governments of the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

The Auditor General is entitled to free access at all convenient times to information that relates to the fulfilment of his responsibilities and he is also entitled to require and receive from members of the Public Service of Canada such information, reports and explanations as he deems necessary for that purpose.

Office of the Auditor General

C.D. Howe Building
240 Sparks Street
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0G6

Principal Officers

Auditor General .....	James J. Macdonell
Senior Deputy Auditor General .....	Rhéal Chatelain

	John J. Kelly
	Edward F. McNamara
	Lyle K. Osland
	Frank F. Van Humbeck
	Paul D.M. Ward
	Ronald M. Warme
	G. Peter Wilson

Historical Background

The office was originally established in 1878 when An Act to provide for the better Auditing of the Public Accounts provided for the appointment of the Auditor General to examine the public accounts and report annually to the House of Commons. The present incumbent is the seventh to hold office. The Auditor General's mandate was recently re-defined and broadened with proclamation of the new Auditor General Act (SC 1976-77, c. 34).

Organization

The Office of the Auditor General comprises six branches, each headed by deputy auditors general. Program areas within these branches are headed by assistant auditors general. The Senior Deputy Auditor General acts for the Auditor General whenever required, principally in hearings of the Public Accounts Committee or in the office's management meetings.

Departments and Agencies Branch

This branch is responsible for organizing all audits of government departments and agencies, including special audits.

Corporations Branch

This branch is responsible for audits of certain Crown corporations.

Control Evaluations Branch

This branch supplies technical support to the audit teams and carries out quality control reviews of audit work done in specialized areas. The branch is also responsible for conducting audits and inquiries into specific areas of financial or management controls in government that have government-wide impact.

Planning/Reports/Standards Branch

This branch has responsibility for the Auditor General's annual reports and for liaison with the Standing Committee on Public Accounts, Members of Parliament and central agencies. Internally, this branch is responsible for developing and improving the office's accounting, auditing and reporting standards. It conducts research in accounting, auditing and reporting issues, advises audit staff and prepares comprehensive audit guidelines and manuals.

Human Resources and Finance and Administration Branches

The branches provide the staffing, administrative services and professional contract administration needed to support the office's audit mandate.

The office has major responsibilities in the audit of the United Nations and its associated organizations, the International Civil Aviation Organization and the International Monetary Fund.

Office of the Chief Electoral Officer

Head Office

440 Coventry Road
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0M6

Minister Designated

President of the Queen's Privy Council

Principal Officers

Chief Electoral Officer ..... Jean-Marc Hamel, M.Sc. Com., M.P.A.

Assistant Chief Electoral Officer ..... John P. Dewis

Historical Background

The Office of the Chief Electoral Officer of Canada was established, in 1920, by the Dominion Elections Act (now the Canada Elections Act, RSC 1970 c. 14, [1st Supp.]) as amended. Prior to that time the Dominion Elections Act, 1874 (SC 1874 c. 9) assigned to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery certain of the duties now carried out by the Chief Electoral Officer. On March 15, 1979, the duties of the Office of the Representation Commissioner were transferred to the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer.

The office is designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1903-1952 March 31, 1952).

The President of the Queen's Privy Council is the minister designated for the purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1971-1527, July 27, 1971).

Overall Responsibilities

The Chief Electoral Officer is appointed by resolution of the House of Commons. He has the rank of a deputy head of a department under the terms of the Act. He communicates with the Governor in Council through the President of the Queen's Privy Council.

In the event of the death of the Chief Electoral Officer while Parliament is not sitting, or of his inability or neglect to perform the duties of his office, a substitute, upon the application of the President of the Privy Council, is appointed by the Chief Justice of Canada, or in his absence by the senior judge of the Supreme Court of Canada then present in Ottawa.

Upon his appointment such substitute exercises the powers and performs the duties of the Chief Electoral Officer in his place and stead until 15 days after the commencement of the next session of Parliament unless the Chief Justice of Canada, or the judge by whom the order appointing him was made, directs that such order be rescinded.

In the absence of both the Chief Justice of Canada and the judge of the Supreme Court of Canada by whom a substitute for the Chief Electoral Officer has been appointed, the order appointing such substitute may be rescinded by any other judge of the said court.

The duties of the Chief Electoral Officer are to:

- (a) exercise general direction and supervision over the administrative conduct of elections, and enforce (on the part of all election officers) fairness, impartiality, and compliance with the provisions of the Act;
- (b) ensure directly or through the Commissioner of Canada Elections, whom he is required to appoint, that all provisions of the Act including those respecting election expenses are complied with and enforced;

- (c) after an election, to report to the Speaker of the House of Commons on any matter arising out of the course of the election about which in his judgement, an account ought to be submitted to the House of Commons. He is also responsible for any vote taken under the Canada Temperance Act and for the conduct of the election of members to the Northwest Territories and Yukon Territory Councils.

The objectives of the office are to enable Canadians who are eligible to vote to elect members to the House of Commons, in accordance with the Canada Elections Act, and to ensure compliance with the election expenses provisions of the Act.

The Chief Electoral Officer may enter into agreements with the Commissioners of the Yukon Territory and Northwest Territories to conduct council elections.

The Chief Electoral Officer also carries out certain duties and functions assigned to him by the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act (RSC 1970, c. E-2 as amended) in that he must:

- (a) report upon the readjustment of the representation of the provinces in the House of Commons and provide for the readjustment of such representations;
- (b) as soon as possible after the completion of any decennial census, prepare maps showing the distribution of population in each province and the Northwest Territories and supply such maps to the appropriate electoral boundaries commission;
- (c) supply administrative and financial services to the 11 electoral district boundaries commissions.

Organization

The office administers the operation of the Ottawa headquarters, including the review and study of electoral procedures and election expenses provisions of the Act, the compilation and preparation of statutory and statistical reports and books of instructions for election officers, candidates, and political parties.

During elections, the office exercises general direction and supervision over the administrative conduct of elections, including the training of federal and territorial returning officers, the revision of the boundaries of polling divisions and the acquisition of election material and supplies for transmission to returning officers when required, and the making of statutory payments to auditors, political parties and candidates where specified by the Act.

Election Operations Division

This division administers the operational aspects of the Act, election material, training and information programs for returning officers and the public; plans, organizes, directs and controls pre-election, election and post-election activities; provides returning officers with all necessary support and responds to requests for information from the general public.

Election Financing Branch

This branch administers the operational aspects of the election expenses provisions of the Act, the payment of election costs and the financial management of the office.

Additional Information — may be obtained by contacting (613) 993-2975.

Statutes

The Chief Electoral Officer is responsible to the House of Commons for the administration of the following statutes:

Canada Elections Act (RSC 1970 c. 14, [1st Supp.]) as amended
Canada Temperance Act (RSC 1970 c. T-5)

Office of the Commissioner of Official Languages

Commissioner of Official Languages

Maxwell Yalden

The commissioner holds office during good behaviour for a term of seven years and is eligible to be re-appointed for a further term not exceeding seven years. The commissioner is an officer of Parliament, and, as such, is independent of the government of the day. The present commissioner was appointed on August 9, 1977.

Overall Responsibilities

It is the duty of the commissioner to take all actions and measures within his authority to ensure that both official languages possess and enjoy equality of status and equal rights and privileges as to their use in all the institutions of Parliament and the Government of Canada. For that purpose, he conducts investigations either on his own initiative or pursuant to any complaint made to him, then reports and makes recommendations with respect thereto as provided in the Official Languages Act (RSC 1970 c.0-2).

The commissioner prepares and submits to Parliament an annual report relating to the conduct of his office and the discharge of his duties under the Act during the preceding year. In the report, he includes his recommendations for any proposed changes in the Act that he deems necessary or desirable in order that effect may be given to the Act according to its spirit and intent.

Every report or statement to Parliament made by the commissioner is transmitted direct to the Speaker of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Commons for tabling respectively in those Houses.

Principal Officers

Commissioner of Official Languages	Maxwell Yalden
Deputy Commissioner	Jean-Marie Morin

Historical Background

Section 19 of The Official Languages Act (RSC 1970 c. 0-2) established the Office of the Commissioner of Official Languages for Canada and also that a commissioner be appointed (after approval of the appointment) by resolution of the Senate and House of Commons. The Act, assented to on the 9th of July, 1969, came into force 60 days later. The office is designated as a department and the Prime Minister as appropriate minister within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (RSC 1970 c. 0-2).

Complaints Branch

The primary work of this branch is to investigate complaints from the general public alleging that federal institutions are not living up to the terms of the Official Languages Act. Where investigation establishes the validity of a complaint, recommendations may be made to the institutions concerned on how the problem can be rectified.

The Official Languages Act obliges the commissioner to investigate any complaint made to him to the effect that, in any particular instance or case:

- (a) the status of an official language was not or is not being complied with or,
- (b) the spirit and intent of this Act was not or is not being complied with in the administration of the affairs of any of the institutions of the Parliament or Government of Canada.

On the other hand, the commissioner may refuse to investigate a complaint if, in his judgement, it is trivial, frivolous or vexatious or is not made in good faith. In such cases, he must inform the complainant of his reasons for dropping the matter. In all cases warranting an investigation, the complainant must be kept informed of the results and of all efforts to find solutions to the problem raised.

The Act also sets out the procedure which must be followed when an investigation of a complaint is launched. The commissioner must inform the deputy head or administrative head of the institution concerned of his intention to investigate. Prior to making a report, the commissioner is obliged to give time to the institution to study and respond to any criticism of its operation.

When the commissioner makes specific recommendations to a department or other federal institution following an investigation, he must also send a copy of his report to the Clerk of the Privy Council. Should an institution refuse to take action on the commissioner's recommendations, he may then explain the situation in a special report to Parliament.

Special Studies Branch

This branch is the commissioner's main research and audit group. Its work is to go beyond the investigation of individual complaints and to evaluate the efforts of federal institutions to implement bilingualism policies as required by the Official Languages Act.

Whereas the Complaints Branch generally assists in the fulfillment of the commissioner's ombudsman function, the Special Studies Branch functions more like an analyst of the federal government's linguistic performance. The statutory basis for the work of the branch is found in Section 25 of the Act which empowers the commissioner, at his discretion, to investigate an institution's performance on his own initiative — rather than waiting for complaints.

Policy and Liaison Branch

This branch is the interpretive and coordinating arm of the office. It provides the commissioner and his senior officials with advice and analysis on such matters as public policies, judicial rulings and local events which have a bearing on the role of the office or which touch on related language issues.

The policy analysis function keeps an eye on and assesses developments throughout the linguistic field and coordinates policy positions adopted within the commissioner's office.

The liaison function, which includes regional offices in Winnipeg and Moncton, tries to provide an impartial link at both the central and local levels between federal institutions and the communities they are required to serve.

Information Branch

This branch is a support and advisory group whose task is to inform the public about the Official Languages Act and assess reactions to policies and programs relating to official languages.

Historical Background

The Civil Service Commission (CSC) was established in 1908 under the Civil Service Amendment Act. This Act introduced the principle of merit as established by competition. However, it did not apply to positions outside of Ottawa.

The Civil Service Act of 1918 placed the entire service under the CSC.

The Civil Service Act of 1962 preserved the independence of the CSC and maintained the fundamental principles of the merit system.

The Public Service Employment Act of 1967 re-affirmed the merit principle, and changed the name of the Civil Service Commission to the Public Service Commission (PSC). The PSC's main task became staffing, and the commission was allowed to delegate staffing authority and power to departments. The PSC retained full responsibility for administering the appeals system. The commission's responsibilities for pay, classification, and conditions of employment were transferred to the Treasury Board.

The Public Service Commission is designated as a department; the Secretary of State as appropriate minister; the chairman of the commission as deputy head within the meaning of purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1952-1903, March 31, 1952).

Overall Responsibilities

The general powers and duties of the commission are as follows:

- (a) to appoint or provide for the appointment of qualified persons to, or from within, the public service under the provisions and principles of the Act;
- (b) to hear, and make decisions on, appeals against certain staffing actions;
- (c) to make decisions concerning allegations of political partisanship;
- (d) to investigate allegations of discrimination in matters covered by the Public Service Employment Act;
- (e) to operate, and assist deputy heads in the operation of staff training and development programs;
- (f) to report to the Governor in Council on matters concerning the administration and operations of the Public Service Employment Act and Regulations; and
- (g) to perform other duties and functions concerning the public service, assigned by the Governor in Council.

Organization and Programs

The PSC is headed by a chairman and two other commissioners, each appointed by the Governor in Council for a 10-year term. When the first or a subsequent term of office ends, a commissioner may be re-appointed for a further term of not more than 10 years.

As chief executive officer, the chairman is responsible for all PSC activities.

The PSC has seven branches, plus several special program components which operate on a permanent basis.

Secretariat Services Directorate

This directorate provides the commission with advice and assistance in the coordination of policy submissions from PSC operating units, develops and/or analyzes policies affecting more than one organization component of the commission, administers sections 21(b), 31 and 32 of the Public Service Employment Act, provides replies to ministerial and parliamentary enquiries, and regulates the flow of documentation to and from the Commission.

Staffing Branch

This branch establishes staffing policies and procedures, selection standards, and administrative procedures for the commission and departments, and is responsible for the recruitment and referral of external candidates. Where the commission has not delegated its authority for staffing to deputy heads of departments, the Staffing Branch, through its regional offices across the country, carries out the necessary recruitment, selection, appointment, and human resource planning. Where staffing authority has been delegated, the branch carries out the recruitment and referral of candidates, and generally oversees departmental staffing activities to ensure application of the Act and Regulations. This branch has not only developed a regulatory framework, but has also established various control mechanisms and internal resource centres, to ensure that the Public Service of Canada is staffed according to merit and without discrimination.

The Official Languages Directorate is responsible for the coordination of the parts of the official languages policy for which the commission is responsible, including the determination of linguistic standards for bilingual positions, the language review process, and the development and administration of the language assessment program.

The Office of Equal Opportunity for Women ensures that women are afforded the same opportunities as men within the public service, and that qualified women are encouraged to compete for positions at the higher levels.

The Office of Native Employment undertakes to promote public service employment opportunities and career development for Indian, non-status Indian, Inuit and Métis people.

The Career Assignment Program's function is the development of potential executives from middle management ranks within the public service. It operates an assessment centre for the selection of candidates to the program and it arranges job assignments for participants who have completed the in-residence training phase of the program.

Executive Programs Branch

The Executive Programs Branch is responsible for the staffing of senior executive and equivalent level positions, human resource planning, career counselling and policy development at the executive levels.

Staff Development Branch

In response to departmental demand, this branch is responsible for developing and providing executive, professional, managerial and supervisory training to public servants throughout Canada. It provides either standard courses or training events custom-designed to the specific requirements of a department or a group of departments.

Northern Careers Program promotes, through training, federal public service employment and career opportunities for Indian, Inuit and Métis persons living north of the 60th parallel. The program is administered by the commission on behalf of the Department of Indian and Northern Affairs.

Appeals and Investigations Branch

This branch hears appeals made by public servants concerning alleged breaches of the Public Service Employment Act involving appointment, promotion and demotion or release on grounds of incompetence or incapacity. It also investigates complaints of discrimination in public service employment on the basis of sex, race, national origin, age, marital status, colour or religion and other complaints concerning alleged abuses in the operation of the Public Service Employment Act.

All appeals, complaints, and enquiries should be directed to the Registrar, Appeals and Investigations Branch, Room 526, West Tower, L'Esplanade Laurier Building, Ottawa, K1A 0M7, (613) 996-4200.

Language Training Branch

This branch assists federal departments and agencies as well as individual public servants in achieving their objectives with respect to training in Canada's two official languages. Training activities are of two types: basic language training and developmental training, held either in commission centres or in departmental facilities. The branch also provides specialized and technical assistance to its clients in areas related to language training, such as counselling, program evaluation, design and development of course materials.

Audit Branch

Pursuant to Section 45 of the Public Service Employment Act, this branch provides the commission with information on the manner in which staffing is being carried out throughout the public service. It carries out cyclical staffing audits and reviews as well as special audits in departments and agencies exercising delegated staffing authority. Findings are reported to the commissioners and deputy heads concerned on the management of staffing in individual departments and agencies. The branch provides commissioners and staffing branch officers with information on specific aspects of the staffing system which require improvement. It also makes recommendations concerning limitations and special conditions to the renewal of delegated staffing authority for departments and agencies.

Corporate Systems and Services Branch

This branch promotes and coordinates departmental management systems through the operations of the following directorates: administration, computer services, finance, information services, personnel and internal audit.

Historical Background

The Public Service Staff Relations Board was established in 1967 by the Public Service Staff Relations Act (now RSC 1970 c. P-35). The board is designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (O.I.C. 1967-635, April 4, 1967). By O.I.C. 1968-2032 of October 29, 1968, the board was declared to be a separate employer under the provisions of the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

Prior to October 1, 1975, arbitration and adjudication were separate institutions under the Public Service Staff Relations Act drawing administrative and support services from the board. Amendments to the Act proclaimed in effect from October 1, 1975, placed these functions within the responsibility of the board.

Overall Responsibilities

The board is an independent body whose members are appointed for specified periods and who hold office during good behavior. It is responsible for the administration of the Public Service Staff Relations Act, which established a system of collective bargaining, a grievance process and an adjudication procedure for the federal public service as defined in the Act. These responsibilities include such matters as determination of bargaining units, certification and decertification of bargaining agents, arbitration of interest disputes, adjudication of rights disputes and generally providing an administrative structure within which the rights and responsibilities of the employers and employees in the federal public service may be exercised and/or enforced.

Organization

Pursuant to amendments to the Public Service Staff Relations Act which were proclaimed effective October 1, 1975, the board consists of a full-time public member board as distinguished from the part-time board which existed prior to the amendments and whose members were representative of the interests of either the employer or the employees. The board now consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman, not less than three deputy chairmen and such other full-time members and such part-time members as the Governor in Council considers necessary to discharge the responsibilities of the board. All appointments are during good behavior and are for periods not exceeding seven years with the exceptions of the chairman, vice-chairman and deputy chairmen whose appointments are for periods not exceeding 10 years.

Part-time members are appointed either for the purpose of adjudicating upon grievances which have been referred to adjudication or for chairing divisions of the board which have been assigned responsibility for the issuance of arbitral awards.

Pay Research Bureau

When collective bargaining was introduced in the public service in 1967, the Pay Research Bureau, which was established in 1957 as a branch of the then Civil Service Commission, was placed under the administrative jurisdiction of the Public Service Staff Relations Board. The bureau conducts surveys and research to obtain information on rates of pay, employee earnings, conditions of employment and related practices prevailing both inside and outside the federal public service primarily to meet the needs of the parties to collective bargaining in the public service. The bureau receives advice in the planning of its survey activity from the Advisory Committee on Pay Research which is a body composed of representatives of all employers and bargaining agents coming under the provisions of the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

Historical Background

The Canadian Human Rights Act (Statutes of Canada 1976-77 c.33) received Royal Assent on July 14, 1977. Part II of the Act which established the Canadian Human Rights Commission was proclaimed to come into force on August 10, 1977, and the remainder of the Act was proclaimed to come into force on March 1, 1978. The commission is composed of three full-time commissioners, five part-time commissioners and a staff appointed in accordance with the Public Service Employment Act. The commission reports to the Parliament of Canada through the Minister of Justice.

Overall Responsibilities

The Canadian Human Rights Commission is charged with the responsibility of dealing with complaints of prohibited discriminatory practices which may take place in any federal government department or agency, or any federal work, undertaking, or business coming under the legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada and also to undertake public education and research. The prohibited grounds of discrimination are race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sex, marital status, conviction for which a pardon has been granted and, in matters related to employment, physical handicap. The commission, through the office of the Privacy Commissioner, is further charged with receiving, investigating and reporting in respect of complaints from individuals who allege that they are not being accorded their rights in relation to personal information held in information banks of the Government of Canada. The commission has wide powers including the establishment of human rights tribunals which may make orders that are enforceable in the courts ordering that discriminatory practices cease and that victims be compensated.

Organization and Programs

The commission is composed of the Office of the Chief Commissioner, the Privacy Commissioner, the Secretary General and three branches: Complaints and Conciliation, Information, Education and Cooperation and Administration, Personnel and Finance.

Office of the Chief Commissioner

The three full-time and five part-time commissioners constitute the policy-making component of the commission's management structure. The Chief Commissioner is the chief executive officer responsible to Parliament for commission activities under Parts II and III of the Act. The Deputy Chief Commissioner carries out delegated responsibilities and, in the absence of the Chief Commissioner, assumes full responsibility.

Privacy Commissioner

Part IV of the Act establishes certain rights in respect of personal information and defines the authority and duties of the Privacy Commissioner. The Privacy Commissioner investigates complaints from individuals that they have not been accorded rights to which they are entitled in respect of personal information held in federal information banks. An independent investigation is made of each complaint and the Privacy Commissioner may make a recommendation to a minister to reconsider decisions in relation to personal information. The complainant is informed of the findings of the investigation.

Secretary General

The Secretary General is the commission's principal staff officer with overall management responsibility for its operational functions (less those of the Privacy Commissioner) and legal, financial, personnel and general administrative support. The Secretary General chairs the commission management committee. The General Counsel and Legal Adviser provide legal expertise in all areas of commission responsibility. They also represent the commission before Human Rights Tribunals and the Federal Court of Canada.

Complaints and Conciliation Branch

The Complaints and Conciliation Branch undertakes the investigation and conciliation of complaints based on any of the prohibited grounds of discrimination, except those which concern equal pay for equal value as described in Section II of the Act. In addition the branch is responsible for special programs involving affirmative action and for activities to ensure compliance with the Act. The regional offices are components of this branch.

Information Education and Cooperation Branch

This branch is responsible for cooperation and coordination with provincial human rights agencies, human rights related organizations and a broad spectrum of community groups and agencies for which common objectives can be pursued. Its responsibilities include active participation in education and other programs to increase understanding of human rights in Canada, the role and work of the commission and to encourage positive attitudinal changes in respect to discrimination. The branch is also responsible for information activities to inform the general public of matters relevant to the commission's activities.

Administration, Personnel and Finance Branch

This branch provides general administrative services to the commission. These services include: personnel, financial, purchasing, accommodation, material management, records, tribunal registrar services, facilities for meetings, library resources, security and office services.

Regional Offices

There are currently five regional offices representing the Complaints and Conciliation Branch as well as the Information, Education and Cooperation Branch.

The Judiciary — Introduction

According to section 101 of the British North America Act, the Parliament of Canada may provide for the constitution, maintenance, and organization of a general court of appeal for Canada, and for the establishment of any additional courts for the better administration of the laws of Canada. Under this authority there have been established the Supreme Court of Canada, which is now the final court of appeal for Canada, and the Federal Court of Canada. The latter consists of two divisions, the Federal Court — Appeal Division known as the Federal Court of Appeal, and the Federal Court — Trial Division.

There also have been established several boards that are designated by statute as courts of record, e.g., the Tariff Board, Immigration Appeal Board, and the Canadian Transport Commission.

The British North America Act provides that the Governor General shall appoint the Judges of the Superior, District and County Courts in each province except those of the Courts of Probate in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. It also provides that the salaries, allowances, and pensions of the judges so appointed shall be fixed and provided by the Parliament of Canada. This publication does not deal with the constitution and organization of these provincial courts.

By virtue of the provisions of the Supreme Court Act and the Federal Court Act, judges of those courts hold office during good behaviour up to the age of 75 years, except for Federal Court Judges appointed after the first day of June 1971, who cease to hold office upon attaining the age of 70 years. Supreme Court and Federal Court Judges are removable by the Governor General on address of the Senate and House of Commons.

The provisions concerning salaries, allowances, and pensions of judges are found in the Judges Act (RSC 1970 c. J-1, as amended).

Historical Background

The Court Martial Appeal Court is a superior court of record established by an amendment to Section 190 of the National Defence Act assented to March 20, 1959 (now RSC 1970 c. N-4, Part IX, sec. 201).

Constitution of the Court

The Court Martial Appeal Court of Canada consists of the President and 30 other Judges.

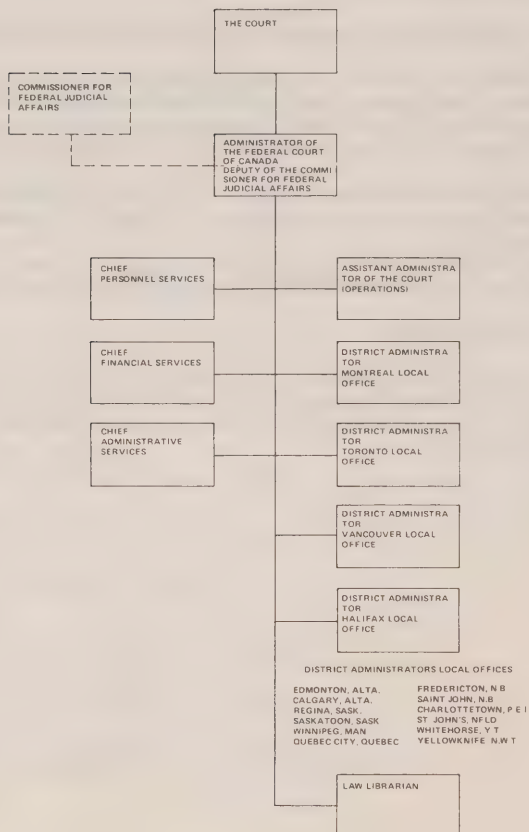

These Judges are Judges of the Federal Court of Canada or of the Trial or Appeal Divisions of the Superior Courts of the Provinces of Canada. They each hold a separate patent for the Court Martial Appeal Court of Canada issued under the Great Seal of Canada. Three Judges of the Court Martial Appeal Court constitute a quorum.

The appeal from the decisions of the Court Martial Appeal Court of Canada on a point of law may be made to the Supreme Court of Canada. (See section 208 of the National Defence Act.)

The Court Martial Appeal Court of Canada may sit and hear appeals at any place in Canada or beyond Canada where Canadian Forces are situated.

Administrative Machinery of the Court (Registry)

The Court has one Registry for all of Canada. That Registry consists of a principal office in Ottawa and other offices in the different parts of the country where the convenience of litigants makes it expedient that there be such offices.

The Administrator of the Court is the chief officer of the Court, having overall responsibility for the operation of the Registry in the management of its offices and the control and supervision of the officers and employees of the Court. This includes the administration of legal proceedings within the Court in accordance with statutes and regulations and in accordance with such directions as may be given by the Chief Justice prescribing of the duties to be performed by the Registry Staff and the titles by which they shall be known for the purpose of the Federal Court Rules.

By appointment pursuant to Part III of the Judges Act, the Administrator of the Federal Court of Canada is Deputy of the Commissioner for Federal Judicial Affairs. Under direction of the Commissioner, he is responsible for preparing budgetary submissions, and for such other administrative arrangements as are necessary to ensure that all reasonable requirements (including those for the premises; equipment and other supplies and services and for officers, clerks and employees) of the Federal Court of Canada, for the carrying out of its operations, are provided for in accordance with the law.

For the purpose of the Public Service Employment Act and other Acts of Parliament of Canada, the Administrator of the Federal Court of Canada is Deputy Head of the officers and employees of the Court appointed under subsection 14(2) of the Federal Court Act.

Constitution of the Court

The Federal Court of Canada was established by the Federal Court Act (RSC 1970 c. 10 [2nd Supp.]) and is a court of law, equity and admiralty. It is a superior court of record having civil and criminal jurisdiction.

The Court is divided into two divisions — Appeal Division and Trial Division. The Appeal Division may be called the Court of Appeal or Federal Court of Appeal.

The Court of Appeal consists of the Chief Justice of the Federal Court of Canada and five other judges. The Trial Division consists of the Associate Chief Justice of the Federal Court of Canada and nine other judges. Every judge is an ex officio member of the division of which he is not a regular member.

In addition to the establishment of full-time judges, an added capacity to cope with the purely judicial work of the Court is provided by the authority to request retired federally-appointed judges to act as deputy judges of the court. This authority extends also to federally-appointed judges who are still in office, but only with the consent of the appropriate chief justice or attorney general. Former district judges in admiralty are also deputy judges of the Court and their services can be utilized on a limited basis.

While all the full-time judges must reside in or near the National Capital Region, each division of the Court can sit any place in Canada. The place and time of the sittings are arranged as nearly as may be to suit the convenience of the litigants.

Jurisdiction of the Court

Trial Division

Claims against the Crown

The Trial Division has original jurisdiction in all cases where relief is claimed against the Government of Canada. The expression “original jurisdiction” refers to the authority to entertain claims when they are first brought to court as opposed to a jurisdiction to entertain appeals from some other court. Except where otherwise provided, this jurisdiction is an “exclusive” jurisdiction. Except where otherwise provided, the Trial Division is the only court that has jurisdiction to entertain claims against the Government of Canada in the first instance. The main exceptions are a damage claim under $1,000, which, if the claimant so chooses, may be brought in a provincial court under Part II of the Crown Liability Act, and a claim arising out of the activities of a corporate agency (meaning a Crown corporation) of the Crown which may, if the claimant so chooses, be enforced, under the statutes regulating the activities of the particular corporation, by action against the corporate agency in a provincial court.

Claims by the Crown

The Attorney General of Canada has an option of enforcing any claim of the Government of Canada which arises under a law of Canada either in the Trial Division or in any other court that has jurisdiction.

Miscellaneous cases involving the Crown

Where the Government of Canada and any other party have agreed that the Court shall do so, the Trial Division may decide what amount should be paid by one party to the other or any question of law, fact or mixed law and fact. The Trial Division has interpleader jurisdiction to determine to which of two or more persons the Crown is under an obligation. The Trial Division also has jurisdiction in relation to any matter coming within any following class of subjects, namely bills of exchange and promissory notes when the Crown is a party to the proceedings.

Crown Writ Proceedings

The Court has exclusive jurisdiction in relation to Crown Writ proceedings concerning members of the Canadian Forces serving outside Canada.

Relief against federal boards, commissions, and other tribunals

The Trial Division has exclusive jurisdiction of a very broad character in respect of federal boards, commissions and other tribunals. In the Federal Court Act, the expression “federal board, commission or other tribunal” means any body or person having, exercising or purporting to exercise jurisdiction or powers under an Act of the Parliament of Canada other than a superior, district or county court of a province or other body set up by provincial legislation. The Trial Division’s jurisdiction in respect of such tribunals is to issue: an injunction, a writ of certiorari, a writ of prohibition, a writ of mandamus, a writ of quo warranto, or to grant declaratory relief. This jurisdiction extends, in addition, to other proceedings designed to obtain equivalent relief such as actions against the Attorney General for a declaration.

The jurisdiction of the Trial Division in respect of federal boards, commissions and other tribunals is subject to two exceptions, namely:

- (1) where the Federal Court of Appeal has jurisdiction to hear and determine an application to review and set aside a decision or order of such a tribunal, the Trial Division has no jurisdiction to entertain any proceeding in respect of that decision or order; and
- (2) where there is a right of appeal under a federal statute to the Federal Court of Canada, to the Supreme Court of Canada, to the Governor in Council, or to the Treasury Board from a decision or order of such a tribunal, that decision or order is not subject to be reviewed or otherwise dealt with "to the extent that it may be so appealed" except "to the extent and in the manner" provided for in that statute.

Inter-provincial and federal-provincial disputes

Section 19 of the Act operates in conjunction with certain provincial legislation to confer jurisdiction on the Trial Division in controversies between provinces or between Canada and a province.

Industrial Property Matters

Section 20 of the Act must be read with such statutes as the Patent Act, the Trade Marks Act, the Copyright Act, and the Industrial Design and Union Label Act to ascertain the precise limits of the Court's jurisdiction in industrial property matters. Generally speaking, a person who claims an infringement of a right created by one of those statutes has a choice of proceeding in the appropriate provincial court or in the Federal Court of Canada. However, the jurisdiction of supervising the registration or grant of such rights is vested in the Federal Court. Thus, the Federal Court has a concurrent jurisdiction in infringement actions and an exclusive jurisdiction in impeachment or expungement proceedings.

Admiralty Jurisdiction

Section 22 of the Act continues the admiralty jurisdiction (marine navigation and shipping) that was conferred on the Exchequer Court by the Admiralty Act, but without the limitations on such jurisdiction imposed by that statute when it conferred the jurisdiction of the High Court of Justice in England as of a time when the latter court was subject to various artificial statutory and other limitations on the original jurisdiction of the High Court of Admiralty.

Income Tax and Estate Tax Appeals

Section 24 of the Act provides for the Trial Division exercising jurisdiction in the appeals that may be taken to the Federal Court from assessments under the Income Tax Act and the Estate Tax Act.

Citizenship Appeals

Section 13 of the Citizenship Act provides for the Trial Division to exercise jurisdiction in appeals from decisions of a Citizenship Judge appointed under Section 25 of the Citizenship Act.

Aeronautics — interprovincial works and undertakings

Concurrent jurisdiction is conferred on the Trial Division by section 23 of the Act in respect of a claim in relation to a matter coming within either of the above classes of subjects unless such jurisdiction has been otherwise specially assigned.

Residuary Jurisdiction

Section 25 of the Act confers original jurisdiction on the Trial Division in any case in which a claim for relief is made under the laws of Canada if there is no other Canadian court that has such jurisdiction.

Miscellaneous Jurisdiction of Trial Division

Many federal statutes confer jurisdiction in specific matters on the Federal Court. If, in any matter other than an “appeal,” such a statute does not specify whether jurisdiction is conferred on the Trial Division or the Court of Appeal, the Trial Division has jurisdiction. In any such case, however, the jurisdiction may be transferred to the Court of Appeal.

Federal Court of Appeal

Appeals from Trial Division

The Court of Appeal has jurisdiction in appeal from every decision of the Trial Division whether that decision is an interlocutory decision or a final one.

Appeals from Other Tribunals

Various statutes, as amended by the Federal Court Act or as enacted at the same time as that Act or since, provide for an appeal to the Federal Court of Appeal. In other cases, there is provision for an appeal to the Federal Court without specifying which division has jurisdiction. In the latter cases, except in the case of an income tax or estate tax appeal, the jurisdiction is vested in the Court of Appeal unless it has been transferred to the Trial Division.

Among the statutes providing expressly for an appeal to the Court of Appeal are the Broadcasting Act, the Immigration Appeal Board Act, the National Energy Board Act, the Railway Act, and the Government Railways Act.

Such statutes as the Canada Shipping Act, the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act, the Excise Tax Act, the Patent Act, and the Trade Marks Act provide for appeals to the Federal Court. Such appeals are appeals to the Court of Appeal by virtue of section 30 except in the case of certain appeals under the Canada Shipping Act and the Trade Marks Act where jurisdiction has been transferred to the Trial Division under section 30(2) of the Act.

Review of decisions of federal boards and commissions

Section 28 of the Act confers on the Federal Court of Appeal a jurisdiction to hear and determine an application to review and set aside a decision of a federal board, commission or other tribunal:

- (a) if the decision is not of an administrative character, or
- (b) even if the decision is of an administrative character, if it is required by law (expressly or implicitly) to be made on a judicial or quasi-judicial basis.

Section 28 applies to a decision of any tribunal having, exercising, or purporting to exercise powers conferred by or under a federal statute other than a superior, county or district court of a province or other body constituted by or under provincial law. It does not apply to a decision or order of the Governor in Council, the Treasury Board, a superior Court or the Pension Appeals Board, or to a decision or order concerning “service” offences under the National Defence Act. Furthermore, section 28 does not apply to the extent that there is a right of appeal to the Federal Court itself, the Supreme Court of Canada, the Governor in Council, or the Treasury Board.

Unlike the jurisdiction conferred by Section 18 on the Trial Division, which is a jurisdiction in respect of pre-existing well-known remedies, the jurisdiction conferred by section 28 on the Court of Appeal is defined in the statute itself. It is a jurisdiction to review and set aside a decision made by a tribunal on the ground that the tribunal did one of three things, viz:

- (a) failed to observe a principle of natural justice, or otherwise acted beyond or refused to exercise its jurisdiction;
- (b) erred in law in making its decision or order, whether or not the error appears on the face of the record, or
- (c) based its decision or order on an erroneous finding of fact that it made in a perverse or capricious manner or without regard for the material before it.

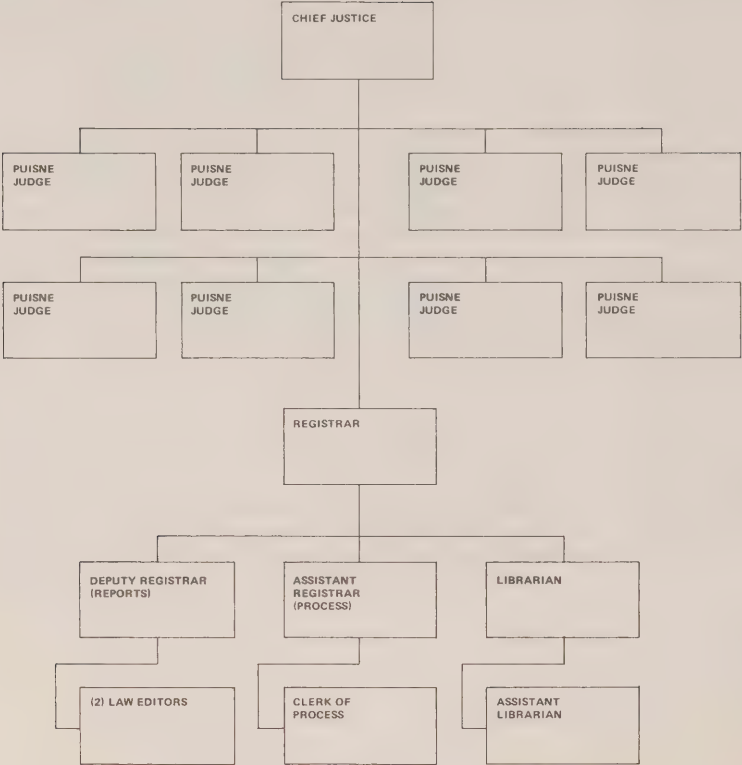

The jurisdiction of the Court of Appeal under section 28 is not an appeal jurisdiction. It is a jurisdiction to "set aside" a decision of a board, commission or other tribunal, but does not involve a power to substitute a decision of the Court of Appeal for the decision of the tribunal.

Another important feature of this jurisdiction is that, unlike the situation in other proceedings in the Court of Appeal, a duty is imposed on the Court to ensure that applications to "set aside" are determined "without delay." In other matters, if the parties concur in delay, the Court has no duty to interfere. In applications to "set aside," the Court has a duty to act, of its own motion, to ensure that each application is "heard and determined" without delay.

References by federal boards and commissions

Where an application may be made to "set aside" a decision of a board, commission, or other type of tribunal, these tribunals may, at any stage of the proceedings, refer any question or issue of law, or jurisdiction, or of practice and procedure to the Court of Appeal for hearing and determination. In respect of such a reference, the Court has a duty, as in the case of an application to "set aside", to ensure that the matter is heard and determined without delay.

Historical Background

The Supreme Court of Canada was established in 1875 by the Supreme and Exchequer Court Act (now the Supreme Court Act RSC 1970 c. S-19 as amended by RSC 1970 [1st Supp.], c.44, 1974-75-76, c.18).

Overall Responsibilities

The Supreme Court has jurisdiction as a court of appeal in both civil and criminal cases throughout Canada. The judgement of the Court is final and conclusive. The Supreme Court is also required to advise on questions referred to it by the Governor in Council. Under section 55 of the Supreme Court Act, important questions concerning the interpretation of the British North America Act, the constitutionality or interpretation of any federal or provincial law, the powers of Parliament or of the provincial legislatures or of both levels of government, among other matters, may be referred by the government to the Supreme Court for consideration.

In civil cases, appeals may be brought from any final judgement of the highest court of last resort in a province by obtaining leave to do so from that court or from the Supreme Court itself. The Supreme Court will grant permission to appeal if it is of the opinion that a question of public importance is involved, one that transcends the immediate concerns of the parties to the litigation.

In criminal cases, the Court will hear appeals as of right concerning indictable offences where an acquittal has been set aside or where there has been a dissenting judgement on a point of law in a provincial court of appeal. The Supreme Court may, in addition, hear appeals on questions of law concerning both summary convictions and all other indictable offences if permission to appeal is first granted by the Court.

The Supreme Court sits only in Ottawa and holds three sessions during the year. Hearings are open to the public.

The first session begins the fourth Tuesday in January and ends just before Easter; the second session begins the fourth Tuesday in April and continues to the end of June, and the third begins the first Tuesday in October and ends just before Christmas. The Court does not normally sit during July, August and September. While in session, the Court usually hears appeals Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. and from 2:30 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. The first and third Mondays in each month are usually reserved for the hearing of motions for leave to appeal.

The court is responsible for its own administration and budgeting. Its estimates are submitted to Parliament by the Minister of Justice.

Constitution of the Court

The Supreme Court consists of a chief justice, called the Chief Justice of Canada, and eight puisne judges, who are appointed by the Governor in Council. Any person may be appointed a judge who is or has been, a judge of a Superior Court of any of the provinces of Canada, or a barrister or advocate of at least 10 years' standing at the bar of any of the provinces. At least three of the judges must be appointed from among the judges of the Court of Appeal or the Superior Court of the Province of Québec, or the barristers or advocates of that province. The judges cease to hold office upon reaching the age of 75 years.

Registrar of the Court

The Registrar is appointed by the Governor in Council and has the rank of Deputy Head. He must be a barrister of at least five years' standing. Subject to the direction of the Chief Justice, the Registrar oversees and directs the officers, clerks, and employees appointed to the Court. He also has authority to exercise such of the jurisdiction of a judge sitting in chambers as may be conferred upon him by general rules or orders under the Supreme Court Act.

Deputy Registrar

The Deputy Registrar is also appointed by the Governor in Council and must be a barrister of at least five years' standing. He exercises and performs such powers and duties of the Registrar as are assigned to him by the Registrar.

The Deputy Registrar reports and publishes the judgements of the Courts.

Court Reports

The reports of the decisions of the Court are published as the Canada Supreme Court Reports/Recueil des arrêts de la Cour suprême du Canada. These reports are available from the Department of Supply and Services, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0S9.

Supreme Court Library

The Library, which deals with both French civil law and English common law, is utilized by the judges and officials of both the Supreme Court of Canada and the Federal Court of Canada and by members of the legal profession practising before these courts. It is also accessible to, and is largely used by, departmental solicitors, members of the bar and students.

Historical Background

The Canadian Judicial Council was established under sections 30-32 of the Judges Act (RSC 1970 c. J-1, as amended).

Overall Responsibilities

The objectives of the council are to promote efficiency and uniformity, and to improve the quality of judicial service, in superior and county courts.

In furtherance of its objectives, the council may

- (a) establish from time-to-time a conference of chief justices;
- (b) establish from time-to-time seminars for the continuing education of judges; and
- (c) subject to section 31, inquire and investigate complaints or allegations described in that section.

The council may investigate any complaint or allegation made in respect of a judge of a superior, district or county court.

After an inquiry or investigation under section 31 is completed, the council reports its conclusions and submits the record of the inquiry or investigation to the Minister of Justice.

After receipt of a report, the Governor in Council, on the recommendation of the Minister of Justice, may remove a county court judge from office.

After receipt of a report described in sub-section 32(1) in relation to an inquiry under this section, the Governor in Council, on the recommendation of the Minister of Justice, by order, may remove that person from office.

The Executive

The Executive — Introduction

The executive power in Canada is vested in the Queen by the British North America Act (BNA), 1867.

It consists of:

- (a) statutory power which is derived from the BNA Act and from legislation of Parliament; and
- (b) prerogative power which may be described as a residual authority of the Sovereign as Head of the State.

Governor General

The Governor General is the Queen's representative in Canada. The executive function is expressed on behalf of the Queen by the Governor in Council.

The Governor in Council is the Governor General, the representative of the Queen as Sovereign of Canada, "acting by and with the advice of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada" (Section 13, BNA Act).

Privy Council

The Privy Council in both Canada and in the United Kingdom are the only bodies of their kind in the Commonwealth. The members of the Canadian Privy Council, when duly sworn, remain Privy Councillors for life; however, in actual constitutional practice the executive body is the Committee of the Privy Council (i.e. the Cabinet). The formal acts of the Governor in Council emerge as orders or minutes of council, supplemented when necessary by a proclamation. A more detailed description of the Privy Council can be found on pages 410-414.

Cabinet

The Cabinet, headed by the Prime Minister, is composed of the ministers of the Crown who make up the administration of the day. Ministers are required to take an oath as Privy Councillors and, in addition, an oath of ministerial office. In practice, they are chosen from among the members of the House of Commons or Senate, or they seek election to the House of Commons shortly after their appointment to the Cabinet.

The Cabinet has no statutory basis; its functions rest on conventions and customs created in the development of a constitutional monarchy and democratic system. The Cabinet remains in office only so long as it retains the confidence of the House of Commons.

Cabinet Ministers are normally put in charge of departments which are established by statute.

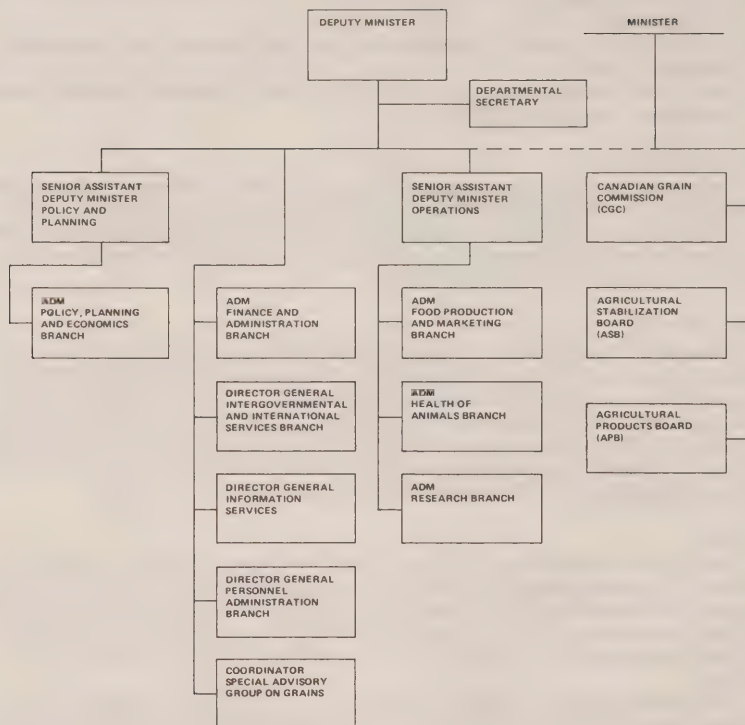

There are also Ministers of State, some of whom are responsible for Ministries of State which are established to develop new and comprehensive policies in areas of federal concern. Other Ministers of State, and Ministers without portfolio may be assigned special responsibilities by the Governor in Council.

The numerous and varied activities of the government are coordinated by the Cabinet. As a policy-making body, the Cabinet is expected to provide Parliament and the country with policies required for governing Canada.

Minister of Agriculture

Principal Officers

Deputy Minister .....	Gaétan Lussier
Senior Assistant Deputy Minister (Operations) .....	Dr. G. Fleischmann
Senior Assistant Deputy Minister (Policy and Planning) .....	Dr. G.I. Trant

Historical Background

The Department of Agriculture (originally the Bureau of Agriculture created by an Act of the Legislature of the Province of Canada 1852) was established by an Act of the Organization of the Department of Agriculture (SC 1867-68 c. 53), assented to May 22, 1868 — now the Department of Agriculture Act (RSC 1970 c. A-10).

Overall Responsibilities

The department is responsible for federal policies, programs and regulations relating to agriculture and food, including grading and inspection; seed certification; regulations on pesticides and fertilizers; animal disease diagnostic and control programs; market development programs; market forecasts and reports; scientific research; international agricultural liaison, and dissemination of information.

Organization and Programs

The department's organizational structure comprises eight branches. The Minister of Agriculture is the executive head of the department and he is assisted by the deputy minister who is the administrative head of the department and its senior public servant. As the executive head, the Minister is responsible to Parliament for initiating and administering all federal legislation relating to agriculture, and for the operations of the Agricultural Stabilization Board, Agricultural Products Board, Canadian Dairy Commission, Canadian Grain Commission, Canadian Livestock Feed Board, Farm Credit Corporation and the National Farm Products Marketing Council.

As administrative head, the deputy minister is chairman of the department's senior management committee, which is responsible for the formulation and direction of departmental programs within the framework of federal legislation. At present, the department administers some 40 acts affecting the agriculture industry.

Information Services

Using all channels of communication, Information Services conducts a broad program to keep the agriculture and food industry, and the public informed about the policies, programs and activities of the department and of new knowledge gained from its agricultural research. The services of the branch are provided in both official languages through four sections: news media services, public services, publications, and research and development.

Research Branch

This branch is the principal research organization serving Canadian agriculture. Its headquarters is located in the Sir John Carling Building on the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. Also located on the farm are the headquarters of the branch's central region administration, a research station, and six research institutes (Engineering and Statistical, Animal, Biosystematics, Chemistry and Biology, Food, and Land Resource). Another institute, specializing in research on the use of chemicals in pest control, is located at London, Ont. The headquarters of the branch's eastern region administration is located at Ste. Foy, Qué.; that of the western region at Saskatoon, Sask. The branch has 35 other establishments — research stations, experimental farms and substations — located across Canada to serve areas of varied soil and climatic conditions.

The research program is problem-oriented with objectives specifically designed to solve the problems of production, protection, and utilization of Canada's crops and livestock. Extensive soil studies are also carried out.

Food Production and Marketing Branch

The objective of this branch is to assist in the continued development of a market-oriented food system designed to supply consumers with safe and nutritious food at reasonable prices and to provide equitable returns to producers, processors and marketers. The work of the branch is organized according to function; functions are further divided into specialized divisions. There are four directorates.

Quality Assurance Directorate

This directorate is responsible for establishing and maintaining standards of quality, safety and effectiveness for agricultural products. Its work ensures that consumer food products and the products essential to agricultural production (feed, fertilizers, pesticides, etc.) meet prescribed standards. The directorate has four divisions: Livestock and Poultry; Produce, Dairy and Processed Food; Plant Products and Quarantine; and Laboratory Services.

Market Development Directorate

This directorate's role is to develop and expand domestic and foreign markets for Canadian primary agricultural products and for processed foods, and to identify and recommend strategies to overcome current and potential marketing problems in the food system. Its main areas of attention are meat, poultry and dairy products, produce and grocery products, and grains, oilseeds and special crops. Its work is carried out through four divisions: Market Improvement, Marketing Services, Food and Nutrition Services, and Food Processing and Distribution.

Production Development Directorate

The operations of this directorate are aimed at promoting efficient and thriving grains, special crops, livestock, poultry and wool industries in Canada. It is also responsible for administration of the federal Crop Insurance Act, under which the federal government contributes financially to provincially operated crop insurance programs for farmers. Other responsibilities include a farm development program, and supervision of racetracks and pari-mutuel betting. The directorate has four divisions: Animal Production, Crop Production, Racetrack Supervision, and Farm Development.

Operations Directorate

The Operations Directorate is responsible for carrying out all activities relating to the programs and policies of the other directorates of the Food Production and Marketing Branch.

Health of Animals Branch

The work of this branch is aimed at protecting the health of Canada's livestock and at ensuring the supply of wholesome meat to the public. It carries out programs to control and eradicate livestock diseases in Canada and to prevent animal diseases from being carried into the country from abroad; provides meat inspection services at registered packing plants; and carries out research on animal diseases and provides diagnostic services for veterinarians.

Animal Health Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the control and eradication of livestock diseases within Canada and for preventing the entry of foreign animal diseases. Control or eradication of livestock diseases may involve quarantine and treatment, or slaughter of infected animals. Owners are compensated for livestock slaughtered in brucellosis and other disease-eradication programs. Veterinarians of this directorate also ensure that health standards of export animals meet the requirements of importing countries.

Meat Hygiene Directorate

The objectives of this directorate are to ensure the wholesomeness and suitability for human consumption of meat and meat products, and that they meet Canadian standards and those of importing countries. The meat hygiene program entails antemortem inspection of animals at registered slaughtering plants to detect diseases that would make them unsuitable for food, and postmortem inspection to assure the health status of approved animal carcasses. Other aspects of the program include inspection of plants and equipment to ensure sanitary conditions, and control of labelling for accuracy. Meat inspection is mandatory for all packing plants and meat storages dealing in interprovincial and international trade. However, under agreements with various provinces, the service is being provided to many packing plants whose products do not move beyond their provincial borders.

Operations Directorate

This directorate is responsible for carrying out, through its regional offices, all activities relating to meat hygiene and animal health.

Animal Pathology Division

Animal Pathology conducts research on animal diseases, especially those that cause serious economic losses in livestock or which may be transmitted to humans. It also provides diagnostic and other services for the Animal Health and Meat Inspection directorates, and acts as consultant on the registration, licensing and use of biologicals and other veterinary and pest-control products sold in Canada. In addition, it produces reagents used in disease-control programs. Diagnostic services are available to livestock owners and veterinarians at the division's nine laboratories across Canada.

Training and Development Division

This division provides the opportunity for branch staff to increase their competence through career development programs, formal courses and seminars.

Policy, Planning and Economics Branch

This branch carries out studies relating to agricultural development, markets and international trade, and advises senior management on the development of policies and programs and on the establishment of departmental plans and priorities. It has three directorates.

Agricultural Development Directorate

This directorate monitors farm income and costs, and analyzes market factors affecting farm income to provide information for commodity price stabilization plans and for agricultural development programs. There are two divisions: Production Analysis and Regional Development Analysis.

Market Analysis and Trade Policy Directorate

This directorate carries out research and analysis and develops policies relating to agricultural commodity and food markets. It also advises senior management on the trade policies of other countries and their impact on Canada's agriculture and food industry. It has three divisions: Commodity Market Analysis, Food Markets Analysis, and International Trade Policy.

Planning and Evaluation Directorate

Planning and Evaluation supports senior management in planning and in setting priorities. It is also responsible for coordination of planning activities throughout the department, and for the development and implementation of program-evaluation policy and guidelines. There are two divisions: Planning, and Evaluation.

Intergovernmental and International Services Branch

The role of this branch is to coordinate and strengthen departmental liaison with provincial governments and the agriculture and food industry, and to serve as the focal point for departmental involvement in international agricultural matters.

The branch has 10 chief liaison officers — one in each province — to promote consultation and cooperation with provincial agriculture departments and the private sector. The work of these officers is supported by the branch's Federal-Provincial Relations Directorate, which develops and directs research and policy initiatives at the headquarters level.

The International Liaison Service (ILS) of the branch is responsible for departmental involvement in international agricultural affairs and with such agencies as the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Information on foreign agricultural policies, programs and markets — gathered in cooperation with the Trade Commissioner Service of the Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce — is published in weekly and bimonthly publications by the ILS.

The Overseas Projects Secretariat of the branch serves as the center for recruitment of departmental experts to assist with agricultural projects undertaken in developing countries by the Canadian International Development Agency.

Finance and Administration Branch

This branch develops and administers financial and administrative policies and procedures, and advises senior management in these matters; carries out internal audits and provides a management consulting service. It also maintains data processing, library and other specialized support services for the department and related agencies.

Personnel Administration Branch

Personnel Administration develops and administers policies and programs for the department's 10,000 employees. It advises senior management on personnel policies and practices, and provides guidance to other branches on the application of the policies and regulations. Its programs embrace official languages, classification, field personnel, staffing and development, and staff relations.

Canadian Grain Commission

The Canadian Grain Commission administers the Canada Grain Act, which regulates the handling of grain through the licensed elevator system in Canada. The commission licenses grain elevator operators; recommends grade specifications for Canadian grain; inspects and weighs grain; performs documentation services relating to grain delivered to terminal elevators; and operates a cereals and oilseeds research laboratory. The commission also administers the Grain Futures Act, which involves the supervision of trading in grain futures.

Minister of Agriculture

Members of the Commission

Chairman, Gilles Choquette	Saint Jean Baptiste de Rouville, Qué.
Vice-Chairman, Elwood Hodgins	Shawville, Qué.
Commissioner, H.M. Johnson	Moose Jaw, Sask.

Historical Background

The Canadian Dairy Commission was established by the Canadian Dairy Commission Act (SC1966 c. 34). The commission, a Crown corporation, is designated as an agency corporation (Schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1966-2287, 9 Dec 1966; SOR/66-559). The commission is an agent of Her Majesty.

The commission consists of three members appointed by the Governor in Council who also designates which member is to serve as chairman and which as vice-chairman.

The Minister appoints a consultative committee of nine members to assist the commission by advising on matters pertaining to the dairy industry. The consultative committee meets at such times as are fixed by the commission.

Overall Responsibilities

The purpose of the commission is to maintain a national dairy policy and to achieve a sound, healthy, and viable industry.

As stated in the Act, the objectives are to provide efficient milk and cream producers with the opportunity of obtaining a fair return for their labour and investment and to provide consumers of dairy products with a continuous and adequate supply of high quality dairy products.

The commission improves the quality of dairy products by purchasing only first grade quality products under the product price support program.

Through the product price support program operated by the commission, a target industrial milk price for producers is established. This is at a level which is calculated to ensure that efficient producers have the opportunity to obtain fair returns for their labour and investment.

The level of producer returns is indicated by an adjustment formula which takes into account changes in cash costs and returns to the operator's labour.

The federal subsidy on industrial milk production is a subsidy to both consumers and producers. As a consumer subsidy, it was raised in 1975 to $2.66 per hundredweight to protect consumers from the full effects of increased levels of returns to producers to cover their costs of production and labour input. As a subsidy to producers, it maintains market size for dairy products by keeping prices lower than they would otherwise be.

Organization and Programs

The commission implements its objectives by administering the Dairy Price Stabilization Program which consists of two parts. One is an offer-to-purchase program for creamery butter and dry skim milk at support prices determined by the government. This leads to floor prices to producers for milk used for manufacturing purposes.

In addition, the commission administers a direct subsidy program under which individual producers receive monthly payments on their shipments at a rate determined by the government. The combination of market returns and the subsidy represent the target support price.

The Supply Management Program is administered by the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee composed of representatives from provincial governments, marketing agencies and chaired by the commission. This committee coordinates an interim Comprehensive Milk Marketing Plan under which provinces are allocated a share of the national market for industrial milk. Provincial marketing boards and agencies allocate the provincial share of national milk requirements to individual producers.

A system of levies on in-quota and over-quota production are used to finance the disposal of products produced in excess of domestic requirements.

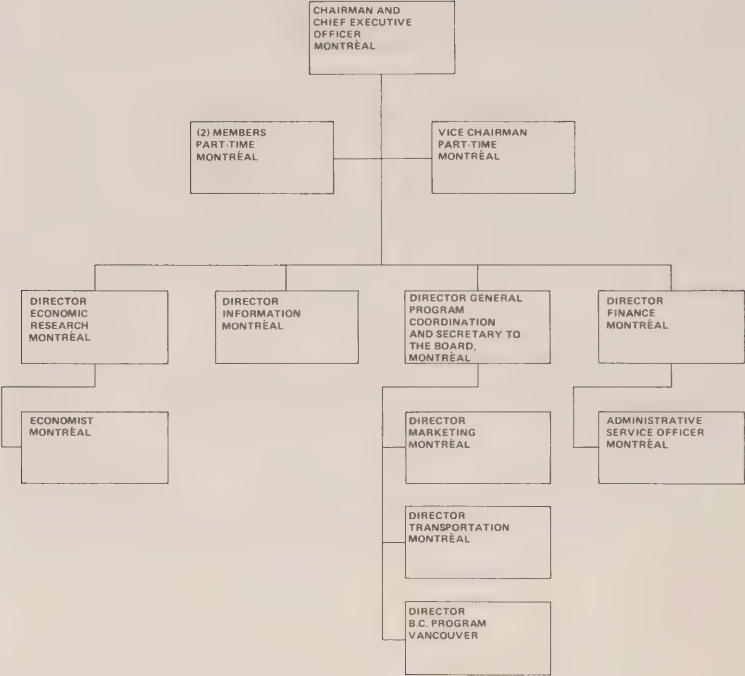

Additionally, provincial marketing agencies deduct transportation charges and marketing levies which reduce producer incomes from the target levels determined by the market price return and subsidy income to producers.

Historical Background

The Canadian Livestock Feed Board was established in 1966 under the Livestock Feed Assistance Act (now RSC 1970 c. L-9). The board, a Crown corporation, is designated an agency corporation (schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1969-829, 4 May 1969; SOR/67-230). The board is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The objectives of the board are to ensure:

- (a) the availability of feed grain to meet the needs of livestock feeders;
- (b) the availability of adequate storage space in eastern Canada for feed grain to meet the needs of livestock feeders;
- (c) reasonable stability in the price of feed grain in eastern Canada and in British Columbia; and
- (d) fair equalization of feed grain prices in eastern Canada and in British Columbia.

The board may, if authorized by the Governor in Council, buy or enter into contracts or agreements for the purchase of feed grain from agents of the Canadian Wheat Board or an agent thereof, including foreign agencies, for storage and resale for consumption by livestock in eastern Canada and British Columbia.

Organization and Programs

The board consists of three to five members appointed by the Governor in Council who also designates which member is to serve as chairman and which as vice-chairman. Board members are appointed to serve, on good behaviour, until age 70. The Governor in Council also appoints an advisory committee which consists of seven members. The committee meets at the call of the Minister or the board.

Program Coordination

The department coordinates and administers the various services provided under the Livestock Feed Assistance Act dealing with assistance and special programs, traffic, and market information. It also acts in an advisory capacity to the board on matters of marketing and storage of feed grains.

Two of the board's programs are the Feed Freight Equalization Program in which subsidies related to feed grain transportation are administered, and the Supply and Price Stability Program in which the requirements for feed grains and storage space are assessed and matters relating to the storage, handling, transportation and cost of feed grains are negotiated and coordinated.

The board also administers (in collaboration with the Department of Agriculture) the Local Feed Grain Security program which offers financial assistance to feed mills to enlarge their inventories of feed grains in grain deficient areas of eastern Canada and British Columbia. This program is scheduled to terminate March 31, 1985.

Since April 1, 1979, the board has administered, in collaboration with the Department of Agriculture, the Inland Elevator Programs designed to assist the development of grain storage at inland elevators in the grain deficient areas of eastern Canada and British Columbia.

Research Department

The department carries out economic research into those areas of interest to the board (both in-house and through a combination of contractual and grant arrangements). It also aids in the formulation of short and long-term policy by providing the board with information and economic advice.

The department informs the public about policies, programs and activities of the board and the agricultural industry about a wide range of subjects. It also assists the board by maintaining an internal information system to keep abreast of new developments, and the public's reactions to board policies and decisions.

Financial Department

This department provides support services (financial, personnel and administrative management).

Historical Background

The Farm Credit Corporation (FCC) was established by the Farm Credit Act (SC 1959 c. 43, now RSC 1978 c. F-2) as successor to the Canadian Farm Loan Board. The corporation is responsible for the administration of the Farm Credit Act and the Farm Syndicates Credit Act (RSC 1973 c. F-4).

The FCC, a Crown corporation, is designated as a proprietary corporation (Schedule D), and the Minister of Agriculture the appropriate minister within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1959-1338, 16 Oct 1959). The FCC is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

An advisory committee of farmers and other qualified persons, appointed by the Minister, advises the corporation with respect to policy and other matters referred to it by the Minister or the corporation.

The Farm Credit Corporation was established to help Canadian farmers and those wishing to become farmers purchase, develop and maintain sound farm businesses. Assistance is provided in the form of long-term mortgage credit.

Loans may be made to farmers individually or jointly and to farming corporations or cooperative farm associations.

The maximum loan to a single farm business is $200,000 when there is one qualifying applicant and $400,000 when there is more than one qualifying applicant.

Standard Farm Loans — Applicants must be principally occupied in farming or about to become full-time farmers at the time of the loan.

Beginning Farmer Loans — Young persons under 35 years of age may retain off-farm employment while developing an economic farm business, providing farming becomes their principal occupation within five years.

A number of factors must be considered by the applicant and the Farm Credit Corporation before a loan is approved and before the actual amount of any loan is agreed upon.

Repayment Ability — The applicant must demonstrate that the farm business under his or her management will generate enough income to meet all financial obligations and to allow for a reasonable standard of living.

Management Ability — The applicant's management ability and experience are also taken into consideration in assessing each application. The corporation asks the applicant to submit a plan of operation for the proposed farm business.

Need for F.C.C. Financing — In recent years the demand for long-term credit directed to the F.C.C. has been greater than its available resources. The corporation must ensure that the funds available for lending are distributed to the applicants with the greatest need for its assistance.

Applicants operating established farming enterprises who enjoy an above average financial position may be counselled to seek assistance from other conventional lending institutions.

Citizenship — Borrowers must be either Canadian citizens or landed immigrants.

Age — Borrowers must be of legal age to enter into a mortgage agreement.

Loan funds may be used to:

- purchase farm land,
- make permanent improvements,
- purchase breeding stock and farm equipment,
- pay debts, or
- for any purpose that will facilitate the efficient operation of the farm.

A borrower may take up to a maximum of 30 years to repay a loan. Terms vary depending on the loan purpose, repayment ability and nature of the farm operation. The interest rate is set semi-annually in accordance with the Farm Credit Act Interest Rates Regulations.

Funds for lending to farmers under the Farm Credit Act are borrowed at current interest rates from the Minister of Finance. The aggregate amount of such borrowings outstanding at any time may not exceed 25 times the capital of the corporation which was set at $100 million by a 1975 amendment to the Act.

The Farm Syndicates Credit Act authorizes the Farm Credit Corporation to make loans to syndicates. A syndicate is a group of three or more farmers, the majority of whom have farming as their principal occupation, who have signed an agreement acceptable to the Farm Credit Corporation with respect to the joint purchase and use of machinery, equipment or buildings which can be used profitably by them in their farming operations. Cooperative farm associations and certain farming corporations may qualify as syndicates for loans without the members entering into a formal syndicate agreement. A syndicate may borrow up to 80 per cent of the cost of farm machinery, buildings (including site and other improvements) and installed equipment suitable for joint use, to a maximum of $15 thousand per member or $100 thousand, whichever is less. The corporation obtains funds for lending under this legislation from the Minister of Finance at current interest rates. Amounts owing by the corporation on this account may not exceed $25 million.

Loans are repayable over a period not exceeding 15 years for buildings and permanently installed equipment, and seven years for mobile machinery. Loans are secured by a promissory note signed by the members of the syndicate and such other security deemed necessary by the corporation. The interest rate is set semi-annually in accordance with the Farm Syndicates Credit Act Interest Rates Regulations. An initial charge of one per cent of the amount of each loan is made at the outset to help cover the costs of making the loan.

Appeal boards have been established in each province except Newfoundland. These boards, appointed by the corporation under Section 11(d) of the Farm Credit Act, will hear appeals from any applicant who is dissatisfied with the corporation's decision on any application under either of the Acts administered by it. These boards are composed of farmers who have established reputations for sound judgment and an active interest in agriculture in their communities. The board members, who serve on a part-time basis, make recommendations to the corporation on each application referred to them.

Organization and Programs

The objective of the Farm Credit Corporation is to provide long-term mortgage credit to farmers and loans to syndicates of farmers. It performs operational and administrative functions related to the organization of Canadian agriculture into economic farm units that are in the hands of competent operators.

Lending and Related Services provides pre-loan advisory services; receipt and assessment of applications; loan approval and disbursement; loan administration and supervision; land transfers, purchases and sales; and statistical support service for the monitoring of lending activities.

Administration — provides financial, property, material, office management for the corporation as a whole; provides advice to management on manpower development, training, personnel research, classification and pay, staff relations, employment and staff services.

Historical Background

The council was established by section 3 of the Farm Products Marketing Agencies Act assented to Jan 12, 1972 (SC 1970-71-72 c. 65). The following agencies were created pursuant to section 17 (1) of the Act, and established by proclamation: Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (SOR/73-1, December 19, 1972); Canadian Turkey Marketing Agency (SOR/74-108, June 12, 1974); and Canadian Chicken Marketing Agency (SOR/79-158, February 12, 1979). The agencies are not agents of Her Majesty.

The chairwoman and members of the council, as Order in Council appointments, are not part of the Public Service of Canada. Agencies must submit a report to the council and the Minister within three months after the termination of each fiscal year.

Overall Responsibilities

The duties of the council are:

- (a) to advise the Minister on all matters relating to the establishment and operation of agencies under this Act with a view to maintaining and promoting an efficient and competitive agriculture industry;
- (b) to review the operations of agencies with a view to ensuring that they carry on their operations in accordance with the objects set out in section 22; and
- (c) to work with agencies in promoting more effective marketing of farm products in interprovincial and export trade.

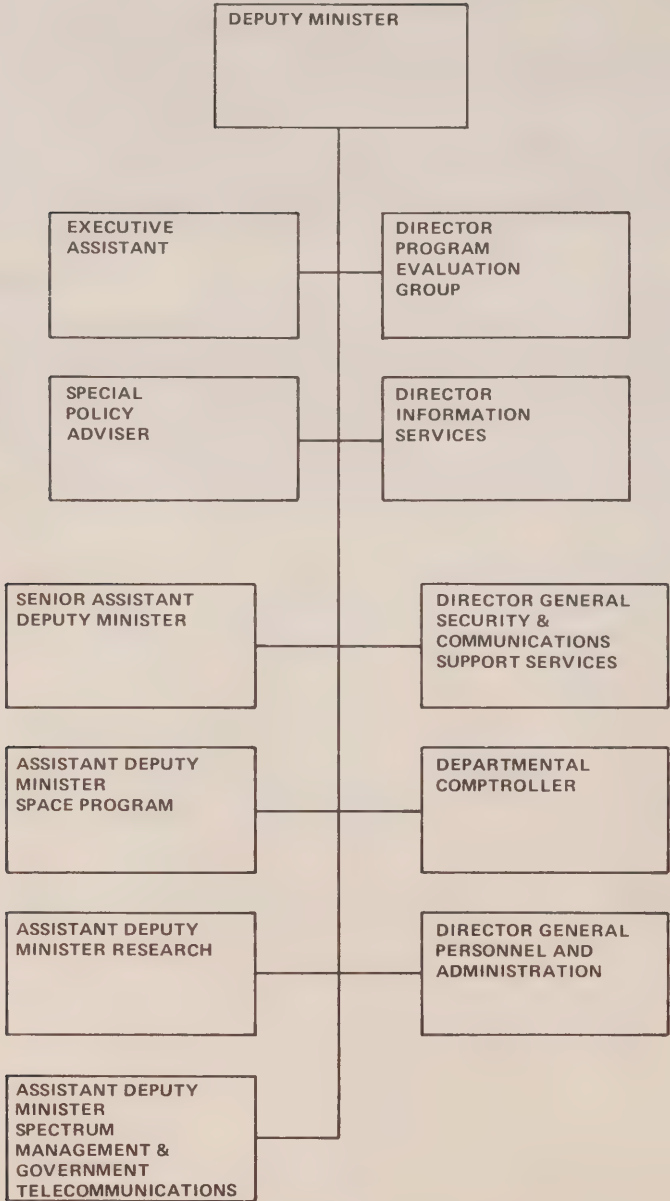

In carrying out its duties the council consults, on a continuing basis, with the governments of all provinces having an interest in the establishment or the exercise of the powers of any one or more agencies under this Act or with any body or bodies established by the government of any province to exercise powers similar to those of the council in relation to intraprovincial trade in farm products.

Programs

The council ensures that the interests of producers, consumers and processors are safeguarded through its monitoring of national marketing agencies. It consults with other levels of government, both federal and provincial, and with other interested parties. It also investigates complaints about the operations of national supply management programs for regulated commodities in order to balance the interests of producers, consumers and the industry.

Historical Background

The Department of Communications was established under Part II of the Government Organization Act, 1969 (now Department of Communications Act RSC 1970 c. C-24).

Overall Responsibilities

The duties, powers and functions of the Minister of Communications extend to and include all matters over which the Parliament of Canada has jurisdiction, not by law assigned to any other department, branch or agency of the Government of Canada, relating to

- (a) telecommunications;
- (b) the development and utilization generally of communication undertakings, facilities, systems and services for Canada.

The Minister of Communications, in exercising his powers and carrying out his duties and functions shall

- (a) coordinate, promote, and recommend national policies and programs with respect to communication services for Canada, including the Post Office Department;
- (b) promote the establishment, development and efficiency of communication systems and facilities for Canada;
- (c) assist Canadian communication systems and facilities to adjust to changing domestic and international conditions;
- (d) plan and coordinate telecommunication services for departments, branches and agencies of the Government of Canada;
- (e) compile and keep up-to-date detailed information in respect of communication systems and facilities and of trends and developments in Canada and abroad relating to communication matters; and
- (f) take such action as may be necessary to secure, by international regulation or otherwise, the rights of Canada in communication matters.

Organization and Programs

The department comprises four sectors: Policy, Space Program, Research and Spectrum Management and Government Telecommunications. Central services such as the comptroller's office, personnel and administration, information services, program evaluation, and security and communications support services report directly to the deputy minister.

Policy Sector

Responsibility for overall formulation, coordination and implementation of departmental policy rests primarily with this sector. Its seven branches are: National Telecommunications (domestic telecommunications systems development); International Telecommunications (focal point for formulation of Canadian policy on international telecommunications); Telecommunications Economics (economic aspects of policy activities, regulatory proceedings and structure and operation of the telecommunications regulatory process); Broadcasting and Social Policy (social, non-technical aspects of telecommunications, with particular emphasis on broadcasting); Federal-Provincial Relations (federal-provincial aspects of telecommunications policies and mechanisms for effective liaison and cooperation); Legal Services; and Policy Coordination.

Research Sector

Sector responsibilities include the carrying out of research over a broad spectrum of the communications field, both in-house and through a system of university research contracts. The sector aids in the development of new communications systems, provides scientific advice to aid in the formulation of departmental policy and seeks to ensure that an adequate level of communications research and development capability is maintained in Canada. The department's own principal research facility is the Communications Research Centre, near Ottawa. Other sector responsibilities include research policy and planning; radio and radar research; technology and systems research and development and special research programs.

Space Sector

All space and space-related activities are grouped in one sector and include satellite programs and satellite communications operations such as CTS/Hermes operations and experiments; the Anik B communications program; operation of Canadian scientific satellites (ISIS); and operation and maintenance of facilities for integration, testing and reliability assessment of space components, subsystems and complete spacecraft, in direct support of the Canadian space industry. Facilities comprise the David Florida Laboratory and High Reliability Laboratory at the Communications Research Centre, Shirley Bay, Ontario. A program of space-related technology development is carried out with Canadian industry and universities and involves extensive contracting and technology transfer to Canadian industry. Space applications support is provided to other departments, notably the Department of National Defence.

The nine-member Interdepartmental Committee on Space (ICS), which reports to the Minister of Communications, provides advice on policy and planning for Canadian space activities.

Spectrum Management and Government Telecommunications Sector

The fourth sector of the department includes the Telecommunications Regulatory Service. Along with the five regions, this service is responsible for planning and implementing the regulation of the radio frequency spectrum. Each of the five regional directors is concerned with spectrum management and government telecommunications matters and represents the department as a whole. Also included in this sector is the Government Telecommunications Agency, which plans and provides telecommunication services for the federal government.

Historical Background

Formerly the Board of Broadcast Governors, the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) was established under Part II of the Broadcasting Act (SC 1967-68 c. 25, now RSC 1970 c. B-11). The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Act (1976) transferred to the CRTC jurisdiction over federally-regulated telecommunications carriers, formerly exercised by the Canadian Transport Commission. The CRTC is designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The commission is authorized to regulate and supervise all aspects of the Canadian broadcasting system with a view to implementing the broadcasting policy enunciated in Section 3 of the Broadcasting Act, subject to the limitations given in the Act.

The commission is the licensing authority for broadcasting and broadcasting receiving undertakings. Applications for licences and amendments to licences are filed with the Secretary General, Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission, Ottawa.

Section 16 of the Act states the commission's powers to make regulations.

The commission's regulatory responsibilities in telecommunications include such areas as rate applications submitted by carriers, telecommunications issues arising from the operations of the carriers, major tariff filings, audit of financial and other corporate records, and complaints arising from provision of telecommunications service. The CRTC's powers to make regulations are set out in section 14 of the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Act.

Historical Background

Teleglobe Canada, formerly known as Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corporation, was established by Act of Parliament, 1949 SC c. 10 (now RSC 1970 c. C-11, as amended by SC 1974-75-76 c. 77). It is a Crown corporation, an agent of Her Majesty, and a proprietary corporation (Schedule D) within the meaning of the Financial Administration Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The corporation was created for the following purposes:

- (a) to establish, maintain and operate, in Canada and elsewhere, external telecommunication services for the conduct of public communications;
- (b) to carry on the business of public communications by cable, radiotelegraph, radiotelephone or any other means of telecommunication between Canada and any other place;
- (c) to make use of all developments in cable and radio transmission or reception for external telecommunication purposes as related to public communication services;
- (d) to investigate and research with the object of improving the efficiency of telecommunication services generally; and
- (e) to coordinate Canada's external telecommunication services with those of other nations.

The corporation provides overseas telecommunication services — telephone, telegraph, telex, private wire, video and data — to almost all countries of the world through the operation of global networks of submarine cables and satellite circuits linking all continents.

Operations

The departments dealing with marketing, operations, and engineering and system development report to the Executive Vice-President, Operations, who is responsible for all functions directly related to the marketing of services and the planning as well as the operation of international telecommunications equipment. This structure integrates functions which are essentially complementary and which must be coordinated to allow the corporation to meet the ever-increasing demand for traditional public services, as well as for new and specialized services, in a timely and efficient manner.

Corporate Affairs

Reporting to the Executive Vice-President, Corporate Affairs, this group encompasses all the functions directly related to corporate policies and planning, public relations and the corporation's participation in national and international organizations. Such organizations include the Commonwealth Telecommunications Organization (CTO), the International Telecommunications Satellite Organization (INTELSAT), the International Telecommunication Union (ITU), the Canadian Telecommunications Carriers Association (CTCA), and the InterAmerican Telecommunications Committee of the Organization of American States (CITEL).

Finance and Administration

The departments directly involved with support or staff functions, namely Personnel, Finance, Management Information Systems, and Administration, all come under the direction of the Executive Vice-President, Finance and Administration. Internal Audit is also included in this group.

Historical Background

The Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs was established in 1967 by the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Act, (now RSC 1970 c. C-27). This Act transferred all the functions of the Department of the Registrar General to the department as it is known today. Gradually other responsibilities were added: the Standards Branch was transferred from the Department of Trade and Commerce. The Patent and Copyright Office and the Trade Marks Office, originally with the Department of Trade and Commerce, were transferred to the Department of the Secretary of State on December 1, 1927. Responsibility for the Patent Act on February 3, 1964, and the Copyright Act on February 9, 1965, was given to the Minister of Justice. A year later, the Trade Marks Act also became his responsibility. However, in December, 1965, this responsibility was transferred to the President of the Queen's Privy Council, but administration of the two offices remained with the Secretary of State until the formation of the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

Overall Responsibilities

Today the Minister has jurisdiction, either wholly or in conjunction with the provinces, in the following:

- (a) consumer affairs;
- (b) corporations and corporate securities;
- (c) combines, mergers, monopolies and restraint of trade;
- (d) bankruptcy and insolvency;
- (e) patents, copyrights, and trade marks, and (since 1970) industrial design;
- (f) standards of identity and performance in relation to consumer goods; and
- (g) legal metrology.

In exercising his powers and carrying out his duties the Minister is authorized to:

- (a) initiate, recommend or undertake programs designed to promote the interests of the Canadian consumer;

- (b) coordinate programs of the Government of Canada that are designed to promote the interests of the Canadian consumer;
- (c) promote and encourage the institution of practices or conduct tending to the better protection of the Canadian consumer and cooperate with provincial governments or agencies thereof, or any bodies, organizations or persons, in any programs having similar objects; and
- (d) undertake, recommend or help in programs to inform the Canadian consumer more fully about goods and services.

Office of the Registrar General of Canada

The Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs is the Registrar General of Canada. He is also custodian of the Great Seal of Canada, the Privy Seal of the Governor General, the Seal of the Administrator of Canada, and the Seal of the Registrar General of Canada. The Office of the Registrar General comprises two organizational units: the Registration Division; and the Conflict of Interest Organization.

Registration Division

The Registration Division is responsible for the registration of all commissions and documents as set forth in the Formal Documents Regulations pursuant to the Public Officers Act and Seals Act. It also provides those services, required of the Registrar General in various acts and regulations, to the Office of the Governor General, to departments, corporations and agencies of the federal government, to other levels of government and to the general public.

Conflict of Interest Organization

The organization administers the conflict of interest guidelines for Ministers, governor in council appointees, and other individuals to whom similar guidelines apply. It also aids those persons who are subject to such guidelines in complying with them.

Organization and Programs

The department is composed of four bureaus plus two functional services: Field Operations and Communications. There are a number of specialized groups which provide the deputy minister and the bureaus with staff support in the area of policy activities and coordination, personnel and financial administration.

Bureau of Competition Policy

This bureau administers the Combines Investigation Act (the purpose of the Act is to assist in maintaining effective competition as a prime stimulus to the achievement of maximum production, distribution, and employment in a mixed system of public and private enterprise). The Act seeks to eliminate certain practices in restraint of trade and to overcome the ill effects of concentration. The bureau investigates combines, mergers, monopolies, price fixing, and misleading advertising or deceptive marketing practices. It also carries out an active compliance program to further the purpose of the Act.

Investigations are instituted on the formal application of six persons, or on direction of the Minister, or, as is usually the case, on the initiative of the Director of Investigation and Research. In the conduct of investigations, the director is authorized to examine witnesses, search premises and require written returns. These powers may only be exercised, however, upon certification by a member of the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission. When the director has gathered all the information available, three courses of action are open to him. He may remit the evidence obtained in an inquiry to the Attorney General of Canada for such action as the latter may decide to take or he may pursue the matter before the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission. Also, the director may, at any time, discontinue an inquiry that does not justify further inquiry. If the inquiry resulted from a formal application, he must notify the complainants of the reasons for the discontinuance.

The bureau consists of four operational branches, three of which are responsible for a particular industry sector; the fourth is a research branch.

The Manufacturing Branch is responsible for all investigations and advisory functions where the activities concern firms in Canadian manufacturing industries.

Similarly, the Resources Branch is responsible in the area of Canadian resource industries.

The Services Branch bears similar responsibility in the area of Canadian service and distribution industries, with the exception of the distributing sectors of vertically-integrated industries, in which the major activity of the industry falls under the aegis of either the Manufacturing or Resources Branches.

The Marketing Practices Branch (formerly the Misleading Advertising Division) is responsible for sections 36 to 37.2 of the Act.

The Director of Legislative Development and International Programs is responsible to the Director of Investigation and Research for the management of the international aspects of competition policy and for the coordination of legislative development in Canada.

In 1976, the Combines Investigation Act (RSC 1970 c. 23) was amended by virtue of the Stage I amendments, in the planned two stage revision of the Act. In part these amendments brought services, whether industrial, trade, professional or otherwise, within the scope of the Act. The provisions relating to misleading advertising and deceptive marketing practices were broadened and the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission now has a civil jurisdiction to review certain practices which may be undesirable from a competition perspective and to make remedial orders.

The second stage of amendments to the Combines Investigation Act were incorporated in Bill C-42 and introduced in the House of Commons on March 16, 1977. The Bill was withdrawn from the order paper for second reading but referred to the Standing Committee of the House of Commons on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, which invited interested parties to submit briefs that were considered at hearings held in June, 1977. The amended Bill (C-13) was introduced in the House of Commons, November 18, 1977, and was not enacted when the session of Parliament ended on October 10, 1978, at which time it automatically lapsed.

Restrictive Trade Practices Commission

The commission comprises not more than four governor in council appointed members reporting directly to the Minister. Notices for returns of information and orders for search of premises and seizure of documents must be certified by a member of the commission, who also has power to order the examination of witnesses under oath before him in an inquiry. Where evidence in an inquiry is brought before the commission, the commission's consent is required for discontinuance of the inquiry. On receipt of a statement of evidence from the Director of Investigation and Research, the commission, after giving all parties full opportunity to be heard, reports to the Minister on the effect of the arrangements and practices disclosed upon the public interest and recommends remedies where the situation warrants. Research inquiries customarily involve nationwide public hearings.

On receipt of the report, the Minister may refer the matter to the Attorney General for legal proceedings, or he may take such other action as he deems advisable. However, the Minister is required by statute to publish each commission report within 30 days of its receipt. Copies are sold by the Printing and Publishing Centre, Department of Supply and Services.

In addition to its reporting function, the commission exercises a quasi-judicial function. Particular instances of refusal to deal, consignment selling, exclusive dealing, tied selling and market restriction can be reviewed by the commission on application by the director and subject to modification or prohibition by order of the commission. The commission may also make orders forbidding the implementation of foreign judgements, court orders, laws or instructions purporting to direct the conduct of Canadian companies when they are shown to have adverse effect upon Canadian trade, or forbidding the implementation of foreign instructions or directives having the effect of implementing a conspiracy entered into outside Canada which, if entered into in Canada, would have violated the conspiracy provision of the Act. Also in situations where a firm based abroad uses its buying power outside Canada to persuade a foreign supplier to switch his business in Canada away from a Canadian firm to a Canadian subsidiary of the firm, the commission may direct the Canadian subsidiary to sell to the Canadian firm at laid down cost or alternatively not to deal in the product of the foreign supplier.

The commission also has certain duties under the Shipping Conferences Exemption Act (RSC 1970 c. 39, 1st Supp.). Under the Canada Corporations Act (RSC 1970 c. 32), the commission is empowered to investigate a company, appointing an inspector for that purpose, where it is shown by the Minister or applicant shareholders that there are reasonable grounds for believing that fraud or other wrongful acts prejudicial to the interests of any shareholder is involved in the operation of the company. In such a case, the commission exercises powers and functions similar to those used in inquiries under the Combines Investigation Act, and reports to the Minister.

Bureau of Consumer Affairs

The bureau is concerned with ensuring the fair and equitable treatment of consumers and business in the marketplace. The bureau develops legislation to ensure that correct measures and standards are applied to products sold in Canada. It researches marketplace problems encountered by consumers, and carries out an extensive information program. The bureau is composed of the Consumer Services Branch, the Consumer Research and Evaluation Branch, the Consumer Standards Directorate, and the Office of Planning and Coordination.

Consumer Services Branch

This branch is responsible for improving the ability of consumers to be full participants in the marketplace. It develops information programs to make consumers more aware of their rights and responsibilities; to provide them with the knowledge to make effective purchasing decisions; and to explain the protection they have under departmental legislation.

Financial support is given to voluntary groups to improve their effectiveness as representatives of general consumer interests, and to increase their services to individual consumers.

The branch also monitors events and trends in the marketplace, and when necessary develops solutions to problems affecting consumers. It liaises with other federal departments, provincial departments, and industry, to stimulate and maintain a continuing emphasis on efficient responsiveness to consumer concerns.

Consumer Research and Evaluation Branch

This branch conducts research into a wide range of consumer problems and makes recommendations with respect to consumer problems, information programs, and legislation.

Consumer Standards Directorate

This directorate has three broad areas of responsibility with respect to standards for consumers. Legal metrology controls the types and use of weighing and measuring devices in order to ensure accurate measurement in all transactions. Consumer fraud protection is concerned with true labelling, marking, packaging and advertising of prepackaged consumer goods, textiles, precious metals, and food products. Product safety covers the field of hazardous consumer products from household chemicals to toys to dangerously flammable textiles.

Office of Planning and Coordination

This office, which has been added to the Office of the Assistant Deputy Minister, coordinates the development of the operational and longer-term plans for the Consumer Affairs program. It coordinates the programs of the several branches taking into consideration program interfaces with Field Operations and Communications Service.

Bureau of Corporate Affairs

This bureau regulates much of the legal framework in which business operates when it incorporates under federal legislation. The bureau is composed of the Corporations Branch, the Bankruptcy Branch, and the Corporate Research Branch.

Corporations Branch

This branch has as its primary purpose the administration of the Canada Business Corporations Act, which deals with the incorporation of businesses, the filing of their financial statements and annual summaries, and the disclosure of the information therefrom to the public.

Bankruptcy Branch

The branch is responsible for administration of the Bankruptcy Act. The Superintendent of Bankruptcy (i.e. the head of the branch) investigates and reports to the Minister on matters pertaining to the administration of the Act. The superintendent also is responsible for investigating allegations as to offences and irregularities occurring prior to the bankruptcy, and reporting his findings to the deputy Attorney General of the province concerned, where appropriate.

The branch also operates the Small Debtor Program in which public trustees carry out personal bankruptcy proceedings for low-income individuals.

Corporate Research Branch

The branch conducts studies to improve legislation relating to the functioning of corporations, cooperatives and the securities market. The branch is responsible for the formulation of policies relating to the role of the federal government in the regulation of the Canadian securities market.

Bureau of Intellectual Property

The bureau provides a coordinated, concentrated approach to the department's responsibilities for patents, trademarks, copyright, and industrial design. Legislation governing these four areas provides for the granting of temporary monopolies to the inventor or creator in order to encourage the disclosure of ideas and knowledge while at the same time providing financial protection and development incentives.

The bureau provides a focal point for an intensive study of the recommendations that will eventually result in a revision of all existing laws dealing with this area.

The Patent, Trademark and Industrial Design Office maintains search facilities that are open to both the public and professionals involved in the field of intellectual property.

Patents Branch

This branch administers the Patent Act, under which patents are granted for new and useful inventions. The Patent Branch Library contains information on Canadian and foreign patents and houses international journals and bulletins. This branch offers copies of patents for sale and publishes, weekly, the Patent Office Record, which gives brief technical descriptions of inventions patented during the previous week.

Trade Marks Branch

This branch administers the Trade Marks Act. The branch maintains a complete record of all registered trade marks, pending and refused applications, and registered users licenced to use trade marks. The branch publishes weekly the Trade Marks Journal in which applications for the registration of trade marks are advertised, in order to give interested parties the opportunity to file their opposition to trade mark applications.

Research and International Affairs

This branch is responsible for the development of policies and the revision of legislation relating to intellectual property in Canada; the identification of the need for domestic and international protection of intellectual property rights. It also represents Canada's interests in international intellectual property organizations.

Copyright and Industrial Designs Branch

This branch administers: the Copyright Act, (which provides for the registration of copyright in literary, dramatic, musical, and artistic works); the Industrial Design Act (which deals with the registration of industrial designs); and the Timber Marking Act (a mark embossed on steel hammers which are used to stamp the end of all logs owned by the registrant).

Technical Advisory Services Branch

The branch develops and implements policies for purposes of increasing public awareness of intellectual property matters, and allowing easier access to the rights and privileges afforded by intellectual property legislation. This branch coordinates departmental policies in the field of intellectual property with the activities of other agencies and departments.

Field Operations

Field Operations is responsible for the efficient and effective implementation of programs and activities in the field in accordance with departmental objectives and priorities. It makes the department's services more accessible to the public, more responsive to its needs, and provides grass roots input to departmental policies.

Field Operations implements programs across the country relating to 19 federal and 21 provincial statutes.

Field staff located in 58 cities, and managed through five regional and 26 district offices, work in seven specialty areas. They ensure the accuracy of weighing and measuring devices used in trade; ensure the accuracy of gas and electricity meters for both domestic and industrial use; protect the consumer from economic fraud by inspecting food and non-food consumer products and enforcing standards; ensure consumer protection from hazardous products; investigate misleading advertising and unfair marketing practices; provide information to consumers and business to try to prevent consumer problems; answer consumer enquiries and solve or mediate consumer complaints; and administer the Bankruptcy Act.

Policy Coordination Branch

The Policy Coordination Branch is responsible for coordinating action on policy and some operational issues touching more than one bureau of the department. It provides advice on matters of special concern to the Minister or deputy minister. Through the departmental secretariat, it provides the staff and administrative support for the deputy minister's activities and provides day-to-day liaison with the Minister's Office and the Cabinet and parliamentary process.

Communications Service

This service initiates and advises on the planning and implementation of proposed information programs and projects, provides active support for the operational programs of the department and produces and distributes information material for use by national, regional and local mass communication media.

Financial and Administrative Services Branch

This branch is responsible for the planning, advising and servicing of all branches of the department with respect to estimates, accounting, revenue, purchasing and stores, accommodation and maintenance, library, forms and records management, suggestion award plan, building security, and the coordination of transcribing services.

Personnel Branch

This branch is responsible for manpower planning and development, staff relations, classification, and pay administration as well as employee welfare and counselling.

Legal Branch

The branch lawyers, who are seconded from the Department of Justice, advise departmental senior officials on a wide range of legal matters. They are involved in the preparation and conduct of cases that the department has turned over to the Attorney General of Canada for consideration and possible prosecution.

The Legal Branch's major responsibilities include advising on legislation administered by the department, as well as on:

- (a) trade practices covered by the Combines Investigation Act to protect economic competition and possible violations of that Act;
- (b) possible violations of consumer protection legislation such as the Consumer Packaging and Labelling Act, Food and Drugs Act, Textile Labelling Act, Weights and Measures Act, and Hazardous Products Act;
- (c) cases under the Bankruptcy Act;
- (d) corporate matters that arise under the Canada Business Corporations Act, the Canada Corporations Act, and related statutes; and
- (e) matters involving intellectual property, principally patents and copyright.

As well, the Legal Branch drafts or checks proposed regulations to be made pursuant to Acts administered by the department.

Directors

Communications .....	Peter Liebel
Finance, Personnel and Administration .....	Richard Levie

Historical Background

The Ministry of State for Economic Development was established on December 19, 1978, by order in council (OIC P.C. December 19, 1978-3803). It became the executive secretariat for the Cabinet Committee on Economic Development, one of five Cabinet policy sub-committees, when it was established in June, 1979.

Overall Responsibilities

The objectives of the ministry are:

- to formulate, develop, evaluate and coordinate new and comprehensive policies in relation to the programs and activities of the government that directly support Canadian economic development;
- to promote cooperative relationships with provinces, business and labour and other public and private organizations for the development of the economy;
- to advise on the allocation of financial, personnel and other resources to federal programs that directly support economic development; and
- to develop mechanisms to improve and to integrate the delivery of economic development programs at the local or regional level.

Organization and Programs

The ministry is organized into five functional groups: Operations; Policy Formulation; Evaluation/Assessment; Communications; and Finance, Personnel and Administration.

Operations

Operations is responsible for providing analysis, assessments and briefings to the Secretary, the Minister and other members of the Economic Development Committee as well as to deputy heads of economic departments on proposals originating in these departments. More specifically, it develops the work programs, assessments, and recommendations regarding proposals in certain economic sectors, including their resource implications.

Policy Formulation

Policy Formulation is responsible for developing a coordinated economic development policy for the federal government, taking into consideration the existing framework of policies, present policy initiatives of economic development departments and the positions of business and labour. In particular, it is concerned with the way in which macro-economic policies, the macro-economic environment and the framework of existing economic development policies affect the structure and performances of individual sectors of the Canadian economy.

Evaluation/Assessment

Evaluation/Assessment is responsible for the development and maintenance of comprehensive documentation on government economic development policies and programs; assessment and evaluation of the mix of existing programs; identification of gaps and overlaps; evaluation of certain policies and programs; improvement and coordination of the program delivery process; advising on the government's economic development budget; and making recommendations on the reallocation of funds between programs.

Communications

The Communications Division is responsible for advising the Ministers who are members of the Economic Development Committee and deputy ministers on the public information aspects of economic development initiatives, coordinating communications plans originating in economic development departments, and evaluating the effectiveness of the government's public information activities in the economic development sector. It also provides public affairs support for the Ministry of State for Economic Development and its Minister.

Finance, Personnel and Administration

The branch is responsible for developing and maintaining all finance, personnel and support services essential to the efficient and effective operation of the ministry.

Additional Information — from the Communications Division (613) 996-4055.

Commissioner .....	The Hon. Mitchell Sharp, Ottawa
Administrator .....	Harold Millican, Calgary
Designated Officer of the National Energy Board and Deputy Administrator .....	William A. Scotland, Calgary
Deputy Administrator .....	A. Barry Yates, Calgary

Historical Background

The agency was established under the Northern Pipeline Act, which received Royal Assent on April 12, 1978, and proclamation — with the exception of Section 38 — on April 13, 1978. In addition to establishing the agency, the Act provides the necessary legislative authority to implement the Agreement between Canada and the United States on Principles Applicable to a Northern Natural Gas Pipeline, which was signed in Ottawa on September 20, 1977, and to ensure that the project is undertaken in a way that will maximize the benefits and minimize the adverse effects socially, economically and environmentally.

Overall Responsibilities

The Northern Pipeline Agency was established to provide a single regulatory body to undertake federal responsibilities for planning and monitoring construction of the 2,028-mile, main-line portion in Canada of the joint Canadian-U.S. system, which initially will transport U.S. gas from Prudhoe Bay, Alaska, to the lower 48 states. This section is to be built by Foothills Pipe Lines (Yukon) Limited and its subsidiaries. By agreement with the federal government, Foothills is also obligated to undertake the studies required to support an application to the National Energy Board by July 1, 1979, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to construct a lateral for the transportation of Canadian natural gas in the Mackenzie Delta to connect with the main system at Whitehorse in the Yukon Territory. Many federal powers administered by various other departments and agencies which relate to the project will be transferred to the Northern Pipeline Agency to provide the necessary central regulatory control. A number of other additional responsibilities will be exercised by jurisdictions through which the pipeline will be built — British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and the Yukon Territory.

Historical Background

The Department of Employment and Immigration was reconstituted by the Employment and Immigration Reorganization Act 1976.

Overall Responsibilities

The department is responsible for Strategic Policy Development, Program Evaluation, Labour Market Research, and Public Affairs.

Organization and Programs

The department comprises two main divisions: Strategic Policy and Planning, and Public Affairs.

Strategic Policy and Planning Group

The basic role of this group is to examine the policies and programs of the commission in relation to the outside environment so as to test their effectiveness in meeting the commission's objectives. In keeping with the strategic nature of the group's responsibilities, its activities stress an anticipatory look at changes in the socio-economic environment. The group comprises the following branches: Long-Term Planning and Development, Policy and Program Analysis and Program Evaluation.

Long-Term Planning and Development Branch

This branch integrates the work of the Strategic Policy and Planning Group into a cohesive strategic policy framework through its responsibilities for long-term planning, mid-term corporate planning and overall work planning and coordination for the group.

Policy and Program Analysis Branch

This branch identifies and analyses major strategic challenges faced by labour market policy, immigration and demographic policy, and income maintenance policy. In addition, the branch is responsible for the analysis of current economic conditions and labour market trends, and the development and monitoring of unemployment insurance policy changes. Its work complements the specific program development activities of the Labour Market Development and Benefit Programs Groups.

Program Evaluation Branch

This branch evaluates the commission's policies and programs and provides advice to management on their effectiveness.

Public Affairs Division

The Public Affairs Division is responsible for information activities to promote the commission's objectives and for liaison with Parliament.

In support of these objectives it provides the following: information services (including media relations) to promote benefit programs, labour market programs, immigration and demographic policy programs; creative services; parliamentary liaison; and regional liaison.

Historical Background

The Canada Employment and Immigration Commission was established by the Employment and Immigration Reorganization Act 1976, as the result of the integration of the Department of Manpower and Immigration and the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Overall Responsibilities

The commission is responsible for the development and utilization of manpower resources in Canada, employment services, immigration, and income maintenance benefits.

Organization and Programs

The commission comprises seven principal divisions: Labour Market Development; Executive Secretariat; National Systems and Services; Finance and Administration; Personnel; Employment and Insurance; Immigration and Demographic Policy, as well as the 10 regional offices.

Labour Market Development Group

This group is responsible for labour market policies and programs including employment training; employment development in the private and community sectors; the impact of the immigration program on the development of the labour market; manpower planning by private sector employers and assistance to employers and employees in the process of adjustment.

Training Branch

This branch administers a broad range of training programs. These include: occupational skill training, the classroom portion of apprenticeship programs, academic upgrading, language training, job readiness training, work adjustment training and industrial training.

Employment Development Branch

A range of special employment services, designed to create employment for Canadian workers who experience unusual difficulty entering or reentering the labour force, is administered by this branch and includes Canada Works, Young Canada Works, Local Employment Assistance Program and U.I. Job Creation.

Wage Subsidy Branch

The Wage Subsidy Branch administers programs such as the Employment Tax Credit Program and the Portable Wage Subsidy Program which are designed to create employment or improve employability by means of a wage subsidy. The wage subsidy may be paid to the hiring employer in cash or in the form of an income tax credit.

Labour Market Planning and Adjustment Branch

The role of the Labour Market Planning and Adjustment Branch (LMP&A) is to assist in the development and productive utilization of the Canadian labour force. This is accomplished by inducing the private sector to undertake manpower planning, to assume greater responsibility for developing/training workers to meet their manpower needs and by ensuring, that in the development of policies and programs of other government agencies, consideration is given to their effect on the labour market. The branch is also responsible for ensuring that the labour market aspects of the immigration program reflect the needs of the labour market.

In addition, the branch is responsible for the Canada Manpower Consultative Service (MCS) which assists management and labour to jointly deal with manpower adjustment problems that stem from technological/economic/industrial change. MCS also administers an experimental Work Sharing Program which provides employers with an alternative to layoffs during temporary emergency situations.

The LMP&A Branch also has the responsibility for the Canada Agriculture Manpower Program which is designed to achieve optimum utilization of Canada manpower resources for the agricultural labour market. The major services and programs of this program include: Canada farm labour pools/local agricultural manpower boards; foreign seasonal agricultural workers program; and federal-provincial agricultural employment development agreements.

Executive Secretariat

The Executive Secretariat is responsible for the provision of all services necessary to facilitate corporate level planning, policy formulation and decision-making within Employment and Immigration Canada. In addition, it has responsibility for the implementation of the privacy and human rights legislation, liaison with regional administrations, and the coordination of federal-provincial and international relations and activities related to federal programs for special client groups, particularly women. The Executive Secretariat comprises six directorates: Executive Secretariat Services; Intergovernmental Affairs/Special Projects; Regional Liaison; Privacy and Human Rights; Actuarial Services; and Legal Services.

National Systems and Services Group

The National Systems and Services Group is responsible for the development of policies, plans and programs for the integrated clerical, manual and electronic data processing systems for the commission/department. Additional responsibilities include the planning and development of technical communication services, management information systems, and an organization and methods consultative service, monitoring and evaluating management services policies, programs and procedures. It also administers the Social Insurance Number Registration, Wage Loss Insurance, and Annuities programs.

Finance and Administration

The Financial Services Branch designs, directs and coordinates the commission/department's financial administration services. The Services Administration Branch provides all essential services to the commission/department in support of its programs. Finance and Administration also administer the departmental library.

Personnel Service Group

This group provides advice to senior management on all matters of human resource management, develops personnel policies and programs, provides personnel services through corporate and regional offices, and controls the administration of personnel policies and programs throughout the commission/department.

The group is composed of 10 regional offices and the following headquarters functional units: Security, Classification Organization and Compensation, Official Languages, Staffing, Staff Relations, Human Resource Planning, Staff Training, Organization Development, Personnel Data Management, Counselling Services and a headquarters Personnel Service Office.

Benefit Programs Group

Responsibility for the development and implementation of policies and programs for income maintenance benefits is shared by: Benefit Policy and Benefit Control.

Benefit Policy Branch

This branch develops policies and programs to determine entitlement to benefits from the commission's payment programs. It is composed of four directorates: Benefit Entitlement, Policy and Legislative Development, Allowance Policy and Appeals.

Control Branch

This branch is responsible for the development of policies and programs to prevent and detect misuse, abuse and fraud in all payment programs.

Employment and Insurance Group

The Employment and Insurance Group provides operational support to all levels of commission offices for implementation of benefit/employment programs and the development of systems to monitor operational efficiency against program objectives. The group gives functional direction to all commission offices on program delivery procedures.

Employment and Insurance Services Branch

This branch gives direct operational support for client services such as unemployment insurance coverage and benefits, placement counselling, mobility and clearance.

Monitoring and Analysis Branch

This branch maintains national operational monitoring, quality control/assurance and activity analysis programs to improve quality and speed of service. The branch also assists in operational planning and priority setting for Employment and Insurance Services.

Occupational and Career Analysis and Development Branch

This branch develops the policies, methods and materials essential to the occupational information systems and the employment counselling process.

Youth Employment Branch

This branch develops and implements program policies on programs such as the Youth Job Corps, Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP), formerly called SSEAP, the Canada Employment Centres for Students, the Youth Employment Centres (20 experimental centres exist), Services to Secondary School Students and the International Student and Worker Exchange Movements. The branch is also responsible for promoting federal/provincial coordination of youth programs.

Special Client Needs Branch

This branch deals with the supply side of the labour market, with emphasis on special groups such as natives, older workers, women and handicapped people, ensuring that Canada Employment Centres are organized to give effective service to clients with special needs. This branch also formulates affirmative action policies and strategies.

Immigration and Demographic Policy Group

The group administers Canada's immigration law, selecting immigrants and regulating the entry of temporary workers, foreign students, other visitors and tourists. Responsibilities also include facilitating the return of Canadian residents and implementing the enforcement and control measures that apply to visitors and immigrants in the interests of national security.

The group is organized into six branches — Recruitment and Selection, Enforcement, Settlement, Priorities and Program Coordination, the Foreign Branch and the Adjudication Branch.

Recruitment and Selection Branch

This branch is responsible for program planning for the group and manages activities related to immigrant and visitor selection. In cooperation with the provinces, the branch develops an annual level for immigrant intake and monitors the program according to the objectives of immigration legislation. It administers national policy on the admission of students and temporary workers to ensure that employment opportunities for Canadians are not adversely affected. The branch is also responsible for refugee policy and for the reunification of families program.

Enforcement Branch

This branch administers the provisions of immigration law relating to the movement and examination of all persons seeking admission to Canada at ports of entry, consistent with Canadian and international standards. The branch is also responsible for the examination of visitors who request extensions of stay or change of status while in Canada, for the detection of inadmissible persons and related enforcement activities.

Settlement Branch

This branch is responsible for the adaptation of newly-arrived permanent residents to the economic, social and cultural life of Canada, providing direct assistance through the resources of the commission throughout Canada and coordinating services offered by other federal agencies, provincial and municipal governments, and voluntary organizations at the local level.

Priorities and Program Coordination Branch

This branch provides legislative, policy and procedural coordination for the group and has responsibility for resource management and planning, performance measurement and productivity, and information systems. It provides for staff training and other services in support of program and field operations, as well as secretariat services for the immigration program.

Foreign Branch

This branch represents the commission/department at Canadian government offices abroad in all matters relating to employment, immigration and income maintenance programs. It is responsible for counselling and selecting immigrants, processing applications from temporary workers, foreign students and other visitors, the selection of refugees and activities concerning the reunion of families. The role of the branch also includes the monitoring and reporting of developments in foreign countries of interest to the commission and department, and interdepartmental liaison concerning Canada's external relations. The commission operates 64 foreign posts in 42 countries.

Adjudication Directorate

This directorate is responsible for administering the activities of adjudicators who conduct immigration inquiries and release hearings with respect to persons subject to removal from Canada under immigration law.

Regional Offices

There are 495 Canada Employment Centres and 98 Canada Immigration Centres. The activities of these offices are coordinated through 10 regional offices.

Historical Background

The Immigration Appeal Board was established by the Immigration Appeal Board Act that was proclaimed on November 13, 1967 (RSC 1970 c. 1-3). This Act was repealed on April 10, 1978 (PC-1978-669), and replaced by the Immigration Act, 1976, assented to on August 5, 1977, and proclaimed April 10, 1978.

The board is designated as a department within the meaning of the Financial Administration Act (OIC-PC 1970-34, 14 January 1970).

Overall Responsibilities

The board is a court of record independent of any government department or agency in the exercise of its judicial functions. Its members are appointed by the Governor in Council.

Court facilities are established in Montréal, Ottawa, Toronto and Vancouver and the headquarters are located in the National Capital Region. The board also arranges court hearings in the provincial capital cities as necessary.

The Act provides an avenue for certain categories of persons who are ordered removed from Canada to appeal to the board. It also provides an appeal by Canadian sponsors whose applications for admission of relatives from abroad have been refused pursuant to the Act or regulations.

Persons who claim to be convention refugees who have been informed by the Minister, pursuant to the Act, that they are not convention refugees, may, within such time as prescribed, make an application to the board for a redetermination of their claims that they are convention refugees.

The Minister may appeal to the board on any ground of appeal that involves a question of law or fact or mixed law and fact from a decision of an adjudicator.

The chairman and not less than two other members or a vice-chairman and not less than two members constitute a quorum of the board.

Appeal hearings are public unless the board approves a request by either party to the appeal that it be held "in camera".

151 Sparks Street
Room 1012
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 1C3

Minister Designated

Minister of Employment and Immigration

Principal Officers

Deputy Head and Coordinator ..... Maureen O'Neil

Historical Background

Since 1971 there has been, within the federal Cabinet, a Minister responsible for the status of women. The position of Coordinator, Status of Women was initially established in the Privy Council Office as a result of a recommendation of the Royal Commission on the Status of Women in 1970.

The Office of the Coordinator became an independent agency of the federal government on April 1, 1976 (OIC P.C. 1976-781). The Coordinator is appointed by the government for an indefinite period of time to oversee the activities of the Office of the Coordinator Status of Women. The office is funded by an annual budget approved by Parliament.

Overall Responsibilities

Many federal government departments have responsibility centres which deal with status of women matters. The Office of the Coordinator, Status of Women is the central contact point for all of these centres. The prime responsibilities of the office are:

- (a) to assist the Minister in discharging his responsibilities;
- (b) to monitor federal department policies and programs to ensure that they are in line with policies promoting equality between the sexes;
- (c) to coordinate measures to improve the status of women at the federal level;
- (d) to perform a public information and liaison function by keeping in contact with women's organizations and individuals across the country and by issuing publications;
- (e) to ensure federal-provincial consultation on status of women questions.

Historical Background

Energy, Mines and Resources (EMR) is a comparatively new department but some of its components have long histories — one predates Confederation. In 1907, the Department of Mines was established to investigate all problems of a scientific nature involved in the search, development, treatment and utilization of Canadian ores and minerals, through its two main units, the Geological Survey of Canada and the Mines Branch.

In 1936, the department was reorganized to become the Department of Mines and Resources with its branches being: Mines and Geology; Lands, Parks and Forests; Surveys and Engineering; Indian Affairs, and Immigration. The Department of Mines and Technical Surveys (M & TS) came into being on December 10, 1949. The branches were: Geological Survey, Mines Branch, Surveys and Mapping, Geographical Branch and the Observatories Branch. In 1966, control of the Water Resources and Resource Development Branches was transferred to M & TS from the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources.

In October, 1966, M & TS became the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources (the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources Act, RSC 1970 c. E-6) taking on a new and important role of policy-maker in energy development. In 1970, the Observatories Branch was renamed the Earth Physics Branch when the astronomy division of the branch was transferred to the National Research Council. In 1971, the Water Sector was transferred to the new Department of the Environment.

Even though EMR's history is comparatively short, some branches have been in existence for more than a century. The Geological Survey of Canada, founded in 1842 by Sir William Logan, is the oldest scientific organization in Canada. Earth Physics Branch, formerly the Dominion Observatory, dates from 1871. Parts of the Surveys and Mapping Branch were established in 1872, and Mines Branch (now the Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology) was formed in 1907.

Overall Responsibilities

The objective of the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources is to enhance the discovery, development and use of the country's mineral and energy resources and broaden the knowledge of Canada's landmass for the benefit of all Canadians. To attain this objective, the department devises and fosters national policies based on research and data collection in the earth, mineral, and metal sciences, and on social and economic analyses. The department also carries out an earth sciences program directed toward the conservation and use of the Canadian landmass, and it provides, as a national service, the scientific and technical information generated in this program (such as topographic and geological maps, atlases and remote sensing data) to a wide span of customers across the country.

Organization and Programs

The department comprises six sectors: Energy Policy; Mineral Policy; Science and Technology, Planning and Evaluation; Economic and Policy Analysis; and Administration.

Energy Policy

This sector is responsible for coordinating, promoting and recommending national policies and programs with respect to energy. Its mandate entails studies and appraisals of all aspects of energy resource development, production, transportation, processing, conservation and use. It is concerned with such matters as:

- (a) the quantity and quality of existing and projected resources of energy;
- (b) the demand for energy in Canada and the availability and allocation of surplus resources;
- (c) the price of energy, and federal and provincial policies relative to its determination;
- (d) administration of the federal oil import compensation program;
- (e) regional development aspects associated with energy, and energy transportation systems, and the lead-time for their development;
- (f) the scale and type of energy research that should be carried out in Canada;
- (g) the outlook for developing new energy resources, including renewable energy, to meet future needs;
- (h) energy conservation policy and programs, and increased public awareness concerning the essential role of conservation;
- (i) the environmental problems posed by the development, transportation, processing and use of various energy forms;
- (j) Canadian energy policy within the international context including participation in the programs of such organizations as the International Energy Agency.

The sector also has a mandate for the management of non-renewable resources in certain lands and offshore areas under federal jurisdiction south of the 60th parallel of latitude.

Responsibility for energy in the Energy Policy Sector is centered in the following branches: Energy Policy Coordination; Petroleum; Electrical, Coal, Uranium and Nuclear; Conservation and Renewable Energy; and Resource Management.

Additional Information may be obtained from (613) 995-9351.

Mineral Policy

The Mineral Policy Sector is responsible for developing, promoting, coordinating, and recommending national policies, plans, and programs with respect to non-fuel minerals. The sector is also responsible for the collection, assembly and publication of national mineral statistics on behalf of the federal government in cooperation with the provinces, and is responsible for the co-management (with the Department of Regional Economic Expansion) on behalf of the federal government of mineral development sub-agreements currently with six of Canada's 10 provinces. In addition, the sector provides direction for the management of the Minerals Program within the Department of Energy, Mines, and Resources.

Its work includes the collection of national and international data and intelligence, the conduct of on-going appraisals and studies, and representations in a provincial, national, and international context on matters of exploration, development, production, processing, transportation, trade and use of non-fuel minerals. It is concerned with such matters as:

- (a) the quantity and quality of the existing and projected reserves of Canadian non-fuel minerals available to supply domestic and export demands;
- (b) the quantity, quality and availability of foreign produced non-fuel minerals required by the domestic economy;
- (c) the economic implications of research into process development and minerals use which may affect supply, demand, employment, and health;
- (d) the potential use (and constraints thereto) of non-fuel minerals to minimize domestic regional economic disparity;
- (e) problems and opportunities related to resource processing; and
- (f) the behaviour and strategies of resource companies.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the Head, Coordination and Development at (613) 995-9351, extension 116.

Science and Technology

This sector carries out a broad range of scientific research and data collection pertaining to the earth sciences: geodesy, geology, geophysics, geochemistry, mineralogy, metallurgy, and geography. It acquires a knowledge of the physical characteristics of the Canadian landmass, its energy and mineral resource potential, and related basic data essential for engineering and resource development purposes. Through its surveys, maps, and reports, the sector furnishes the scientific data about the earth's crust necessary for the efficient development, use and conservation of the country's natural resources. It also carries out applied and basic research towards increasing effectiveness in the extraction of minerals and in the use of derived metals and other substances.

The sector comprises the Surveys and Mapping Branch, the Geological Survey of Canada (which includes the Atlantic Geoscience Centre and the Institute of Sedimentary and Petroleum Geology), the Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology (formerly the Mines Branch), the Earth Physics Branch, the Polar Continental Shelf Project, the Canada Centre for Remote Sensing, the Explosives Branch and the Canada Centre for Geoscience Data, and the Office, Energy Research and Development.

The sector administers the Earth Sciences Program, and participates in the Mineral and Energy Programs.

Additional information may be obtained by calling (613) 992-6304.

Surveys and Mapping Branch

This branch is the agency responsible for the determination and portrayal of the physical dimensions of the national domain.

In fulfilling these responsibilities, the branch establishes and maintains fundamental geodetic survey systems; the national topographic series of basic mapping; national aeronautical charting; the national, territorial and Crown land boundaries; the national atlas and related geographical documents.

This branch administers the following activity components of the Earth Science Services Program: Geodetic Service, Topographic Service, Land Boundary Service, Geographic Services, Reproduction and Sales.

Additional information may be obtained by calling (613) 995-4321.

Geological Survey of Canada

The Geological Survey of Canada provides systematic knowledge about the geology of Canada in order to identify and facilitate the discovery of non-renewable energy and mineral resources and to evaluate the effects that man's activities have on the landmass. Systematic surveys, regional studies and national compilations are undertaken to expand the data base upon which such activities depend. Information required to aid in the discovery and evaluation of uranium and other mineral deposits is obtained from geophysical and geochemical surveys commonly carried out under contract to industry. In addition, metallogenic and geomathematical methods are applied to evaluate mineral resources. The branch is a major contributor to the annual departmental assessments made of Canada's oil and natural gas, coal, and uranium resources and to the less frequent appraisals of other essential mineral commodities. Studies are made of the northern terrain to provide background information for the evaluation of the impact of resource development. Increasing attention is being given to studies in marine geoscience. The physical properties and engineering attributes that control the character of the coastline, seafloor, and offshore sediments are examined primarily in support of exploration for oil and natural gas. The branch participates in a departmental program designed to evaluate geological solutions to the problem of radioactive waste disposal. The results of all branch activities are made available to government, industry and the public by means of formal publications, open file releases, maps, and also reports published in the world scientific press.

Additional information may be obtained from the GSC project officer (613) 995-4182.

Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology (CANMET)

This branch is a large laboratory and pilot plant complex carrying out applied and basic research for Canadian mineral industry in the extraction of marginal mineral deposits, and to improve the methods of utilizing metals, minerals and fossil energy resources. Its facilities include laboratories for mining, mineral processing, physical metallurgy and fossil energy technology. Research is carried out on such matters as stability of underground and open-pit mines, methods of rock breakage, safety and health related problems in the mine environment, land reclamation and revegetation. The centre is also concerned with increase and recovery from mineral deposits of economic interest; research on the development of materials for the resource industries; assessment of oil, gas, coal, peat and radioactive mineral resources; development of methods for mining, separating and refining bitumens and heavy oils; strategies for substituting cheaper and more abundant fuels for scarce ones; development of technology to improve coal beneficiation, coal conversion to gaseous and liquid products and technology directed towards improving fuel utilization; research on techniques to minimize any possible adverse effects on public health and safety and on the natural environment arising from mining, metallurgical and energy-producing operations. An active information dissemination program is in place to transfer results of world-wide research and development in these and related areas to the Canadian mining, mineral and energy industries.

CANMET is involved in the Energy Sources: Supply, Demand and Substitution, and Energy Research and Technology Development activities of the Energy Program; and the Mineral Resources Determination, Mineral Technology Development, and Administration of the Canada Explosives Act activities of the Minerals Program.

Additional information may be obtained by calling (613) 995-4059.

Earth Physics Branch

This branch ensures the availability of geophysical information concerning the configuration, evolution, structure and dynamic processes of the solid earth and the hazards associated with natural and induced geophysical phenomena with special reference to the Canadian landmass. National networks of seismic, magnetic and earth motion observatories are operated throughout Canada to monitor geophysical phenomena; field surveys are conducted to improve and complete magnetic and gravity coverage of Canada and offshore areas, to map the geothermal regime including permafrost and to obtain paleomagnetic and seismological data in key areas; multidisciplinary field and laboratory experiments are conducted to solve key problems; geophysical data bases and technical information services are maintained.

Typical scientific thrusts include:

- (a) earthquake hazards reduction and seismic risk estimation in Canada, research into earthquake prediction and improved seismological identification of underground nuclear explosions;
- (b) permafrost studies of potential northern pipeline routes and geothermal resource estimation in Canada;
- (c) the production of gravity and magnetic charts, maps and standards;
- (d) geophysical support of the radioactive waste disposal in geological formations program and the investigation of meteorite craters; and
- (e) satellite geodynamics and crustal stability studies.

The branch administers the Earth Physics Service Activity within the Earth Science Services Program.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting E.B. Manchew, project officer, (613) 995-5519.

Polar Continental Shelf Project

This project seeks to increase the scientific and technical knowledge about the arctic regions of Canada. The project works directly with other branches of the department in planning and carrying out an integrated program of arctic research and surveys; it conducts independent investigations to obtain information about arctic phenomena, resources or conditions; and it cooperates with other government departments and agencies and with universities to provide expertise and facilities for arctic studies.

Major programs, most of which are undertaken in cooperation with other departmental branches or agencies, include:

- (a) hydrographic and oceanographic surveys of inter-island channels of the Arctic Archipelago;
- (b) glacier physics (ice coring, mass balance studies, etc.) to study paleoclimatology of the Canadian Arctic;
- (c) studies of wildlife of the Arctic Archipelago as baseline data prior to development of natural resources; and
- (d) the investigations of the terrestrial geology of arctic regions.

This branch administers the Polar Continental Shelf Studies Activity (Earth Sciences Program).

Additional information may be obtained by calling (613) 996-3388.

Canada Centre for Remote Sensing

The Canada Centre for Remote Sensing is responsible for developing and demonstrating systems, methods, and instruments for acquiring, analyzing, and disseminating remote sensing data obtained by aircraft and satellites, as a contribution to the development of effective resource management and information systems relating to Canada's terrain and oceans. Applications include agriculture, forestry, geology, oceanography, engineering, water resource management, and ice reconnaissance.

Under the guidance of the federal government's Inter-Agency Committee on Remote Sensing, the centre serves federal and provincial government departments and agencies, regional organizations, industry, universities, and the general public. In addition, through the Canadian Advisory Committee on Remote Sensing, the centre coordinates remote sensing activities on a national scale. The centre also fosters international cooperation in the peaceful use of space technology.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Dr. L.W. Morley, Director General, (613) 993-0121.

Explosives Branch

The Explosives Branch is responsible for the authorization and testing of all types of explosives, including ammunition and pyrotechnics, and the regulation of their manufacture, storage, sale, use, importation and transportation by road. This responsibility also includes the licensing and inspection of these facilities.

For additional information, call (613) 593-7211.

Canada Centre for Geoscience Data

The centre is responsible for developing documentation systems for the identification and bibliographic control of Canadian geoscience and related information, with emphasis on public sources that support the study, exploration and assessment of non-renewable energy and mineral resources. In cooperation with various federal, provincial and other geoscience agencies, it directs development and operation of the national bibliographic database, GEOSCAN, through application of information technology, coordination of data compilation, management of the database and the provision of products and services to libraries, government agencies and other public information centres.

This independent division of the Science and Technology Sector administers the Geoscience Documentation Sub-activity (Earth Science Services Program).

Additional information is available from (613) 992-9550.

Office of Energy Research and Development

This office, established in January, 1974, acts as the secretariat for the interdepartmental Panel on Energy Research and Development (R&D), which advises the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources on energy R&D policies and properly coordinated programs, required to help in meeting the national energy policy objectives, including self-reliance by the 1980s. These activities have led to a new specially allocated energy R&D budget of $37 million for 1979-80, in addition to other expected federal ongoing expenditures of $120 million in various established areas related to energy R&D, such as nuclear energy and fossil fuels.

Additional information — (613) 992-9575.

Planning and Evaluation

This sector comprises a small staff-group which is responsible for departmental strategic and program planning; evaluating the adequacy and effectiveness of departmental programs and activities; and improving the management control process by systematic appraisals of the effectiveness, efficiency and economy of operations and of those management controls. General telephone number: (613) 995-5901.

Economic and Policy Analysis

The Economic and Policy Analysis Sector was created in the fall of 1978 to provide economic analysis and, in conjunction with the Energy and Mineral Policy Sectors, medium and long-term strategy advice to the department.

The sector consists of four divisions which have the following general responsibilities. The Energy Strategy Division is responsible for the development of medium and long-term strategies in the energy field. It also operates an energy demand model. The Minerals and Economic Conditions Division has two sections. One is a counterpart of the Energy Strategy Division in the minerals field and the other is the department's macro-economic unit. The Financial and Fiscal Analysis Division analyses the financial and corporate structure of firms in the energy and mineral fields and the tax systems and incentive programs which affect them. The Special Studies Division undertakes micro-economic analyses of specific issues and projects in both the energy and minerals fields.

Additional information may be obtained by calling (613) 995-9351.

Administration

This sector provides policy direction and central administrative support services for departmental programs in the fields of financial operations, personnel, general administration, management consulting and computer operations. The sector administers the Administration and Special Supporting Services activities of the Administration Program.

Additional information: (613) 992-7527.

Historical Background

The Atomic Energy Control Board was established in 1946 by the Atomic Energy Control Act (RSC 1970 c. A-19). The board is designated as a departmental corporation (Schedule B) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. The board is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The board is primarily a regulatory body which controls the development, application, and use of atomic energy through the authority of the Act and through regulations approved by the Governor in Council.

The board controls, by means of a comprehensive licensing system, all dealings in prescribed atomic energy substances and equipment, for the purpose of assuring that such substances and equipment are utilized with proper consideration of health and safety and of national and international security. The board's licensing system is administered with the cooperation of other relevant federal and provincial government departments.

The health and safety control of prescribed atomic energy substances and equipment is effected by requiring all prospective licensees to make application to the board and to include with that application, all relevant information on the details of the substance or equipment and its proposed use, as well as operational and safety procedures and equipment, qualifications and experience of users or operators, radioactive waste management proposals, and environmental considerations. This information is evaluated by the board's technical staff and advisers, and, if the application is found acceptable, an appropriate licence is then issued. Board inspection officers visit licensees to assure their compliance with the licence and with the Atomic Energy Control Regulations.

The security control of prescribed atomic energy substances and equipment assures that Canada's national policies and international commitments are met. This is effected by controlling the import and export of such substances and equipment in cooperation with other federal government agencies. Provisions of the Non-Proliferation Treaty are administered under a safeguards agreement which provides for the inspection of the Canadian nuclear program by officers of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The Atomic Energy Control Act empowers the board to award grants for atomic energy research. Responsibility for university research under this program was turned over to the National Research Council on April 1, 1976, and the board now concentrates on contracted, mission-oriented research in support of its regulatory activities.

The Nuclear Liability Act (RSC 1970 c. 29, 1st supp) assigns to the board certain responsibilities relating to the liability indemnification of nuclear installations.

Organization and Programs

The board staff organization is composed of the President's Office, the Operations Directorate, the Assessment and Research Directorate, and the Planning and Administration Branch. The organization is augmented by two internal committees: Management Committee, which provides advice to the president on administrative and operational matters, and acts for the president during absence or vacancy in that office; and the Policy Advisory Committee, which develops and presents major policy recommendations to the president and the board.

President's Office

This office embraces the staff functions of board secretariat, including the Office of Public Information and the Library, and the special advisers to the board: legal, medical, science and official languages.

Operations Directorate

This directorate is responsible for safety evaluation and licensing of all nuclear facilities; safeguards and nuclear materials control; compliance with licences and regulations; and other programs.

Assessment and Research Directorate

This directorate provides technical support services to the Operations Directorate, and conducts the mission-oriented research designed to provide information for use in the board's regulatory functions.

Planning and Administration Branch

This branch is responsible for such centralized administrative functions as office services, registry, personnel and finance, as well as planning and coordination, and security.

In addition to its own staff of technical experts, the board benefits from advice from other federal departments such as the Radiation Protection Bureau of the Department of National Health and Welfare and from provincial government departments including Health, Labour, and Environment. The board appoints independent advisory committees whose membership is drawn from federal, provincial, and municipal levels of government, as well as individual experts. Advisers, inspectors, and advisory committees not only provide a more extensive and specialized advisory and inspection resource, but also facilitate inter-governmental and inter-departmental cooperation in areas of interest to the board.

Historical Background

Atomic Energy of Canada Limited (AECL) was incorporated as a Crown company in 1952 under the provisions of the Companies Act. On April 1, 1952, the company assumed responsibility for operation of the Chalk River project from the National Research Council.

This Crown corporation is designated as an agency corporation (Schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC, P.C. 1952-4307, 23 Oct 1952). The company is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

AECL is responsible for research into and development of peaceful uses of nuclear energy; in particular, the development of nuclear power systems, and medical and industrial applications of radioisotopes and radiation.

The company's activities include:

- (a) operation of laboratories for fundamental and applied research and engineering development;
- (b) design of nuclear power systems;
- (c) marketing of nuclear power stations, components and technology;
- (d) construction and operation of heavy water production plants; and
- (e) production and marketing of radioisotopes and the design, manufacture and marketing of equipment for the utilization of radioisotopes and radiation.

Organization and Programs

The executive offices of AECL are at corporate head office, Ottawa. Also in Ottawa are the head offices of Atomic Energy of Canada Research Company and Atomic Energy of Canada Chemical Company (Commercial Products). Chalk River Nuclear Laboratories and the Whiteshell Nuclear Research Establishment engage in fundamental and applied research in physics, chemistry, biology and medicine, and in engineering development related to design and construction of nuclear power plants.

Atomic Energy of Canada Radiochemical Company (Commercial Products) processes and markets radioactive isotopes for industry and medical diagnosis and treatment, develops new uses for isotopes and manufactures and markets equipment for the application of radiation and radioactive isotopes. Commercial Products operates as a separate, self-supporting, commercial enterprise.

Atomic Energy of Canada Engineering Company is the main engineering group of AECL. It provides design and development engineering, project control, and management for nuclear power plants based on the CANDU (Canada Deuterium Uranium) system. Customers include Ontario Hydro, Hydro-Québec, and New Brunswick Electric Power Commission, as well as overseas utilities.

Atomic Energy of Canada Chemical Company is responsible for the construction and operation of heavy water plants to supply the Canadian nuclear power program. The plant at Glace Bay, N.S., was rehabilitated and purchased from the Province of Nova Scotia and a plant at Port Hawkesbury, N.S., was purchased from Canadian General Electric Company Limited. They are now operated by AECL.

Historical Background

The Eldorado Aviation Limited was established pursuant to the Companies Act in April, 1953. This Crown corporation is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule D); and the Minister of Energy Mines and Resources as the Appropriate Minister (OIC P.C. 1953-1068, July 6, 1953) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. A further Order in Council was issued on September 15 of that year (P.C. 1953-1402), as the 1952 revised statutes had omitted this corporation from Schedule D of the Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The company operates under a Class 5 licence from the Canadian Transport Commission to carry on aerial transportation of personnel and freight and to provide other air services as required under contracts between the company and its parent, Eldorado Nuclear Limited.

Historical Background

The original company, known as Eldorado Gold Mines Limited, carried out exploration activities in the Northwest Territories leading to both the discovery and production of pitchblende at Port Radium, N.W.T., and to the refining of concentrates to produce radium at Port Hope, Ont. In June, 1943, the company changed its name to Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited. (Both companies were incorporated under the Companies Act of Ontario.) On January 28, 1944, the issued and outstanding shares were expropriated and held by the Minister of Munitions and Supplies in trust for His Majesty the King in Right of Canada. Later, Eldorado Mining and Refining (1944) Limited was incorporated under the Companies Act, for the purpose of acquiring the property, assets, and rights, and assuming the obligations and liabilities of Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited.

The Company, a Crown corporation, is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule D) within the meaning and purposes of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1968-1057, May 22, 1969; SOR/69-262). The company is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The objective of Eldorado Nuclear Limited is to make a growing contribution toward satisfying Canadian energy requirements, while maximizing Canada's position in international markets for nuclear fuel used in electrical generating stations. The company has a number of functions: it explores for and develops uranium deposits; mines and concentrates uranium ores; refines uranium concentrates (producing nuclear grade oxides for the CANDU reactor, uranium hexafluoride for ultimate use in foreign reactors, uranium metal and other products) and markets them in Canada and abroad.

Organization and Programs

The organization of the company comprises the following divisions:

Exploration Division

This Ottawa-based division is responsible for increasing the company's uranium reserves and expanding its resource base.

Beaverlodge Operations

Located near Uranium City in northwestern Saskatchewan, the Beaverlodge Operations mine and mill uranium ores to produce uranium concentrates.

Transportation Division

This division, located in Edmonton, consists of a wholly-owned subsidiary, Eldorado Aviation Limited. It provides the main link with the Beaverlodge Operation, transporting personnel, supplies and uranium concentrates.

Refining Division

This division in Port Hope, Ontario, refines uranium concentrates to  $UO_2$ ,  $UO_3$ ,  $UF_6$  and other compounds and metal. It also manufactures other products using depleted and enriched uranium.

Research and Development Division

This division is located in Ottawa and deals with the development and improvement of methods of uranium extraction, uranium refining and environmental protection associated with production operations.

Historical Background

The National Energy Board was established in June, 1959, by the National Energy Board Act (now RSC 1970 c. N-6 as amended). The board is designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1959-1038, Aug 14, 1959).

Overall Responsibilities

Under the National Energy Board Act, the board has two principal roles: to regulate specific areas of the oil, gas and electrical industries in the public interest, and to advise the government on all matters concerned with the development and use of energy resources.

The Act requires the board to regulate many aspects of the energy industries to ensure that the interests of the public are protected. The regulatory role of the board encompasses the following fields:

- (a) the issuance of certificates of public convenience and necessity for interprovincial and international pipelines and international power lines — only federally incorporated companies may be granted a certificate to construct or operate interprovincial and international pipelines. Before permission is granted for construction (through a certificate of public convenience and necessity) the board considers the application at a public hearing. The board may, however, issue orders for relatively minor additions or modifications to pipeline systems or transmission lines without calling a public hearing;
- (b) pipeline utility crossings — for reasons of safety, the protection of the environment and other utilities' services, no pipeline may cross or be crossed by another utility without authorization of the board. Authorization is made by board order, without a public hearing, after consideration of all the relevant information;
- (c) safety regulations — pipeline safety is an important aspect of the board's responsibilities, and high standards are maintained through regulations and orders, and regular on-site inspections by board staff;
- (d) regulation of pipeline tolls, tariffs, accounting practices — the regulation of rates, tolls, and tariffs of pipeline companies under federal jurisdiction is carried out by the board, and the establishment of fair and reasonable rates may involve public hearings. The board, in approving or setting rates or charges for the transportation of oil and gas in a pipeline, seeks to ensure that there is no unjust discrimination against any person or locality;
- (e) the issuance of licences and orders authorizing the export of oil, gas and electric power and the import of gas — in considering applications for export licences, the board is required by the National Energy Board Act to satisfy itself, among other things, that the quantities of energy involved do not exceed the surplus remaining after allowance has been made for reasonably foreseeable Canadian requirements. The board must also be satisfied that the prices charged for exports are just and reasonable in relation to the public interest;
- (f) the control of exports of certain refined oil products, including gasoline-type fuels, middle distillates, propane, butane, heavy fuel oil and partially processed oils — in connection with its advisory role, the board keeps under review all matters relating to energy within the jurisdiction of the Parliament of Canada (including the control, supervision, conservation, use, marketing and development of energy and sources of energy). The board recommends to the Minister any measure that it considers necessary or advisable in the public interest. With respect to this role, the board on its own initiative may hold inquiries into a particular aspect of the energy industry and prepare a report for the information of the Minister and the general public. The board also conducts studies and prepares reports at the request of the Minister.

In addition, the board administers Part I of the Petroleum Administration Act (SC 1974-75 c. 47) effective from April 1, 1974. The board administers and collects petroleum export charges and advises the Minister on the amount collected.

The National Energy Board is a court of record. With regard to attendance, the swearing and examining of witnesses, the producing and inspecting of documents, and the enforcement of its orders, it has all the powers vested in a superior court of record.

Organization and Programs

Nine members, appointed by the Governor in Council, constitute the board. They are appointed for a term of seven years or until the age of 70. Four members are designated as chairman, vice-chairman and two associate vice-chairmen, respectively. Sittings are held at such times and places as necessary.

Under the direction of the chairman, the board has a staff which is organized into nine branches: Administrative Services, Economics, Electric Power, Engineering, Energy Resources, Financial Regulatory, Law, Gas Advisory and Oil Policy.

Operations

The operations facility ensures that the board is provided with the resources necessary to carry out its tasks and further ensures that these resources are utilized effectively and efficiently. This facility also coordinates the work program of the board, as well as inter-branch activities (particularly with reference to the board's regulatory function).

Planning

The planning facility develops the board's national policy recommendations related to both national and international long-term use of energy resources insofar as that use concerns the Government of Canada.

Special Projects

The special projects facility is responsible for the provision of expeditious coordination of advice required by the board to enable it to respond to urgent requests from the Minister, the Cabinet, other departments, the energy industry and the general public.

Historical Background

Petro-Canada was established July 30, 1975, by Act of Parliament (Petro-Canada Act, SC 1974-75-76, c. 61). Operations began January 1, 1976. Petro-Canada took over the Government of Canada's 45 per cent interest in Panarctic Oils Limited, its 15 per cent interest in Syncrude Canada Limited and its commitment to support studies in the Polar Gas Project.

In August, 1976, Petro-Canada acquired Atlantic Richfield Canada Ltd., a production and exploration company with operations in Alberta and northeastern British Columbia.

In April, 1979, Petro-Canada acquired Pacific Petroleum Limited, a production, marketing, refining and exploration company with operations in Western Canada and varying interests overseas.

Overall Responsibilities

Petro-Canada's mandate emphasizes certain goals: to increase the supply of energy available to Canadians; to assist the government in the formulation of its national energy policy; and to increase the Canadian presence in the petroleum industry.

Organization and Programs

Petro-Canada is the largest 100-per-cent Canadian owned company in the oil and gas industry. In 1978, the corporation was involved in 16 of 26 wells drilled in the Canadian frontier. Petro-Canada has a total of 82,000,000 gross acres of permits in the frontier areas.

Petro-Canada is project leader in the Arctic Pilot Project to investigate the feasibility of moving arctic gas to southern markets via liquid natural gas tankers. Application to the National Energy Board for this project was made in January, 1979.

The corporation is also involved in a joint venture to investigate the feasibility of moving western Canadian gas to new markets in Québec and the Maritimes.

Assisting in the completion of the first offshore Arctic well, Petro-Canada is conducting innovative ice movement studies and is working with others to develop a new offshore Arctic drilling system.

As operator of the Petro-Canada, Canada-Cities Service and Imperial Oil project, a large joint venture in the Alberta Oil Sands, it is actively researching and planning the testing of in-situ processes to develop oil sands.

The corporation has also undertaken extensive studies of factors related to heavy oil development.

The corporation is a 15-per-cent participant in Syncrude Canada Limited, holds a 45-per-cent interest in Panarctic Oils Limited, and is continuing to support the Polar Gas Project.

Historical Background

The Department of the Environment was established on June 11, 1971, under Part I of the Government Organization Act, 1970 (SC 1970-71-72 c. 42). The department assumed the powers, duties, and functions of the then Department of Fisheries and Forestry (RSC 1970 c. F-20).

Pursuant to the Public Service Rearrangement and Transfer of Duties Act, (OIC P.C. 1970-2047, 26 Nov 1970; SOR/70-517, 23 Dec 1976, Government Organization Act, 1966), the following powers, duties, and functions were transferred from various departments of government to the then Minister of Fisheries and Forestry:

- (a) from the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development — migratory birds and other wildlife; the Game Export Act; the Migratory Birds Convention Act, and that portion of the department known as the Canadian Wildlife Service;
- (b) from the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources — areas relating to water and to technical surveys within the meaning of the Resources and Technical Surveys Act in respect of water; the International River Improvements Act; the Canada Water Act, and those parts of the department known as the Marines Sciences Branch, the Inland Waters Branch, and the Policy and Planning Branch;
- (c) from the Minister of National Health and Welfare — the enforcement of any rules or regulations made by the International Joint Commission pursuant to the treaty between the United States of America and England insofar as they relate to pollution programs; and those parts of the department known as the Air Pollution Control Division, and the Public Health Engineering Division of the Environmental Health Directorate; and
- (d) from the Minister of Transport — the control and supervision of that part of the department known as the Meteorological Branch of the Air Service.

Overall Responsibilities

The duties, powers, and functions of the Minister of the Environment extend to and include all matters over which the Parliament of Canada has jurisdiction, not by law assigned to any other department, branch, or agency of the Government of Canada, relating to

- (a) renewable resources, including the forest resources of Canada, migratory birds, and other non-domestic flora and fauna;
- (b) water;
- (c) meteorology;
- (d) the protection and enhancement of the quality of the natural environment, including water, air, and soil quality;
- (e) technical surveys within the meaning of the Resources and Technical Surveys Act relating to any matter described in paragraphs (a) to (e); and
- (f) notwithstanding paragraph (f) of section 5 of the Department of National Health and Welfare Act, the enforcement of any rules or regulations made by the International Joint Commission, promulgated pursuant to the treaty between the United States of America and England relating to boundary waters and questions arising between the United States of America and Canada, so far as the same relate to pollution control.

Organization and Programs

The department's principal component is Environmental Services. Various services and advisory functions are provided to the department by Planning and Administration.

In addition there is a Federal Environmental Assessment and Review Office for which the Executive Chairman reports to the deputy minister on administrative matters and to the Minister on program recommendations.

Environmental Services

Environmental Services is comprised of three operational programs dealing respectively with matters relating to meteorology, resource management in terms of water, forests, wildlife and lands, and pollution control.

The Office of the Science Adviser advises senior management on the state of scientific knowledge concerning issues and developments that affect the interests and responsibilities of the department. It assesses the scientific validity of proposals and reviews the likely future needs for policies concerning the environment and renewable resources.

Atmospheric Environment Service

The Atmospheric Environment Service (AES) is a service-oriented, scientific organization which supplies historical, current and predictive meteorological, climatological sea-state, and ice information for all areas of Canada and adjacent waters. National headquarters are at 4905 Dufferin Street, Toronto, Ontario, with facilities for atmospheric research, instrument design and calibration, technical and professional meteorological training, as well as administrative support.

The field programs and services of the AES are directed through six regional offices. These regional centres administer over 50 weather services to the public and special users. Networks are also maintained for obtaining surface and upper-air data on a continuous daily basis. These networks comprise approximately 270 first-order surface observing stations and over 3,000 climatological stations.

Advice and consultation on the impact of weather on human activities are supplied to a wide range of weather sensitive industries and enterprises including aviation services, construction, forestry, agriculture, marine services, recreation and tourism, resource management, fisheries and many others. Information concerning sea-state and ice conditions is provided to marine traffic in ice-congested waters, companies engaged in off-shore oil exploration, and agencies concerned with flood control and the operation of hydro-electric dams.

Research on the quality and behavior of the atmosphere includes such areas as atmospheric processes, inter-environmental reactions, air quality, meteorological aspects of noise intensity and propagation, wind wave mechanisms, and the dynamics of ice in navigable waters. In addition to continuing research in direct support of weather forecasting, observing systems and long-term trends in atmospheric conditions with their impact on Canada's climate receive special attention. AES also participates in the formulation of national air quality objectives and provides assessments of the impact of human activities on the atmospheric environment. Meteorological research at Canadian universities is supported by AES grants.

AES has special commitments to the Department of Transport and the Department of National Defence to provide, on a priority basis, meteorological, sea-state and ice information services to meet ever changing transportation and military needs.

Internationally, AES actively supports the World Meteorological Organization through effective participation in the planning and implementation of international scientific and operational programs. AES also provides technical assistance, consultation and advice in support of the Canadian International Development Agency's programs to assist individual nations.

Environmental Management Service

The Environmental Management Service focuses on a comprehensive approach to environmental and resource management. The staff directors-general of its four operational units, the Canadian Forestry Service, Inland Waters Directorate, Canadian Wildlife Service, and the Lands Directorate, are responsible for planning their national programs. The regional director-general of each of its five regions is responsible for directing, managing, and supervising the Environmental Management Service components within his region. The Policy and Program Development Directorate assists in developing and applying the concept of an integrated Environmental Management Service. This form of management enables the service to provide the five diverse regions with the specific, integrated environmental management information suited to each. At the same time, on a national basis, the Environmental Management Service secures baseline data, participates in the Environmental Assessment and Review Process and provides an integrated approach for problem-solving.

Policy and Program Development Directorate

The directorate is concerned with the coordination and integration of the broad range of interests in the Environmental Management Service. It provides a unified approach to environmental concerns and ensures that the inter-relationships are considered in resource management problems. It is responsible for advice and formulation of policy developments pertaining to environmental management, and for the development of planning and program evaluation systems.

Canadian Forestry Service

This service is engaged in a number of major research activities to promote the effective management and use of the forest resources of the nation.

The service conducts research to improve forest productivity. Studies of soils, fertilizers, genetics and tree biology provide information for improvements in forest management. Methods are sought for increasing forest yields and improving harvesting and reforestation practices. Studies are also conducted to improve techniques for determining the size, growth, and yield of forests. Inventory information is made available to industries and provincial and federal government agencies. Forest management assistance is provided on federal lands administered by other departments and agencies such as Indian Affairs and Northern Development, National Defence, and the National Capital Commission.

A national survey of forest insects and diseases is conducted annually. Extensive research is being conducted on methods to combat destructive insects and diseases. Forest fire researchers are studying methods of fire suppression, forest flammability measurement, improved techniques of fire protection and safer and more effective methods for burning slash (an open tract in a forest strewn with debris).

Economic studies are made of forest resources, forest industries, and forest products marketing.

Forest Products Research laboratories in Ottawa and Vancouver assist in developing new uses for wood and improving present utilization techniques. Research is conducted on the properties and behaviour of wood, protection of wood in use, structural applications, sawmilling, veneering, secondary conversion of wood, chemical composition, utilization of derivatives, pulping processes, packaging, gluing and composite products.

The federal government participates in a number of shared-cost programs with industry aimed at developing new knowledge and more effective methods of dealing with problems inherent to the forest industry. It also provides funding to universities and other research agencies undertaking programs of research and development in fields relevant to the protection, management, and utilization of the forest resource in Canada.

Inland Waters Directorate

The directorate plans and participates in national and international water resource management programs.

The directorate is responsible for national policies concerning water quality and water quantity, and national policies, and functional direction for comprehensive river basin studies under the Canada Water Act. The directorate cooperates with the provinces and the United States in developing joint programs for water resource management, and flood damage reduction.

The Canada Centre for Inland Waters at Burlington, Ontario is the major national freshwater research and survey centre for the Department of the Environment. The centre undertakes research in the natural and social sciences.

Canadian Wildlife Service (CWS)

This service is primarily responsible for the administration of the Migratory Birds Convention Act. In consultation with the provinces and territories the service revises annually the Migratory Birds Regulations, which govern open seasons on migratory game birds, and issues hunting permits under the Act. It also protects migratory bird populations in about 80 migratory birds sanctuaries covering 43,000 square miles. The CWS has acquired important migratory bird habitat and has created over 40 National Wildlife Areas.

Under the authority of the Canada Wildlife Act, the CWS assists the provinces and territories with wildlife programs and enters into agreements with them to solve wildlife problems. It advises on wildlife management problems in the national parks and cooperates with other agencies in dealing with national and international problems such as protection of endangered species and the control of international trade in wildlife.

Lands Directorate

The primary responsibility of the directorate is to provide expertise and technical assistance in the areas of land use planning in environmental programs and cross-mission studies. The directorate also has certain coordinating responsibilities with respect to the federal position on land-use policies. Its functions have been divided into two branches.

The Land Data and Evaluation Branch conducts various national and regional mapping programs such as the Canada Land Inventory, and specialized resources mapping programs such as the Northern Land-Use Information Map Series. Within this branch, a computerized land management information system has been established to permit rapid retrieval and analyses of the Canada Land Inventory and related data.

The Policy Research and Coordination Branch carries out research into the social, economic and environmental determinants of land use in support of land-use policy development and implementation. It conducts or participates in specific planning studies. It provides planning assistance and expertise to other agencies engaged in land-use planning programs and is also responsible for research and implementation of land-use planning systems.

Environmental Protection Service

The role of the Environmental Protection Service is to direct appropriate federal response to Canada's pollution problems — to develop and enforce regulations, guidelines, and other control and prevention measures to effectively combat and roll back any deterioration of Canada's environment. Service programs are managed by three directorates at head office and implemented through five regional offices.

Air Pollution Control Directorate

The objective of the directorate is to define the air pollution problem, to promote the attainment of desirable air quality levels, and to control the emissions of air contaminants that are deemed to be a significant danger to health or the environment.

The Air Pollution Programs Branch carries out the surveillance of air pollution in Canada, collects information regarding sources of air pollution, conducts source and area surveys and studies, assesses social and economic effects of air pollution control regulations and programs, ensures the development of air pollution control regulations and guidelines, and develops cooperative federal-provincial and international programs.

The Abatement and Compliance Branch assesses pollution emissions, emission controls, and abatement methods, to establish the technical basis for the development of air pollution control regulations and guidelines. The Technology Development Branch fosters the development and demonstration of air pollution control technology.

Water Pollution Control Directorate

The directorate's objective is to define the water pollution problem, and to promote the attainment of water quality adequate to support healthy aquatic communities as well as maximum diversity of other uses.

The Abatement and Compliance Branch designs technical solutions to water pollution problems, for developing appropriate regulatory instruments, and for ensuring equitable enforcement of them across Canada.

The Technology Development Branch conducts programs aimed at developing new Canadian technology for pollution control and getting it into use as quickly as possible. The branch manages the activities of the Wastewater Technology Centre at the Canada Centre for Inland Waters in Burlington, Ontario.

The Water Pollution Programs Branch coordinates programs of pollution abatement in specific areas, under federal-provincial or international agreements.

Environmental Impact Control Directorate

The responsibilities of this directorate include environmental contaminants control, solid waste management, environmental emergencies, and the cleanup and prevention of any pollution resulting from federal activities.

The objectives of the Contaminants Control Branch are to limit the entry of contaminants into the environment and to manage the disposal of hazardous materials.

The Waste Management Branch's objective is to minimize the environmental impact of solid wastes and to maximize resource recovery and conservation by the recycling and re-use of wastes for optimum social and economic benefit.

The Environmental Emergencies Branch's objective is to prevent environmental pollution from spills of pollutants, and to ensure the immediate and environmentally safe cleanup and disposal of spills.

The objective of the Federal Activities Environmental Branch is to ensure the protection of the environment from any federal activity or from any enterprise funded by, owned by, or under the jurisdiction of the federal government.

Parks Canada

This program is divided into three activity branches — National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites, and Agreements for Recreation and Conservation (ARC).

National Parks

The National Parks of Canada are areas preserved for and dedicated to the people of Canada for their continuing benefit, education, and enjoyment; they are administered under the National Parks Act.

Program functions with respect to parks include:

- (a) the formulation, review, and updating of policy within the intent and framework of the Act;
- (b) research and planning to identify the most suitable features of Canadian topography, flora and fauna; and
- (c) the initiation and implementation of programs to provide services designed to enhance public enjoyment of the parks.

National Historic Parks and Sites

This program is administered under the Historic Sites and Monuments Act, and the National Parks Act. The branch develops, interprets, operates, and maintains historic parks and sites.

Agreements for Recreation and Conservation (ARC)

This branch administers the Agreements for Recreation and Conservation (originally introduced as the Byways and Special Places Program). Conservation of the natural and cultural history is achieved by federal-provincial agreements to preserve heritage areas of natural and cultural value.

Field Operations

Parks Canada administers the following National Parks: Auyuittug Island, Banff, Cape Breton Highlands, Elk Island, Forillon, Fundy, Georgian Bay Islands, Glacier, Gros-Morne, Jasper, Kejimikujik, Kluane, Kootenay, Kouchibouguac, La Mauricie, Mount Revelstoke, Nahanni, Pacific Rim, Point Pelee, Prince Albert, Prince Edward Island, Pukaskwa, Riding Mountain, St. Lawrence Islands, Terra Nova, Waterton Lakes, Wood Buffalo, Yoho.

There are more than 80 national historic parks and major sites which are in operation, 48 of which are at varying degrees of development. Added to this are more than 650 plaques, monuments, and cairns which mark historic events, persons, or places.

There are nine historically significant canal systems: the Rideau, Trent-Severn, Sault Ste. Marie, and Murray in Ontario; the Carillon, and Ste. Anne Canals on the Ottawa River; the St. Ours, and Chambly on the Richelieu in Québec; and the St. Peters in Nova Scotia.

Planning and Administration

This service is comprised of two major elements, those directorates that are dedicated to policy support and those providing common services.

Policy support activities provide senior management with a departmental overview intended to contribute to the coherence of the department's diverse range of activities and responsibilities. These activities also involve the collection and interpretation of information on the environmental and renewable resource related activities of other agencies and governments, and frequently the representation of the department at interdepartmental and intergovernmental meetings.

Common services activities include the development of policies, procedures and systems in support of all departmental elements. These activities provide the interface with central agencies such as Treasury Board and the Public Service Commission but also include the provision of facilities management, library services, computing and applied statistics services and emergency planning.

Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office

The Federal Environmental Assessment and Review Process was established to ensure that: environmental effects are taken into account as early as possible in federal programs, projects and activities; environmental assessments are carried out before irrevocable decisions are made that could have an adverse effect on the environment; and the results of assessments are used in planning decision-making and implementation. Federal agencies are obliged to screen their activities, and, if it is found that an activity may have significant adverse effects, it must be referred by the agency to the Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office for a formal review by an independent panel. After an environmental impact statement is prepared based on panel guidelines, the document is subjected to full public review. Then, following a study of all the evidence presented, the panel recommends to the Minister of the Environment what action should be taken.

Assistant Under-Secretaries

Historical Background

The department was established in 1909 by An Act to create a department of External Affairs. The department was presided over by the Secretary of State of Canada (who was also ex officio the Registrar General of Canada). In 1912, the Office of the Secretary of State for External Affairs was created by statute and the Prime Minister was to hold office ex officio. This relationship terminated in 1946 with the passage of the Department of External Affairs Act (now RSC 1970 c. E-20).

Overall Responsibilities

The main functions of the department are:

- (a) the supervision of relations between Canada and other countries and of Canadian participation in international organizations; and the protection and promotion of Canadian interests abroad;
- (b) the collection, collation and evaluation of information regarding developments likely to affect Canada's international relations;
- (c) correspondence with other governments and their representatives in Canada;
- (d) the negotiation and conclusion of treaties and other international agreements;
- (e) the representation of Canada in foreign countries and at international conferences;
- (f) assistance to Canadians travelling abroad; and
- (g) the reflection abroad of the creativity and quality of Canadian learning and culture;

Organization and Programs

The headquarters organization of the department is divided into four areas: Under-Secretariat Group, Area Bureaux, Functional Bureaux, Administrative Bureaux.

Under-Secretarial Group

The under-secretary, as deputy head, bears general responsibility for departmental policy and operations. He is assisted by five deputy under-secretaries who have line responsibility for the five major sectors of departmental operations — political, economic, administrative, security and intelligence, coordination and public affairs — and provide a clear focus for both day-to-day operations and policy formulation and implementation. They are assisted by four assistant under-secretaries who do not carry line responsibilities but can take charge of management of individual major issues to ensure timeliness and effectiveness.

The basic unit within the department is the bureau. Five bureaux are responsible for Canada's relations with countries in a given geographic area. Eight "functional" bureaux are responsible for such issues as legal, United Nations and public affairs; defence and disarmament; energy, economics and trade; security and intelligence, consular services and the passport office. There are also four administrative bureaux.

Press Office

The head of this office serves as spokesman for the Minister and the department in communications with the news media. He provides the official position on Canadian foreign policy. The Press Office issues press communiqués, prepares press conferences and briefings, makes arrangements for Canadian journalists at home and abroad and assists foreign journalists accompanying official visitors to Canada. It also provides posts with a regular press scan of major national and international news. In addition, the office assists foreign correspondents, residing in Canada and in the United States, who cover Canada on a permanent basis.

Operations Centre

This centre was set up to improve the ability of the department and the government to react quickly and to alert ministers and officials to reports and events of immediate significance to Canada. The centre is also responsible for the departmental telephone enquiry service, as well as a variety of telecommunications services.

Policy Planning Secretariat

The secretariat assists the Under-Secretarial Group in evaluating the effectiveness of current policies in the light of changing international and domestic circumstances, planning new directions in policy and strengthening the department's role in the management of Canada's foreign relations.

Bureau of Intelligence Analysis and Security

The Intelligence Analysis Division has two main functions: liaison with other departments and governments for the exchange and dissemination of intelligence and the production of current and long term intelligence assessments.

The Security Division is responsible for all matters relating to the security and personal safety of the department's personnel, property and documents, both in Ottawa and abroad, and liaison with the R.C.M.P. and the Solicitor General on national security questions involving foreign relations.

Office of the Chief of Protocol

The office handles the accreditation and appointment of foreign diplomatic and consular representatives to Canada and heads of Canadian diplomatic and consular missions to other countries. This involves questions of diplomatic and consular privileges and immunities of both foreign representatives in Canada and Canadian representatives abroad. The office plans, organizes, and manages state and official visits to Canada and ceremonial and hospitality aspects dealing with the Diplomatic Corps in Ottawa and the various Consular Corps in principal Canadian cities.

Audit and Evaluation

This service, which replaces the former Inspection Service, is responsible for carrying out systematic and independent financial audits and evaluations of the operations of the department's headquarters and of the regional passport offices across Canada, and for financial audits at posts abroad. Independent reviews and appraisals of the effectiveness of Canada's foreign service operations at the posts abroad are now the responsibility of the Interdepartmental Committee on External Relations' Inspection Service.

Secretariat for Interdepartmental Committee on External Relations

The secretariat supports the committee of deputy ministers established to advise the government through the Secretary of State for External Affairs on such matters as the formulation of broad policy for foreign operations, the harmonization of department or agency "country plans", the allocation of resources for the conduct of programs abroad, program implementation and personnel policies for foreign operations.

Chief Air Negotiator

The chief air negotiator is responsible for the conduct of bilateral intergovernmental negotiations in the field of civil aviation. He reports to the interdepartmental committee on civil aviation, which is responsible for civil aviation policy and for making recommendations to the Minister of Transport and the Secretary of State for External Affairs.

Area Bureaux

The "area divisions" are distributed among the bureaux of:

- (a) African and Middle Eastern Affairs; 3
- (b) Asian and Pacific Affairs; 3
- (c) European Affairs; 3
- (d) Latin American and Caribbean Affairs; and 2
- (e) United States Affairs. 2

The Bureau of African and Middle Eastern Affairs includes: African Affairs (Anglophone) Division, African Affairs (Francophone and Maghreb) Division and Middle Eastern Division. The Bureau of Asian and Pacific Affairs includes three divisions: Pacific, Northeast Asian and South Asia Affairs. The Bureau of European Affairs includes three divisions: Europe I (Eastern), Europe II (EEC) and Europe III. The Bureau of Latin America and Caribbean Affairs includes the Latin America and Caribbean divisions. The Bureau of United States Affairs includes two divisions, General Relations and Transboundary Relations.

Functional Bureaux

Corresponding to the area bureaux are a number of bureaux organized on a functional basis: Commercial and Commodity Relations; Development, Industry and Science Relations; Defence and Arms Control Affairs; Legal Affairs; Consular Services; United Nations Affairs; Public Affairs; and Coordination.

Bureau of Commercial and Commodity Relations

The Commercial and General Economic Policy Division has the principal responsibility within the department for the development of Canadian commercial policy. As such it is responsible for multilateral trade negotiations, development of trade policy, import policy questions, and agricultural or industrial trade issues. It coordinates Canadian policy toward the General Agreements on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and provides the Secretary of the Interdepartmental Committee on Commercial Policy. The division is also responsible for the development of Canadian international economic policy and liaises with the Department of Finance and the Bank of Canada on international economic and monetary questions. It coordinates Canadian interests in the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) and also Canadian positions for economic summit meetings and dialogue with developing countries. In this latter respect, the division has coordinating responsibilities for Canadian interests in the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) and provides the Secretary of the Interdepartmental Committee on External Relations with Developing Countries. The division is the principal focus in the department for relations with the Canadian Export Association, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Canadian Business and Industry International Advisory Committee, and Canadian labour organizations.

The Commodity and Energy Policy Division is concerned with the external relations of Canada's commodity and energy policies — bilateral and multilateral energy questions, negotiations concerning nuclear energy and safeguards, conventional energy (oil, natural gas and coal), and new forms of energy. The division is also concerned with the International Atomic Energy Agency, responsible for implementing safeguards under Canadian nuclear agreements, the International Energy Agency, in which energy policy coordination with other industrialized countries takes place, and the OECD Nuclear Energy Agency.

The division monitors international developments affecting both mineral and agricultural commodities and participates along with other interested departments, in the formation of Canadian commodity policy. The division coordinates Canadian participation in meetings of international commodity organizations and in international discussions and negotiations, in UNCTAD and elsewhere, on individual commodities and on the common fund.

Bureau of Development, Industry and Science Relations

The bureau is concerned with foreign policy in the fields of international development and export financing, investment and competition policy, industrial, scientific and environmental cooperation, and space and transportation policies including air relations.

The Development and Export Financing Policy Division provides a focus for aid-policy questions and is a channel for consultation with the Canadian International Development Agency. It provides liaison with the Export Development Corporation and the International Development Research Centre. It supplies representation at relevant interdepartmental consultations on aid questions and helps to staff Canadian delegations to international aid conferences, (such as the Colombo Plan Consultative Committee, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, the United Nations Development Program, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, and the regional development banks to which Canada belongs).

The Industry, Investment and Competition Policy Division, established in 1977, is responsible for defining industrial cooperation policies with developed and developing countries at both the bilateral and the multilateral levels. The responsibilities of the division also include policy questions relating to foreign investment, the role of multinational enterprises, the protection of intellectual and industrial property, competition policy, policy for the export of military equipment and fisheries commensurate benefit policy.

The responsibilities of the Science, Environment and Transportation Policy Division are the formulation and coordination of Canada's international scientific, environmental, transportation, telecommunications and space policies and activities in collaboration with the appropriate departments and agencies.

Bureau of Defence and Arms Control Affairs

The direct relation between foreign and defence policies requires close liaison with other departments, particularly the Department of National Defence. The Secretary of State for External Affairs is the Chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Foreign and Defence Policy, the meetings of which are usually attended by the under-secretary or officials from the department. The coordination of Canadian foreign and defence policies in connection with Canada's participation in North American defence, Canadian membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, peacekeeping operations and other military activities abroad is carried out through a variety of interdepartmental groups in which the department is represented. The department is also represented on several senior departmental bodies that advise on various aspects of defence policy. The bureau is responsible for providing advice and recommendations to the Minister and senior management of the department on foreign policy considerations which bear on defence policy.

The director general of the bureau is a member of the Canadian section of the Canada-United States Permanent Joint Board on Defence and the bureau provides the secretary of the Canadian section.

The bureau represents the department on interdepartmental groups charged with responsibility for recommendations on and coordination of Canadian policies concerned with the management of nuclear and conventional forces maintained by the members of NATO and the Warsaw Pact.

The Defence Relations Division coordinates departmental views and prepares guidance for the departmental representatives on interdepartmental bodies, as well as providing advice on the defence aspects of Canada's bilateral relations with various countries. In particular, it is the responsibility of the officers of the North American and NATO Sections of this division to coordinate the preparation of instructions for the Canadian Permanent Delegation to the North Atlantic Council in Brussels, and briefs for the twice-yearly meetings of the council in ministerial sessions. The division provides the secretary for the Canadian section of the Canada-U.S. Permanent Joint Board on Defence, which meets three times a year.

The Military Assistance and Peacekeeping Section coordinates Canadian military-training assistance to newly-independent countries and cooperates with the Department of National Defence in international peacekeeping matters, (including the Canadian military contribution to the United Nations). This section also is responsible for Canada's relations with Cyprus. In addition, it assists in making arrangements for naval visits, clearances for military aircraft, and the employment of Canadian Forces personnel or equipment in international relief operations abroad.

The Office of the Adviser on Disarmament and Arms Control Affairs develops advice and recommendations concerning government policies and positions in negotiations and deliberations to control and stop the arms race. It acts in close consultation with the Defence Relations Division and with the Directorate of Arms Control Policy of the Department of National Defence. The office prepares instructions, in consultation with other bureaux, agencies and departments, for Canadian representatives to the Committee on Disarmament in Geneva, the First Committee of the United Nations General Assembly and the United Nations Disarmament Commission. The office also assists in the formulation of Canadian policies on arms control questions in NATO. In consultation with other divisions and with the Department of National Defence, the office is also responsible for the arms control aspects of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe (CSCE).

The Adviser on Disarmament and Arms Control Affairs, Mr. G.A.H. Pearson, represents Canada at meetings of the United Nations and other disarmament bodies, including the First Committee of the United Nations General Assembly. In addition, the adviser serves as a point of contact for those individuals and institutions, both within the government and outside, who are interested or involved in disarmament and arms control matters.

Bureau of Legal Affairs

The functions of this bureau are:

- (a) to advise the department and the Government of Canada on matters of international law;
- (b) to contribute to the progressive development of international law in the light of Canadian interests;
- (c) to ensure the development and execution of Canadian foreign policy in accordance with recognized or developing principles of international law; and
- (d) to initiate, through appropriate consultation, reviews of established Canadian policy in the field of international legal affairs in the light of domestic and international developments and changing Canadian interests.

The Legal Advisory Division is divided into three sections.

The Economic Section advises on legal issues arising in Canada's economic and trade relations with other countries and in international meetings held under the auspices of organizations such as GATT, OECD and UNCTAD.

The Treaty Section advises on treaty-interpretation questions, assists in the preparation and interpretation of international agreements, ensures that treaties entered into by Canada are concluded in accordance with Canada's international and domestic legal obligations, maintains treaty records, registers treaties with the United Nations, and publishes treaties in the Canada Treaty Series.

The Advisory Section has specific responsibilities in the field of extradition and diplomatic and consular privileges and immunities. It also provides a general advisory service.

The Legal Operations Division serves as the operational arm of the department for a number of international legal activities, many of which are closely connected with the United Nations and other international organizations. The division has four sections.

The Law of the Sea Section is responsible for developing and coordinating policy for Canadian participation at the ongoing United Nations Law of the Sea Conference and deals with maritime legal questions, including territorial waters, fishing zones and the continental shelf, questions of Arctic sovereignty, the peaceful uses of the seabed and its resources beyond the limits of national jurisdiction.

The Environmental and Fisheries Law Section, in cooperation with other interested departments, promotes Canadian interests on the numerous international fisheries commissions and in international bodies concerned with the environment, such as the United Nations Environment Program (UNEP) and the Inter-Governmental Maritime Consultative Organization (IMCO), and participates in the bilateral and multilateral negotiation of agreements relating to fisheries and to the enhancement and protection of the environment.

The United Nations and Legal Planning Section has general responsibility for all United Nations legal issues, including humanitarian law, air and space law and terrorism, as well as coordinating departmental relations with the international law academic community in Canada.

The Private International Law Section facilitates cooperation between Canada and foreign jurisdictions for the service of documents, rogatory commissions and other matters related to private legal proceedings.

Bureau of Consular Services

The bureau coordinates consular activities through 115 posts abroad to assist Canadians living or travelling outside of Canada.

The Consular Operations Division is concerned with day-to-day consular cases abroad (assistance to Canadians); contingency planning; applications for diplomatic and official visas, as well as for visitor's visas from certain countries; registration of Canadians abroad and responses to enquiries from the public about travel abroad. A member of this division acts as the representative for the department on the Refugee Status Advisory Committee.

The Consular Policy Division receives and analyzes consular reports and statistics; negotiates consular conventions and multilateral and bilateral agreements; monitors legislative developments which affect the status of Canadian citizens abroad; provides the link with other government departments (e.g. Immigration and the Registrar of Canadian Citizenship); trains consular personnel; provides appropriate, timely, instructions to posts abroad; recommends appointment of honorary consuls; evaluates services provided, maintains liaison with the travel industry in Canada and provides advice on questions about consular activities. Consular Policy Division annually publishes an information booklet for Canadian travellers entitled "Bon Voyage, but. . ."

Passport Office

The passport office issues passports to Canadian citizens through the main passport office in Ottawa and through regional offices in Montréal, Toronto, Vancouver, Halifax, Winnipeg and Edmonton. Abroad the service is provided through Canadian diplomatic missions and consul and trade offices. Certificates of identity are issued in Canada to certain legally landed, eligible non-Canadians. United Nations Refugee Travel Documents are also issued in Canada to persons eligible under the United Nations Refugee Convention.

Bureau of United Nations Affairs

This bureau provides advice on and coordinates the implementation of Canadian policy towards the United Nations and the related "family" of specialized agencies and other bodies. A major function of the bureau and its divisions is to assist in the appointment, briefing, and coordination of the work of Canadian delegates who participate in these bodies that offer an opportunity to advance Canadian policy objectives. In addition, the bureau has a variety of operational responsibilities and serves as the headquarters link with the Permanent Missions in Geneva and New York, as well as with other Canadian missions in respect of the UN tasks they perform. The bureau has special responsibility in respect of all departmental activities in the field of human rights and refugees.

The United Nations Political and Institutional Affairs Division assesses, on a continuing basis, the political implications of developments in the Security Council, the General Assembly, other UN organs and the specialized agencies. It also examines and coordinates Canadian policy and activities regarding the institutional development of the United Nations system and the coordination of administrative, personnel management, financial and budgetary matters throughout the United Nations family of organizations.

The United Nations Social and Humanitarian Affairs Division is responsible for coordinating Canadian international policy and activity relating to social questions, human rights, refugees and humanitarian and emergency assistance.

Bureau of Information

This bureau brings together departmental management activities involving the public or sections of the public at home and abroad.

The Domestic Information Programs Division informs Canadians about the department, Canadian foreign policy and international relations.

The division utilizes a broad range of information and communications techniques — speaking tours, conferences and seminars, visits abroad, films, audio tapes, media programs, posters, booklets and other publications — to reach the general public and high school students. It also organizes tours of the Pearson Building and briefings on foreign policy issues for visitors, answers enquiries of a general nature from the public, and distributes information material upon request on subjects related to Canadian foreign policy.

The External Information Programs Division has two main functions: to disseminate abroad a knowledge and understanding of Canada and of the Canadian people; and to provide information on Canada's policies to citizens of other countries. Emphasis is placed on reaching journalists and other opinion formers abroad, both by supplying posts with background documentation, illustrated articles and photostories for use with the foreign press, and by providing fact-finding visits to Canada to selected journalists and other appropriate individuals.

In addition, a full range of basic information techniques is used. The division issues a wide variety of publications on Canada in several languages, and prepares exhibits for circulation abroad. Films, television programs, records, transcriptions and radio programs are distributed. Background materials are also prepared for the use of post officers in meeting speaking engagements. The division also undertakes special projects such as "Canada Weeks", multi-media events illustrating particular themes, public relations projects focusing on major policy issues, the development of the public relations aspects of ministerial visits abroad, and the celebration of important anniversaries and international events.

The World Exhibitions Program represents Canada at the International Bureau of Exhibitions in Paris and acts as a liaison between the two. It coordinates the handling of invitations to take part in world exhibitions; determines interdepartmental interest; and makes recommendations. It also provides for the organization and direction of Canadian participation in world exhibitions.

Bureau of International Cultural Relations

The bureau comprises the Cultural Affairs Division, the Academic Relations Division and the Historical Division. It is responsible for the conduct of cultural relations between Canada and other countries occurring through intergovernmental channels. Its programs are designed to support the achievement of Canada's short and long-term foreign policy objectives. Emphasis is on activities in countries of priority interest to Canada both within the framework of formal cultural agreements and under less structured bilateral arrangements.

The Cultural Affairs Division maintains liaison with other federal agencies such as the Canada Council and the National Museums Corporation as well as private organizations and cultural ministries of the provinces in the promotion abroad of professional performing artists, exhibitions of Canadian art, book donations, participation in film festivals and seminars on Canadian culture. It has specific responsibility for the governmental aspects of Canada's membership in the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) and provides departmental liaison with the Canadian National Commission for UNESCO. The international activities of the Canadian sports community are facilitated by the sports relations program.

The Academic Relations Division works to develop an informed, well-disposed and sustained interest in Canada as a whole among members of the academic community outside of Canada in certain selected countries. This is done in large part by assisting, in a variety of ways, teaching and research under the general heading of Canadian studies. The division also works to foster understanding and cooperation between the department and academics, universities and international groups in Canada interested in the study and discussion of international relations and in the long-term formulation of Canadian foreign policy. The division also manages a post-graduate scholarship program for foreign nationals from developed countries and academic exchange programs with the Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China. It provides liaison with the Council of Ministers of Education on international education matters.

The Historical Division is responsible for the archive activities of the department; for historical work in the realm of foreign affairs; and for the preparation of background material on international issues for use in the department. The division deals with requests for access to departmental records from scholars studying Canada's external relations and assists them in their research when possible. It also conducts the department's program of oral history.

One of the major tasks of this division is the compilation and editing of state papers in the continuing series entitled Documents on Canadian External Relations (nine volumes of which have already been published). The tenth volume will appear shortly.

The division is currently preparing a history of the department since its establishment in 1909. The department plans to publish this work in two volumes for its 75th anniversary in 1984.

Bureau of Coordination

This bureau coordinates and develops policies concerning provincial participation in Canada's international relations and Canada's role in the institutions and activities of the Commonwealth and of La Francophonie. It comprises three divisions: Federal-Provincial Coordination, Commonwealth Institutions, Francophone Institutions.

The Federal-Provincial Coordination Division is engaged in the following activities:

- (a) developing policy options in the area of provincial involvement in international activities;
- (b) consulting with other departments and agencies to ensure that account is taken of provincial interests abroad;
- (c) consulting with the provinces with respect to specific issues between Canada and foreign countries when these touch on areas of provincial or joint federal-provincial jurisdiction;
- (d) assuming major departmental responsibility for coordinating the analysis of the national unity issue as it affects Canada's foreign policy and international relations;
- (e) seeking to ensure that provincial aid projects are coordinated within the framework of the federal government's policies under CIDA; and
- (f) assisting in making arrangements for visits abroad by provincial representatives as well as for visits of foreign representatives to the provinces.

The Commonwealth Institutions Division has general responsibility for coordination of Canada's overall policy to the Commonwealth and its subsidiary and related bodies. In particular, it is responsible for coordinating Canadian participation in Commonwealth heads of government and senior officials meetings. The division also plays an advisory role for ministerial and other Commonwealth conferences and serves as a focal point for communications with the Commonwealth Secretariat.

Its main function, in conjunction with other divisions of the department and with other departments and agencies of the government, is to advise on Canada's participation in Commonwealth programs and activities and to coordinate the implementation of government policies in relation to the Commonwealth as a whole. It also has an advisory function in relation to Canadian involvement with the more than 250 non-governmental institutions, associations and organizations associated with the Commonwealth.

The Francophone Institutions Division has general responsibility for the multilateral aspects of Canada's relations with French-speaking countries. It assists in formulating and implementing Canadian policy on multilateral relations between these countries and in coordinating the Canadian contribution to their aid programs. Thus the division is responsible for handling all aspects of the Canadian presence in La Francophonie (i.e. the cultural community of the world's French-speaking countries). Among other things it establishes and coordinates Canadian participation in various meetings and events of an official or semi-official nature taking place in these countries.

The division establishes Canadian participation, and coordinates policy, at various intergovernmental conferences or within organizations of the francophone countries. In particular, it handles Canada's participation in the Agency for Cultural and Technical Cooperation, of which Canada is a founding member. It coordinates formulation of the Canadian viewpoint at discussions of agencies of this organization, and establishes the broadest possible balanced participation by Canada in the agency's programs and activities — both those involving multilateral action and those taking place in Canada itself. At the private level, it performs a role of liaison and support in international associations and organizations of a private nature within the French-speaking world community, in order to ensure effective and representative Canadian participation.

Administrative Bureaux

These bureaux, which constitute the rest of the headquarters bureaux structure are: Communications and General Services; Finance and Management Services; and Personnel, and Physical Resources.

Posts Abroad

Canada's diplomatic missions and consular offices form an integral part of the department. Heads of diplomatic and consular posts report to and receive their instructions from the Minister.

The diplomatic staff of an embassy consists of the ambassador, assisted by one or more foreign service officers, who may also be assigned consular duties to the extent required by the volume of consular work. Where separate consular offices exist, they operate under the general supervision of the head of the diplomatic mission in the country, while receiving instructions in matters of detail from the appropriate division in the department.

In some cases, officers of other departments of the Government of Canada — commercial, immigration, military, naval, air or others — are attached to missions. Though responsible to their departmental heads in Ottawa, they also work under the general supervision and direction of the mission.

In essence, the work of a mission is: to conduct negotiations with the government to which it is accredited; to keep the Government of Canada fully informed of political or other developments of significance in the country in which it is serving; to watch over Canada's interests in the country; to serve Canadians in the country; and to make information about Canada available to the public.

Historical Background

The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) began as the Economic and Technical Assistance Branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce. Pursuant to the Public Service Re-arrangement and Transfer of Duties Act, the functions of the branch were transferred to the Department of External Affairs on Nov. 1, 1960 (OIC P.C. 1960-1476), and in particular to the External Aid Office. The office was designated a department (OIC 1968-923, 8 May 1968), the Secretary of State for External Affairs as the appropriate minister (OIC P.C. 1968-1028), within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. Order in Council 1968-1760, of Sept. 12, 1968 authorized the name of the External Aid Office to be changed to the Canadian International Development Agency, and the External Aid Board to that of the Canadian International Development Board. The order also asserted that these new titles (including that of President) be changed on the 1960 order insofar as all existing orders in council, Treasury Board minutes, and other official documents which concern the organization, operations, and administration of Canada's aid program.

Overall Responsibilities

CIDA operates and administers Canada's official international development assistance program in about 80 developing nations in Asia, Africa, the Commonwealth Caribbean, and Latin America. Through the minister, it advises the Government of Canada on the formulation of international assistance policies and on the appropriate level of its contribution to international development agencies. CIDA also exists as a forum for interdepartmental and intergovernmental discussions on international cooperation and maintains liaison with provincial governments and professional associations in the recruiting of advisers for overseas assignments with CIDA. Overseas, it is linked with developing countries through Canadian diplomatic posts and serves as Canada's representative on various consultative and aid coordinating institutions set up by the international community.

Organization and Programs

Major policy changes are referred to the Canadian International Development Board, which consists of the Under Secretary of State for External Affairs, the deputy ministers of Finance and Industry, Trade and Commerce, the Governor of the Bank of Canada, the Secretary of the Treasury Board Secretariat, and the President of the International Development Research Centre, and meets under the chairmanship of CIDA's president.

The direction and volume of Canada's assistance programs are determined by Cabinet. All major programs and projects are referred to the ministerial level for approval.

Policy Branch

The branch provides CIDA management with analyses and options on major policies and orientations; develops and manages an annual planning cycle for CIDA as a whole, and evaluates the effectiveness of CIDA's program. The branch has developed a capability for longer-range planning, and provides analyses of government policies related to development outside the aid program. The branch develops policies in the area of multidimensional issues and represents the Canadian position in international discussions. Coordination with relevant groups within Canada are handled by a Federal-Provincial Relations unit.

Bilateral Programs Branch

This branch develops and implements CIDA's assistance programs on a country-to-country basis in Asia, Africa, Commonwealth Caribbean, and Latin America. Within each of its area divisions — Asia, Commonwealth Africa, Franco-phone Africa, Commonwealth Caribbean and Latin America — are desk officers responsible for all aspects of the country's programs.

Multilateral Programs Branch

This branch is responsible for Canada's relations with international development assistance institutions and organizations. The responsibility for coordinating the food aid program resides in this branch as well.

Resources Branch

The Resources Branch provides advice and services in the fields of engineering, agriculture, fisheries, forestry, education, health, environment, population, energy, communications, transportation, human resources and material management for its client branches engaged in program planning and in the planning and implementation of individual aid projects.

Special Programs Branch

This branch fosters and supports the participation of Canadian business and industry and voluntary agencies in economic and social development in the Third World. The branch also works closely with provincial institutions to ensure coordination of efforts of CIDA divisions in special programs. Its Non-Governmental Organizations Division, through a matching-grant basis, provides increased opportunities for voluntary organizations to become involved in international development. The Public Participation Program helps to reinforce this approach to development among Canadians. The International Non-Governmental Organizations Division handles the funding for development-oriented groups outside Canada. The Business and Industry Division administers a grant program to help Canadian firms explore opportunities to form joint business ventures in developing countries with local entrepreneurs.

Communications Branch

This branch has overall responsibility for developing and implementing information programs to keep the Canadian public informed on Canadian international development activities in Canada and overseas, and encouraging a wide spectrum of the Canadian public to support and participate in Canada's international assistance program. The branch is also responsible for the briefing of personnel selected for overseas assignments and organizing internal conferences on international themes, as well as maintaining parliamentary relations.

Comptroller's Branch

This branch is responsible for the development of financial reporting and control systems and management information systems. In addition, the financial, management and project audit services are housed in this branch.

Personnel and Administration Branch

This branch is responsible for providing in-house management consulting services, advising CIDA management and employees on all aspects of personnel administration and providing security and necessary administrative support services.

Additional Information — all enquiries should be addressed to the director of public affairs at head office (819) 997-6899.

Parliamentary Committee — Standing Committee on External Affairs and National Defence.

Auditor — Auditor General of Canada.

Historical Background

The International Development Research Centre Act (RSC 1970 c. 21 [1st supp]) created a corporation called the International Development Research Centre (IDRC), consisting of a board of governors composed of a chairman, president and 19 other members, appointed by the Governor in Council for renewable terms. Both the chairman and the president, who is the chief executive officer of the centre, are appointed for terms of five years, while the other governors have four-year terms.

IDRC is not listed in any of the schedules of the Financial Administration Act. The corporation is regarded as a public corporation. The IDRC is not an agent of Her Majesty and its officers and employees are not part of the Public Service of Canada.

IDRC's income is derived from an annual grant of the Parliament of Canada. The centre is allowed to accept bequests or grants from any source. For tax purposes, IDRC is deemed an organization as described in paragraph 69(1)(f) of the Income Tax Act and in subparagraph 7(1)(d)(i) of the Estate Tax Act. The annual report is tabled in Parliament by the designated Minister.

Overall Responsibilities

The corporate objectives of IDRC, as set out in the Act are: "to initiate, encourage, support and conduct research into problems of the developing regions of the world and into the means for applying and adapting scientific, technical and other knowledge to the economic and social advancement of those regions, and, in carrying out those objects:

- (a) to enlist the talents of national and social scientists and technologists of Canada and other countries;
- (b) to assist the developing regions to build up the research capabilities, the innovative skills and institutions required to solve their problems;
- (c) to encourage generally the coordination of international development research; and
- (d) to foster cooperation in research on development problems between the developed and developing regions for their mutual benefit."

Organization and Programs

The centre operates under the authority of its board of governors. At least 11 members of this board must be Canadian citizens. To date, the 10 other members have been from other countries, with six among them from developing countries. The full board meets twice a year while its executive committee meets four times a year.

The governors of the centre set its policy, approve its projects and establish the appropriate organizational structure for centre operations. Four program divisions have been established.

Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Sciences Division

This division supports research in plant breeding, farming systems, post harvest technology, animal sciences, fisheries, aquaculture, forestry, nutrition and home sciences designed primarily to benefit the rural poor.

Information Sciences Division

This division focuses on two complementary aspects of information: information about development (cooperation with UN agencies to establish worldwide systems of information, to collect and disseminate data on social and economic development) and information for development (supporting the creation of centres that supply specialized information to developing countries in areas such as agriculture, health, and small-scale industrial technology). It also has projects in library development and cartography.

Health Sciences Division

The four areas in this division include: basic health services (primary health care systems for rural areas), biological and environmental control of some major tropical diseases, improvement of water supply systems and sanitation in rural or marginal sectors, and studies of more effective methods of fertility regulation and family planning.

Social Sciences Division

This division supports applied research in three major sectors: studies on the process of modernization and change (e.g. social and economic impact of new farming practices, rural-urban migration, institutional modernization, applied social sciences (e.g. studies on marketing systems, science and technology policy, rural education, low cost housing); and support of international and regional research networks to encourage a sharing of experiences between scientists from developing countries.

Other Activities

A Communications Division supports the work of the four program divisions by disseminating the results of IDRC-supported projects through the production and distribution of general and scientific publications and audiovisual material and engages in public information activities in Canada and abroad.

A Human Resources Program, with categories of awards for both Canadians and citizens of developing countries, is designed to provide individual scholars or professionals with the opportunity to undertake training or research in the international development field.

Historical Background

The International Joint Commission was established in 1909 by a treaty between the United States of America and Great Britain. This treaty was confirmed and sanctioned by the International Boundary Waters Treaty Act (SC 1911 c. 28, now RSC 1970 c. 1-20).

The commission consists of six members, three appointed by the Government of Canada, and three appointed by the President of the United States.

Overall Responsibilities

The commission deals with the use, obstruction and diversion of boundary waters and rivers crossing the boundary between Canada and the United States. Structures which would increase the levels of waters at the boundary require the prior approval of the commission before work can proceed. In addition, the commission carries out extensive investigations on questions arising between the Canadian and United States governments along the "common frontier", and reports its findings, with recommendations, to the two governments. It is also the coordinating agency for activities under the 1978 Canada-U.S. Agreement on Great Lakes Water Quality and maintains continuing surveillance of air quality along the boundary.

Programs

International Boards

The following boards have been established under the 1909 treaty and are still active:

International Investigation Boards

Roseau River Drainage
Souris & Red Rivers
Richelieu River — Lake Champlain
Lake Erie Regulation
Great Lakes Diversions & Consumptive Uses
Poplar River Water Quality
Garrison Diversion Study

Historical Background

The Great Lakes Water Quality Board was formed by the International Joint Commission in consultation with the governments of Canada and the United States in the spring of 1972, pursuant to Article VII of the Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement, which was signed April 15, 1972, and continues its operation pursuant to the Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement 1978. The board's first meeting was on July 19, 1972. Regular reports are made to the commission and special reports are prepared as the commission requests or the board desires.

Overall Responsibilities

The board is the principal adviser to the commission with regard to the exercise of the functions, powers and responsibilities assigned to the latter under the Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement of 1978. These include collation, analysis and dissemination of data and information provided by the federal, state and provincial governments, and tendering advice and recommendations to the governments on Great Lakes water quality problems and achievement of the agreed upon water quality objectives.

Historical Background

The Department of Finance was created by an Act of Parliament in 1869, but now operates under Parts VIII to X of the Financial Administration Act (RSC 1970 c. F-10). Prior to the formation of Canada in 1867, each province had an "inspector general" who handled financial affairs. After Confederation, this individual was styled "Minister of Finance".

At various times in its history, the Department of Finance has included the Treasury Board, the Comptroller of the Treasury, the Royal Canadian Mint, Tax Inspection, Old Age Pensions, Superannuation and Retirement, and the Tariff Board. A decision was made in the early 1930s, however, to transfer detailed operational responsibilities to others so that Finance could concentrate on central analytical and policy work.

Overall Responsibilities

The main objective of the Department of Finance is to assist the government in deciding upon and implementing financial and other economic policies or measures that best accomplish its major economic and other aims.

To this end, the department:

- analyzes and appraises the economic situation and prospects in Canada and in other countries of interest to Canada;
- advises on fiscal and other economic policies and measures, including those originating in the department;
- recommends measures to meet the requirements of the government within appropriate fiscal policies, by action in expenditure, lending, taxation, borrowing and cash management;
- advises on matters concerning the balance of payments, exchange reserves, international monetary and financial arrangements, coinage and related matters;
- participates in international negotiations and other meetings related to trade, finance, taxation, economic development and other subjects, and makes contributions to international finance institutions;

- (f) advises on policies relating to federal-provincial fiscal and economic relations, carries on discussions with provincial authorities and pays grants to provincial governments and grants in lieu of taxes to municipalities; and
- (g) administers statutes relating to guaranteed loans, the capital budgets and financing of Crown corporations and agencies.

Organization and Programs

Administrative support is provided to the Department of Finance and the Treasury Board Secretariat by the Finance, Personnel and Administration Branch.

Tax Policy and Legislation Branch

Tax Policy includes units which examine legislation, income taxes and commodity taxes, and a quantitative analysis group.

The Personal Income Tax unit analyzes proposals relating to personal taxation, deferred income plans, trusts and partnerships. It also receives corporate tax measures and new proposals which directly affect the business community. Such an ongoing review is necessary because of the constantly changing economic conditions and international competition. The income tax unit is also concerned with the international provisions of the taxing statutes. These affect both non-residents with income from Canadian sources and Canadians with income from foreign sources. It also studies those tax measures which affect international trade and foreign investment. It is responsible for the negotiation of tax treaties with other countries and the surveillance of tax developments throughout the world.

The Quantitative Tax Analysis unit conducts the economic and econometric analyses of tax proposals to determine their effects on the distribution of income, the long-term growth of the economy and the behaviour of individuals and companies. It also determines the revenue effects of various tax measures.

The Commodity Tax unit deals with policy problems concerning all federal excise taxes and duties. A unit also assists in work on federal-provincial problems.

Federal-Provincial Relations and Social Policy Branch

Federal-Provincial Relations Division

This division is wholly or partially responsible for the administration of several major programs under which monies are paid to provinces and local governments. The division also provides policy advice on a wide range of federal-provincial fiscal issues. Programs administered by the division include statutory subsidies, equalization, revenue stabilization, income tax revenue guarantees, public utility income tax sharing, and reciprocal taxation arrangements. Programs which are administered jointly with other departments include tax collection agreements with provinces, federal-provincial established programs financing arrangements covering hospital insurance, medical care and post-secondary education, "contracting-out" arrangements with Québec, and disaster assistance.

Policy advice is provided on all of these programs as well as on other subjects such as joint occupancy of tax fields, revenue-sharing with other levels of government, conditional and unconditional transfers to provincial and municipal governments, fiscal harmonization and intergovernmental taxation. The division also provides advice on intergovernmental cooperation in fiscal and economic matters generally.

A Municipal Grants unit administers grants in lieu of real property taxes for federal property across Canada.

A Reciprocal Taxation Centre has been established within the division to administer the federal-provincial agreements concerning reciprocity of consumption taxes. The federal government entered into such agreements with six provinces on October 1, 1977.

Social Policy Division

The division assists the Minister in selecting and implementing measures to accomplish economic, fiscal and financial objectives in the fields of social policies and income support systems, manpower policies and employment programs, and socio-economic measures. Its staff constantly assesses such matters as mobility programs, direct employment programs, family allowances, guaranteed annual income, cultural policies, and Indian and Métis policies.

Economic Programs and Government Finance Branch

Resource Programs Division

The division is responsible for encouraging the development of policies and programs for Canada's natural resources. Staff members work on a variety of resource policies, most of which are important public issues, including energy, oil and gas, minerals, food, agriculture, fisheries and forestry. They also provide advice on policies for northern development, the environment and national parks. The main tasks of the division are to examine proposals made by other government departments, to evaluate their economic and fiscal impact, and to make recommendations to the Minister of Finance as to the public benefits of these proposals.

Economic Development Division

The division provides advice on program and policy formulation in the areas of industrial development, regional development, transportation, communications, nuclear and hydro-electric energy, science policy and economic development generally. The primary focus of its work is on the programs and policies of other departments; its basic orientation is towards ensuring that new or modified program proposals recognize general economic implications, and are consistent with overall government economic and financial objectives.

In undertaking its policy development and advisory role, the division is involved in interdepartmental policy reviews, consultations with the private sector, industry sector analysis and project and program evaluation, as well as in the administration of existing programs through representation on interdepartmental or federal-provincial boards and committees.

Government Finance Division

The financial operations of government and the formulation of policy respecting government loans, investments and guarantees are the responsibility of this division. These functions arise from direct responsibilities which the Minister holds under various statutes, particularly the Financial Administration Act.

The Minister of Finance is one of three ministers who recommend the budgets of Crown corporations for approval of the Governor in Council. Capital budgets are the main instruments of control over these semi-autonomous bodies. The division reviews and advises on these budgets. When new Crown corporations are to be created, the division advises on the required financial provisions including capital structure, limits on debts and equity, budgetary and other financial controls and loan guarantee provisions.

Since the approval of the Minister is required for loan guarantees by the government, the division makes liability analyses of industrial and commercial projects recommended for this type of business. It recommends terms and conditions for loans to Crown corporations and other borrowers, designed to recover the government's cost of borrowing. It gives advice on special financial problems such as the valuation of Crown corporations to be sold or of businesses to be purchased or invested in by the government.

International Trade and Finance Branch

Tariffs Division

The division investigates and reports on proposals regarding the Canadian customs tariff and related matters. It reviews representations from producers, importers and other groups on matters relating to Canadian tariffs, trade agreements and commitments under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). It is also responsible for matters relating to the Generalized System of Preferences for developing countries.

The division assesses the impact of tariff changes on Canadian industry and the allocation of resources. It also participates in international trade negotiations including those conducted under the GATT.

International Economic Relations Division

This division studies Canada's international trade policy, particularly as it relates to imports. It provides advice on trade and commercial policy issues and on the effect of changes in the world trading environment for the Canadian economy. It also evaluates the trade implications of domestic economic policies and their impact on economic relations with other countries. The division also receives, reviews and makes recommendations on representations proposing changes in legislation governing imports such as the Anti-Dumping Act and Regulations, and the Customs Act.

Officers frequently represent the department on Canadian delegations to meetings of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. Officers of the division also participate in meetings with foreign delegations in Ottawa and abroad on bilateral trade problems.

The division deals on a day-to-day basis with a number of shorter term trade problems associated with individual commodities or sectors, such as agriculture, minerals, energy and secondary manufacturing.

International Programs Division

The division is concerned primarily with Canada's membership in a number of international organizations, Canadian financial involvement with developing countries through the provision of aid, and the government's support for export development.

It is involved in the interdepartmental formulation of Canada's position in relation to the World Bank, the International Development Association, and a number of regional and sub-regional development finance institutions, especially those where the Minister of Finance is the Governor for Canada.

The division also provides advice to other departments on budgetary, financial and economic policy issues which arise in the United Nations organization, its specialized agencies, and its voluntary funds.

The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) consults the division on bilateral aid policy for developing countries. The division is also consulted in connection with development aspects of policy issues in the fields of international trade and finance. It is concerned, as well, with the international reviews of donors aid programs and policies by the development assistance committee of the OECD.

The division provides advice on the policies and programs of the Export Development Corporation, and on proposals for other forms of government financial assistance to exporters.

International Finance Division

This division is composed of a Balance of Payments section and an International Organizations section. It advises on balance of payments and foreign exchange matters, deals with questions relating to the international monetary system, and administers Canada's relations with international monetary and financial institutions.

The International Organizations section studies the international monetary system and its evolution, and advises on Canadian policy in this area. Officers of the section also monitor economic and financial developments in overseas countries. The section is responsible for Canada's relations with the International Monetary Fund, as well as for the coordination of departmental activities relating to the OECD and its economic policy committee. The division normally represents Canada in the OECD's Working Party 3 on the balance of payments.

The Balance of Payments section is responsible for the analysis of Canada's trade and financial transactions with the rest of the world. It interprets developments in the balance of payments and the foreign exchange market and provides projections of future patterns. The section also carries out a variety of studies on related areas such as the international aspects of the world energy situation and the implications of Canada's commercial and foreign investment policies for the balance of payments structure.

Fiscal Policy and Economic Analysis Branch

Economic Analysis Division

This division provides a continuing assessment of the general economic situation. It analyzes economic developments and prepares forecasts of production, employment, national income, consumption, capital spending, changes in the price level and other economic indicators. It also analyzes and projects the Canadian balance of payments. These analyses and forecasts are an essential ingredient in the overview of policy for which the branch is responsible.

The division has three units: Economic Forecasting, General Economic Conditions, and Regional and Sectoral Analysis.

Long-Range and Structural Analysis Division

Integrating the study of micro-economic and macro-economic issues is the responsibility of this division. It prepares a macro-economic forecast for the economy over the "medium to longer term" — roughly five to 20 years. The forecast assists in the planning and allocation of resources across the government. It helps policy-makers anticipate future structural problems, assists the study of alternative paths of development, outlines the policy dilemmas inherent in different medium-term growth paths, and helps anticipate changes in institutions and behaviour that are not economic in nature but have major impact on the economy.

As part of its structural analysis, the division examines policy adjustments required in particular sectors. Where particular sectoral problems appear important, it undertakes detailed analytical studies of the sector. It specializes in corporate finance and investment, labour market analysis and the distribution of income.

Capital Markets Division

This division develops policy recommendations and advice on capital markets, financial institutions and management of the public debt. As well, it analyzes the monetary impact of fiscal measures.

The Securities Markets and Debt Management unit is concerned primarily with the management of the public debt and the ways in which the government's cash requirements can be met through borrowings. It provides advice on Treasury Bills, marketable bonds and Canada Savings Bonds.

A Financial Institutions unit is responsible for advice on capital markets, including the mortgage markets, the chartered banks and other financial institutions. It continually surveys these areas from the point of view of their competitiveness and the efficiency with which they collect and channel Canadian savings.

The Financial Flows unit examines monetary policy developments and analyzes their implications for fiscal policy and for the economic outlook. It contributes to the short-term forecast of the Canadian economy, forecasting interest rates and financial flows. It analyzes the monetary implications of fiscal policy and interprets the economic significance of financial developments.

The division also advises on matters relating to currency and coinage.

Fiscal Policy Division

The division's prime responsibilities relate to the planning of fiscal policy and the analysis of its effects on the economy, the analyzing and forecasting of the financial requirements of the Government of Canada, and the monitoring and analysis of the fiscal positions of other levels of government. It also analyzes a wide variety of fiscal problems.

The division reviews the form and content of the Public Accounts and other statements for which the Minister of Finance has responsibility under the Financial Administration Act.

A Cash Forecasting unit prepares the forecasts of the government's fiscal position which are basic to decisions on fiscal policy and debt management. The policy analysis unit studies the impact on the economy of potential fiscal measures and prepares policy recommendations. An Intergovernmental Forecasting unit monitors the fiscal programs of other levels of government to understand their impact on the economy and their financial implications. An Econometrics unit conducts the underlying econometric work for the division.

Information Division

This division is responsible for departmental communications and public relations. It carries out an extensive media relations program, including preparation of departmental and ministerial announcements and statements, special briefings, and arrangements for meetings and news conferences. It edits and publishes departmental publications, including a major annual review of the Canadian economy and various reports to Parliament. It works closely with publications and graphics sections in the design, production and national distribution of the budget speech and related documents. The division publishes weekly reports on media coverage of financial and economic news and on parliamentary activity of significance to the Department of Finance. A unit within the division deals with enquiries and correspondence on taxation and general economic issues.

Inspector General of Banks

The Inspector General of Banks — established under section 64(1) of the Bank Act (RSC 1970 c. B-1) — is required by Parliament to conduct examinations and inquiries into the affairs and business of chartered banks and the bank incorporated under the Quebec Savings Banks Act to satisfy himself that the provisions of the respective Acts are being observed and that the banks are in a sound financial position. He reports to Parliament through the Minister of Finance.

Regional Offices — none.

Principal Officers

Secretary ..... Arthur B. Trudeau
Director of Research ..... Kenneth Besharah

Historical Background

The Anti-dumping Tribunal was established in 1969 under the Anti-dumping Act (now RSC 1970 c. A-15).

Overall Responsibilities

Under the Act, the tribunal was established to receive representation, to hear evidence, and to arrive at decisions on the impact of dumping of goods into Canada on production in Canada. The tribunal, within 90 days of receiving a preliminary determination of dumping from the Deputy Minister of National Revenue (Customs and Excise), must decide whether the dumping of the goods has caused, is causing, or is likely to cause material injury to the production in Canada of like goods, or is materially retarding the establishment of the production in Canada of like goods.

The inquiry by the tribunal may include investigation of the state of the industry producing like goods in Canada and may take into account a number of factors such as market share, profits, prices, export performance, employment, utilization of capacity, and productivity. An order or finding of the tribunal is final and conclusive.

The tribunal, under Section 16.1 of the Anti-dumping Act, by order of the Governor in Council inquires into any matter related to the serious prejudice caused by foreign imports to Canadian production.

Hearings of the tribunal are usually held in Ottawa, and are open to the public.

Program

The activity of the tribunal is part of the Department of Finance's Anti-dumping Tribunal Program.

Additional Information — requests for copies of orders or findings and other relevant information should be addressed to the Secretary. Notices of Commencement of Inquiry and orders or findings are published in Part 1 of the Canada Gazette. All communications to the tribunal should be addressed to the Secretary, (613) 996-9803.

Parliamentary Committee — Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

Auditor — through the Department of Finance.

Historical Background

The Bank of Canada was incorporated in 1934 by the Bank of Canada Act (now RSC 1970 c. B-2). In accordance with the provisions of the statute, the capital stock (amounting to $5 million) is held by the Minister of Finance on behalf of Canada.

The Bank of Canada is Canada's central bank, the agency directly responsible for the country's monetary policy. It is not a commercial bank and does not carry out ordinary banking business or accept deposits from the general public.

Interest in a central bank in this country did not develop until the late 1920s but with the onset of the depression in the early 1930s there was mounting criticism of the existing financial structure and monetary arrangements. In March, 1933, the government announced that a royal commission would be appointed to study the workings of the financial system. The Report of the MacMillan Commission, published later that year, recommended the establishment of a central bank; legislation was passed the following year and the Bank of Canada began operations in March, 1935. The bank was founded as a privately-owned corporation but, following a change of government in 1935, the Act was amended in two stages to provide for government ownership. Since 1938, the entire share capital issued by the bank has been held by the Minister of Finance.

The Bank of Canada Act provides that the bank shall be under the management of a board of directors composed of a governor, a deputy governor, and 12 directors. The governor of the bank is its chief executive officer and is authorized to act in connection with the conduct of the bank's business in all matters not specifically reserved to the board or to its executive committee. The directors are appointed for three-year terms by the Minister of Finance with the approval of the Governor in Council. The directors, in turn, appoint the governor and deputy governor for seven-year terms, (but with the approval of the Governor in Council). The Deputy Minister of Finance sits on the board but does not have a vote. Between its meetings, an executive committee composed of the governor, deputy governor, two directors and the Deputy Minister of Finance (without a vote), which meets weekly, acts for the board.

Although not included in any of the schedules, the bank satisfies the Financial Administration Act's definition of a Crown corporation.

Overall Responsibilities

In carrying out its responsibility for monetary policy, the bank maintains close links with the government. The presence of the Deputy Minister of Finance on the board provides one channel of communication between the bank and the Minister of Finance. In addition the Bank of Canada Act requires that the Minister of Finance and the governor consult regularly on monetary policy and its relation to general economic policy.

The duties of the bank are to regulate credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation; to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit; and to mitigate by its influence fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices and employment, so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action; and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of Canada.

The Bank of Canada Act does not specify the methods that the bank should use to further the attainment of these goals but it does confer on the bank certain powers that, together with provisions in other legislation, enable the bank to exercise a broad controlling influence over the growth of money and credit in Canada, and thereby to affect levels of spending and economic activity. This influence stems primarily from the bank's ability to determine the total amount of cash reserves available to the Canadian banking system and thus, in effect, to regulate the system's growth over time.

In addition to its responsibility for monetary policy, the Bank of Canada acts as fiscal agent for the government and is thus directly concerned with the management of the public debt. The bank advises the government on the method of financing to be used in raising money and on the terms of new issues and undertakes the management of the public debt for the government. This includes making the arrangements for the sale of new securities, for the redemption or conversion of maturing issues, the payment of interest on outstanding securities, and the maintenance of records.

The Bank of Canada has other functions related to its role as fiscal agent for the government. It acts as agent and adviser in the management of the country's foreign exchange reserves which are largely held in the Exchange Fund Account in the name of the Minister of Finance. In addition the bank maintains foreign currency accounts at other central banks and operates accounts for foreign central banks and international institutions.

Official intervention in the exchange market is carried out by the bank on behalf of the Minister of Finance through purchases from the market and sales into the market of U.S. dollars from the Exchange Fund Account. The Canadian dollars needed to pay for purchases of foreign exchange by the Exchange Fund Account are supplied from the government's cash balances. Conversely, the government's cash balances are increased by the Canadian dollar proceeds of sales of foreign exchange.

Historical Background

The Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation was established in 1967 by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act (now RSC 1970 c. C-3).

The corporation, a Crown corporation, is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule D) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1967-1552, August 9, 1968; SOR/67-401). The corporation is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The corporation is empowered to insure Canadian currency deposits, up to $20,000 per person, in banks, federally incorporated trust and loan companies that accept deposits from the public, and any similar provincially incorporated institutions that are authorized by their provincial government to apply for such deposit insurance. It is also empowered to act as a lender of last resort for member institutions, and under the provisions of the Investment Companies Act, the corporation is empowered to make short term loans, as a lender of last resort, to Canadian controlled sales finance companies. Also, under the provisions of the Cooperative Credit Associations Act, the corporation is empowered to make short term loans, for liquidity purposes, to cooperative credit societies and to provincially created corporations that provide, or administer, stabilization or liquidity funds for the benefit of credit unions and their members.

Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0H2

Minister

Minister of Finance

Principal Officers

Superintendent of Insurance .....	Richard Humphrys
Assistant Superintendent of Insurance .....	Robert M. Hammond

Historical Background

The Office of the Superintendent of Insurance was first established in 1875 and, prior to 1910, the staff under the Superintendent of Insurance was attached to the Department of Finance.

The Department of Insurance was created formally in 1924 as a separate department by an amendment to the Insurance Act, although it had been designated as such by The Insurance Act of 1910. When the Act was repealed in 1932, the department was reconstituted by the Department of Insurance Act (now RSC 1970 c. I-17).

Overall Responsibilities

It is the aim of the Department of Insurance to protect the public against financial loss from the operations of federally registered or licensed financial institutions and registered pension plans, and to provide actuarial services for the government and other government departments by:

- (a) ensuring the financial solvency and the propriety of management policies and operations of federally registered or licensed insurance, investment, trust, loan, and small loans companies, fraternal benefit societies and cooperative credit societies; and provincial insurance, loan and trust companies that are supervised under agreement or arrangements with their home provinces or the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation;
- (b) providing the government with detailed information with respect to the operations and financial positions of the institutions enumerated above;
- (c) ensuring the financial solvency of, and the propriety of management policies with respect to, pension plans subject to the Pension Benefits Standards Act;
- (d) providing actuarial services and advice to the government and to government departments with respect to programs under development or administration; and
- (e) administering the Civil Service Insurance program and the collection of premium taxes pursuant to Part I of the Excise Tax Act.

Organization and Programs

The department is divided into three branches: Operations, Actuarial, and Administration.

Operations Branch

This branch registers and supervises insurance companies, trust companies, mortgage loan companies, investment companies, small loans companies, and cooperative credit societies that are subject to acts administered by the department.

Actuarial Branch

This provides actuarial services for other departments, examines actuarial valuations of policy liabilities of registered life insurance companies, and supervises employee pension plans.

Administration Branch

This branch provides office, personnel, financial, and library services for the department. The branch also collects premium taxes under Part 1 of the Excise Tax Act, and administers the Civil Service Insurance Act.

Historical Background

The Tariff Board, constituted by the Tariff Board Act derives duties and powers from the Anti-dumping Act, Customs Act, Excise Tax Act, Petroleum Administration Act, and the Tariff Board Act.

The board is designated as a department; the Minister of Finance as appropriate minister within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1969-696, April 15, 1969).

Overall Responsibilities

Under the Tariff Board Act, the board inquires into and reports upon any matter in relation to goods that, if brought into Canada, are subject to or exempt from customs duties or excise taxes, and on which the Minister of Finance desires information. The investigation into any such matter may include inquiry as to the effect that an increase or decrease of the existing rate of duty upon a given commodity might have upon industry or trade and the extent to which the consumer is protected from exploitation. It is also the duty of the board to inquire into any other matter in relation to the trade and commerce of Canada that the Governor in Council sees fit to refer to the board for inquiry and report. Usually, the references take one of two forms: authority for review of sections of the Customs Tariff relating to an entire industry, or for investigation in respect of specified commodities. Reports of the board are tabled in Parliament by the Minister of Finance.

Under the provisions of the Customs Act, the Excise Tax Act, and the Anti-dumping Act, the board acts as a court to hear appeals from rulings of the Department of National Revenue (Customs and Excise), in respect of certain matters including excise taxes, tariff classification, value for duty, drawback of customs duties, and determination of dumping. Under the provisions of the Petroleum Administration Act, the Tariff Board acts as a court to hear appeals from rulings of the National Energy Board concerning charges on the exportation of any oils and rulings of the Petroleum Compensation Board concerning charges on petroleums and petroleum products. Declarations of the board on appeals on questions of fact are final and conclusive, but the Acts contain provisions for appeal on questions of law to the Federal Court of Canada and to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Tariff references and appeals receive hearing at public sittings of the board.

Historical Background

The Department of Fisheries and Oceans was established on April 2, 1979, under Part 1 of the Government Organization Act, 1978 (SC 1978-79 c. 13). The new department assumed essentially the powers, duties and functions of the Fisheries and Marine Service which formed part of the Department of Fisheries and Environment prior to the reorganization of that department. Historically the department dates back to Confederation with the establishment in 1867 of the Department of Marine and Fisheries. Legislation to legally organize that department — "An Act for the Regulation of the Fisheries" — was passed at the first session of Parliament on May 22, 1868.

Overall Responsibilities

The powers, duties and functions of the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans extend to and include all matters over which the Parliament of Canada has jurisdiction, not by law assigned to any other department, board or agency of the Government of Canada, relating to:

- (a) sea coast and inland fisheries;
- (b) fishing and recreational harbours;
- (c) hydrography and marine sciences;
- (d) the coordination of the policies and programs of the Government of Canada respecting oceans; and
- (e) such other matters over which the Parliament of Canada has jurisdiction relating to oceans as are by law assigned to the Minister.

Organization and Programs

The department's functions are grouped under four main sections: Pacific and Freshwater Fisheries, Atlantic Fisheries, Fisheries Economic Development and Marketing, and Ocean and Aquatic Sciences, each headed by an assistant deputy minister. In addition, a Small Craft Harbours Branch, headed by a director general reporting to the deputy minister, has responsibility for fishing and recreational harbours throughout Canada.

The federal government has exclusive legislative jurisdiction over both coastal and inland fisheries, but some provinces have accepted administrative responsibility for the fisheries in varying degrees.

The operations of the department are highly decentralized and most programs are managed from regional and field locations from coast to coast, with an Ottawa headquarters group providing national coordination.

The department is responsible for a broad range of programs related to the aquatic environment and the management of the living resources of the ocean and inland waters. In summary these include:

- (a) management of all Canada's ocean fisheries and some inland fisheries;
- (b) fisheries, oceanographic and freshwater research contributing to the understanding, management and optimum utilization of renewable aquatic resources and marine and fresh waters;
- (c) hydrographic surveying and charting of navigable coastal and inland waters;
- (d) administration of small craft harbours both in coastal and inland waters;
- (e) conduct of environmental impact studies on activities affecting coastal and inland waters and aquatic renewable resources;
- (f) administration of international treaties and agreements covering management of fisheries and other aquatic renewable resources and the quality of the marine environment;
- (g) development of policies in the fields of fisheries marketing and economic development; and
- (h) economic research and policy development related to the management of recreational fisheries.

Fisheries Management

Fisheries management programs are aimed at ensuring maximum economic and social benefit to Canada from the use of fisheries and other aquatic living resources of coastal and inland waters, and of maintaining and conserving these resources and the aquatic environment in a healthy productive state.

Specific programs are carried out in all regions to ensure:

- (a) the conservation, protection and enhancement of fisheries resources;
- (b) protection of fish habitats;
- (c) allocation and control of access to fishery resources;
- (d) the maintenance of high quality standards and safety for fish and fishery products for human consumption; and
- (e) provision of support and assistance to fishermen and the fish processing and distribution industry to promote more effective harvesting, production and marketing of fish and related products.

Other activities include management of a public fishing vessel insurance plan, and administration of the government's fishing vessel construction subsidy program. Another important activity is the development of policies, programs and information on the management of recreational fishing in Canada.

Programs of fisheries research directly supporting national and international fisheries activities are conducted from research stations located in coastal and inland areas. These establishments include fisheries biological research stations, fisheries technological laboratories and other research centres located across the country.

Ocean and Aquatic Sciences

Under the broad heading of Ocean and Aquatic Sciences is grouped an extensive range of programs contributing to the management and development of renewable and non-renewable ocean resources, and to the understanding of ecological processes within the aquatic and marine environment, as well as the precautions and remedies required to restore and protect that environment and the resources associated with it.

Programs of this division are centred at Fisheries and Oceans institutes and laboratories across Canada, but principally at the Bedford Institute of Oceanography in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia; the Institute of Ocean Sciences at Patricia Bay, British Columbia; and the Canada Centre for Inland Waters, Burlington, Ontario.

Oceanographic activities include, in addition to oceanographic research, the operation of a Marine Environmental Data Service, comprising the Canadian Oceanographic Data Centre, wave climate studies, tide and water level measurements and other related projects.

Ecological and environmental studies related to the marine and aquatic environment are directed primarily at the control of pollution and the determination of safety margins of contaminants as they affect aquatic life.

Another major responsibility of the Oceans and Aquatic Sciences division is the planning and implementation of a national program of hydrographic surveying and charting of navigable coastal and inland waters. The work of the Canadian Hydrographic Service includes production of special charts and maps for pleasure craft, the fishing industry, national defence, and offshore exploration. Publications related to navigation, such as Tides and Current Tables and Sailing Directions, are also produced.

Small Craft Harbours

The Small Craft Harbours Branch administers harbours and marine facilities at 2,244 locations across Canada, through regional managers located in offices at Vancouver, Winnipeg, Burlington, Québec, Halifax and St. John's. A close liaison exists with the Department of Public Works which provides the design, construction, maintenance and property services. Continuing liaison is also maintained with other branches to ensure that harbour developments and programs are in harmony with present and future needs of Canadian fisheries.

The harbour needs of commercial fishermen are of major concern to the branch, with more than 80 per cent of the total budget being spent in this area. An essential element in ensuring an efficient fishery is the provision of good quality harbours and harbour facilities, in adequate numbers, distributed geographically in the right places throughout the fishing areas. Recreational boating harbours are also of concern to the branch, accounting for about 11 per cent of the total budget.

International Directorate

Within the department, an International Directorate serves as the focus for development of international policies and is responsible for the conduct of bilateral and multilateral negotiations in support of Canada's international fisheries and marine initiatives. These negotiations are, of course, conducted in close collaboration with the Department of External Affairs.

Of particular importance is the organization of Canadian participation in 11 international commissions, and arrangements under numerous other international agreements concerned with management of Canadian fisheries under international regulation and for protection of the marine environment.

The directorate has played a key role in the development and negotiation of Canada's position at the Law of the Sea Conference; and also provides the departmental input into Canadian fisheries and marine environmental overseas aid programs that are administered through the Canadian International Development Agency and the Food and Agriculture Organization.

Ship Operations

To carry out its varied responsibilities in the areas of fisheries protection, fisheries and oceanographic research and hydrographic surveys, the department operates a large fleet of vessels. Fisheries protection vessels, totalling about 100, vary from the 205-foot helicopter-equipped Cape Roger, launched in 1976 and based at St. John's, Nfld., and the 180-foot Tanu, operating out of Vancouver, to smaller launches that patrol the Great Slave Lake and other inland waters.

Fisheries research vessels operate in coastal and inland waters, as do oceanographic research and hydrographic survey vessels, such as the CSS Hudson and the CSS Baffin. The department also operates the first submersible mothership designed and built in Canada, namely the 191-foot Pandora II, based at Victoria, B.C., which provides support for the submersible Pisces IV, a part of the department's fleet.

Recreational Fisheries Branch

This branch develops national data on the size, value and potential of Canada's sport fisheries.

Provincial and Federal Affairs Branch

The Provincial and Federal Affairs Branch answers enquiries on programs, jurisdiction, policy, and liaison in the fisheries and marine fields having federal-provincial implications.

Information Branch

The Information Branch is responsible for public and media relations, as well as publication and distribution of general information materials relating to the fisheries and marine science subjects.

Management Services Branch

The branch provides administrative and management services.

Historical Background

The Canadian Saltfish Corporation was established by the Saltfish Act (RSC 1970 c. 37, [1st Supp.]). The corporation is designated as an agency corporation (Schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (Canadian Saltfish Act, Section 15[2]). The corporation is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The corporation was established for the purpose of improving the earnings of primary producers of cured fish of the cod family. The corporation is the first buyer of cured fish and fish for curing in participating provinces. It is the sole marketing agent for specified salt fish products produced in these provinces.

Initial prices are announced by the corporation for each grade and size at the beginning of the fishing season. Any surplus funds remaining after sales of annual production may be distributed to each fisherman on the basis of his sales to the corporation. Individuals or firms in the salt fish industry sign agreements to be agents of the corporation and perform functions such as collecting, drying, storing, and packing cod fish.

Organization

The corporation consists of a board of directors composed of a chairman, a president, one director for each participating province, and not more than five other directors, each of whom is appointed by the Governor in Council to hold office for a term not exceeding five years.

A director of the corporation for a participating province is appointed on the recommendation of the Lieutenant Governor in Council of the participating province.

The Advisory Committee, appointed by the Governor in Council consists of no more than 15 members, one of whom is designated by the Governor in Council as chairman of the committee. At least half of the members are fishermen or representatives of fishermen.

Principal Officers

Chairman, A. Maloney ..... St. John's, Nfld.

Executive Director, J.J. LeVert ..... Ottawa, Ont.

Historical Background

The Fisheries Prices Support Board was established under the Fisheries Prices Support Act (now RSC 1970, c. F-23), passed in 1944 and proclaimed in 1947. This Crown corporation is designated a departmental corporation (Schedule B) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. The board is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The legislation is designed to protect commercial fishermen against the impact of declines in raw-fish prices. The board is thus responsible for investigating the causes and effects of such declines and, when appropriate, for recommending measures to stabilize fishery prices.

For that purpose, the board is authorized to buy and to sell or otherwise dispose of fishery products. Alternatively, the board may supplement the price of fishery products by providing deficiency payments (based on the difference between a price prescribed by the board and the price actually realized) to producers.

Historical Background

The Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation was established by the Freshwater Fish Marketing Act (SC 1968-69 c. 21). This Crown corporation is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule D) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. The corporation is an agent of Her Majesty.

The corporation consists of a board of directors composed of a chairman, a president, one director for each participating province and four other directors, each of whom is appointed by the Governor in Council. The directors for the participating provinces are appointed on the recommendation of the Lieutenant Governor in Council of the participating province. The president is the chief executive officer of the corporation and the general manager of its undertakings. An advisory committee, one-third of which must be persons actively engaged as fishermen in the freshwater fishing industry, or be the representatives of such persons, has been appointed by the Governor in Council.

Overall Responsibilities

The corporation was established for the purpose of marketing and trading in fish, fish products, and fish by-products in and out of Canada.

Except in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth in any licence that may be issued by it, the corporation has the exclusive right to market and trade in fish in interprovincial and export trade, and exercises that right, either by itself or by its agents, with the object of:

- (a) marketing fish in an orderly manner;
- (b) increasing returns to fishermen; and,
- (c) promoting international markets for and increasing interprovincial and export trade in fish.

The corporation may enter into and carry out arrangements with any government or person that the corporation deems necessary or desirable in furtherance of the purpose for which it is established, and may receive and exercise any grants, rights, franchises, privileges, and concessions that may be granted to or conferred upon it by any government or person.

Federal-provincial agreements, which establish the participating status of provinces, provide for the corporation to perform on behalf of the provinces functions relating to intraprovincial trade in fish parallel to those which the corporation performs in interprovincial and export trade under federal powers.

Historical Background

The Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development was established under section 15 of the Government Organization Act, 1966, now Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development Act (RSC 1970 c. I-7, as amended). The department assumed the powers, duties and functions of the then Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources.

Pursuant to the Public Service Rearrangement and Transfer of Duties Act, the following powers, duties and functions were transferred from the then Department of Citizenship and Immigration to the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources:

- (a) the control or supervision of that part of the public service known as the Indian Affairs Branch;
- (b) the Indian Act, and
- (c) all matters relating to Indian Affairs.

The Minister of Northern Affairs and National Resources was also designated, pursuant to the Financial Administration Act, the appropriate minister for the Northern Transportation Company Limited.

Overall Responsibilities

The duties, powers and functions of the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development extend to and include all matters over which the Parliament of Canada has jurisdiction, not by law assigned to any other department, branch or agency of the Government of Canada, relating to:

- (a) Indian affairs;
- (b) the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territories and their resources and affairs; and
- (c) Inuit affairs.

Organization and Programs

The department is organized into two operational programs: Indian and Inuit Affairs; and Northern Affairs. The Administration Program, the Corporate Policy Group, and the Office of Native Claims are the remaining components.

Indian and Inuit Affairs Program

This program assists Indians, who come within the provisions of the Indian Act in the provinces, and Eskimos in Arctic Québec, in the development of their full social, economic, and cultural resources. Although special statutory obligations for Indians and Eskimos in the Northwest and Yukon Territories are the responsibility of the Minister, some of these obligations are met through the governments of the Northwest and Yukon territories.

Education and Skill Development Branch

This branch ensures that Indian children have access to elementary and secondary schooling throughout the ordinary school years, administers kindergartens, and supports Indian students in extensive vocational training and academic education beyond high school. It operates student residences, administers a boarding home program and provides counselling. It assists cultural education centres and provides grants to Indian writers and artists.

Community Services Branch

This branch assists Indian and Inuit people in the improvement of housing and related physical facilities and in the provision of adequate social services in their communities by providing services in the areas of housing, water and sewers, roads, community buildings, electric wiring, policing, child and adult case work and social assistance.

Economic and Employment Development Branch

This branch assists Indian people in developing managerial skills and helps to create economic opportunities for Indian people and communities. It manages programs to assist Indians in identifying opportunities, in evaluating resources available to them, and in developing community and individual potential. Economic Development programs assist Indians in taking over the management of their economic affairs and in utilizing their full potential.

Policy, Research and Evaluation Group

This group consists of four branches: Policy Branch, Research Branch, Evaluation Branch and Tripartite Branch. Its mandate, which is consistent with the Indian-Government partnership principle, encompasses the following:

- (a) the assessment and development of national policy;
- (b) the evaluation of existing programs and structuring of evaluation criteria for proposed programs;
- (c) the undertaking and the support of research related to policy and program issues;
- (d) the support of the claims settlement process; and
- (e) the discussion with provincial governments and Indian associations on priority topics of mutual concern to all parties.

Reserves and Trusts

Membership and Statutory Requirements

This branch discharges the department's responsibilities in relation to the membership provisions of the Indian Act, maintains the Indian Register, and administers funds held for Indian children adopted by non-Indians. The branch also administers and controls other responsibilities vested in the department under the Indian Act such as treaty obligations, band funds, band elections, band by-laws, the application of regulations arising from the Indian Act and the administration of appointments such as Commissioner of Oaths and electoral officers.

Indian Minerals

This branch manages and develops the mineral resources on Indian lands under the authority of the Indian Act, the Indian Oil and Gas Act, the Indian Mining Regulations and the Indian Oil and Gas Regulations. This process is carried out in direct collaboration with Indian band councils. The branch assists in providing mineral-information, orientation training, placement and counselling services to Indian bands and advises departmental officials and other government agencies on all matters concerning mineral information.

Special Projects

Special Projects is responsible for resolving a variety of long, outstanding and complex issues, generally land or membership related.

Lands Branch

This branch manages the department's responsibilities under the Indian Act of Crown-owned land set aside for the use and benefit of Indian bands including the fulfilment of treaty obligations, maintaining the land registry, and administration of Indian estates.

Management Services Branch

The role of the Management Services Branch is to coordinate the development of a management plan; review, monitor and implement management systems; act as the interface with appropriate branches at the corporate level; conduct management improvement exercises; provide the vehicle for keeping senior management informed about management issues; and carry out administrative services required by the program in order to assist senior management in ensuring effective management of the program.

Operational Planning Branch, Program Support

This branch manages the process of operational planning with respect to program activities by providing direction to regions in the development of operational plans; ensuring that activities of program branches are consolidated into operational plans, including the development of appropriate monitoring, reviewing and reporting systems; and ensuring that policy developments, federal government agreements, and external projects and activities are included in the operational planning process.

Regional Directorates

These directorates operate in eight designated regions. Each region is administered by a regional director who is supported by a staff of program administrators to carry out programs in the field. Regions are divided into districts and agencies according to administrative needs. The regional director coordinates activities in his area, sets regional priorities and objectives, and establishes liaison with the Indian people in his area.

Northern Affairs Program

The objectives of the Northern Affairs Program are to advance the social, cultural, political and economic development of the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, in conjunction with the territorial governments and through coordination of activities of federal departments and agencies, with special emphasis on the needs of native northerners and the protection of the northern environment. The program is structured into eight branches.

Northern Coordination and Social Development

This branch plans and recommends federal policies concerning the constitutional development of the Yukon and Northwest Territories in line with the national objectives for the north. It monitors and analyses territorial legislation and programs, provides a contact point for the territorial governments and develops policies and procedures for federal-territorial fiscal relations.

It also provides specialist services in matters of Inuit culture, language, art and business; acts as the federal government's primary point of contact for native individuals and organizations with interests in these areas.

Northern Policy and Program Review

This branch examines major, selected issues and proposes policy positions relating to the department's responsibilities regarding northern affairs. It analyses and advises on broad policy issues and leads study groups for special assignments relating to policy matters. It provides and coordinates a staff for the Advisory Committee on Northern Development in support of the achievement of the national objectives in the north.

Northern Finance and Administration

This branch directs the preparation of program forecasts and estimates and the operation of the financial management and reporting system. It advises program managers on the allocation of financial and manpower resources and directs the provision of administrative services for the program.

Northern Environmental Protection

The branch coordinates, develops and recommends policies, plans and regulations for environmental protection in the Yukon and Northwest Territories and in the adjacent offshore regions. It reviews and assesses major offshore and onshore resource development proposals and engineering undertakings and makes recommendations for appropriate environmental terms and conditions to be incorporated in departmental permits and licences. The branch also directs an applied research program and serves as a link between the Northern Program and the Federal Environmental Assessment and Review Office (FEARO) for the assessment of major projects.

Northern Renewable Resources

The branch is responsible for the planning, conservation and management of the inland water resources of the Yukon and the Northwest Territories and the arctic sea waters adjacent to the mainland and islands of the Canadian Arctic to maintain a balance between economic development and environmental protection. It also regulates water use and licenses hydro electric power developments on federal lands south of the 60th parallel. The branch is responsible for the protection, conservation and management of surface rights in Crown lands in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. It conducts biophysical land resource inventories, regulates the surface use of land and controls the disposition of granular materials. As well, the branch is responsible for the protection and management of northern forest resources including the cutting and removal of timber on territorial lands.

Northern Non-Renewable Resources

The branch develops and recommends plans, policies and legislation for the management of oil, gas and other minerals in accordance with general guidelines of the national objectives for the north; is responsible for the administration of federal acts and regulations governing oil, gas and mineral resource exploitation in the north; and directs a program of research projects to assess the potential resources and reserves in order to develop and recommend policies for conservation and regulatory instruments.

Northern Economic Planning

The branch directs and advises on formulation of economic development policies and strategies for the north; directs economic and financial analysis of resource development projects; and advises on broad mineral and energy policies. It also advises on transportation and communication policies and projects, including the development and management of a roads program and its social and environmental impact.

Northern Pipelines

This is a new branch which was established to meet the expanded and new responsibilities of the Northern Affairs Program resulting from accelerated activity in the hydrocarbon transportation in the Northern Territories including, but not restricted to pipelines.

Finance and Professional Services

Finance and Professional Services consists of the following five components.

Management Systems Branch

The branch is responsible for the development, improvement, operation and review of management systems, administrative services, information systems and data processing, in response to managers' requirements.

Engineering and Architecture Branch

This branch is responsible for the maintenance of a high standard of professional and technical competence in the planning, design, procurement, technical operation and maintenance of real property facilities and other capital assets. The branch also is functionally responsible for the quality and effectiveness of all technical development, design, construction and maintenance activities in the department.

Resource Planning and Analysis Directorate

The directorate provides information and advice on all matters related to resource planning and utilization. Its functions include the coordination of the financial planning, budgeting and management reporting activities of the department and the development and implementation of policies, systems and procedures which will assist managers in the efficient and effective utilization of resources.

Departmental Accounting Operations Branch

The branch is responsible for the accounting systems and accounting operations in the programs of the department.

The branch develops new or improved financial and accounting policies, guidelines, systems and procedures and advises senior management and financial staff on the application of such improvements by directing the financial management training function.

Personnel Branch

The branch provides senior management with advice on matters concerning the management of personnel resources in the department and is responsible for the quality and effectiveness of departmental administrative services.

Corporate Policy Group

The Corporate Policy Group was established to provide senior level advice on major policy matters, and to integrate policy thrusts at the departmental level.

Parliamentary Relations, the Departmental Secretariat, and Public Information report to the Assistant Deputy Minister, Corporate Policy, because of the requirement of these units for relevant and timely guidance on policy issues.

The mandate of the Corporate Policy Group is to develop and analyse policy, to advise the deputy minister, and to work with senior departmental officials on major issues affecting the department; to ensure that policies are developed in an integrated fashion consistent with broad government priorities, departmental objectives and client needs; and to provide a communication link with Parliament, senior management and the public on matters relating to departmental policies and programs.

Office of Native Claims

The Office of Native Claims is responsible for representing the Minister and the department in both comprehensive and specific claims negotiations with native groups. It conducts the basic research and policy analysis required for policy development and the conduct of negotiations ranging across social, legal, economic and political factors. It formulates policy positions and recommendations requiring close liaison and consultation within the federal government, with provincial and territorial governments, native associations, special consultants and experts. Other major responsibilities include devising a negotiation strategy and the correlation of advice and recommendations from several key departments of the federal government, including Justice and Finance, and of provincial and territorial governments concerned.

Regional Offices

Regional offices of the Indian and Inuit Affairs program are listed under the description of that program. The department itself has no regional offices.

Additional Information — of a non-policy nature may be obtained from the appropriate regional directors. Policy questions are to be addressed to the Assistant Deputy Minister responsible for the relevant program or to the Assistant Deputy Minister, Corporate Policy Group, (819) 997-0049.

Historical Background

The Yukon Territory was established in 1898 by the Yukon Act (now RSC 1970 c. Y-2) and provides for a government consisting of a commissioner and council appointed by the Governor in Council.

Provision for the first elected members of council was made in 1899; by 1908, the territory had a fully-elected council with a monopoly over the legislative function. The commissioner has full executive powers and is chairman of the executive committee which performs the same function as the federal cabinet.

The executive committee has legislative powers comparable to those of provincial jurisdictions, with natural resources (excluding game) and management and sale of Crown lands being the exceptions. The council may not initiate legislation involving the expenditure of public monies.

Overall Responsibilities

The commissioner is responsible for the administration of the Yukon Territory, subject to the advice and assistance of the executive committee, and may not spend any territorial funds unless approved by the committee.

Subject to provisions of the Yukon Act and other federal statutes, the executive committee has responsibility for direct taxation within the territory, the territorial public service, municipal institutions, elections, licensing, incorporation of companies, solemnization of marriages, property and civil rights and administration of justice.

Other responsibilities include prisons, game management, education, liquor, health, agriculture, local public works and maintenance, as well as other matters of a local nature.

For practical reasons, some health services such as the Whitehorse General Hospital and public health are administered by federal departments.

Organization and Programs

The territorial public service consists of 24 departments, with all head offices located in Whitehorse.

Department of Highways and Public Works

The department maintains all roads, airports, territorial airstrips and float plane docks at Mayo and Dawson City, as well as all territorial buildings and equipment. It also supervises all territorial construction projects and offers professional engineering services to all Yukon government departments.

Department of Finance

The department supervises, controls, and directs all matters related to the financial affairs of the territory, including the collection of taxes and other revenue, the management of the Yukon Consolidated Revenue Fund, and the administration of the Small Business Loans program.

Department of Government Services

Government services is responsible for supply and services, printing services, data centre services, central purchasing and stores and inventory control.

The Public Affairs Bureau, which also falls under the jurisdiction of government services, publicizes government programs and services through news releases, feature articles, audio-visual presentations, photographs, brochures and other related functions.

Department of Municipal and Community Affairs

This department consists of four branches.

The local government branch provides municipal services and guidance to all Yukon communities, as well as developing fiscal policies and an annual budget.

The lands branch is responsible for community planning, land disposal, and the disposition of lands under the control of the territorial government.

The assessment branch conducts property assessment for the entire territory, including municipal assessments.

The protective services branch carries out fire prevention programs throughout the territory, coordinates the Emergency Measures Organization, and provides inspection services to ensure conformity with territorial and federal building and safety standards.

Department of Health

The health services branch administers the Yukon Health Care Insurance Plan and Yukon Hospital Insurance Services, vital statistics, and operates an ambulance service in Yukon communities.

The alcohol and drug services branch develops prevention programs to combat problems related to alcohol and other drugs, as well as providing training to professional and lay groups. The branch is also responsible for ensuring that treatment resources are available.

Rehabilitation services are provided to physically and mentally handicapped adults, using facilities within the territory when possible and purchasing services from the provinces when necessary.

Department of Human Resources

The human resources branch provides a variety of public welfare services, including social assistance, geriatric services and family and child welfare services.

Department of Education and Manpower

This department follows the British Columbia curriculum, and provides kindergarten, elementary and secondary education for Yukon students. Special education for handicapped children and adult education are also provided, as well as vocational training in trade and non-trade courses.

Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs

Besides providing inspection services for labour standards, this department is responsible for motor vehicles and lotteries, landlord and tenant legislation, consumer protection, fair practices, licensing of real estate agencies and professional registrations.

Such registrations include those on companies, securities, societies, business licenses, cooperative associations, credit unions, document registrations, motion pictures and insurance.

Department of Tourism and Economic Development

This department promotes tourism and encourages the development of tourist and recreational attractions and facilities. It also negotiates territorial-federal agreements and promotes and coordinates economic development.

Department of Renewable Resources

The game branch comes under this department and administers and enforces federal and territorial legislation governing the harvesting of wildlife and sport fishing. The branch also conducts programs of wildlife resource management. There is also a branch responsible for the development of territorial parks.

Department of Information Resources

This department consists of four branches.

The library services branch furnishes public library services to all Yukon communities and schools.

Through the media services division, audio-visual equipment and materials are made available to schools, organizations and individuals throughout the territory.

The Yukon Archives obtains and maintains information and photographs relevant to the history of the Yukon.

Records Services maintains records stations for current government departmental files, a records centre for non-active files, and performs records management functions throughout the Government of Yukon.

Yukon Liquor Corporation

This department controls all alcoholic beverages in such areas as purchasing, importing, transporting, warehousing, advertising and selling, under the jurisdiction of the Yukon Liquor Ordinance and Regulations and other related federal legislation.

Department of Justice

This department administers the territorial court system, which includes the Yukon Court of Appeal, the Supreme Court, magistrate's court, and courts presided over by justices of the peace. The Court of Appeal normally sits in Vancouver, and justices of the peace preside in every Yukon community.

The justice department is responsible for the legal aid program and provides legal advice and services to the commissioner, the assembly and all territorial departments. It also drafts or supervises the preparation of all legal documents, ordinances and regulations.

The corrections branch provides adult and juvenile probation services and operates a juvenile training home and a medium security centre for adult offenders sentenced to terms of less than two years.

Three other departments are also governed by this department: public administration, land titles and the coroners' branch. The functions of the registrar of regulations are also performed by this office.

Yukon Housing Corporation

The corporation provides for the construction and acquisition of subsidized rental housing for low-income families and persons, a rental-purchase program on a rent-to-income basis for families of limited means, and is responsible for the construction or acquisition of territorial staff housing.

Executive Committee Office

This office provides administrative support to the executive committee and the commissioner. The secretary to the executive committee also provides research and secretarial services to its subcommittees.

Clerk of the Assembly

The clerk of the assembly provides administrative support to the assembly as well as being responsible for the traditional services to the legislature.

Public Service Commission

The commission is responsible for recruiting and selecting civil servants, administering and interpreting collective bargaining agreements, contract negotiations, job evaluation and pay administration, staff control and organizational analysis and employee appraisal.

Employee training, administration of the fringe benefits program and the employee safety and security program also fall under the jurisdiction of the commission.

Intergovernmental Affairs

This department acts as a liaison between the territorial government and other governments inside and outside of Canada.

Land Claims Administrator

This individual performs research functions to assist the executive committee in matters related to the Indian land claims negotiation.

Additional Information — enquiries regarding territorial policies and programs should be directed to the director of the department concerned. General enquiries should be directed to head office (403) 667-5881.

Historical Background

In 1948, the Northwest Territories Power Commission Act established a commission to operate in the Northwest Territories. In 1956, the Northern Canada Power Commission Act (RSC 1970 c. N-21) established a new commission and extended its base of operations to include both territories.

The board, appointed by the Governor in Council, consists of a chairman and four additional members, one of whom is appointed on the recommendation of the Commissioner-in-Council of the Yukon Territory and one on the recommendation of the Commissioner-in-Council of the Northwest Territories.

The commission, a Crown corporation, is designated as an agency corporation (Schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1955-897 June 15, 1955; SOR/55-224). The commission is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

Under the Act, the commission plans, constructs, and operates utility plants and distribution systems in the Northwest and Yukon Territories, and subject to approval of the Governor in Council, elsewhere in Canada.

A 1975 amendment to the Act enables the commission to charge rates for utilities on a zone basis. (Such rates to provide revenue sufficient to cover interest on investment, repayment of principal, operating and maintenance expenses, and a contingency reserve.)

Organization and Programs

The commission serves 55 areas throughout the Yukon and Northwest Territories. In addition to the provision of electrical energy, the commission provides heat, water and sewage services to certain locations.

Operations Branch

Northwest Territories Regional Office — (403) 873-4051

Historical Background

The Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce was formed through an amalgamation of the departments of Trade and Commerce, and of Industry (Government Organization Act 1969, now Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce Act, RSC 1970 c. I-11)

Overall Responsibilities

The objective of the department is to further the growth, productivity, employment opportunities, and prosperity of the Canadian economy through the efficient development of Canada's manufacturing and processing industries, and the expansion of trade and tourism.

To achieve this objective, the department is helping the Canadian manufacturing and processing industries to improve their international competitiveness; to create a framework of conditions in world trade that will effectively advance the marketing of Canadian goods and services; to better the nation's capacity to satisfy the traveller in Canada; and to attract the traveller to Canada.

Organization and Programs

The department is organized into seven main functional groups: Industry and Commerce Development; Trade Commissioner Service and International Marketing; Tourism; Policy Planning; Enterprise Development; International Trade; and Finance and Administration.

Industry and Commerce Development

This group is responsible for encouraging and assisting in efficient and sustained growth of Canadian industrial development. The group establishes guidelines and priorities for developing a strong and internationally competitive industry. It consists of 10 industry sector branches covering the principal manufacturing, processing and service industries.

Trade Commissioner Service and International Marketing

The Trade Commissioner Service has 89 trade offices in 64 countries. Its primary role is to promote Canada's export trade and to represent and protect its commercial interests abroad.

The scheduled return of trade commissioners for official tours of Canada is a means of assisting Canadian firms interested in the export trade. Trade associations are informed in advance of these visits so that appointments may be arranged by businessmen wishing to meet with trade commissioners, through the Trade Commissioner Service, trade associations, or one of the department's regional offices.

Tourism

The role of the Office of Tourism is to organize the promotion of travel by foreign nationals to Canada and the promotion of travel by Canadians in Canada. The group is also concerned with studies and analyses of the Canadian travel industry. The group also helps coordinate the total Canadian tourism promotion effort outside Canada by working with provincial travel bureaus, transportation companies and national, regional and local tourist associations.

Policy Planning

Policy Planning is comprised of three areas: Economic Analysis, Policy Analysis, and Energy and Special Assignments.

Economic Analysis is responsible for basic economic research and long-term economic studies related to the work of the department in fostering the growth of Canadian industry. Policy Analysis provides information and expertise on departmental horizontal issues. It is responsible for analysis and assessment of economic and general policy information from all sources within the federal government, provincial governments, industry and labour.

Energy and Special Assignments analyzes energy policies and assesses the industrial and trade impacts of large energy resource projects. It acts as departmental liaison on energy policy matters and carries out special assignments for senior management.

Enterprise Development

Enterprise Development is involved with programs and services aimed at the development and maintenance of a strong and internationally competitive Canadian industry. These responsibilities are achieved by providing financial and other assistance and by means of technological, design, financial and business advisory programs. This group also ensures, to the extent possible, that the policies, programs and practices of closely associated financial and other institutions such as the Federal Business Development Bank, the Export Development Corporation, the Standards Council, and the Metric Commission are supportive of and consistent with current economic and industrial policies and international trade and marketing initiatives of the department and the government.

International Trade Group

International Trade develops, creates and maintains policies and programs favourable to Canadian international trade and ensures that Canadian economic policy takes adequate account of the international environment.

It consists of the Export Development, and International Trade Relations components plus the European Bureau; Pacific, Asia and Africa Bureau; Western Hemisphere Bureau; and the Trade Commissioner Service.

International Trade Relations

This area is responsible for the creation and improvement of an international trading environment favourable to Canadian trade and other economic interests. It is also responsible for policies and programs to safeguard and advance Canada's international trading interests. Because it is a primary departmental contact with foreign governments and international organizations which influence trade, it must consult and negotiate with such governments and organizations and work closely with other departments, the provinces, and business and academic communities.

The component consists of the Office of General Relations; Office of Special Import Policy; Export/Import Permits Division.

International Bureaus

The three international bureaus: the European Bureau, the Pacific, Asia and Africa Bureau and the Western Hemisphere Bureau are the central contact point in Canada's trade and economic relations with other countries. They carry out policy studies, recommend and initiate negotiations for bilateral and multilateral trade agreements. The bureaus advise government departments and agencies, as well as the business community, on foreign trade relations. They develop and coordinate regional and country "thrusts" to stimulate increased Canadian trade. The bureaus also work closely with the Trade Commissioner Service and International Marketing on Canadian marketing activities in the various regions of the world.

Design Canada

Design Canada, as the administrative arm of the National Design Council, and as the branch of Industry, Trade and Commerce responsible for design in industry, manages a number of programs aimed at improving the products of Canadian secondary industry. Design Canada programs include: co-funded design assistance programs to industry for design utilization; a design advisory service; design internship with industry; scholarships; design education advisory service and materials; product design case studies; audio-visual presentations and exhibits; and awards for design in industry.

Business Centre

The department has established a Business Centre in Ottawa at 235 Queen Street. This centre is the initial contact point within the department for businessmen visiting or planning to visit Ottawa and seeking information about federal government programs and services.

The Business Centre can:

- (a) arrange appointments in advance with officials for businessmen planning to visit Ottawa;

- (b) discuss with visiting businessmen their particular requests and arrange appointments with appropriate federal government officials;
- (c) give advice on industrial or trade matters related to the operations of Industry, Trade and Commerce and guidance on departments to contact concerning particular problems;
- (d) follow up on requests to ascertain that businessmen have received proper attention and service;
- (e) develop and maintain an information bank on federal government activities affecting business, and
- (f) have available for distribution copies of all departmental publications.

To improve the department's accessibility to the business community across Canada, the centre has a Zenith number for information on government's programs and services. Businessmen from any location in Canada can contact the Business Centre, toll free, by calling the operator and asking for Zenith 0-3200.

Historical Background

The Canadian Commercial Corporation (CCC) was established in 1946 by the Canadian Commercial Corporation Act (now RSC 1970 c. C-6). Initially, it assumed the responsibilities of the then Canadian Export Board for the procurement in Canada of goods and services on behalf of foreign governments and United Nations relief agencies.

In 1947, responsibility for procurement of the requirements of the Department of National Defence was transferred from the Department of Reconstruction and Supply to the corporation, which fulfilled these additional functions until the formation of the Department of Defence Production in 1951. In 1963, the staff of the corporation was integrated with that of the Department of Defence Production (now Department of Supply and Services) which provided all the management and services required by the corporation.

In June, 1976, it was agreed by the government that the Canadian Commercial Corporation would take a more vigorous approach in support of the private sector in pursuing opportunities for international turnkey and major capital projects.

A number of changes were made to adapt the structure and strategy of the corporation to its broadened mandate. A new chairman, president and other directors were appointed to the CCC Board during 1978 which now consists of three members from the public service and seven members with extensive experience in international trade from the business community.

In November, 1978, the responsibility for the Canadian Commercial Corporation was transferred from the Minister of Supply and Services to the Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce. This step acknowledged the cooperative and complementary activities of the corporation and the Department of Industry Trade and Commerce, both of whom focus on serving private sector enterprises operating in the international field.

Overall Responsibilities

The main functions of the corporation as set out in the Act are:

- (a) to assist in the development of trade between Canada and other nations;
- (b) to assist persons in Canada in obtaining goods and commodities from outside; and
- (c) to dispose of goods and commodities that are available for export from Canada.

Since 1946, the corporation has assisted in providing procurement and consultative services to over 90 countries for a business volume of over $7.5 billion. Last year, 8,000 enquiries were processed, resulting in over 1,800 contracts received from foreign governments and international agencies — a total of over $300 million of export business on behalf of the private sector.

In these instances, CCC is the prime contractor with the client country and subcontracts goods and services with Canadian firms. CCC provides Canadian suppliers access to foreign government purchasing offices and assumes responsibility for the administration of the contract and arranges, as required, shipment, inspection and acceptance. It also makes prompt payment to Canadian suppliers upon shipment of the goods and, when required by the customer, participates in securing bid and performance bonds.

This traditional CCC business — responding to procurement requests of foreign governments and international agencies seeking Canadian goods and services — is still a function of the Export Supply Centre of the Department of Supply and Services. The centre acts on behalf of CCC according to the terms of a memorandum of understanding between the department and the corporation.

With the many opportunities around the world for turnkey and other capital projects, and with the increased number of countries preferring government-to-government transactions and relationships, a corporate headquarters was formed with overall responsibility for the corporation as well as the operational responsibility for turnkey and major capital projects.

The corporation becomes involved at the request either of a client government wishing to deal on a government-to-government basis, or of a private firm or consortium when government involvement is desirable or essential in winning a contract.

Historical Background

Canadian Patents and Development Limited (C P D L) was established to make available to the public, through licensing arrangements with industry, the industrial and intellectual property which results from publicly funded research and development.

C P D L may receive the ideas and inventions of public servants in all departments of the federal government and professional staff and employees of universities and other publicly funded and non-profit institutions. The ideas and inventions are first assessed for patentability and commercial use. Patent applications may then be filed in various countries in respect of those which are considered commercially exploitable and patentable. Some which are not patentable may be licensed as know-how independently, or together with patent rights. That portion of the license fees and royalties paid under license agreements and retained by C P D L is used to defray its commercial operating expenses.

In carrying out its responsibilities in the financial year 1978-79, C P D L has endeavoured to maintain the averages it experienced in past years regarding assessment of inventions, the filing of patent applications and the licensing of industrial and intellectual property. That portion of the Government Organization (Scientific Activities) Act, 1976, (SC 1976-77 c. 24) affecting C P D L, was proclaimed on May 1, 1978, and the issued shares of the corporation, held by the National Research Council of Canada in trust for Her Majesty in right of Canada, were registered in the books of the corporation in the name of Her Majesty in right of Canada, as represented by the Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce. Upon completion of the transfer of the shares, Section 17 of the National Research Council Act (RSC 1970 c. N-14) ceased to apply to the corporation. At the annual meeting of the shareholders in July, 1978, the Board of Directors was authorized to seek a Certificate of Continuance under the Canada Business Corporations Act, (SC 1974-75-76 c. 33) which certificate was issued July 20, 1978. The corporation now has no limitations on its operations except those contained in the Statutes of Canada, and can therefore carry out its responsibilities without restriction.

Historical Background

The Export Development Corporation (EDC), established on Oct. 1, 1969, under the Export Development Act, succeeded the Export Credits Insurance Corporation. EDC, a Crown corporation, is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule D) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1969-1836, 24 Sept. 1969; SOR/69-484). EDC is an agent of Her Majesty.

EDC operates on a commercially self-sustaining basis to help Canadian exporters meet international credit competition. In its specialized fields, EDC is the only institution of its kind in Canada.

Overall Responsibilities

EDC facilities are not intended to subsidize exporters. The corporation operates on a commercial basis to help Canadian exporters who are competitive in terms of price, quality, delivery and service meet normal commercial credit competition in world markets.

Organization and Programs

The corporation offers the following facilities:

- (1) credit insurance to exporters and guarantees to banks and other financial institutions that finance Canadian exporters;
- (2) long-term export loans to finance the sale of Canadian capital equipment and engineering/consulting and other technical services to foreign buyers;
- (3) foreign investment guarantees, insuring Canadians against loss of, or in respect of, investment abroad by reason of political action;
- (4) surety insurance for Canadian exporters, banks and other financial institutions against calls on performance bonds and guarantees;
- (5) contractor's surety insurance to provide surety assistance to enable Canada's construction industry to carry its expertise offshore.

EDC services are available to any person or corporation, regardless of size, doing business in Canada and paying Canadian taxes.

The facilities provided by EDC do not subsidize exporters or investors. Canadian firms compete in foreign markets on the normal commercial basis of price, quality, delivery and service.

Administration

Direction of the affairs of EDC is vested in a 12-member board chaired by its president. To reflect the commercial nature of the corporation, the board is made up of senior representatives of government and private industry.

Income and Funding

Income is derived from premiums, interest and guarantee fees. Funding for its lending operations is derived through borrowing in the international money and capital markets.

Historical Background

The Federal Business Development Bank (FBDB) is a Crown corporation established by the Federal Business Development Bank Act, which was declared in force on October 2, 1975. On that date, FBDB succeeded the Industrial Development Bank which had been operating since November 1, 1944, as a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Bank of Canada.

Overall Responsibilities

FBDB assists in the establishment and development of business enterprises in Canada by providing them with financial and management services. It supplements such services available from others and it gives particular attention to the needs of small enterprises.

Organization and Programs

Financial Services

The bank extends financial assistance to new or existing businesses which do not have other sources of financing available to them on reasonable terms and conditions.

The qualifications for FBDB financing are:

- (a) that the amount and character of investment in such a business by persons other than FBDB may reasonably be expected to ensure the continuing commitment of these persons to the business; and
- (b) that the business may reasonably be expected to prove successful.

Such financing is available by means of loans, loan guarantees, equity financing, or by any combination of these methods, in whatever manner best suits the particular needs of the business. Where loans are involved they are made at interest rates which are in line with those generally available to businesses. Most loans are repaid within 10 years. Where equity is involved, FBDB normally takes a minority interest and is prepared to have its investment repurchased on suitable terms.

Most customers use FBDB funds to acquire land, buildings, or equipment. Others use them to strengthen the working capital of a business, to establish new businesses, for metric conversion or similar purposes.

Management Services

Management Counselling — CASE

The FBDB management counselling service, known as CASE (Counselling Assistance to Small Enterprises), assists small businesses in Canada to improve their methods of doing business.

This service is provided at a nominal fee and it supplements counselling services obtainable from the private sector. CASE counsellors are retired business persons who are on call to undertake assignments.

Management Training

To help improve management skills in small Canadian businesses, the bank conducts management-training seminars, at a moderate registration fee, in cities and towns across Canada. These seminars are planned to meet the needs of owners and managers of small businesses. The bank also prepares special joint seminars in collaboration with industry associations and other organizations.

FBDB develops management-training courses and distributes them to provincial and territorial education authorities for their use. It also sponsors and supports conferences to promote good management practices.

Information Services

The FBDB publishes booklets on a wide range of topics pertaining to the management of small business in Canada. It distributes a bulletin featuring business developments and maintains reference libraries with a variety of publications on small-business management at its branch offices. Operators of small businesses can also obtain information about assistance programs for businesses available from the federal government and others, and are directed to representatives of appropriate assistance programs.

Regional Offices

There are regional offices in Halifax, Montréal, Toronto, Winnipeg, and Vancouver, and 87 branch offices and seven sub-branches across the country.

The first proclamation of the Act, relating to acquisitions of control of existing Canadian businesses, was made on April 9, 1974. The second proclamation of the Act, concerning the establishment of new businesses, came into force on October 15, 1975.

Overall Responsibilities

The agency advises and assists the Minister in assessing significant benefit to Canada or the likelihood of significant benefit to Canada of proposals by non-Canadians regarding acquisition of control of Canadian business enterprises, the establishment of new businesses in Canada, and their expansion into unrelated businesses in Canada.

The agency:

- (a) negotiates undertakings and consults with provincial governments and other federal departments in formulating opinions as to whether proposed acquisitions or investments provide significant benefit to Canada;
- (b) provides legal and administrative support to assist in the assessment process;
- (c) prepares ministerial rulings as required by the Act;
- (d) monitors, investigates, and recommends enforcement measures to secure compliance with the legislation; and
- (e) provides the research and analysis necessary to assist in the effective administration of the Foreign Investment Review Act.

Historical Background

The Metric Commission was created in 1971 by the Industry Trade and Commerce Act. (Metric Commission Order, Order in Council P.C. 1971-1146 of June 1971). The chairman is appointed "at pleasure."

Overall Responsibilities

The commission advises the Minister on plans for conversion to the metric system and on the need for legislation. It also initiates, coordinates, and undertakes investigations, surveys and studies relating to the implications of conversion to the metric system in different sectors of the Canadian economy. In consultation and cooperation with any federal or provincial department or agency, (the Standards Council of Canada) or other interested parties, it prepares an overall plan for conversion to the metric system that will ensure, as far as possible, that programs are phased in and coordinated in order to maximize the benefits of conversion while minimizing the costs. The commission also publishes and disseminates information concerning conversion to the metric system.

Organization and Programs

Steering Committees

To perform its task the commission has established 12 steering committees, each responsible for coordinating a group of economic sectors with related interests.

In addition, there is an Interdepartmental Committee for Metric Conversion which is responsible for coordinating conversion within the federal government.

Another committee, established to oversee the public information program of the commission, acts as a consultant to its officers and commissioners in this field.

The steering committees coordinate the plans of the different sectors and submit to the commission a consolidated plan for their segment of the economy. The commission integrates sector plans to form the overall program for the economy.

Sector Committees

The commission has established 105 sector committees which report to the steering committees. Each is responsible for a particular industry, group of industries or interests.

Principal Officers

Director General .....	K.G. Wilson
Director, Policy Development .....	M.D. Bélanger
Director, Financial Policy .....	A.J. Siman
Head, Small Business Intern Program .....	I.R.U. Fraser

Historical Background

The implementation by the Canadian government of small business support measures began in 1944 when the Industrial Development Bank (IDB) was established to provide debt financing to small firms and to help small business adjust to post war economic conditions. Throughout the 1950s and 1960s and up to the current decade, the IDB served as an important source of financing for new and expanding small businesses.

In 1975, the IDB was replaced by a new Crown corporation, the Federal Business Development Bank (FBDB). Direct lending to small businesses expanded, and the FBDB has opened new branch offices all across Canada. The bank also is empowered to make equity investments in small firms.

The appointment of a Minister of State, Small Business, is a comparatively recent development in the relationship between the small business community and the federal government. In September, 1976, the Cabinet portfolio of Minister of State for Small Business was created pursuant to section 23 of the Ministries and Ministers of State Act. A Minister of State was assigned to assist the Minister of Industry, Trade and Commerce in carrying out the latter's responsibilities in respect of small businesses in Canada, with the focus being on small business policies and initiatives.

Overall Responsibilities

The Small Business Secretariat performs an advocacy role on behalf of small businesses. Accordingly, the Secretariat's functions include:

- research and policy planning on broad issues affecting the Canadian small business community;
- representation of that community's interests before line departments whose programs are involved;
- daily contact with small businessmen and their organizations to aid in the resolution of problems or concerns; and
- dissemination of information to the small business community.

The Small Business Secretariat's activities also involve the development of a comprehensive small business policy. Policy proposals were prepared and, following Cabinet approval, were announced in September, 1977.

Progress in the development of this strategy has included the following initiatives by the Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce and others:

- the creation of a Paperburden Reduction Office which is already resulting in substantial savings to small business;
- consultations with the provinces on policies and programs;
- the establishment of business centres in Ottawa and other major centres across Canada to provide the business community with information on government programs and services (see section on Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce);
- support for the establishment of a pilot business council in Hamilton-Wentworth to encourage closer and mutually beneficial relationships between small and large firms and, more specifically, to assist smaller firms in obtaining much needed expertise from larger firms; similar councils are expected to be formed in other centres across Canada;
- various tax measures to assist small business, e.g. easing the transfer of family-owned businesses, allowing broader capital loss deductions, relief from federal sales tax to all business manufacturers with sales less than $50,000 annually;
- continuing work on studies of the equity financing environment (including the May 24, 1978, discussion paper entitled "Improving the Equity Financing Environment for Small Business in Canada");
- improved access for small firms to federal government contracts, e.g. subcontracting to small firms by large companies receiving Department of Supply and Services contracts;
- a domestic sourcing system and service are being established to permit domestic buyers to identify Canadian sources of supply, and as such will particularly assist small and medium-sized businesses to market their products; and
- a handbook entitled "New Statistics on Small Business" produced in cooperation with Statistics Canada.

In order to enhance the quality of human resources available to small and very small businesses, two new programs were established utilizing Canada Employment and Immigration Commission funding: the Small Business Intern Program and the Business Associations Job Corps Program. Over and above creating more jobs for graduates out of work, the Small Business Intern Program is intended to encourage the productive small business sector to take on broad new skills and talent that can contribute to the owner's "team", and reduce the risks inherent in expansion. The aim of the Business Associations Job Corps Program is two-fold: first, to enable associations to improve and to expand services to their members; and second, to provide young unemployed persons with valuable work experience.

Substantive improvements have been made to the Small Businesses Loans Act (SBLA), the administration of which was transferred to the Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce from the Department of Finance. In addition, the eligibility criteria of the Act have been expanded and the maximum loan limit has been increased to $75,000.

Historical Background

This council was established by the Standards Council of Canada Act (RSC 1970 c. 41, [1st Supp]). The council is not an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The council's objectives are to foster and promote voluntary standardization in fields relating to the construction, manufacture, production, quality, performance and safety of buildings, structures, manufactured articles and products and other goods, including components thereof, not expressly provided for by law, as a means of advancing the national economy, benefiting the health, safety and welfare of the public, assisting and protecting consumers, facilitating domestic and international trade and furthering international cooperation in the field of standards.

The council's function includes planning and guidance with respect to the change of standards to the metric system. It sets its own policies and makes its own decisions within the terms of the Standards Council of Canada Act.

Organization and Programs

The council consists of not more than 57 Order in Council appointed members, of whom six are federal representatives, 10 are provincial representatives and 41 are representatives of national organizations. Membership is broadly representative of all levels of government, primary and secondary industries, distributive and service industries, trade associations, labour unions, provincial associations, consumer associations and the academic community.

National Standardization Program

The program provides for the:

- (a) accreditation to the National Standards System of organizations in Canada engaged in standards formulation, testing, and certification;
- (b) promotion of cooperation among organizations to coordinate standardization activities and develop common standards and codes; and
- (c) identification of the need for new standards and additional testing and certification services plus the arrangement for such need to be satisfied.

International Standardization Program

The program provides for Canadian participation in the activities of the International Organization for Standardization (ISO), and the International Electro-Technical Commission (IEC) and similar international organizations engaged in the formulation of voluntary standards. The program assures effective Canadian participation in the activities of such organizations, and the exchange of information and cooperation in standards formulation, testing, and certification.

The International Standardization Branch is located at 2000 Argentia Road Mississauga, Ontario, L5N 1V8, (416) 826-8110.

Education and Information Program

The council maintains a national standards information service at its head office, serving the public through toll-free telephone access, as well as through the mails. This service publishes a national directory and index of Canadian voluntary standards which is distributed widely to industry and government. Through its publications, press releases and audio-visual productions, the council provides a continual public education program.

Minister

Minister of Justice and Attorney General of Canada

Principal Officers

Deputy Minister and Deputy Attorney General of Canada	... Roger Tassé, Q.C.
Associate Deputy Ministers	Paul M. Ollivier, Q.C. Donald H. Christie, Q.C.

Historical Background

The British North America Act, 1867 provided for the establishment of a department of justice that would supervise all legal matters under federal responsibilities. The department was established in 1868 by An Act respecting the Department of Justice (now the Department of Justice Act RSC 1970 c. J-2).

Overall Responsibilities

Under the Act, the Minister of Justice shall:

- (a) be the official legal adviser of the Governor General and the legal member of Her Majesty's (the Queen's) Privy Council for Canada;
- (b) see that the administration of public affairs is in accordance with law;
- (c) have the superintendence of all matters connected with the administration of justice in Canada, not within the jurisdiction of the governments of the provinces;
- (d) advise upon the legislative Acts and proceedings of each of the legislatures of the provinces of Canada and generally advise the Crown upon all matters of law referred to him by the Crown; and
- (e) be charged generally with such other duties as are at any time assigned by the Governor in Council to the Minister of Justice.

And the Attorney General of Canada shall:

- (a) be entrusted with the powers and charged with the duties that belong to the office of the Attorney General of England by law or usage, so far as those powers and duties are applicable to Canada. Also with the powers and duties that, by the laws of the several provinces, belonged to the office of the Attorney General of each province up to the time when the British North America Act, 1867, came into effect, so far as those laws under the provisions of the said Act are to be administered and carried into effect by the Government of Canada;
- (b) advise the heads of the several departments of the government upon all matters of law connected with such departments;
- (c) be charged with the settlement and approval of all instruments issued under the Great Seal of Canada;
- (d) have the regulation and conduct of all litigation for or against the Crown or any public department, in respect of any subject within the authority or jurisdiction of Canada; and
- (e) be charged generally with such other duties as are at any time assigned by the Governor in Council to the Attorney General of Canada.

Organization and Programs

The Department of Justice carries out, in relation to the Crown in right of Canada, such legal functions and services as are customary for a law firm to perform with respect to its clients. The general nature of the work, however, differs from that of a law firm to the extent and in the manner that the operations of government differ from those of corporations and individuals. In addition, the department plays an important policy development role for the federal government in a number of areas of the justice system. The department also administers several programs and has a grants and contributions function.

In addition to nine branches, departmental legal services advise 36 federal government departments, agencies, boards and Crown corporations.

Public Law Branch

The Public Law Branch has the major responsibility of providing constitutional advice to the government. It also develops policy in other areas of constitutional, administrative and international law as well as such public law matters as human rights. The branch consists of two sections.

Advisory and Research Section

This section is responsible for the preparation of legal opinions requested by the Government of Canada, its departments, agencies, boards and Crown corporations and ensures that specific policy initiatives are fortified by research into their legal implications.

Constitutional, Administrative and International Law Section

This section deals with matters of law included in its title. It has an essentially consultant function, advising other departments and agencies on such matters as the validity of administrative actions, the constitutionality of proposed legislation and the legal aspects of intergovernmental negotiations. This involves the provision of advice on various questions, particularly those related to constitutional interpretation, litigation on constitutional issues, the legal implications for Canada of membership in international organizations, treaties and agreements between nations, the effect of international developments upon domestic law, and the application of legal rules to the administrative machinery of government.

Criminal Law Branch

The Criminal Law Branch is responsible for prosecutions for infraction of federal statutes and, in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territory, the enforcement of criminal law. It also advises the Minister of Justice with respect to amending the Criminal Code of Canada.

Criminal Law Prosecutions Section

This section conducts prosecutions in the National Capital Region, Northern Ontario and Northwest Québec. The regional offices are generally responsible for prosecutions in all other areas of the country. This section also conducts appeals to the Federal Court and the Supreme Court of Canada in criminal matters, recommends appointments of standing agents to the Minister and deals with applications for new trials or references to provincial Courts of Appeal.

Criminal Law Amendment Section

The Criminal Code of Canada remains effective and workable through the studies of this section. It is also involved in the development and implementation of legislative amendments within a policy framework and negotiates with the provinces on criminal law changes.

Legislative Programming Branch

The Legislative Programming Branch comprises three sections.

Legislation Section

The section is responsible for the drafting of all bills presented to Parliament and for ensuring that they are consistent with the purpose and provisions of the Canadian Bill of Rights.

Privy Council Section

Besides providing legal advice to the Privy Council Office, the section prepares regulations under statutes, reviews all statutory instruments in accordance with the Statutory Instruments Act and ensures that all regulations are consistent with the purpose and provisions of the Canadian Bill of Rights.

Statute Revision Commission

A chairman and two other members, all Department of Justice employees, are responsible for the revision and consolidation of federal statutes and regulations.

Civil Litigation Branch

The Civil Litigation Branch includes the Civil Litigation Section and the General Counsel. The Civil Litigation Section is charged with the conduct of civil litigation, as distinct from criminal litigation, arising in any of the Common Law provinces. Lawyers in this section appear on behalf of the Crown in provincial and federal courts, including the Federal Court and Supreme Court of Canada and numerous administrative tribunals such as the Tax Review Board, the Tariff Board, the Immigration Appeal Board and the Pension Appeal Board. They deal with such litigation as that arising in connection with rulings of administrative tribunals, income tax, government expropriation and contracts, accidents and labour relations disputes.

General Counsel appear for the Crown in particularly complex or high-profile cases.

Civil Law Branch

This branch comprises the Civil Law Section and the Montréal Regional Office.

The Civil Law Section handles matters concerned with the Civil Law (Droit Civil) as distinguished from the Common Law. It deals with civil litigation for or against the federal government and with land transactions and other non-criminal matters arising in the Province of Québec. This section also advises the Minister of Justice on certain matters not necessarily involving actual litigation, but which are essentially concerned with the application of the Civil Law of the Province of Québec.

The lawyers in this section also appear before the Superior Court of Québec and other civil courts of Québec, the Federal Court, the Supreme Court of Canada, and various administrative tribunals. Notaries of the section administer real property transactions involving the federal government in Québec.

Trade and Finance Branch

The Trade and Finance Branch is responsible for providing legal advice and services to the federal government departments and agencies involved in the areas of trade and finance and any other trade related areas or activities for which specialized legal advice or services may be required. It also advises the government on matters of general policy pertaining to the relationship between government and Crown corporations and agencies.

Property and Commercial Law Branch

This branch is responsible for non-litigious legal work relating to land and the acquisition of land throughout Canada, except in the Province of Québec, by purchase and expropriation. It also works on cases involving the disposition of land by Letters Patent. Further, it deals with all commercial law matters involving the federal government.

Policy Planning and Development Branch

This branch is responsible for identifying emerging legal issues and suggesting appropriate actions in response as well as recommending departmental priorities and research activities.

Policy Planning Section

The section identifies emerging issues and develops policy initiatives in response. It analyzes and assesses recommendations of the Law Reform Commission of Canada and ensures consultation with those who are likely to be affected by a change in legislation.

Programs and Law Information Development Section

This section develops and implements law-related programs of the department.

Evaluation and Statistics

This section is responsible for studying and evaluating departmentally-funded programs such as those in the legal aid area and advising the department on its need for various kinds of research, mainly socio-legal and criminological.

Jurimetrics

The department's Jurimetrics Adviser oversees the application of electronic data processing of bills, statutes and regulations and the development of electronic storage and retrieval of statutory information.

Administration Branch

The Administration Branch is responsible for the general administration of the department including: Personnel Administration, Finance and Administration, the Library, Information Services and Security. Also included with Administration is the Central Divorce Registry which was established with the enactment of the 1968 Divorce Act. The Registry uses a computer to record all divorces and petitions for divorces. In 1970, a Search Inquiry Service was initiated so both individuals and solicitors may verify the status of a prior petition or determine if the other spouse has started a divorce action.

Regional Offices

The eight regional offices conduct much of the criminal and civil litigation in their areas, both at the trial and the provincial court of appeal level. In addition, they handle some litigation in the Supreme Court of Canada. The offices also provide legal advice not involving litigation to various federal government departments and the R.C.M.P. both in the centres where they are located and, to a considerable extent, in other areas of their province.

Law Reform Commission of Canada

Head Office

Varetté Building
130 Albert Street
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0L6

Minister

Minister of Justice

Members of the Commission

Chairman, Francis C. Muldoon, Q.C. (6/84)	Winnipeg, Man.
Vice-Chairman, Jean-Louis Baudouin, Q.C. (12/79)	Montréal, Qué.
Members
Gerard V. La Forest, Q.C. (4/81)	Grand Falls, N.B.
His Honour, Judge Edward James Houston (9/81)	Ottawa, Ont.
The Hon. Mr. Justice Jacques Ducros (5/84)	Montréal, Qué.

Historical Background

The commission was established under the Law Reform Commission Act (RSC 1970 c. 23 [1st Supp]). It began its operations on June 1, 1971, with four full-time and two part-time members. The Act was amended in 1975, providing for the replacement of the part-time members by a fifth full-time member.

The commission is an independent body funded by parliamentary appropriations.

Overall Responsibilities

The objectives of the commission are to study and keep under review on a continuing and systematic basis the statutes and other laws comprising the laws of Canada with a view to making recommendations for their improvement, modernization and reform, including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing:

- the removal of anachronisms and anomalies in the law;
- the reflection in and by the law of the distinctive concepts and institutions of the common law and civil law legal systems in Canada, and the reconciliation of differences and discrepancies in the expression and application of the law arising out of differences in those concepts and institutions;
- the elimination of obsolete laws; and
- the development of new approaches to and new concepts of the law in keeping with and responsive to the changing needs of modern Canadian society and of individual members of that society.

Organization and Programs

The commission at full complement comprises the chairman, the vice-chairman, and three commissioners. They are assisted by the secretary, who is charged with overall direction of administrative policy, organizing of committee meetings, and management of the public communications program, and by the director of operations who is responsible for general administration, contract negotiation and management, and financial management. Supporting the operations of the commission is a staff which provides communication, translation, library, secretarial, and clerical services.

Law Research

The commission's law research activity is carried out almost entirely by contract, usually with individuals but sometimes with institutions. Some researchers are stationed at the commission headquarters in Ottawa and function, in effect, as the commission's expert staff. The commission conducts research and analysis of the laws and legal systems and institutions of Canada and those foreign countries which are of significant interest.

In pursuing its task of making recommendations for the improvement, modernization, and reform of the law, the commission follows a work program encompassing the following broad topics: Criminal Procedure, Criminal Law, Administrative Law, Protection of Life, and Modernization of Statutes.

Meetings

The commission is required by the Act to meet at least six times per year. In practice, meetings take place more frequently for formulation of general policy, planning and scheduling of the work program and related budgetary matters, consideration of research work and reviewing drafts for publications.

Publications

In lieu of public hearings, the commission uses publications to communicate with the judiciary, the legal profession and the public at large. The commission publishes study papers and working papers to encourage public and professional comment before writing its final reports to Parliament. It also issues an annual report which is tabled in Parliament by the Minister of Justice.

Criminal Procedure

The Criminal Procedure Project was established to study, evaluate, and make recommendations relating to the methods by which the state, through its officials and institutions, reacts to the commission of offences under federal legislation. The scope of the project includes police powers, pre-trial procedures, jury trials, and non-prosecutorial methods of disposition. Although work has been done in all of these areas, the initial emphasis has been on pre-trial procedures resulting in papers on discovery in the criminal process and a report to Parliament entitled "Criminal Procedure — Part I". Other reports to Parliament include "Guidelines on Dispositions and Sentences in the Criminal Process", and "Mental Disorder in the Criminal Process". The focus of research has now shifted to police powers. In this respect, the commission is undertaking a major study of search and seizure, including police practice in searching with and without warrant, the use of writs of assistance, electronic surveillance, search powers outside the Criminal Code, and the impact of private security bodies on law enforcement. This will be followed by a study on arrest.

Criminal Law

This project includes research on substantive criminal law, including specific offences dealing with homicide and offences of violence, as well as other offences, such as those against property. In the field of general principles the work involves consideration and re-drafting of the general part of the Criminal Code with regard to criminal responsibility, defences, parties to offences and inchoate offences. Reports already tabled in Parliament cover such topics as "Our Criminal Law" (basic principles), "Sexual Offences", and "Theft and Fraud".

Administrative Law

The Administrative Law Project carries out research and other related activities to identify and meet needs for reform in the laws and procedures that govern relationships between people and government. At this time, the project is directing its attention to the operations of independent federal administrative agencies, boards, commissions and tribunals that perform a wide range of functions from adjudicating individual rights and regulating economic activity to providing money or other benefits to certain persons or groups. Working papers on Commissions of Inquiry and on Judicial Review of Administrative Authorities by the Federal Court have been produced, circulated and commented upon, and reports to Parliament on these two subjects are now being prepared. In preparation for a general working paper and possible future reports on need for reform in administrative law as it affects federal agencies, a series of study papers on individual agencies is being prepared by consultants to the commission. Information from those agency studies and from a paper on Disclosure of Information, Confidentiality and Administrative Tribunals, is being used by the commission in preparing parts of the general paper that treats such issues as administrative procedural justice, judicial review, accountability to Parliament and to Cabinet, and representations of interests before agencies. In the near future, the project will also focus more specifically on administrative procedure legislation or guidelines, institutional modes of monitoring administrative agency activities, and the use and effectiveness of administrative sanctions.

A report entitled "Expropriation" was tabled in Parliament in 1976. It contained many recommendations aimed at improving the federal law of expropriation, in particular, by enactment of a single expropriation statute.

Protection of Life

The Protection of Life Project was established on a multi-disciplinary basis to evaluate the way present Canadian law, relative to medical science and practice, protects life and the quality of life, and to make proposals for reform should they be judged necessary. A series of study papers and working papers is to be published as a prelude to a year of reactions, consultations and hearings. Subsequently the final analyses and proposals will be presented in a report to Parliament. The subjects under study include: criteria for the determination of death (already published as a working paper), cessation of treatment of the terminally ill, behaviour modification, experimentation and research on humans, treatment, consent to medical care, sterilization and the mentally retarded person, sanctity or quality of life, meaning of the person in law. Although the primary area of concern for this project is the law within federal jurisdiction, particularly the Criminal Code, there exists the possibility that a need for legislative action in other fields may become apparent.

Modernization of Statutes

The purpose of this project is to conduct a continuing review of matters falling within federal statute law, in line with the commission's general responsibilities for modernization and adaptation of the laws of Canada. The work of the project differs in scale from other commission projects in that it focuses on small but important changes which may not require wide public consultation prior to commission action. The commission welcomes submissions or suggestions from the judiciary, the legal profession and the public concerning appropriate matters for reform under this project.

The following reports have been tabled in Parliament: "Sunday Observance", "The Cheque — Some modernization", and "The Exigibility of Remuneration Payable by the Crown in the Right of Canada".

Other Projects

In the past, the commission has tabled reports in Parliament on family law and the laws of evidence.

Historical Background

The Office of Commissioner for Federal Judicial Affairs was created in 1977 by Part III of the Judges Act (RSC 1970, c. J-1 as amended by SC 1976-77, c. 25).

Overall Responsibilities

The Commissioner's principal duty is to administer Part I of the Judges Act which provides for salaries, pensions and allowances for federally appointed judges. He is also responsible for administrative matters relating to the Federal Court of Canada and the Canadian Judicial Council. He has been assigned responsibility for the editing and publication of the Federal Court Reports as well as language training for judges.

Organization and Programs

The Commissioner exercises his responsibility through four principal groupings: Central Services, Federal Court Administration, the Secretariat of the Canadian Judicial Council and Federal Court Reports.

Central Services

The Deputy Commissioner acts for the Commissioner during his absence on all matters within his area of responsibility. He also ensures the provision of central financial, administrative and personnel services including compensation, administration and language training for judges.

Deputy Registrar .....	Norman Delorme

Historical Background

An Income Tax Appeal Board was established by section 22 of An Act to amend the Income War Tax Act (SC 1946 c. 55) to hear and determine appeals instituted by taxpayers from income tax and gift tax assessments for 1946 and subsequent years. By Section 22 of An Act to amend the Income Tax Act (SC 1958 c. 32) the name of the board was changed to the Tax Appeal Board.

By the Tax Review Board Act (SC 1970-71-72 c. 11), which was proclaimed to take effect as of December 15, 1971, a board to be known as the Tax Review Board was created, but section 18 of the Act declared that the former Tax Appeal Board and the new Tax Review Board were, for all purposes, one and the same body. (The main differences between the former Tax Appeal Board and the Tax Review Board are that written reasons for judgement need not be given by the Tax Review Board unless it deems it to be in the public interest to do so, the practice being to give oral reasons at the conclusion of the hearing; and the members are appointed to hold office until age 70 and not for a period of years as were members of the Tax Appeal Board. Another innovation is that the members are now entitled to a pension pursuant to the Judges Act.)

Overall Responsibilities

The board's objective is to provide an easily accessible and independent tribunal for the informal and expeditious disposition of disputes between taxpayers and the Minister of National Revenue. It is the board's duty to hear and dispose of appeals on matters arising under the Income Tax Act, the Canada Pension Plan, the Estate Tax Act, and any other Act of Parliament in respect of which an appeal to the board is provided by the legislation.

Organization and Programs

The board consists of a chairman and assistant chairman, (each of whom must have been either a judge of a superior court of Canada or of a superior, county or district court of a province, or a barrister or advocate of not less than 10 years' standing at the bar of any of the provinces), and not less than one nor more than five other members. At any given point in time, either the chairman or the assistant chairman must have been a judge of the Superior Court of Québec or a member of the bar of that province.

The chairman, as the chief executive officer, supervises the apportionment of the work among the members and assigns the members to preside individually at hearings of the board. As well, the chairman exercises general supervision over the conduct of the work of the board, the management of its internal affairs, and the duties of its staff.

Registrar

The registrar, with the assistance of his deputy, supervises the day-to-day business of the board, handles telephone enquiries and deals with incoming and outgoing correspondence in connection with all legal matters brought before the board for determination.

The policy is to have one assistant deputy registrar for each sitting member of the board including the chairman and assistant chairman. Their main duty is to accompany individual members on out-of-town sittings and assist them in every possible way. They keep an official record of the proceedings, and record and safeguard all documents and exhibits filed with the board by the parties until the material can be turned over to the Appeals Registry at head office.

Appeals Registry

The Appeals Registry is the custodian of all relevant documents. This includes control, retention, and disposition (e.g. some are transferred to the Federal Court of Canada — Trial Division, some are returned to the involved parties, others may be sent to the Dead File Storage Unit of the Public Archives).

Special Projects Unit

The unit undertakes special projects assigned to it by the board members. (Particular emphasis is on research and studies on special aspects of income tax law, together with accurate citations for any relevant jurisprudence).

Annual Report

Section 17 of the Tax Review Board Act requires the board to submit an annual report to the Minister of Justice for tabling in both the House of Commons and the Senate.

Regional Courts

Although the board has its own court accommodations in Vancouver, Montréal, Toronto, and London, Ontario, no staff members are present at these locations unless the board is in session. Its members sit in every province of Canada at least once a year, hold frequent sittings in Vancouver, and usually sit monthly (except for July and August) at Montréal and Toronto. As a general rule, its sittings are conducted in cities where District Taxation Offices are located. (See Department of National Revenue [Taxation] for listings.) Special sittings for complicated or unduly long cases may be arranged upon request.

K1A 0J2

Minister

Minister of Labour

Principal Officers

Deputy Minister .....	Thomas M. Eberlee
Assistant Deputy Ministers .....	W.P. Kelly
	H.L. Laframboise

Historical Background

The Department of Labour was established by the Conciliation Act (SC 1900 c. 24), now the Department of Labour Act (RSC 1970 c. L-2). Under the Federal Identity Program, it is known as Labour Canada.

Overall Responsibilities

Under the Act, the department is authorized to:

- (a) collect, digest and publish in a suitable form, statistical and other information relating to the conditions of labour;
- (b) institute and conduct inquiries into important industrial questions.

The department's aims and objectives are to promote and protect: the rights of parties involved in the world of work; a working environment conducive to physical and social well-being; a fair return for efforts in the workplace; and, in all cases, ensure equitable access to employment opportunities.

Organization and Programs

Since a reorganization and decentralization in 1975-76, the department has pursued three major programs: industrial relations, safety of employees and labour standards.

Its functions are implemented by the following programs at headquarters and offices in five regional divisions: Federal Mediation and Conciliation; Program Development and Central Operations; Policy Coordination and Liaison; and Administrative Policy and Services.

Federal Mediation and Conciliation Program

W.P. Kelly ..... (819) 997-1493

The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Program (FMCP) plays a key role in the administration of those provisions of the Canada Labour Code Part V — Industrial Relations relating to the settlement of collective bargaining and other types of industrial relations disputes in federal-jurisdiction industries. The functions of the branch include the appointment of conciliation officers and the establishment of industrial inquiry commissions in labour-management disputes. The branch also provides the services of industrial relations consultants who apply the techniques of preventive mediation to areas of potential industrial unrest.

The Program Planning and Technical Support Branch provides operational research support to mediation and conciliation officers, and assists the Assistant Deputy Minister, (FMCS) in industrial relations policy development.

Collective agreements governed by the Canada Labour Code Part V are required by Section 155 to contain a provision for the final settlement without work stoppage, by arbitration or otherwise, of all differences concerning their interpretation, application, administration or alleged violation. The Arbitration Services Branch processes requests for the appointment of arbitrators and arbitration board chairmen when the parties have been unable to agree on a selection.

Program Development and Central Operations Program

H.L. Laframboise ..... (819) 997-3103

This program produces, for the department and other federal departments and agencies, labour-related data for policy, research and pay determination purposes. To provide the provinces with the detailed geographic data they need, without putting an increased burden on survey respondents, the branch has arrangements to supply provincial governments with data from its surveys.

The Employment Relations Branch develops policies and programs directed toward the improvement of labour-management relationships and the quality of working life. It is studying ways to achieve more effective worker participation in the solution of health and safety problems at the workplace, and is evaluating other countries' ideas on industrial democracy. The branch assists labour and management in their joint consultation efforts.

The Occupational Safety and Health Branch, under authority of the Canada Labour Code Part IV (Safety of Employees), develops national safety standards, provides technical consulting services to other federal departments, evaluates health hazards, and administers the regulations under the code. The branch also administers two other statutes and a new accident compensation plan: the Government Employees Compensation Act, which provides workers' compensation coverage for employees of federal departments and agencies; the Merchant Seamen Compensation Act, which provides compensation coverage for seamen employed on Canadian-registered ships; and the Penitentiary Inmates Accident Compensation Terms and Conditions (approved by Order in Council, October 6, 1977).

Central Analytical Services Branch maintains a professional analytical capacity in labour economics and labour legislation, provides library and information retrieval services, and designs and implements management reporting systems. It is also the location of the planning unit for the proposed Collective Bargaining Information Centre.

Policy Coordination and Liaison Program

J. Mainwaring ..... (819) 997-2330

Canada's tripartite participation in the International Labour Organization (ILO) is coordinated by this branch, which also promotes and coordinates an effective relationship in the labour field between federal and provincial governments.

The program monitors the progress by federal and provincial jurisdictions in the implementation of ILO conventions to determine the action needed to achieve full compliance with the conventions relevant to Canada and thus enable Canada to ratify them. The program prepares replies to ILO questionnaires and coordinates the activities of Canada's labour counsellors in London and Brussels.

Administrative Policy and Services Program

C.D. Harper ..... (819) 997-1015

The Personnel Branch is responsible for the department's personnel relations: human resources, classification, pay, staff relations and employee services. In addition it looks after the department's official languages plan, language training and the equal opportunity program.

Operational Services supervises several divisions: accommodation, material services, word processing, graphics and design, printing, forms control, records management, storage and mail and distribution.

The Finance Branch handles accounting, allotment control, program forecasts, estimates and budgets.

The Data Processing Branch provides automated systems support for the department's programs.

Public Relations draws public attention to and encourages public support for the department's programs and services. The branch is responsible for media relations, audiovisual services, editorial and creative writing services, and publishing. It produces the department's annual report and its house organ.

Organization and Programs

The principal objective of the branch is to raise the fitness level of Canadians and to improve their participation in physical recreation and amateur sport. To fulfill this purpose, it pursues three sub-objectives:

- (a) to increase the appreciation for and understanding of fitness, physical recreation and amateur sport;
- (b) to improve the Canadian system of organization and facilities for fitness, physical recreation and amateur sport;
- (c) to improve the quality of participation of Canadians in physical recreation and amateur sport.

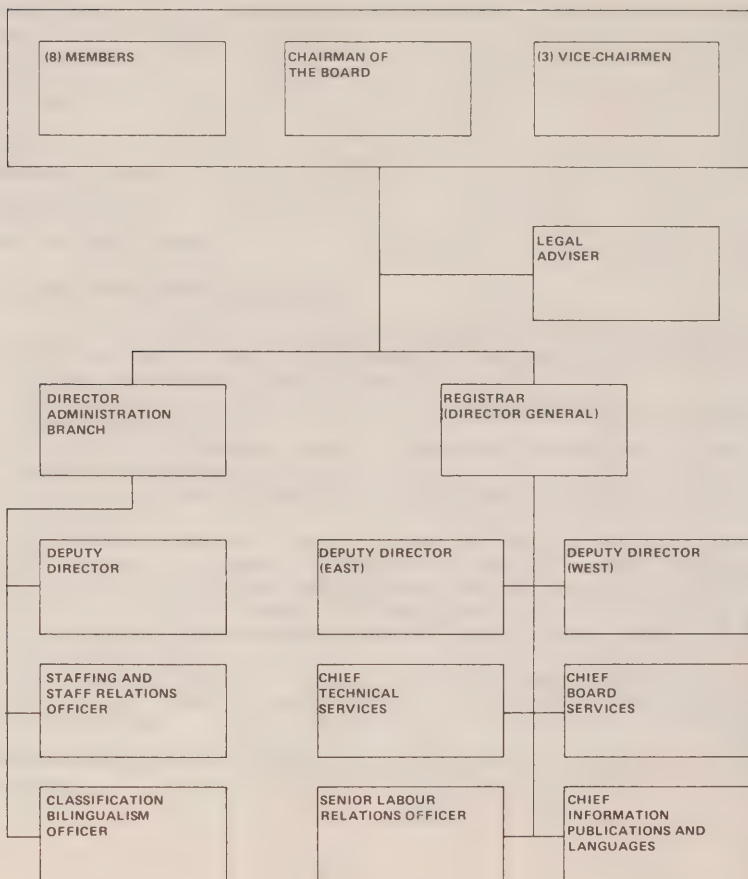

The branch is comprised of four directorates. The two program directorates are: Fitness and Recreation Canada — concerned with physical recreation and fitness, and Sport Canada — concerned with the pursuit of excellence in amateur sport.

The two support directorates — Program Operations and Administration and Planning, Research and Evaluation provide all back-up services necessary to the branch and its programs.

The branch achieves its twin goals of fitness and recreation participation and sport excellence chiefly through financial contributions and a wide range of consultative services.

Historical Background

The present Canada Labour Relations Board was established on March 1, 1973, under the provisions of the Canada Labour Code (RSC 1970 c. L-1, Part V, and amended by SC 1972 c. 18 and SC 1978 c. 8). The board is designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1973-586, 13 Mar 1973).

Overall Responsibilities

The aim of the board is to contribute to and promote effective industrial relations in any work, undertaking or business that falls within the authority of the Parliament of Canada.

The board consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman, up to four additional vice-chairmen and from four to eight board members, all of whom are appointed by the Governor in Council and prohibited from holding any other office or employment in respect of which remuneration is received.

The board exercises statutory and regulatory powers relating to:

- (a) the acquisition, modification and termination of bargaining rights;
- (b) the structuring of bi-party and multi-party bargaining relationships;
- (c) the investigation, mediation and adjudication of complaints alleging contraventions of provisions of Part V of the Canada Labour Code;

- (d) the definition of technological changes which could affect the terms, conditions and security of employees and the exercise of ancillary remedial authority;
- (e) the declaration of unlawful strikes or lockouts and the exercise of a mediative and adjudicative function to grant relief to parties in accordance with the objectives set out in the Preamble to Part V of the Canada Labour Code;
- (f) the review of decisions relating to safety that are referred to the board under Part IV of the Canada Labour Code;
- (g) in limited circumstances, the settlement of terms of first collective agreements;
- (h) the provision of advice and recommendations relative to statutory and regulatory powers of the board; and
- (i) the provision of administrative services to these ends.

The board has issued the Canada Labour Relations Board Regulations governing applications and procedures.

Historical Background

The Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety was established by the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety Act (SC 1977-78 c. 29). The centre is an independent self-governing body. It is not an agent of Her Majesty and can accept funds from external sources as a registered charity under the Income Tax Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The objectives of the centre, as set out in the Act, are:

- (a) to promote health and safety in the workplace in Canada and the physical and mental health of working people in Canada;
- (b) to facilitate consultation and cooperation among federal, provincial and territorial jurisdictions and participation by labour and management in the establishment and maintenance of high standards of occupational health and safety appropriate to the Canadian situation;
- (c) to assist in the development and maintenance of policies and programs aimed at the reduction or elimination of occupational hazards; and
- (d) to serve as a national centre for statistics and other information relating to occupational health and safety.

Organization and Programs

The centre has a governing council of 39 members appointed by the governor in council. Its composition includes a chairman, 10 members nominated by the lieutenant governors in council of each of the provinces, two by the commissioners of each of the territories, four are from federal departments and agencies, 11 are selected in consultation with workers organizations and 11 in consultation with employer organizations. The council meets at least three times a year.

The president, the full-time chief executive officer, chairs the executive board which meets not less than six times a year. The board is elected annually from and by the council. At least 50 per cent of the board must be comprised of an equal number of members representing workers and management organizations. Head office will be located in Hamilton, Ontario.

Historical Background

The Department of National Defence was created in 1922 by the National Defence Act (now RSC 1970 c. N-4, as amended). The 1922 Act established one civil department in place of the previous Department of Militia and Defence (formed in 1868), the Department of the Naval Service (formed in 1910), and the Air Board (formed in 1920).

In July, 1965, Naval Service Headquarters, Army Headquarters, and Air Force Headquarters were amalgamated to form the Canadian Forces Headquarters (CFHQ).

The Canadian Forces Reorganization Act proclaimed February 1, 1968, "unified" the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Army, and the Royal Canadian Air Force into a single "service" called the Canadian Armed Forces.

Overall Responsibilities

The Minister of National Defence is responsible for the control and management of the Canadian Armed Forces, and all matters relating to national defence including certain civil defence. He also is responsible for the construction and maintenance of all defence establishments and facilities required for the defence of Canada.

Organization and Programs

Deputy Minister

The deputy minister is the senior public servant in the department and the principal civilian adviser to the Minister on all departmental affairs. He is responsible for ensuring that all policy directives emanating from the government are reflected in the administration of the department, and in military plans and operations.

Chief/Defence Staff

The Chief of the Defence Staff, the Minister's senior military adviser, is charged with the control and administration of the Canadian Forces. He is responsible for the effective conduct of military operations and the readiness of the Canadian Forces in order to meet the commitments assigned to the department by the government.

Vice Chief/Defence Staff

The Vice Chief of the Defence Staff is the principal assistant and adviser to both the deputy minister and the Chief of the Defence Staff. The vice chief coordinates the activities of the headquarters' groups, and authorizes the assignment of the department's financial, manpower, and materiel resources to approved programs and activities. He acts for the Chief of the Defence Staff in his absence.

Policy

The Assistant Deputy Minister (Policy) is responsible for: recommending defence objectives and policy options; acting as principal departmental spokesman at the official level on matters of policy planning; and ensuring that departmental planning and Canadian Armed Forces structure proposals provide a realistic and harmonious relationship between objectives, tasks and resources. He acts for the deputy minister in his absence.

Personnel

The Assistant Deputy Minister (Personnel) is responsible for: developing military and civilian personnel policies and administering a comprehensive personnel administration program; ensuring that personnel establishments, actual strengths, and manpower requirements are harmonized within approved policy and budgets; maintaining liaison with reference to departmental personnel policies with other government departments and agencies, other levels of government, other governments, and with industry and universities; and administering a program for the education of dependants.

Finance

The Assistant Deputy Minister (Finance) is responsible for: directing the financial administration of the department and for the preparation of related financial, regulatory, and procedural material required within the department or by outside agencies; coordinating and guiding the development and implementation of management information systems; providing management services within the department, including advisory, audit, financial, accounting, and automatic data processing services.

Materiel

The Assistant Deputy Minister (Materiel) is responsible for:

- (a) the development, engineering, procurement, storage, issue, maintenance, and disposal of systems, equipment, and materiel;
- (b) provision of an integrated logistics system to the Canadian Forces including supply, maintenance, ammunition, transport and postal facilities and services;
- (c) the development and implementation of departmental policies relating to the acquisition and management of real property, construction and maintenance of buildings and facilities, and associated utilities; and
- (d) participation in the formulation and implementation of departmental policies for research and development and provision of scientific information for the department.

Deputy Chief/Defence Staff

The Deputy Chief of the Defence Staff is responsible to the Vice Chief of the Defence Staff for:

- (a) the effective and efficient performance of the operations of the Canadian Forces;
- (b) the provision of operational information, advice and guidance required for planning the future employment, structure and operational requirements of the Canadian Forces;
- (c) the implementation of approved changes to the Canadian Force's structure;
- (d) the central planning, controlling and coordinating of all current operational activities of the Forces;
- (e) the efficient employment of resources in carrying out these activities; and
- (f) the preparation and coordination of annual training plans.

Judge Advocate General

The Judge Advocate General is responsible for the administration of military justice in the Canadian Armed Forces. He is also the legal adviser to the department and the Canadian Forces.

Information

The Director General (Information) is responsible for the dissemination of information on defence matters to the public, the Canadian Forces, and civilian staff of the department. He plans and coordinates community relations programs and is responsible for the department's parliamentary relations.

Departmental Administrative Services

The Director General (Departmental Administrative Services) is responsible for providing those common administrative services required for the functioning of the department in general, and for the National Defence Headquarters in particular.

Canadian Armed Forces

The Canadian Armed Forces are organized on a functional basis to reflect the major commitments assigned by the government and are formed into National Defence Headquarters and five major commands reporting to the Chief of the Defence Staff. The role of the five commands are:

Mobile Command

This command is responsible for provision of ground forces for the protection of Canadian territory, combat forces in Canada for support of overseas commitments, and forces for support of United Nations or other peacekeeping operations.

Maritime Command

This command provides sea forces on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts for the defence of Canada, anti-submarine defence in support of NATO, support to Canadian Military operations and conducts search and rescue operations within the Atlantic and Pacific search and rescue areas. Maritime Command also has operational control of Maritime aircraft.

Air Command

This command is responsible for provision of operationally ready air forces to national, continental and international commitments which include maintenance of sovereignty in Canada's air space, contribution to NORAD, airlift resources, search and rescue aircraft, management of maritime aircraft and in addition training common to more than one command.

Canadian Forces Communication Command

The command manages, operates and maintains strategic communications for the Canadian Forces and, in emergencies, for the federal and provincial governments.

Canadian Forces Europe

Canadian Forces allocated to support NATO in Europe consist of land and air elements.

Historical Background

Defence Construction Limited, the predecessor to the present company, was established in 1950 to contract for major military construction and maintenance projects required by the Department of National Defence. Defence Construction (1951) Limited was incorporated in 1951 under the authority of the Defence Production Act to assume this function. In 1965, the control and supervision of Defence Construction (1951) Limited (DCL) was transferred from the Minister of Industry to the Minister of National Defence (OIC P.C. 1965-1428, August 1965).

The company is designated as an agency corporation (Schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. The company is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The company's prime responsibility is contracting for the construction of defence projects. This includes not only the calling and review of tenders and the subsequent award of contracts but also the supervision of work on both new construction and repair and maintenance (renovation) contracts. In addition, the company arranges contracts with consulting engineering and architectural firms on behalf of the Department of National Defence.

Organization and Programs

More specifically, the company's operations cover defence projects in Canada for the Department of National Defence and defence projects in Germany under the NATO Status of Forces Agreement.

In addition, the company has provided, upon request, advice and assistance to other government departments and agencies with respect to construction matters.

At head office in Ottawa, policy is determined and the overall operation is directed by the president and general manager. Under the direction of the president, the Chief, Consultant Contracts is responsible for arranging the terms of contracts for consulting services.

Engineering Division

This division is responsible for the administration of both construction and repair and maintenance contracts. This includes the calling and review of tenders, the preparation of Treasury Board submissions where required, the award of contracts, and the supervision of work including certification for payment for work completed.

Treasurer's Division

This division prepares the company's annual estimates, monitors all expenditures against such estimates, audits, approves and processes all progress claims made from funds provided for the construction and consultant programs of the Department of National Defence and receives security deposits submitted by contractors for the Receiver General for Canada. The statistics issued by the company emanate from this division which is also responsible for the general office services in support of the company's administrative and technical functions.

Personnel Division

This division is responsible for staff relations and employee benefits, coordination of staffing, classification, training and promotions.

Secretary's Office

Historical Background

The National Emergency Planning Establishment, which came into being on April 1, 1974, evolved from the former Canada Emergency Measures Organization. Under the federal identity program, it is known as Emergency Planning Canada (EPC).

Overall Responsibilities

Emergency Planning Canada is charged with coordinating the planning of the federal response to peace or wartime emergencies and for encouraging emergency planning in Canada. While the Minister of National Defence is responsible for administrative aspects of EPC, the organization receives policy direction and tasking from the Emergency Planning Secretariat of the Privy Council Office.

Emergency Planning Canada coordinates the emergency planning of federal departments, agencies and Crown corporations. A regional director in each provincial capital maintains contact with federal departments in the area and with provincial and municipal governments. It promotes emergency preparedness at other levels of government by providing financial assistance for approved emergency planning projects; by providing information about the necessity to plan ahead; giving and sponsoring training courses in emergency planning for representatives from the public and private sectors; participating in national and international exercises and sponsoring research into the nature of emergencies. As well, in the wake of a disaster, Emergency Planning Canada administers the disaster financial assistance arrangements on behalf of the Department of Finance, according to a formula based on population.

The director general of Emergency Planning Canada represents Canada on NATO's Senior Civil Emergency Planning Committee and is currently chairman of the NATO Civil Defence Committee.

Historical Background

The department, established in 1944 by the Department of National Health and Welfare Act (now RSC 1970 c. N-9), was originally formed in 1919 as the Department of Health. In 1928, this department merged with the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment in order to form the Department of Pensions and National Health. This department was replaced in 1944 by the Department of National Health and Welfare and the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Overall Responsibilities

The Minister has charge of matters relating to the promotion and preservation of the health, social security, and social welfare of Canadians. Under the authority of the Act, the Minister is responsible for:

- (a) investigation and research into public health and welfare;
- (b) the inspection and medical care of immigrants and seamen, and the provision of medical services for, and in conjunction with, the Canadian Coast Guard Service;
- (c) the supervision of public health facilities on railway, water, and all other forms of transportation;

- (d) the enforcement of rules and regulations made by the International Joint Commission relating to public health;
- (e) the promotion and conservation of the health of public servants, and other government employees;
- (f) the collection, publication and distribution, subject to the provisions of the Statistics Act, of information relating to public health, improved sanitation, and social and industrial conditions affecting the health of Canadians;
- (g) cooperation with provincial authorities with a view to coordinating efforts; preserving and improving the public health; and providing for the social security and welfare of the people of Canada; and
- (h) the administration of Acts of Parliament, orders or regulations of the Government of Canada related to health, social security and welfare that are not by law assigned to another federal department or to another Minister.

Organization and Programs

The department is composed of two broad sectors: Health and Welfare. Each sector is sub-divided into a number of branches.

Health

Medical Services Branch

The branch provides health treatment, education, or assessment services to various categories of persons. The principal activities are: Indian and Northern Health Services, Civil Aviation Medicine, Public Service Health, Immigration Medical Service, Quarantine and Regulatory, Prosthetic Services, and Emergency Health Services.

Indian Health Service

The objective of the service is to provide or arrange for health services for eligible Registered Indians, in order to assist them in achieving a standard of health comparable to that of other Canadians. The development and extension of provincial hospitalization and medical care plans has facilitated the achievement of this objective in built-up areas of the provinces. However in more remote locations, Medical Services operates a number of nursing stations and other health facilities with back-up support from departmental hospitals at Moose Factory, and Sioux Lookout, Ontario; Norway House, and Hodgson, Manitoba; Fort Qu'Appelle, Saskatchewan; Cardston, and Edmonton, Alberta.

Northern Health Services

The service provides or arranges for health services for residents of the Yukon and Northwest territories in order to assist them in achieving a standard of health comparable to that of other Canadians. The regional directors of the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territory are also the principal medical advisers to the territorial government commissioners. Departmental hospitals operate at Whitehorse and Mayo in the Yukon and at Inuvik, Frobisher, and Fort Simpson in the Northwest Territories. The department also provides a number of nursing stations and other health facilities throughout the territories.

Civil Aviation Medicine

This activity assists the Department of Transport in the promotion of safe aviation in Canada by ensuring the fitness of aviation personnel and by assisting in accident investigation and safety training. Advice and assistance are also provided in aeromedical research and development.

Public Service Health

The activity promotes and conserves the health of federal public servants and other federal government employees by health counselling and examination services; by providing advice on health matters to line managers; and by providing or arranging for emergency treatment of illness or accidental injury. This service is provided by branch medical and para-medical personnel.

Immigration Medical Service

The service advises the Department of Employment and Immigration on the medical status of prospective immigrants to Canada, and other persons for whom that department is responsible. Provision also is made to provide or arrange medical care to certain classes of immigrants who may fall ill in transit or after arrival and who are not covered by medical insurance.

Quarantine and Regulatory

Quarantine activities are directed towards enforcing measures prescribed under the Quarantine Act, and subsidiary legislation designed to prevent entry into Canada of cholera, plague, smallpox, and yellow fever; advising on measures generally for the protection of the country from invasion of infectious diseases; and supervising the health of travellers.

Prosthetic Services

Rehabilitation services are provided through the development, manufacture, and sale of prosthetic and orthotic devices.

Emergency Services

The service provides for the planning and provision of consultation, advice and training for the continuity of government and the provision of health services under emergency conditions. It is also responsible for the provision of systems and measures to continue or reactivate essential welfare services at all levels in support of welfare survival and recovery services in time of crisis.

Health Protection Branch

The branch is concerned with reducing illness and untimely death of Canadians associated with hazards in the environment, both man-made and natural. It acts under the authority of the Food and Drugs Act, the Narcotic Control Act, the Hazardous Products Act, the Radiation Emitting Devices Act, the Environmental Contaminants Act and the Department of National Health and Welfare Act. Ancillary legislation which the branch is involved with includes Atomic Energy Control Act, Clean Air Act, Canada Labour (Safety) Code, Financial Administration Act, Broad-casting Act and the Pest Control Products Act. The branch comprises the following.

Food Directorate

This directorate is responsible for programs in research, in establishing standards and regulations and in analytical monitoring for the purpose of identifying and controlling hazards associated with the nutritional quality of foods and microbiological and chemical hazards in the food supply.

Drugs Directorate

This directorate is responsible for programs concerned with the identification and control of microbiological and chemical hazards in drugs and cosmetics and the prevention of ineffective or unwise use of drugs, including their diversion from the licit to the illicit market. This requires attention to the manufacturing, marketing, distribution and advertising of drugs for use on humans and animals.

Environmental Health Directorate

This directorate undertakes a range of services and research related to the impact of environmental factors on human health. It is concerned with man-made and natural environmental chemical hazards and control of the use of dangerous products. Particular areas of concern include air and water pollution hazards, radiation hazards to both workers and members of the public, and health hazards associated with medical devices.

Laboratory Centre for Disease Control

The laboratory is responsible for programs concerned with the surveillance of disease trends in Canada, quality assurance of clinical laboratory testing, the provision of reference services for identification of disease organisms and the standardization of immunization in Canada. It is also concerned with the development of control policies dealing with alcohol, tobacco and psychotropic drugs.

Field Operations Directorate

This directorate, with regional and district offices across Canada, is responsible for compliance activities with regard to foods, drugs, cosmetics and medical devices. Activities include inspection, analysis, education and enforcement directed at the manufacturing and distribution channels and public information with regard to product safety.

Health Services and Promotion

The primary responsibility of this branch is to develop, promote and support measures designed to preserve and improve the health and social well-being of Canadian residents. The branch also has a major role in providing financial and technical support to provincially administered programs designed to make high quality health services available to all Canadians. The execution of these responsibilities entails the following activities which are conducted in close cooperation with provincial governments.

Health Promotion

The Health Promotion Directorate develops and implements, in cooperation with provincial governments and non-government organizations, programs of health information and education directed to all Canadian residents and to special target groups including those at high-risk and those responsible for the planning or provision of preventive health services. It fosters intramural and extramural research, to provide scientifically valid information and methodology for establishing programs, strategies and techniques in health promotion.

Health Services

The Health Services Directorate assists in the development of appropriate health care services for all Canadians by assisting provinces and territories to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of health institutions, mental health services, community health, and family planning services. It is involved with provincial, national, and international health organizations in the development of guidelines for services, in consultation, and in information exchange. It fosters extramural research designed to further the objective of improving the effectiveness of health services in Canada.

Health Resources

The Health Resources Directorate provides federal administration of the national health insurance programs and makes payments to the provinces in support of their programs providing hospital, diagnostic, medical and extended health care services. It conducts activities to ensure an appropriate level of qualified health manpower, through collection of data and exchange of information, and provision of development funds to provinces under the Health Resources Fund. It provides information, consultation and guidelines for the design and construction of health facilities.

Research and Evaluation

The Research and Evaluation Directorate finances research projects, demonstration projects and studies, and provides money for training assistance to researchers under the National Health Research and Development Program. It also carries out short-term policy research and evaluation of branch programs.

Branch and Interagency Coordination

The Branch and Interagency Coordination Unit ensures a consistent approach in the branch's dealings with provincial and territorial governments, other branches of the department, other federal departments and agencies, and with international organizations.

Welfare

The welfare side of the department was re-organized into two major operational components — Income Security Programs and Social Service Programs.

Income Security Programs Branch

This branch is responsible for the administration of income maintenance programs. These programs provide cash payments directly to those persons eligible for benefits in the form of income insurance (Canada Pension Plan), Old Age Security pension, Guaranteed Income Supplement, Spouse's Allowance and Family Allowances.

Canada Pension Plan

The Canada Pension Plan is a contributory social insurance program designed to provide a basic level of protection against the contingencies of retirement, disability and death. The plan operates in all parts of Canada, except in the Province of Québec where there is a closely coordinated social insurance counterpart. Apart from an earnings-related retirement pension payable as early as age 65, the plan provides benefits to a disabled contributor and his/her dependent children. Upon a contributor's death, a lump sum benefit is paid together with monthly benefits for a surviving spouse and any dependent children.

Old Age Security

Under the Old Age Security Act, pensions are paid on a universal, non-contributory basis to those aged 65 and over who meet certain residence requirements. A Guaranteed Income Supplement may be added to the basic pension in the case of pensioners who have little or no income outside of their basic OAS pension. Likewise, a Spouse's Allowance may be paid on an income-tested basis to the spouse of an OAS pensioner if the spouse is 60 to 64 years of age and meets the residence requirements.

Social Service Programs Branch

This branch administers the various social services programs under which the federal government shares with the provinces the cost of providing public assistance and welfare services and makes grants to provincial and municipal welfare departments, to non-governmental welfare agencies, citizens' organizations and universities for the provision of social services. These programs include the following.

Canada Assistance Plan

The plan is a comprehensive measure through which the federal government may share in 50 per cent of the costs to provinces and municipalities of providing social assistance to needy persons and up to 50 per cent of the cost of welfare services.

Vocational Rehabilitation of Disabled Persons

Under this program the federal government contributes 50 per cent of the costs to the provinces of providing rehabilitation services to the physically or mentally disabled. Emphasis is placed on providing a comprehensive program of services, including assessment, counselling, and placement services which will help the handicapped person overcome his disability and undertake worthwhile employment. The federal government also provides consultative support for the development of provincial programs and supports research projects which contribute to the development and understanding of rehabilitation.

Social Services

This division provides to governments, public and private agencies and associations in Canada, services of qualified consultants and resource people in the various specialty areas of social services, and attempts to focus attention and resources on priority social issues. To these ends, it facilitates national discussions and cooperative actions, and contributes to the formulation of social development policy in the department and federal government. Among the specialized resources in its evolving capacity are the International and Interprovincial Adoptions Desk, National Day Care Information Centre, Social Services Program Information Centre, and consulting services in the areas of Child and Family Services, Rehabilitation and Employment-Related Services, Community Preventive and Development Services, and Social Services Delivery Systems.

National Welfare Grants

The program is designed to contribute to the development and strengthening of welfare services in Canada by providing financial and consultative support to research, demonstration, experimental projects, and to individuals, governmental and non-governmental organizations. The program's main activities include grants for demonstration (innovative and developmental) research, welfare manpower projects, and consultative activity by the staff. Liaison with provincial departments of welfare and major national voluntary agencies has strengthened the basis upon which decisions regarding policy and future funding rest.

New Horizons

This program operates regional offices in Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montréal, Moncton, Charlottetown, Halifax, and St. John's. The program's basic objective is to enable groups of retired Canadians to plan and carry out, on a voluntary basis, activities which they design for themselves and for other members of their community. This objective is accomplished through the distribution of grants to groups of senior citizens.

The Bureau on Aging

On May 23, 1978, the Minister of National Health and Welfare announced the establishment of a Bureau on Aging within the department. The bureau seeks to improve communications between the department and Canada's senior citizens and organizations working on their behalf.

The Bureau on Aging is the departmental focal point for identifying and keeping abreast of issues related to aging and the aged. Serving as a communications link between the federal government, provincial governments and organizations for the aged, the bureau is the contact point for individuals and senior citizens' organizations.

Bureau on Rehabilitation

A Bureau on Rehabilitation was established early in 1979. The bureau concentrates on issues relating to rehabilitation and develops strategies relating to the implementation of services and programs which will enhance the full integration of disabled persons in their communities and in society. It plays an important coordinating role inter-departmentally, provincially and with voluntary agencies.

Of immediate concern is Canada's participation in the 1980 World Congress of Rehabilitation International and the 1981 Year for Disabled Persons. This will be part of the immediate responsibility of the bureau along with other long-range plans for effectively serving disabled persons.

Policy, Planning and Information Branch

This branch is responsible for the development and coordination of an integrated approach to health and welfare policy development. It provides support for policy research and development in the program branches as required and provides leadership and research support for the department's integrated planning process. The branch is also responsible for the development and dissemination of information on federal and provincial health and welfare programs.

Intergovernmental and International Affairs Branch

The role of this branch is to develop departmental policy on situations arising at the federal-provincial level. In this capacity, it bears responsibility for liaison with provincial health and welfare departments. It also coordinates the department's international activities and works in close cooperation with other federal departments on international policy priorities, and on operational issues. The branch also coordinates Canada's participation in the activities of the Commonwealth ministers of health, the Pan-American Health Organization, the World Health Organization and other United Nations' specialized agencies and other intergovernmental agencies whose programs have a substantial health component; involvement in the social development activities of the United Nations and participation in the social programs of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

Administration Branch

This branch is comprised of Financial Administration, Personnel Administration, Information Directorate Services, Internal Audit Directorate, Departmental Administrative Services, and Official Languages Directorate.

Historical Background

The Medical Research Council was established under section 3 of the Medical Research Council Act (RSC 1970 c. M-9). Since 1960, it has operated as a virtually autonomous subsidiary of the National Research Council.

The council, a Crown corporation, is designated as a departmental corporation (Schedule B) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. (OIC P.C. 1969-1027, May 20 1969; SOR/69-257). The council is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The primary function of the council is to promote and support research in the health sciences in Canada. To this end, it maintains a balanced program of support to research trainees and research investigators, to the costs of research programs in Canadian universities, hospitals and related institutes, and to promotional activities designed to stimulate new research effort in significant areas.

The council is responsible for the administration of the Queen Elizabeth II Research Fund Act.

Organization and Programs

The council comprises a president, 21 other members who are appointed by the Governor in Council, and three associate members. The council also has the assistance of over 150 scientists (drawn chiefly from the universities) who serve on its standing committees. The administration of council's activities is carried out by a staff located in Ottawa under the direction of the president.

Grants Program

Operating grants are provided to assist in defraying the costs of basic, applied, developmental or clinical research initiated and carried out in the health science complexes of Canadian universities and their affiliated institutions, and in other faculties or institutes when the proposed research is highly relevant to health. Grants may also be provided for the purchase of items of specialized equipment required for approved research in the health sciences.

Awards Programs

The council provides salary support for a limited number of full-time investigators in Canadian universities and has a number of programs designed to provide opportunities for advanced training in research in the health sciences at both the pre- and post-doctoral level.

Special Programs

A number of programs are available for the development and support of research in areas where research is not adequately developed, and in highly productive fields where major contributions can be expected. Special grants are also available as a means of encouraging collaborative or interdisciplinary research in the health sciences. Limited support is also provided for approved symposia and workshops, international scientific activities and exchanges.

Historical Background

Until World War I, the federal government financed its operations from indirect taxes, customs duties, and excise taxes. To ease the financial burden of the war effort, direct taxation was introduced in 1916 by means of an excess business profits tax, followed the next year by an income tax on individuals and corporations.

The Department of National Revenue was established in 1927 by the Department of National Revenue Act (now RSC 1970 c. N-15).

The department has two components: Customs and Excise, and Taxation. Each is headed by a deputy minister and each is administered as an independent department.

Overall Responsibilities

The Department of National Revenue (Customs and Excise) is responsible for:

- (a) assessing and collecting duties and taxes on imported and domestically produced goods and on transportation of persons by air;
- (b) controlling the international movement of persons and goods;
- (c) providing Canadian industry with the protection to which it is entitled under the customs laws;
- (d) providing information and services necessary to full understanding of — and voluntary compliance with — the requirements of customs and excise laws and regulations;
- (e) administering the Customs Act, the Customs Tariff, the Anti-dumping Act, the Excise Act, and the Excise Tax Act; and
- (f) administering, in part, the statutes of other government departments and agencies, where they concern the international movement of persons and goods.

Organization and Programs

Customs and Excise consists of three line branches — Customs Programs, Customs Field Operations and Excise. These branches are supported by six staff groups which provide specialized policies, services advice and guidance.

Customs Programs Branch

The Customs Programs Branch is responsible for the following:

- (a) the design, development and monitoring of policies, legislative and administrative programs, and operational systems relating to the international movement of people, goods and conveyances;
- (b) the design and development of programs concerning the enforcement of legislation of other government departments and agencies which relates to the international movement of people, goods and conveyances;
- (c) the investigation of violations of customs laws and regulations;
- (d) the development of laws, regulations and policies governing the use of non-duty paid transportation equipment in domestic service in Canada and the operation of customs warehouses;
- (e) the adjudication of seizures made because of breaches of customs legislation;
- (f) the development of policies and procedures relating to the collection of revenue;
- (g) the design and development of an automated entry processing system (CEPACS);
- (h) the determination of value for duty and tariff classification of imported goods;
- (i) the administration of the department's drawbacks, refunds and remissions programs;
- (j) the investigation of alleged cases of dumping of imported goods and the enforcement of the countervail and surtax program; and
- (k) the provision of value for duty and anti-dumping investigations in foreign countries.

Customs Field Operations Branch

The branch has the following responsibilities:

- (a) examines and clears vehicles, goods, and passengers entering or leaving Canada and collects whatever duties or taxes that may apply;
- (b) seizes or rejects prohibited goods, apprehends and detains persons importing illicit narcotics, and ensures compliance with the control measures embodied in other departments' legislative programs. Processes cases where seizure has been made, because of breaches of customs or excise laws;
- (c) reviews import entries and supporting invoices, to ensure their accuracy and uniform application, and handles refund claims for customs duty and taxes paid in error, for goods damaged in transit or for goods landed which are not those ordered;
- (d) investigates claims filed by manufacturers and others to recover duties and taxes paid on imported goods that are later re-exported, or used in Canada in the production of certain articles for home consumption or export;
- (e) investigates violations of customs laws and regulations;
- (f) ensures that transportation companies and private users comply with the laws and regulations governing the use of non-duty paid transportation equipment in domestic service in Canada. Ensures that all goods conveyed to Customs Bonded Warehouses are duty and tax paid or exported or destroyed within prescribed time limits; and
- (g) in general, enforces all customs laws and regulations.

Excise Branch

This branch has the following responsibilities:

- (a) determination of value and classification of goods for tax assessment purposes;
- (b) collection of sales and excise taxes on domestic goods, and licensing of manufacturers and wholesalers;
- (c) investigations into suspected fraud or evasion;
- (d) audit of records of licensed manufacturers and wholesalers to verify accuracy of tax liability reported;
- (e) verification of claims for refund of sales and excise taxes paid and refundable under specific conditions;
- (f) collection of excise duties, licensing and controlling the operation of distilleries, breweries and other plants that use alcohol in their product, tobacco manufacturers and other premises that operate under the Excise Act; and
- (g) collection of the air transportation tax, licensing and auditing of air carriers to verify the accuracy of tax liability reported.

Historical Background

Until World War I, the federal government financed its operations from indirect taxes, customs duties, and excise taxes. To ease the financial burden of the war effort, direct taxation was introduced in 1916 by means of an excess business profits tax, followed the next year by an income tax on individuals and corporations.

The Department of National Revenue was established in 1927 by the Department of National Revenue Act (now RSC 1970 c. N-15).

The department has two components: Customs and Excise, and Taxation. Each is headed by a deputy minister and each is administered as an independent department.

Overall Responsibilities

The department assesses and collects income taxes, Canada Pension Plan contributions and Unemployment Insurance premiums due under federal and provincial statutes, and administers various tax credit plans on behalf of requesting provinces. In meeting these objectives, the department attempts to facilitate and encourage voluntary compliance with the tax laws of the land and deter tax evasion and tax avoidance.

Organization and Programs

Taxation is divided into two main branches each headed by an assistant deputy minister: Legislation, and Policy and Systems.

Legislation Branch

This branch is responsible for tax policy, registrations, interpretation, audit and rulings.

Policy and Systems

This branch is responsible for national policies and systems relating to operational planning, the filing, verification, audit and investigation of individual and corporate returns, accounting and collection procedures, implementation and maintenance of computer systems and guidance to the four regional assistant deputy ministers.

Ontario ..... J.F. Cochrane (acting)

Western ..... J.B. Prescott

Historical Background

The Post Office Department was established by the Post Office Act of 1867 (now RSC 1970 c. P-14).

Organization and Programs

The department is divided into four regions: Atlantic, Québec, Ontario and Western. At headquarters, there are five directorates: Operational Services; Personnel; Marketing; Finance and Administration; and Corporate Affairs.

Regional Offices

The four regions are sub-divided into districts as outlined below:

- Atlantic Region — Newfoundland District (St. John's)
- Nova Scotia District (Halifax)
- New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island District (Saint John)
- Québec Region — Québec East District (Québec)
- Québec West District (Montréal)
- Montréal Metropolitan District
- Ontario Region — Eastern Ontario District (Ottawa)
- Central Ontario District (Toronto)
- Southwestern Ontario District (London)
- Northern Ontario District (North Bay)
- MAPP District (Toronto)
- Western Region — Manitoba District (Winnipeg)
- Saskatchewan District (Saskatoon)
- Alberta District (Edmonton)
- British Columbia and Yukon District (Vancouver)

The general manager for each region reports direct to the Deputy Postmaster General and is responsible for providing the following services to users in the region:

- (a) the transfer of information, goods and funds between sender and receiver;
- (b) sales of related and support services and products; and
- (c) sales and distribution of services and products to and for government departments and agencies.

These services are provided in order to achieve: dependability, maximum productivity (input/output), optimum shares of served market, favourable public reaction, and the balanced best interest of employees, customers and public, agents, sub-contractors and government.

There are 8,476 post offices in Canada. Of this number, 3,473 are revenue post offices which are, in many instances, operating on a part-time basis in conjunction with a private business establishment.

Operational Services Directorate

The directorate is responsible for planning, developing, designing, communicating and achieving implementation (through the regions) of the National Operating Systems; providing managers with professional, specialist and technical services; and evaluating performance of National Operating Systems.

The directorate consists of eight branches: Mail Processing; Mail Collection and Delivery; Mail Distribution; Operational Planning; Quality Assurance; Engineering; Security and Investigation Services and Administrative Systems.

Personnel Directorate

The directorate is responsible for planning, developing, promoting and ensuring effective use of corporate-wide personnel management processes that result in a safe and healthy physical work environment; stable, flexible, well-informed and productive work force; creation and maintenance of constructive human relationships; managerial effectiveness; and labour peace.

The directorate consists of six branches: Organization Planning and Development; Employee Compensation; Headquarters Personnel Administration; Labour Relations; Personnel Information Requirements; and Safety, Health and Welfare.

Marketing Directorate

The marketing directorate is responsible for providing products and services to meet customer needs. These include postage stamps which are secure against counterfeiting, convenient for customers and which promote knowledge of Canada's heritage. The directorate is also responsible for developing philatelic products and services and promoting a positive federal government image through the postal retail network. Basic to all of these efforts is the maintenance of cost effectiveness.

The directorate consists of six branches: Postal Rates and Classification; Retail Marketing; Market Planning; Sales; Priority Services and Marketing Services.

Finance and Administration Directorate

The directorate is responsible for ensuring departmental adherence to statutory, regulatory and governmental financial requirements; providing management with financial and administrative services in order to ensure an accurate recording and timely reporting of departmental financial transactions, protection of assets, timely and accurate payment of obligations, appropriate acquisition, control and disposal of goods, services and postal values; and appropriate financial planning and evaluation.

The directorate consists of five branches: Administrative Services and Purchasing; Financial and Administrative Systems; Internal Audit; Comptroller Treasury Operations and Postal Museum.

Corporate Affairs Directorate

The directorate is responsible for developing and maintaining an effective corporate capacity in order to achieve a sound corporate plan; developing legislative programs; achieving compatibility of corporate policies; coordinating interdepartmental projects; participating in international affairs involving postal administrations, achieving international postal agreements; achieving external and internal understanding and acceptance of Canada Post objectives, policies and plans; achieving a comprehensive integrated Management Information System.

The directorate consists of seven branches: Corporate Planning; International Postal Affairs; Public Affairs; Corporate Identity; Operational Research; Management Information Systems and Computer Operations.

Additional Information — from the Public Affairs Branch (613) 998-8305.

President of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada

Office of the President of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada

House of Commons
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0A3

Minister

President of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada

Historical Background

The Presidency of the Privy Council is a Cabinet portfolio which has no defined functions. Responsibilities are assigned as the Prime Minister decides. The portfolio, for long periods associated with the Prime Minister, has frequently been held by another minister and has often been left vacant.

Overall Responsibilities

In July, 1968, the responsibilities of the President were enlarged by the Prime Minister. The President was made the Leader of the Government in the House and performs all the duties associated with that position. He supervises the preparation of the government's legislative program and acts on behalf of the government as its principal manager in the House of Commons. The Chairman of the Public Service Staff Relations Board reports to Parliament through the President of the Privy Council.

In addition, he assumes direction of special studies and projects related to:

- (a) procedural reform;
- (b) reform of the Canada Elections Act;
- (c) development of rules to regulate conflicts of interest among members of the House of Commons and Senate;
- (d) development of appropriate techniques for the review of subordinate legislation and statutory instruments; and
- (e) development of research and other facilities for Members of Parliament to enable them to meet the growing complexity of the problems facing Parliament.

The Parliamentary Enquiries and Coordination Division is also under the jurisdiction of the President. This division coordinates the returns by departments and agencies in response to questions on the Order Paper and motions for the production of papers.

Historical Background

The Canadian Intergovernmental Conference Secretariat (CICS) was established by the Federal-Provincial Conference of First Ministers in May, 1973, as a support mechanism for Canadian ministerial meetings.

The secretariat is a neutral intergovernmental agency financed and staffed jointly by the federal and provincial governments which it serves. The Secretary is responsible to each government for the operations of the secretariat and is appointed following consultation with them.

The secretariat is currently designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act, with the Prime Minister as the appropriate Minister, and the Secretary as the deputy head (OIC P.C. 1973-3698, 29 Nov. 1973; SOR/73-310).

Overall Responsibilities

The secretariat provides the administrative and record services for federal-provincial and interprovincial meetings of First Ministers, ministers and senior officials.

Services are provided under the direction of each conference chairman. They include, in addition to the usual physical arrangements for meetings, correspondence with delegations, the distribution and translation of documents, the preparation of records of proceedings and of reports, simultaneous interpretation and stenographic and typing services and, where required, media relations and conference secretaryship.

A registry containing the documents of all meetings served by the secretariat, is maintained for reference by governments. This registry also includes documents of the constitutional review since 1968.

From its base in Ottawa, the secretariat serves meetings in all 10 provinces.

Organization

The secretariat's personnel and conference services are grouped under the Deputy Secretary who, under the direction of the Secretary, allots and coordinates the resources required for each meeting.

Principal Officer

Chief Executive Officer

Dr. David W. Slater

Historical Background

The Economic Council of Canada was established in 1963 under the Economic Council Act (now RSC 1970 c. E-1). The council, a Crown corporation, is designated as a departmental corporation (Schedule B) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1963-1600, 31 Oct. 1963; SOR/63-431). The council is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The council advises and recommends to the Prime Minister how Canada can achieve the highest possible levels of employment and efficient production in order that the country may enjoy a high and consistent rate of economic growth.

It is the function of the council:

- (a) to assess the medium and long-term prospects of the economy, and to compare such prospects with the economy's potential for growth;
- (b) to recommend what government policies will best help to realize the economy's potential for growth;
- (c) to consider means of strengthening and improving Canada's international, financial, and trade position;
- (d) to study means of increasing Canadian participation in the ownership, control, and management of industries in Canada;
- (e) to study how economic growth, technological change and automation, and international economic changes may affect employment and income in Canada as a whole, in particular areas and sectors of the economy;
- (f) to study and discuss with representatives of industry, labour, agriculture and other primary producers, and other occupational groups and organizations, what specific plans for production and investment in major industries in Canada will best contribute to a high and consistent rate of economic growth;
- (g) to study how national economic policies can best foster the balanced economic development of all areas of Canada;
- (h) to explore and evaluate particular projects of major significance for the expansion of industrial and other economic activities in Canada and to recommend projects that will contribute to the growth of the Canadian economy;
- (i) to encourage maximum consultation and cooperation between labour and management in the fulfilment of the objectives of the Act;
- (j) to seek full and regular consultation with appropriate agencies of the governments of each province; and
- (k) to conduct reviews of medium or long-term programs of the Government of Canada that are designed to aid or assist industry, labour or agriculture, if directed to do so by the Minister.

The council conducts on its own initiative, or if directed to do so by the Minister, such studies, inquiries and other undertakings with respect to any matter relating to its duties. The council advises, recommends, and reports to the government as required.

The council publishes annually a review of the medium and long-term prospects and problems of the Canadian economy.

The Privy Council

Historical Background

The Privy Council was established under section 11 of the British North America Act 1867, which constituted a council to "aid and advise in the government of Canada, to be styled the Queen's Privy Council for Canada". The first members of the Queen's Privy Council were sworn in at Ottawa by the Governor General, Viscount Monck, on Monday, July 1, 1867.

The Privy Council is an advisory body to the Crown. Membership is determined by the Governor General on the advice of the Prime Minister, and no Minister may hold office without first being sworn to the Privy Council. Membership is for life, although by convention only those Privy Councillors who are also members of the Ministry of the day may advise the Crown, and they perform this function as a collectivity rather than as individuals.

The Privy Council Office

Historical Background

By section 130 of the British North America Act, all officers of the provincial governments charged with duties relating to matters assigned by the Act to the Parliament of Canada were required to continue to discharge these duties until it should be otherwise provided by Parliament. Accordingly, the Clerk of the Executive Council of the Province of Canada was sworn Clerk of the Privy Council on July 1, 1867, and carried on, almost without any change, the practices of his previous office in the Province of Canada.

Originally the Privy Council Office's (PCO) general function was, under the direction of the Clerk of the Privy Council, to assist the President of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada in the transaction of the council's business. The work was concerned with the recommendations of Ministers of the Crown in fields where action was to be taken by the governor in council and with despatches to and from the Colonial Office that required ministerial attention.

Since 1867, several changes in function have taken place. In 1909, the duties involved in the handling of despatches were transferred to the new Department of External Affairs, and in 1940 the Clerk of the Privy Council was also made Secretary to the Cabinet (OIC P.C. 1940-1121, 25 March 1940). As Secretary he was charged, under the direction of the Prime Minister, with various duties in connection with meetings of the Cabinet and Cabinet Committees.

Overall Responsibilities

For administrative purposes, the Privy Council Office is regarded as a department of the government under the Prime Minister and its work is primarily concerned with:

- (a) the coordination and support of activities for Cabinet and Cabinet Committees through the various secretariats;
- (b) the preparation of material for the Prime Minister;
- (c) liaison with departments and agencies of government on Cabinet matters;
- (d) work for interdepartmental committees of officials, including the provision of chairmen, members and secretaries and the preparation of papers for, and on behalf of, such committees;
- (e) undertaking special studies as required;
- (f) the examination of submissions to the governor in council to ensure conformity with policy and legal requirements, preparation of draft orders;
- (g) duties in connection with regulations made under the Statutory Instruments Act including the examining, editing, registering, and arranging for publication of federal statutory regulations in Part II of the Canada Gazette; and
- (h) support and advice to the Prime Minister respecting his prerogatives and responsibilities for the organization of the Government of Canada.

The Federal-Provincial Relations Office

Historical Background

The office was established by An Act Respecting the Office of the Secretary of the Cabinet for Federal Provincial Relations and Respecting the Clerk of the Privy Council (SC 1974-75 c. 16). The office came into being as a separate entity on January 15, 1975. For some years prior to the creation of this office, the functions were carried out by a division in the Privy Council Office. (It was this division which was reconstituted as the Federal-Provincial Relations Office.) The office is headed by the Secretary to Cabinet for Federal-Provincial Relations.

The office is designated a department and the Prime Minister as "appropriate Minister" within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1975-250, 4 Feb. 1975).

Overall Responsibilities

The objectives of the Federal-Provincial Relations Office are:

- (a) to assist the Prime Minister in his overall responsibility for federal-provincial relations;
- (b) to assist the Minister of State for Federal-Provincial Relations;
- (c) to provide Cabinet with greater assistance in examining federal-provincial issues of current and long-term concern; and
- (d) to assist in developing federal-provincial consultation on an increasing range of policy fronts.

For administrative purposes the Federal-Provincial Relations Office is regarded as a department of government under the Prime Minister, and its work includes:

- (a) preparation of material on federal-provincial relations matters for the Prime Minister and for the Minister of State for Federal-Provincial Relations;
- (b) providing assistance to Ministers, departments and agencies in the conduct of their relations with provincial governments including the development of long-term policies;
- (c) undertaking special studies as required;

Historical Background

The Department of Public Works was established in 1867 by an Act respecting the Public Works of Canada (SC 1867-68 c. 12). Before that time, public works were carried on in the Province of Canada by the Commissioner of Public Works who controlled canals, works in navigable waters, harbours, lighthouses, beacons and buoys, slides and booms, roads and bridges, public buildings and provincial vessels.

Overall Responsibilities

Under the Public Works Act (RSC 1970 c. P-38), the department is responsible for the management and direction of the public works of Canada except as specifically provided for in other statutes. The Department of Public Works manages real property for the government of Canada and provides planning, design, construction and realty services to government institutions, departments and agencies while contributing to the achievement of the government's wider social, economic and environmental objectives. This includes responsibility for the construction and maintenance of public buildings, acquiring leased accommodation for public use, construction and maintenance of wharves, piers, roads, bridges, and improvement of harbours and navigable channels.

Under the Federal Expropriation Act 1970, the department also administers the expropriation activities for the federal government, and the central real property inventory for the Treasury Board and federal departments and agencies.

Organization and Programs

The department has six functional divisions at headquarters: Departmental Planning and Coordination, Performance Evaluation, Realty, Design and Construction, Finance and Administration, and Personnel. In addition, the Assistant Deputy Minister, Operations, gives direction to the department's six geographic regions. The six regions are:

- (a) Atlantic Region which includes the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland and Labrador, with head office in Halifax;
- (b) Québec Region, comprising most of the Province of Québec, plus Baffin Island, with headquarters in Montréal;
- (c) National Capital Operations Branch, an elongated area on both banks of the Ottawa River, with offices in downtown Ottawa;
- (d) Ontario Region, including most of the Province of Ontario, with Toronto headquarters;
- (e) Western Region, comprising the three Prairie Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, plus most of the Northwest Territories, with central office in Edmonton; and
- (f) Pacific Region, which includes the Province of British Columbia and Yukon Territory, with the regional office in Vancouver.

Behind this structure are three principles: a belief in the special suitability of matrix management to departmental needs; a conviction of the need to decentralize operations as much as possible, while providing for the required centralized planning and control; and the recognition that Public Works operates as an integrated total system, rather than a set of neat organizational units.

The Deputy Minister is supported by two groups of senior officers, of roughly equivalent classification levels and organizational status: one of a functional nature, with department-wide responsibilities, and the other of an operations' management nature, operating within regional boundaries.

The first group of managers is responsible to the Deputy Minister for the department-wide effectiveness of the department's major functions.

The second group comprises the six regional directors-general who are responsible for managing departmental operations, directing ongoing operations in the regions. The Assistant Deputy Minister, Operations, in addition to representing regional interests at headquarters, ensures the implementation of the department's approved real estate projects and programs.

The department's programs include:

- (a) Accommodation
  - to provide departments and agencies of the federal government with accommodation of approved standards of quantity, quality and efficiency at the most economical cost;
- (b) Land Management and Development
  - to manage and develop federal lands so as to combine the efficient provision of government services with the achievement of wider social, economic and environmental objectives;
- (c) Marine
  - to provide and maintain, at the most economical cost, marine facilities as required by federal programs for the development and support of industry and for water level control;
- (d) Transportation and Other Engineering
  - to provide and maintain, at the most economical cost, roads, bridges, and public utility services as required by federal government programs; and

(e) Professional and Technical Services

- to provide the professional and technical services including engineering and architectural services, surveys, testing, design, contract management, and project control for a large segment of the federal government's construction program.

These are supported by the department's administration program, which provides central policy direction and central administrative support services for all departmental programs.

Dominion Fire Commission

The commission administers the government property fire prevention regulations and ensures that all departments and agencies (except the Department of National Defence) comply with minimum fire safety requirements. Standards are published to assist those responsible for design, construction, and maintenance of government property.

Land Management Role

Public Works essentially provides the same services to clients that any large realty firm provides. However, the department also has an extensive program for operations and maintenance of land and facilities, and a special set of responsibilities related to the acquisition (including expropriation), management and property disposal on behalf of the Crown.

Since 1973, the department has been operating under the basic policy principle established by Cabinet that "federal land should be managed so as to combine the efficient provision of government services with the achievement of other social, economic and environmental objectives." Thus, the department now seeks to manage its programs in such a way that they contribute to broader government objectives: regional economic stimulation, conservation of resources, health of local real estate and construction industries, positive federal presence, improvement of the urban and rural environment, encouragement and facilitation of design excellence, and the development of design, construction and real property technologies, techniques, standards and information.

Historical Background

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) was established on January 1, 1946, by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act (now RSC 1970 c. 16). The corporation's title was changed by Act of Parliament to Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation effective July 1, 1979 (Bill C-29 March 12, 1979). CMHC, a Crown corporation, is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule D) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. CMHC is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The major function of the corporation is to administer the National Housing Act 1954 (NHA) (RSC 1970 c. N-10). Under this Act, the corporation is authorized to insure mortgage loans made by approved lenders for new and existing homeowner housing, new and existing rental housing, and dwellings built by cooperative and non-profit associations. When loans are not available from approved lenders, the corporation may make loans on its own account as well as loans and annual contributions to home purchasers whose income does not enable them to pay the full annual cost.

Organization and Programs

There are five major sectors within the corporate organization:

- (a) General Counsel — responsible for the operation of the Legal and Administration Divisions.
- (b) Policy and Research — advice to president and management in the development of policy and the conduct of research relating to community development.
- (c) Program Operations — operation of the Program, Professional Standards and Portfolio Management Directorates.
- (d) Finance — operation of Controller's Directorate, Data and Systems, Budget and Financial Analysis Division, Pension Fund and Mortgage Marketing.
- (e) Organization Development — Management Development, Personnel, Communications and Public Relations, Women's Bureau, and Official Languages.

Rural and Native Housing

This program combines all resources of the National Housing Act for the benefit of rural and native people.

Non-profit Housing Assistance

Financial assistance is available for both public and private non-profit organizations, constituted for charitable purposes, for the provision of accommodation for disadvantaged groups such as the elderly, and physically or mentally handicapped.

Cooperative Housing Assistance

This alternative form of tenure permits members of a housing cooperative to reduce costs by pooling skills and purchasing in bulk. All provisions of the Act are accessible to such cooperative organizations.

Public Housing Assistance

This program assists provincial or municipal housing authorities for the construction of rental housing for low-income individuals or families. The help may take the form of a direct loan or a federal-provincial financing agreement. Either form involves subsidies to cover operating losses.

New Communities

The creation of new communities is encouraged as a way of providing an alternative to urban sprawl, to accommodate regional growth, or to create a balanced development in remotely-located towns dependent on resource industries.

Residential Rehabilitation Assistance

This program is designed to ensure an adequate stock of good housing by extending the life of existing homes. Financial assistance to owners and landlords brings their properties up to the minimum standards prescribed for health and safety.

Community Services

Through this program, assistance is provided to municipalities for community services such as neighborhood improvement, water and sewage treatment, community recreational facilities and upgrading of community services. The program is administered at the provincial level in accordance with a federal-provincial agreement.

Historical Background

The National Capital Act 1959 (now RSC 1970 c. N-3) created the National Capital Commission (NCC), a Crown corporation.

The commission is designated as an agency corporation (Schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (National Capital Act). The commission is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

NCC has the central objective of developing the National Capital Region in accordance with its national significance as the seat of the Canadian government.

The region, centred around the cities of Ottawa and Hull, covers an area of 1,800 square miles of the provinces of Ontario and Québec. Here, through the NCC, the federal government seeks to achieve a capital that will be:

- (a) a symbol of Canada's linguistic and cultural values;
- (b) an efficient and satisfying place in which to carry on the nation's business; and
- (c) a model of urban planning and development that will benefit other parts of the country and be a source of pride for Canadians.

The commission's major responsibility is to coordinate the development of all federally-owned lands in the National Capital Region. Authority to accomplish this objective is established in the Act under which commission approval is required for the exterior design elements of all federal works, including site and location. This authority and the commission's power to acquire strategic lands in the region enable direct federal planning and participation in local planning solutions with the provincial and municipal governments.

Organization and Programs

The National Capital Commission is composed of 20 members appointed by the Governor in Council. The commissioners are residents of each province of Canada, the cities of Hull and Ottawa, and other municipalities within the National Capital Region.

The commission administers the following programs:

- (a) policy development — conduct or promotion of research, studies, plans, and related activities leading to policy development;
- (b) land development — the assembly, improvement and management of properties to influence regional development and to coordinate federal development activities;
- (c) transportation — assistance in the development of integrated urban and inter-urban transportation systems;
- (d) services and utilities — assistance in the provision of adequate water distribution, sewage and solid waste disposal systems, and the underground placement of other utilities;
- (e) recreation and culture — development and management of parks, parkways, and other parklands; encouragement of and assistance in activities of a recreational or cultural character; assistance in the preservation of the Canadian heritage and encouragement of bilingualism and multiculturalism in the National Capital Region; and
- (f) administration and finance — provision of services for the implementation of the program; the repayment of loans, and payment of interest on loans.

Historical Background

The creation of the department, on April 1, 1969, was the culmination of a process which started in July of the previous year when the Prime Minister announced the government's intention of establishing a department to mount a new and comprehensive federal effort to combat regional economic disparities in Canada (see RSC 1970 c.R-4).

In its early years, the Department of Regional Economic Expansion (DREE) was responsible for continuing and integrating regional development programs formerly administered by other federal departments and agencies. These programs were the:

*Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA),
Fund for Rural Economic Development Act (FRED),
Canada Land Inventory (CLI),
Newfoundland Resettlement Program,
Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration (PFRA),
Maritime Marshland Rehabilitation Act (MMRA),
Area Development Incentives Act (ADIA),
Atlantic Development Board (ADB),
Atlantic Provinces Power Development Act (APPDA), and the NewStart Program.*

Under the Department of Regional Economic Expansion Act, the department introduced a special areas program to provide infrastructure assistance in certain areas of the country. In addition, the Regional Development Incentives Act (RDIA), was established to authorize the provision of incentive grants and loan guarantees to manufacturing and processing industries to establish, expand and modernize their facilities in designated regions.

During the fiscal year 1973-74, the department completed a major policy review and reorganization that resulted in a new approach to regional development policy, accompanied by a new decentralized structure.

Overall Responsibilities

The department is responsible for facilitating economic growth and social adjustment in the various regions of the country, through a series of federal-provincial agreements, special programs and other activities designed to increase and improve access to development opportunities.

Organization and Programs

The department is fully decentralized to enable it to respond rapidly and efficiently to local, provincial and regional needs as they arise. The present organization includes head office in Ottawa-Hull, regional offices at Moncton, Montréal, Toronto and Saskatoon, an office in each provincial capital and various branch offices.

The department's program approach can be broadly divided into three categories: development opportunity initiatives, industrial incentives and other programs.

Development Opportunity Initiatives

This category involves joint federal-provincial initiatives under General Development Agreements (GDAs) and subsidiary agreements for the realization of mutually agreed upon economic and socio-economic development opportunities in each province. The range of current development activities varies from province to province, but includes forestry, agriculture, fisheries, transportation, tourism, industrial development, northlands, mineral development and planning.

Industrial Incentives

Industrial Incentives are provided to stimulate manufacturing investment and employment in the slow-growth regions of Canada. Under the Regional Development Incentives Act (RDIA), grants and loan guarantees are available to encourage manufacturing and processing industries to establish, expand or modernize facilities in designated regions. These regions cover all four Atlantic provinces, the provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, the Yukon and Northwest Territories, together with most of the Province of Québec and the northern portions of Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia.

In addition, special investment incentives for selected industries in Montréal and its environs have been established under the Department of Regional Economic Expansion Act. The area includes metropolitan Montréal and certain parts of the zone within 100 kilometres.

Other Programs

Other programs include the Special Agricultural and Rural Development Program, which undertakes activities to improve the social and economic environment of people of Indian ancestry in some rural areas. As well, the department is responsible for the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration (PFRA), which is concerned primarily with water conservation and development, and land use adjustment in the Prairie provinces. Its activities include large scale irrigation projects, land reclamation, community pasture operations, and promotion of improved systems of farm practice. PFRA is also engaged in activities under the Agricultural Service Centres Agreements which provide assistance for community infrastructure improvement.

Historical Background

The Atlantic Development Council was established by the Government Organization Act, 1969, as an advisory body to the Minister. (This advisory function had been provided previously by the Atlantic Development Board. The operational functions were absorbed into the Department of Regional Economic Expansion in 1969.) The members are appointed by the Governor in Council, after consultation with the provincial governments, to reflect the economic structure of the Atlantic Region.

Overall Responsibilities

The council advises, reports, and recommends to the Minister on:

- (a) plans, programs, and proposals for fostering the economic expansion and social adjustment of the region;
- (b) the possibility of certain programs and projects and the contribution they would make to the economic expansion and social adjustment of the region; and
- (c) such other matters as the Minister may refer to the council.

Organization

In 1974, the council established four provincial committees each consisting of council members from each province. A Cabinet Minister designated by each provincial premier acts as liaison. Each committee monitors provincial development activities, and provides the council with a more in-depth knowledge of development problems and opportunities within each province.

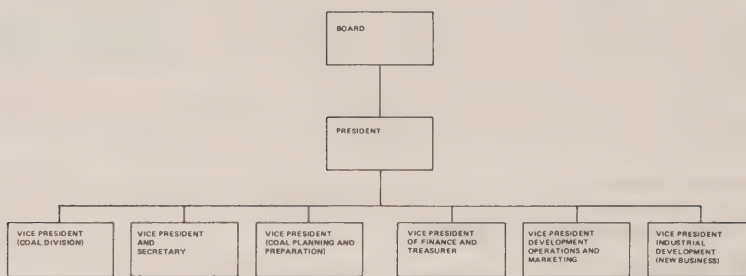

The staff of the council consists of development officers (economics, engineering, business, and resources), plus two economists. This staff provides a back-up for the four provincial committees, and a research capability for the council.

Historical Background

The Cape Breton Development Corporation (DEVCO) was established by the Cape Breton Development Corporation Act (SC 1967 c. 6 — now RSC 1970 c. C-13).

Section 31(1) of the Act designates this Crown corporation as a proprietary corporation (Schedule "D") within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. Except as provided in subsection 30(1), the corporation is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

DEVCO was established to deal with the threatened closure of the Sydney coalfields. The governments of Canada and Nova Scotia agreed that a proprietary corporation be formed in order to handle the coal problem, and diversify the economic base available to the people of Cape Breton Island.

Organization and Programs

There are two divisions within the corporation: Coal; Industrial Development.

Coal Division

This division acquired the interests of the major coal producer in the Sydney coalfield with the objective of rationalizing coal production in the area. It is rehabilitating and modernizing the industry with the objective of making it economically viable by 1977.

Industrial Development Division

This division promotes and assists the development and financing of industry on Cape Breton Island, including primary industries and tourist-oriented services, with the aim of improving, in concert with federal and provincial departments, employment and earning opportunities on the Island.

Historical Background

The Ministry of State for Science and Technology was created under the Ministries and Ministers of State Act (RSC 1970 c. 14 [2nd Supp]). A proclamation establishing the ministry was issued (SOR/71-413, Aug. 25, 1971). OIC P.C. 1971-1696 (SOR/71-408, Aug. 25, 1971) designated the ministry as a department and the Minister as the appropriate minister for purposes of the Financial Administration Act. OIC P.C. 1971-1697 transferred that part of the Privy Council Office known as the Secretariat for Science and Technology from the Prime Minister to the Minister of State for Science and Technology.

Overall Responsibilities

Responsibility for three distinct policy areas rests with the ministry:

- (a) policy for the support of science which encompasses the acquisition of knowledge, the development of research capability, the provision of scientifically-trained manpower and the dissemination of scientific information;
- (b) policy for the application of scientific and technological resources which encompasses the wise, economic and coordinated use of scientific knowledge, manpower and facilities;
- (c) science in public policy which encompasses the introduction of scientific knowledge, reasoning and methodology into the development of public policy at the strategic level.

In support of the major objective of encouraging the development and use of science and technology, the ministry has the following responsibilities: to formulate and develop policies for and to advise on both the support of science and technology and the application of science and technology to national issues, as well as to foster the use of scientific and technological knowledge in the formulation and development of public policy.

The program description for the ministry is:

- policy development: develop policies for the support of science and technology, develop policies for and advise on the application of scientific and technical resources to national issues; foster use of scientific and technological knowledge in the formulation and development of public policy;
- policy development support: provide a policy and program review and evaluation capability; provide a secretariat for the ministry project management committee; provide a science and technology data base in support of policy development and program review; and
- department administration: offices of the Minister and Secretary; administrative, personnel and financial services.

Organization and Programs

The ministry is organized into four branches: Government, Industry, University, and Corporate Services.

Government Branch

This branch has responsibility for all projects having a direct impact upon government policy and government activities in science and technology. The large research and development program that is carried out by various departments necessitates a review process, which covers policy and current operations. This ensures that national and government objectives are met.

The branch consists of three divisions. Government Projects Division undertakes policy review and development projects at the request of Cabinet or Treasury Board and in response to needs identified by the ministry. Program Review and Assessment Division advises the Treasury Board and federal departments on the analysis and evaluation of departmental programs and expenditure plans. International Division attempts a synthesis of Canadian domestic information in this area, and interprets the significance of international initiatives on domestic science and technology programs.

Industry Branch

The principal function of this branch is to develop and assess federal government science and technology policies relating to research and development, and the use of science and technology in Canada's resource, manufacturing and service industries.

In policy development, the branch's objective is to improve and coordinate the utilization of scientific and technological advances as well as to enhance research and development capabilities in Canadian industry. It also responds to requests from other departments to coordinate policy proposals in areas which involve several departments. The branch reviews the policy proposals of other federal departments, whenever there are implications of an industrial, scientific or technological nature.

University Branch

This branch is responsible for advising the government on policies concerning the federal support of university research, the involvement of university research in the pursuit of national objectives, as well as its contribution to Canada's international obligations. The branch provides background information to the Inter-Council Coordinating Committee which is a consultative body composed of the presidents of the granting councils, and the Secretary of the Ministry of State for Science and Technology.

Corporate Services Branch

The responsibility of this branch is to provide common administrative services to the policy development branches of the ministry. It is comprised of five divisions — Communications Services Division, Personnel Division, Financial Services Division, Administrative Services Division, and Project Management Committee Secretariat.

Historical Background

The National Research Council (NRC), established in 1916 (National Research Council Act RSC 1970 c. M-14), is a Crown corporation reporting to Parliament through a designated Minister. Since its founding, the council has played a major role in Canada's scientific development. Today, it functions as a national science laboratory, a patron of Canadian scientific research and a vital link between the scientific interests of government, industry and universities in Canada.

Organization and Programs

Within its recently redefined role, and as a result of the recent transfer of NRC's Program of University Grants and Scholarships to the newly created Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council, NRC's operational activities are now organized under two defined programs: Scientific and Industrial Research Program; and Scientific and Technical Information Program. The following is a summary of the objectives and principal activities being carried out within each of these programs.

Scientific and Industrial Research Program

- (a) Basic and exploration research to acquire new knowledge and expertise and to discover new applications of science of potential economic and social benefit;
- (b) Research on long-term problems of national concern directed towards the solution of problems such as energy, food, transportation, building and construction;
- (c) Research in direct support of industrial innovation and development, including research on promising areas of new technology, effective methods of technology transfer to industry and technical and financial assistance to industry to carry out specific research and development projects to the point of industrial innovation;
- (d) Research to provide technological support of social objectives in areas such as health, law, public safety, environmental quality and quality of Canadian life;
- (e) National facilities, developed and managed as unique research facilities as a service to industry, governments and universities;
- (f) Research and services related to standards, including primary standards, codes and secondary standards; and
- (g) Administrative and supporting services.

Scientific and Technical Information Program

- (a) Provision of information services — with the aid of the expertise and resources of the Canada Institute for Scientific and Technical Information (CISTI), to provide for the collection, storage, retrieval, analysis and transfer of scientific and technical information and to support the publication of scientific and engineering research journals;
- (b) Network Implementation — Implementation and maintenance of a Canadian network of scientific and technical information services through interlinkage and coordination of existing resources and services in Canada and abroad; and
- (c) Research and development related to the technologies and management of information systems and processes, exchanges and related standards.

Historical Background

The Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council (NSERC), established on May 1, 1978 [Government Organization (Scientific Activities) Act, 1976, Part III], is a Crown corporation reporting to Parliament through a designated minister. It is the function of the council to promote and assist research in the natural sciences and engineering other than the health sciences; and to advise the Minister on any research which he may refer to the council.

Organization and Programs

The activities of the council are organized under four categories:

- (a) peer adjudicated grants;
- (b) developmental grants;
- (c) highly qualified manpower training and development; and
- (d) national and international activities.

The following objectives and principal activities are being carried out within each of these programs.

- (a) Peer adjudicated grants are grants for research expenses and equipment costs awarded to selected individuals and groups on the basis of peer adjudication. The majority of the grants for university research are awarded to individual researchers or groups of researchers on the basis of merit of their proposed research and their proven excellence in research, be it fundamental or applied, as judged by a committee of their peers.
- (b) Developmental grants are grants requested by individuals, groups (including multidisciplinary groups) or institutions, for major research installations, research programs, special research projects and regional development of research capability, to meet needs or to provide opportunities to contribute to the resolution of problems related to scientific, economic and resource development.
- (c) Highly qualified manpower training and development scholarships and fellowships are awarded in national competitions to graduate students, postdoctoral fellows and senior scientists and engineers in universities and Canadian industry, for advanced study, research and professional development.
- (d) National and international activities involve grants to support national and international scientific and engineering conferences, the international exchange of scientists and engineers, selected activities of some scientific and learned institutions, and the publication of scientific and engineering journals and original research manuscripts.

Historical Background

The Science Council of Canada was established in 1966 by the Science Council of Canada Act (now RSC 1970 c. S-5). The Act was amended by Bill C-26 passed by the House of Commons on June 3, 1977. The council, a Crown corporation, is designated a departmental corporation (Schedule B) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1969-1225, June 17, 1969). OIC P.C. 1971-1702, August 12, 1971, designated the Minister of State for Science and Technology as the appropriate Minister for the purposes of the Science Council of Canada Act. The council is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

It is the function of the council to assess the scientific and technological resources, requirements and potentialities of Canada and to increase public awareness of:

- (i) scientific and technological problems and opportunities, and
- (ii) the interdependence of the public, governments, industries and universities in the development and use of science and technology.

Organization

The council conducts on its own initiative or, if directed to do so by the Minister, such studies, inquiries and other undertakings with respect to any matter relating to its duties, and reports to, advises or makes recommendations to the Minister as required.

The council submits to the Minister a report of its operations for each fiscal year. This report is tabled in the House of Commons. In addition, the council may publish such studies and reports prepared for its use as it sees fit.

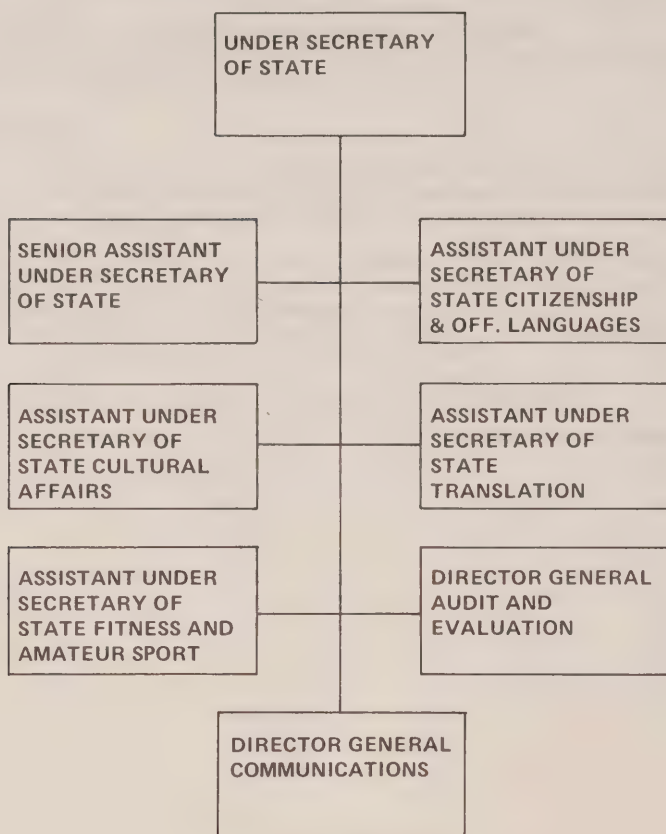

The council consists of 30 members appointed by the Governor in Council, and is supported by a small professional and administrative staff.

Historical Background

The Department of the Secretary of State, one of the oldest in the federal government, was established in 1867 (now Department of State Act RSC 1970 c. S-15). At that time the department was the official channel of communication between the Dominion of Canada and the Imperial Government, and the official repository of state records. The department also managed Indian affairs and Crown lands; both of these duties were transferred in 1873 with the creation of the Department of the Interior. The Secretary of State was the Registrar-General of Canada; this responsibility is now that of Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

Among its diverse areas of responsibility have been: state correspondence with the provinces, the Royal North West Mounted Police (now the Royal Canadian Mounted Police), the Civil Service (now the Public Service), boards of trade and trade unions, trade marks and design, patents and copyrights, and government printing and stationery.

Other responsibilities and incidental duties came under the Canada Temperance Act, the Canada Medical Act; the Canada Evidence Act, and the Criminal Code.

Overall Responsibilities

The department has had a continuing responsibility for state and ceremonial and special occasions, and for naturalization and citizenship (except during the existence of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration from 1950-66).

The present responsibilities are:

- to encourage the acquisition and use of the two official languages in Canadian society, thereby reinforcing the equality of status of both languages;
- to formulate and develop policies and programs for the achievement of national arts and cultural objectives and to promote effective inter-agency cooperation in the achievement of these objectives;
- to control the export of Canadian cultural properties or to encourage their repatriation;
- to advise on matters of state protocol and to manage state ceremonies and events;

- (e) to ensure the coordinated development, formulation, implementation, and review of education policies and programs in support of national objectives in consultation with the provinces;
- (f) to provide translation and interpretation services in all languages in accordance with the needs of Parliament, the government and its agencies;
- (g) to promote and to assist in the development of a Canadian identity and of effective Canadian citizenship, and to coordinate the formulation and development of national strategies and policies affecting citizenship; and
- (h) to provide facilities to grant and to give proof of Canadian citizenship and to encourage and assist eligible persons to acquire and value such citizenship.

Organization and Programs

The department is divided into four sectors: the sector of the Senior Assistant Under Secretary of State, Citizenship and Official Languages, Cultural Affairs, the Translation Bureau.

Sector of the Senior Assistant Under Secretary of State

The sectors of the department reporting to the senior assistant under secretary include planning, systems and services; personnel; finance; citizenship registration; education support; and Festival Canada.

Planning, Systems and Services Branch

This branch advises management throughout the department on the development and modification of organization and methods, information management and computer systems. The branch also provides the following services: security, accommodation, materiel, library, records management, telecommunications and ministerial support.

Personnel Administration Branch

This branch is responsible for staffing, staff relations, staff training and development, language training, position classification, and the administration of pay and benefits.

Finance Branch

This branch provides departmental programs with advice and assistance in all matters related to financial administration. Its responsibilities are divided into the areas of program budgeting and reporting, accounting operations, and financial policies and systems.

It also provides training for managers and other officers with responsibility for managing financial resources.

Citizenship Registration Branch

This branch administers the Citizenship Act of 1977, and informs Canadians and potential Canadians of their rights and privileges under this Act.

Through a network of 31 citizenship courts, sub-courts and offices across the country, it examines applications for citizenship and for proof of citizenship, grants citizenship, and deals with all matters pertaining to citizenship, such as proof, retention, resumption, renunciation, and revocation.

Education Support Branch

This branch carries out analytical, liaison and research work for the Secretary of State, who is responsible for the coordinated development, formulation, implementation and review of federal education policies and programs in both Canadian and international contexts. The branch administers two programs of fiscal transfers to the provinces in support of post-secondary education. It also administers the Canada Student Loans Program, which provides loan assistance to full-time students at the post-secondary level as a supplement to other resources available to students from their families, their own efforts and other student awards.

In response to the report of the Commission on Canadian Studies, the department, through the branch, has initiated a three-year experimental program of financial support for Canadian studies to three national academic organizations.

Festival Canada

This is the administrative unit which coordinates and stages Canada Week, the national birthday celebration leading up to the July 1 holiday. The week's events include activities organized by volunteers in communities across the country, special programs on the English and French networks of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, sports events, and a nationally-telecast show and celebration on Parliament Hill July 1.

Citizenship and Official Languages

This sector consists of three areas: Coordination and Analysis, Citizenship Programs and Official Language Programs.

Coordination and Analysis

This branch provides policy development, analysis and coordination and other related services required by the Citizenship Programs and the Official Languages Branch. These services are intended to improve and to develop sector activities within the present mandate, framework, and objectives. The branch has three directorates.

The Coordination Directorate coordinates the application of sector policy across programs and is a focal point for headquarters/field liaison and liaison with other federal departments and agencies on issues that affect more than one program. As required by senior management, the directorate takes the lead in managing short and medium term projects which cut across sector activities and operations.

The Analysis Directorate provides an analytical support function by examining both internal and external factors directly affecting the policies, programs and operations of the sector. Studies are undertaken in policy areas as well as in administration and operations. The Analysis Directorate is also responsible for coordinating the development of a data bank system for the sector to provide senior management with the capacity to react to the rapidly changing social and operational environment in which many of the programs operate.

The Operations Directorate has two sections: the Grants and Contributions Secretariat which provides support services for senior management decision-making; and a management information systems group which ensures effective control of administrative systems in support of the sector's management requirements.

Citizenship Programs

This branch consists of four directorates.

The Citizens' Participation Directorate promotes and improves the participation of citizens in all aspects of Canadian society. This is done through financial and technical assistance to community groups; through the encouragement of travel and exchange among different groups from various parts of Canada; and through the promotion of group understanding and human rights and freedom. The directorate provides for the operation of hostels across the country in the summer months. It also administers the Student Community Service Program which encourages students to work in the voluntary sector during their vacation and a job corps program.

The Women's Directorate assists women's organizations in promoting greater understanding of the status of women in Canada, and in developing activities which help women acquire the knowledge and skills necessary for effective participation as equal citizens.

The Multiculturalism Directorate promotes the development of a society in which individuals and groups may have an equal opportunity to develop and express their cultural heritage through encouragement and assistance to multicultural groups.

The Native Citizens Directorate promotes and encourages the active participation of native people in Canadian society, ensures the preservation and development of native cultures in the context of Canadian society and encourages the development of specific projects to meet the special needs of native people. Activities include the core funding of native associations, and the support of friendship centres, as well as support to native communications. Also, assistance is provided to native women and native youth to help them improve the quality of their lives.

Official Language Programs Branch

By means of various technical and financial assistance programs, the branch promotes the acquisition and use of the two official languages outside the public service and provides opportunities for Canadians to understand and appreciate the bilingual aspects of Canada. The branch is divided into two: Language Programs and Official Language Minority Groups Programs.

The Language Programs comprise three directorates.

The Bilingualism in Education Directorate administers an assistance program to the provinces for teaching of the second language or for teaching official language minority groups in their mother tongue at the elementary, secondary and post-secondary levels.

The Policy Development and Coordination Directorate is responsible for the development of policies relating to language instruction and acquisition, and for the dissemination of information relating to language research. It cooperates with other countries and international agencies studying questions of individual and institutional bilingualism.

The Bilingualism in the Private Sector and in Public Administration Directorate promotes the equitable use of both official languages in the private and public sectors by contributing financially to associations that have a bilingualism program, and by providing technical assistance to private businesses interested in setting up such a program; it also assists territorial, provincial and municipal administrators in second language training for employees, and for the translation of official documents.

The Official Language Minority Groups Programs work toward the social, cultural and linguistic development of official language minority communities across Canada. The objective is a better understanding between Canada's two official language groups in promoting projects which allow for greater cooperation between the two.

Cultural Affairs

This sector formulates policies and programs designed to promote the development of Canadian culture. The sector comprises the Arts and Culture Branch.

Arts and Culture Branch

The branch advises the Minister on national policy on culture and the arts, promotes cooperation between federal cultural agencies in order to carry out common cultural objectives, and implements programs intended for the private and public spheres. The branch comprises three directorates and a secretariat.

The Arts and Culture Secretariat is concerned with policies and programs related to museums and the national heritage, the visual and performing arts, film, publishing, recording, and broadcasting.

The Intergovernmental Affairs section coordinates consultation and liaison on cultural matters with provincial governments and at the international level.

The Operations Directorate administers grants, the Film Festivals Bureau, and the application of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act, questions of protocol, and the organization of special events (such as Royal visits).

The Research and Statistics Directorate includes the evaluation of current programs and requests for funds from various federal cultural agencies, and the organizing of statistical studies on the subject of culture at a national level.

Translation Bureau

The bureau provides translation and interpretation services, and terminological information in all languages, for appropriate linguistic communication, to Parliament, federal government departments and agencies. The bureau comprises four branches.

Translation Services Branch

This branch provides translation services in both official languages to approximately 150 departments and agencies across the country and abroad.

Special Operations Branch

This branch provides translation and interpretation services to Parliament, interpretation services for government conferences in all languages, translation services in native and foreign languages and is responsible for free lance translation contracts.

Terminology and Documentation Branch

This branch provides a linguistic research service and has its own documentation centre. It promotes the standardization of vocabulary within the public administration and disseminates terminological information, in all disciplines, to translators, interpreters and public servants.

Planning Branch

This branch provides advice, by means of its evaluation process, on structures and resources in order to meet bureau objectives. Resources include training of translators and interpreters, additional training for bureau personnel, and language quality evaluation of translations produced by the bureau.

The Communications Branch

This branch controls the quality of publications, audio-visual productions and advertising which promote the programs of the Department of the Secretary of State. The branch provides media and public relations services for the Secretary of State and the Minister of State for Multiculturalism and handles their correspondence. The branch answers letters of inquiry and comment from the general public on the department's activities as well as requests for information on the programs and activities of the federal government as a whole.

Evaluation and Audit Branch

The Evaluation and Audit Branch evaluates the effectiveness of departmental programs and carries out financial and management audits of all programs and operations in order to verify compliance with Acts, regulations and central agency directives and to provide management with an assessment of the efficiency of operations as well as with a measure of the extent to which programs are meeting their specified objectives. The branch is also the link between the office of the Auditor General of Canada, the office of the Comptroller General of Canada and the department.

Regional Directorates

The department's objectives and programs are promoted across Canada by a network of six regional directorates: Atlantic, New Brunswick, Québec, Ontario, Prairie, and Pacific.

Some 150 social development officers staff 21 field offices distributed throughout Canada. The officers relate to community groups and citizens' organizations, various institutions and other governmental agencies and departments, when carrying out their duties. These officers report directly to the regional director.

Twenty-nine citizenship courts are also administered by the regional directorates.

Historical Background

The Canada Council, a Crown corporation, was established in 1957 by the Canada Council Act (now RSC 1970 c. C-2). Its original mandate included responsibility for both the arts and the humanities and social sciences. This mandate was amended, as of April 1, 1978, by the Government Organization (Scientific Activities) Act, 1976, under which the council's responsibility for the humanities and social sciences was transferred to a new organization, the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council. The Canada Council is not an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The council fosters and promotes the study and enjoyment of, and the production of works in the arts. It also shares the responsibility for Canada's cultural relations with other countries, maintains the Canadian Commission for UNESCO and administers a number of special programs financed by private donations.

The council sets its own policies and makes its own decisions within the terms of the Canada Council Act.

Organization and Programs

The Canada Council consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and 19 other members, all of whom are appointed by the Governor in Council. The council meets four or five times a year at the council's office in Ottawa.

The council is assisted by a permanent staff and by numerous outside advisers, consulted individually or in juries, committees or consultative groups. Among the latter, the Advisory Arts Panel plays a major role in the development of council policies and programs.

Annual grants from Parliament are the council's main source of income. The grants are supplemented by income from an endowment fund established by Parliament in 1957. The council also has received substantial amounts in private donations and bequests, usually for specific purposes.

Aid to Artists and Arts Organizations

The council assists individuals and organizations in the fields of music, opera, dance, theatre, visual arts, film, video and photography, writing and publishing. It provides direct assistance to professional artists in the above fields through a variety of grants. It also offers operating grants and special project grants to professional arts organizations, support services and publishers of Canadian books.

Explorations Program

This program supports projects dealing with Canada's cultural and historical heritage and projects which explore new forms of expression and public participation in the arts, humanities, and social sciences.

Art Bank

Established in 1972 to encourage professional Canadian artists, the bank purchases works and rents them to government departments and agencies, and to non-profit organizations for display in public areas.

Touring Office

The Touring Office provides subsidies, technical assistance and support services to encourage touring by Canadian performing artists and companies to widen their audience. It also promotes the training and professional development of tour sponsors, commercial agents and impresarios.

Cultural Exchanges

A number of small programs funded by the Canadian government or external sources are administered by the Canada Council. They include grants to Canadian cultural organizations for visits to Canada of distinguished foreign artists; grants for young Canadian artists wishing to study music, ballet or theatre in the USSR; and provision of studio space for Canadian visual artists in Paris and New York.

Killam Program

The Killam awards are intended to assist scholars of exceptional ability engaged in research projects of outstanding merit in the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, medicine and engineering. They have been made possible through a bequest of Mrs. Dorothy J. Killam and a gift made by Mrs. Killam before her death.

Prizes and Awards

Under its power to "make awards to persons in Canada for outstanding accomplishments in the arts", the council offers or administers a number of prizes and special awards, including the Molson Prizes, the Governor General's Literary Awards, the Translation Prizes, the Canada-Belgian Literary Prize, the Canada-Australia Literary Prize and the Children's Literature Prizes.

UNESCO

As an agent of the council, the Canadian Commission for UNESCO coordinates UNESCO program activities abroad and administers a modest program in furtherance of UNESCO objectives in Canada.

Historical Background

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, a Crown corporation, was established in 1936 by the Broadcasting Act (now RSC 1970 c. B-11 Part III, sec. 34[i]) to provide a national broadcasting service in Canada. Its radio and television facilities extend from Atlantic to Pacific and into the Arctic Circle.

The corporation consists of a president and 14 other directors appointed by the Governor in Council. The president is the chief executive officer. The corporation, on the recommendation of the president and with the approval of the Governor in Council, appoints an executive vice-president who is responsible to the president for the management of broadcasting operations in accordance with policies prescribed by the corporation. The executive vice-president is not a director.

Overall Responsibilities

The overall responsibilities of the national broadcasting service are:

- (a) to provide a balanced service of information, enlightenment, and entertainment for people of different ages, interests and tastes covering the whole range of programming in fair proportion;
- (b) to extend to all parts of Canada, as public funds become available;
- (c) to operate in English and French, serving the special needs of geographic regions, and to contribute to the exchange of cultural and regional information and entertainment, and
- (d) to contribute to the development of national unity and to provide for a continuing expression of Canadian identity.

CBC operates seven major domestic services: two television networks, English and French; two AM radio networks, English and French; two FM stereo networks, English and French; and a northern radio service broadcasting in English, French and Indian and Inuit languages.

Programming

The CBC produces programs in many fields: news and current affairs, commentary, special events, documentary, drama, music, variety, children's and youth programming, school programs, adult education, sports, religion, science, and the arts. It also carries a selection of programs from other countries.

The CBC gives continuing support to Canadian artists and performers through the broadcast of Canadian music, drama and poetry, the commission of special works, the sponsorship of talent competition, and the presentation of Canadian films. The CBC produces a variety of recordings, audiotapes, and books from its program material.

Radio Canada International (RCI)

This is the external shortwave service of the CBC. Primarily, it reflects Canada's image to the rest of the world. At present, RCI broadcasts in 11 languages. In addition to its shortwave broadcasts, RCI is expanding its activities in recorded programs, available free of charge for use by broadcasters throughout the world.

Northern Service

Established in 1958, this service provides a broadcasting service for the people of Northern Canada, radio service by means of medium and shortwave transmissions, and a television service by means of a national network fed via the world's first synchronous domestic communications satellite, ANIK, which began operation early in 1973.

International Relations

This activity involves program sales to other countries and international program festivals, and competitions. It is either a member or associate member of several international broadcasting unions and maintains relations with world broadcasting unions. In cooperation with the Canadian International Development Agency and UNESCO, CBC has sent personnel to aid foreign broadcasting organizations and provides training for foreign students who come to Canada to learn broadcasting.

Offices

The operational centre for English services is in Toronto, and there are several regional production centres across the country. CBC French services have their operational headquarters in Montréal, with local stations at other points in Québec and in most other provinces.

Offices are located also in London, Paris, New York and Washington, as well as news bureaus in Moscow, the Far East, Brussels, South Africa and Peking.

Historical Background

The Canadian Film Development Corporation, a Crown corporation, was established in 1967 by the Canadian Film Development Corporation Act (now RSC 1970 c. C-8). The corporation is designated as an agency corporation (Schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1968-252, 8 Feb 1968; SOR/68-68). The corporation is an agent of Her Majesty.

The corporation consists of six members appointed by the Governor in Council plus that person who holds office from time-to-time as Government Film Commissioner; the Governor in Council designates which member is to serve as chairman of the corporation.

Overall Responsibilities

The objectives of the corporation are to foster and promote the development of a feature film industry in Canada, and it may, in furtherance of these objects:

- (a) invest in individual feature film productions in return for a share in the proceeds from any such production;
- (b) make loans to producers of individual Canadian feature film productions and charge interest thereon;
- (c) make awards for outstanding accomplishments in the production of Canadian feature films; and
- (d) advise and assist the producers of Canadian feature film in the distribution of such films and in the administrative functions of feature film production.

In this context, a "Canadian feature film" or "Canadian feature film production" is a feature film or feature film production in respect of which the corporation has determined:

- (a) that the completed film will, in the judgement of the corporation, have a significant Canadian creative, artistic and technical content, and that arrangements have been made to ensure that the copyright in the completed film will be beneficially owned by an individual resident in Canada, by a corporation incorporated under the laws of Canada or a province or by any combination of such persons; or
- (b) that provision has been made for the production of the film under a coproduction agreement entered into between Canada and another country.

The corporation is expected to consult and cooperate with departments, branches, and agencies of the Government of Canada and of the governments of the provinces having duties related to, or having aims or objects related to those of the corporation.

Organization

Administration

The administrative sector of the corporation's activities includes expenses and remuneration of members, of executive staff, of technical and professional advisers, plus the cost of support services required to assess, select, and administer projects.

Investments and Loans

Investments and loans are made through the corporation's regular and special investment programs. This includes assistance to Canadian distributors for the promotion of Canadian feature films, on which tangible financial returns are expected.

Advisory Group

In addition, the Minister, on the recommendation of the corporation, has appointed an advisory group broadly representative of the professional associations, exhibitors, distributors, and unions in the Canadian film industry and other qualified persons, to advise the corporation on matters which the Minister or the corporation may refer to it. The Advisory Group consists of one independent member and one representative from each of the following associations:

Hull, Qué.

Minister

Minister of State for Multiculturalism

Principal Officers

Under Secretary of State .....	Pierre Juneau
Assistant Under Secretary of State .....	Paul E. Larose
Multiculturalism Director .....	Orest Kruhlak

Historical Background

The Multiculturalism Directorate is the operational arm of the Minister of State for Multiculturalism and is a part of the administration framework of the Department of the Secretary of State. The multiculturalism policy of the Government of Canada was officially announced by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons on October 8, 1971, and the directorate was established soon thereafter.

Overall Responsibilities

The Multiculturalism Directorate is responsible for the implementation of a variety of activities that support the multiculturalism policy announced by the Prime Minister. The directorate's main objective is to encourage and assist, within the framework of Canada's official languages policy and in the spirit of existing human rights codes, the full realization of the multicultural nature of Canadian society through programs which promote the preservation and sharing of cultural heritages, and which facilitate mutual appreciation and understanding among all Canadians.

In working to achieve this objective, the directorate has two main lines of approach: one is directed specifically towards Canadian cultural groups and organizations to help them to articulate their needs and to achieve their individual aspirations, and the other is directed at society at large to increase awareness of the bilingual and multicultural nature of our country.

Organization and Programs

The directorate is composed of four divisions: Program Analysis, Program Liaison, Program Operations and Cultural Resource Development.

Program Analysis Division

The division develops and plans policy formulation and program implementation to provide equal opportunities for all of Canada's ethnocultural groups. It also provides interpretation of existing program objectives and procedural guidelines, and evaluates the effectiveness of current program implementation methods.

Program Liaison Division

This division represents the directorate on the Minister's advisory body — the Canadian Consultative Council on Multiculturalism. It develops policy and program plans in conjunction with the Canadian Ethnic Studies Advisory Committee, as well as directing a program of liaison with institutions, voluntary organizations and government departments.

Program Operations Division

This division directs the administration of grants, contributions and contracts, and monitors regional operations to ensure uniformity with the priorities and mandate of the program. This division promotes the efficient use of manpower and material resources required by other divisions to carry out their programs, and maintains effective working relations with Treasury Board Secretariat and the Public Service Commission.

Cultural Resources Development Division

This division develops and directs activities which increase the awareness and understanding of Canada's cultural pluralism. It also acts as the principal liaison with other governmental cultural agencies which have impact on multiculturalism objectives.

Historical Background

In 1966, the National Arts Centre Act created a corporation to administer the National Arts Centre (now RSC 1970 c. N-2). The objects of the corporation are "to operate and maintain the Centre, to develop the performing arts in the National Capital region" and to assist the Canada Council in the development of the performing arts elsewhere in Canada.

The corporation is not an agent of Her Majesty and, except as provided in section 13, the director and the officers and employees of the corporation are not part of the public service.

The corporation is deemed to be a charitable organization in Canada:

- (a) as described in paragraph (e) of subsection (1) of section 62 of the Income Tax Act, for the purposes of that Act; and
- (b) as described in subparagraph (i) of paragraph (d) of subsection (1) of section (7) of the Estate Tax Act, for the purposes of that Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The corporation is empowered by the Act to:

- (a) arrange for and sponsor performing arts activities at the centre;
- (b) encourage and assist in the development of performing arts companies resident at the centre;
- (c) arrange for or sponsor radio and television broadcasts from the centre and the showing of films in the centre;
- (d) provide accommodation at the centre, on such terms and conditions as the corporation may fix, for national and local organizations whose objects include the development of the performing arts in Canada.

Historical Background

The National Film Board (NFB) was established by the National Film Act of 1939 in order to review government film activities and advise the Governor in Council in connection with these activities. Orders in Council P.C. 3549 of June 11, and P.C. 6047 of August 8, 1941 transferred to the board the still and motion picture production and distribution operations of the Government Motion Picture Bureau (which had functioned since 1921 under the authority of the Minister of Trade and Commerce). The bureau, in turn, grew out of the Exhibits and Publicity Bureau established in the Department of Trade and Commerce in 1914. The 1950 National Film Act (now RSC 1970 c. N-7) repealed the previous Act and redefined the functions and purposes of the board.

The board is designated as a department; the Secretary of State as appropriate minister within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1952-1903, March 31 1952).

Overall Responsibilities

The board is authorized to initiate and promote the production and distribution of films in the national interest, designed to interpret Canada to Canadians and to other nations. The board also represents the government in its relations with private film-makers concerning work for government departments and agencies. In addition, the board makes available the results of its research to persons engaged in the production of films. While the board's head office is in Ottawa, the operational headquarters was moved to the Montréal suburb of Saint Laurent in 1956. Located in Montréal are the administrative offices, distribution headquarters, production studios and film laboratories. The board also has a network of distribution and production offices across the country.

General policy for the Film Board is determined by the nine members of the Board of Governors who meet not less than once every three months. Four members, including the Government Film Commissioner, are from the public service. The Film Commissioner also serves as chairman and chief executive officer of the board. Five members, citizens from various walks of life, represent the major geographic regions of the country.

Organization and Programs

Operations of the board are organized under four activities which are carried out by six branches.

Executive and Administrative Services

This activity is carried out by four branches: the Executive, the Financial and Administrative Services, Personnel and Ottawa Services.

Executive

The Executive, responsible for the general administration of the Film Board, involves the offices of the Government Film Commissioner, his Deputy (Director General of the Board) and Assistant (Planning, Policy and External Relations) the Directors of the Planning and the External Relations offices, the Directors of English and French Programming and the Director of the Professional Quality Commission.

Financial and Administrative Services

This division supervises the board's finances, including coordination of budgets as established by the divisions and implementation of accounting and bookkeeping procedures. In addition, this division is responsible for the allocation of space and furnishings, supplies, customs procedures, warehousing communications, automobile transportation and shipping within Canada and abroad.

Personnel Services

The concerns of the Personnel Division encompass recruitment and placement of employees, labour relations, administration of salaries and the training and further education of staff members.

Ottawa Services Branch

The Ottawa Services Branch encompasses five major areas of activity: Sponsored Programs, Still Photography, The Canadian Government Photo Centre, The Photothèque and Sponsored Film Distribution.

The Ottawa Branch provides counsel, production supervision and other services to government departments and agencies in the area of their film and audio-visual programming. It also represents the board in dealing with government departments and private film companies, and in serving on government committees.

The Sponsored Program Division implements the National Film Board's mandate established by the National Film Act as the authorizing agency for the Government of Canada in all matters relating to the initiation, production (either by the NFB or by invitation to tender to the private Canadian film sector), and distribution of films and other audio-visual materials as required by federal departments and agencies as part of their programs.

The Sponsored Film Distribution Division is responsible for a distribution plan for each sponsored film which will meet the needs of the sponsor in reaching the desired target audiences.

The Still Photography Division brings wider public awareness to the talents of Canadian photographers. The Photo Gallery in Ottawa produces major exhibitions, while groups of photographs are selected to form travelling exhibitions and are circulated to art galleries, libraries, educational institutions and other organizations in Canada. Exhibitions are also sent abroad through the Department of External Affairs. Audio-visual slide shows and high quality books and portfolios are other means used to present Canadians with a rich visual exposure to many aspects of the country and its people.

The Canadian Government Photo Centre operates a cost recoverable operation through a revolving fund authorized to serve government departments and agencies in the printing and processing of all photographic materials other than scientific or highly specialized applications. The centre also provides a consulting service for photographic operations in the government and maintains a record of all major photographic facilities held by departments.

The Photothèque is a commercially-oriented photographic library open to the general public. Copies of photos are sold for research use, advertising purposes and for home and office decorations.

English and French Production Branches

NFB films are produced originally in English or French and then adapted in the other official language and often in one or more of 40 foreign languages. Subjects deal with social, economic, cultural and scientific development in Canada as well as with the country's international relations. Each year the Film Board produces about 100 new films and almost as many versions and revisions of existing films, varying in length from one minute to two hours. Productions include theatrical features and shorts, television specials, documentaries, dramatizations and a wide assortment of educational films, filmstrips, 8 mm film loops and multi-media kits. All films are now available in 3/4" video cassette, a format less costly and longer lasting than 16 mm film.

In order to both reflect regional concerns in Canada and to encourage the development of independent film-makers, the Film Board has enlarged the base of its film-making activities. The English regional production offices are located in Toronto, Halifax, Winnipeg and Vancouver; French production centers have been established in Toronto, Moncton and Winnipeg.

Technical and Production Services Branch

The organization and functions of the Technical and Production Services Branch relate to two distinct areas of activity: technical support services and research and development. This branch provides the board with a comprehensive range of laboratory, sound and optical services including: the motion picture laboratory where films are processed, timed, assembled and printed; animation and optical photography; titling; lighting; camera equipment; sound stage facilities; sound recording, re-recording, and mixing; film library services (including preview, stock shot and printing materials); a music and effects library, and an engineering shop for the maintenance of plant equipment and the fabrication of mechanical components.

Research and development activity is designed to advance the art and technology of audio-visual communication and includes developing and reporting on equipment. All findings are published in periodic bulletins available to everyone engaged in the film industry.

Distribution Branch

An English and a French marketing unit, serving respective language groups and providing information as well as distribution of NFB films, have recently been set up in the Distribution Branch. To further facilitate the distribution of its films, the board has also implemented a national, computerized booking system, in operation in many of its offices across the country. In Canada, NFB productions are seen in theatres, with bookings arranged through regular commercial channels; on national and regional television networks, through individual television stations and through cable systems; through the sale of prints, either directly or through distribution companies. Films are seen by community organizations and educational institutions through film libraries located in the board's offices across the country as well as through many public libraries, departments and boards of education and through provincial and university audio-visual departments.

Abroad, NFB productions are seen through most of Canada's embassies and trade posts, which make films available to community groups, educational institutions and interested individuals. NFB offices abroad distribute films commercially through contracts with television and theatrical distributors, and by sales of prints, either direct or through distribution companies.

The branch also distributes travel films on behalf of the Canadian Government Office of Tourism and abroad to promote tourist travel.

As part of specialized services to various government departments this branch also runs a non-medical use of drugs program, a captioned films for the deaf program and a child abuse film series for the Department of National Health and Welfare and a National Industrial Relations Film Library for the Department of Labour.

395 Wellington Street
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0N4

Minister

Secretary of State

Principal Officers

National Librarian .....	Dr. Guy Sylvestre
Associate National Librarian .....	Hope E.A. Clement

Historical Background

The National Library of Canada was established in 1953 by the National Library Act (now RSC 1970 c. N-11).

The National Library is designated as a department and the Secretary of State as appropriate minister within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1963-678, 30 April 1963).

Overall Responsibilities

General functions of the National Library include:

- (a) providing the Canadian component of Universal Bibliographic Control;
- (b) ensuring the availability of Canadian materials in the context of universal availability of publications;
- (c) collecting, by purchase or other means, books for the library;
- (d) compiling and maintaining a Canadian Union Catalogue in which the contents of the principal library collections throughout Canada may be listed;
- (e) compiling and publishing a national bibliography (entitled Canadiana) in which books produced in Canada, written or prepared by Canadians or of special interest or significance to Canada may be noted and described;
- (f) compiling and/or publishing other bibliographies, checklists, indexes and union lists;
- (g) coordinating the library services of government departments, branches, and agencies; and
- (h) providing interlibrary loan, location, reference, referral, advisory and consulting services.

Organization and Programs

The National Library is composed of five branches and three offices.

Cataloguing Branch

This branch:

- (a) produces and disseminates authoritative bibliographic information by compiling and publishing the current national bibliography Canadiana, retrospective national bibliographies and bilingual lists of author names and subject terms used in these bibliographies, by coordinating Canada's decentralized Cataloguing in Publication program, and by operating the MARC (machine-readable cataloguing) Records Distribution Service;
- (b) catalogues books added to the National Library's collections;

- (c) operates Canada's national centre for the registration of Canadian serials publications as part of the world-wide UNESCO International Serials Data System; and
- (d) participates in national and international cooperative projects for the development of authoritative bibliographic data for Canadian libraries, and for the revision, maintenance, and publication of major bibliographic standards.

Public Services Branch

This branch is responsible for:

- (a) providing a reference information service to libraries, researchers, and the general public, including computer-based reference services, special professional advisory services in children's literature and in music, and a Library Documentation Centre (which collects material on current developments in library and information science);
- (b) compiling and maintaining the Canadian Union Catalogue of Books and the Canadian Union Catalogue of Serials;
- (c) providing a location service to facilitate interlibrary loan;
- (d) maintaining the library collections, including official publications and serials, special collections of music, rare books and manuscripts, and an extensive collection of Canadian newspapers;
- (e) providing, as part of the Multicultural Program, the Multilingual Biblioservice, whose primary objective is to acquire and disseminate, through the Canadian public library networks, deposit collections of library materials in the non-official languages spoken in Canada, and
- (f) maintaining the Secretariat, Committee on Bibliographical Services for Canada.

Research and Planning Branch

This branch is responsible for the planning, development, implementation, coordination, and operation of computerized library and information systems for improvement, promotion and implementation of library services and cooperative projects at the national and international level.

Collections Development Branch

This branch is responsible for:

- (a) receiving and registering, under the Book Deposit Regulations of the National Library Act, publications issued in Canada as well as acquiring books about Canada or by Canadians published abroad;
- (b) procuring non-Canadian library materials for the National Library by purchase and exchange;
- (c) examining library resources in Canada and promoting their rationalization;
- (d) collecting and exchanging surplus library materials through the Canadian Book Exchange Centre;
- (e) reproducing and selling, through the Canadian Theses Microfiche Service, microfilm or microfiche copies of doctoral and masters' theses submitted to Canadian universities; and
- (f) providing International Standard Book Numbers to English-language publishers in Canada.

Departmental Administration

This branch provides common administrative, financial, building and personnel services for both the Public Archives and the National Library. (For further information see the entry under the Public Archives.)

Federal Libraries Liaison Office

This office gives the many federal department, branch and agency libraries across Canada a continuing contact with the National Library on administrative, operational, and planning matters and promotes joint projects among libraries of the federal government.

Networks Office

The function of this office is to improve the cost-effectiveness of the Canadian nationwide information and library network. The office concentrates mainly on policy development and planning in the areas of networking and cooperative projects and on liaison with provincial/regional networks in Canada and with foreign library networks.

Public Relations Division

This office provides services in publications, exhibitions and media relations as well as public information.

Regional Offices — none.

Additional Information — from the executive secretary, (613) 996-9111.

Historical Background

The National Museums of Canada incorporates in a single administration Canada's four national museums: the National Gallery of Canada, the National Museum of Man (including the Canadian War Museum), the National Museum of Natural Sciences and the National Museum of Science and Technology (including the National Aeronautical Collection).

The beginnings of the National Gallery of Canada are associated with the founding of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts in 1880. Until 1907, the National Gallery was under the direct control of a minister of the Crown but in that year an Advisory Arts Council, consisting of three persons outside government, was appointed to administer grants to the National Gallery. In 1913, the National Gallery was incorporated by an Act of Parliament and placed under the administration of a board of trustees appointed by the Governor General in Council. Since 1960, the National Gallery has occupied the Lorne Building in Ottawa.

The National Museum of Man and the National Museum of Natural Sciences evolved from the collections of the Geological Survey of Canada in the nineteenth century. The collections were transferred to the newly-built Victoria Memorial Museum Building in 1911. The National Museum of Canada was formally established in 1927. In 1957, this museum was divided into two branches — Human History and Natural History — with an additional branch, Science and Technology, being established in 1966.

In April, 1968, a new Act amalgamated these three branches, together with the National Gallery of Canada, under the aegis of one corporation known as the National Museums of Canada.

Overall Responsibilities

The purposes of the corporation are to demonstrate the products of nature and the works of man, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, so as to promote interest therein throughout Canada and to disseminate knowledge thereof (National Museums Act, RSC 1970 c. N-12).

Organization and Programs

The corporation is composed of a board of trustees reporting to Parliament through the Secretary of State; a Secretary General, who is responsible for the overall planning and coordination of corporate activities and programs and for ensuring that the board's policies are effectively carried out; and the four national museums.

The national museum policy, announced by the Secretary of State on March 28, 1972, supports activities that increase public access to the collections of Canadian museums and art galleries and that lead to greater preservation of those collections.

Museum Assistance Programs

Institutional Assistance

When the national museum policy was announced, two networks of museum institutions were formed. The network of associate museums consists of 25 of the larger Canadian museums and galleries, which act in association with the national museums of Canada to realize the goals of the national museum policy.

The second network of national exhibition centres brings the museum experience to areas of the country which have been without adequate museum facilities in the past. More recently, a specialized museums program has been developed to assist institutions with large collections in various fields of technology, such as railway and marine museums.

Project Assistance

Financial assistance is available to some 1,500 qualifying institutions in Canada through five programs: the Exhibition Assistance Program, the Capital Assistance Program, the Special Activities Assistance Program, the Training Assistance Program and the Registration Assistance Program.

Canadian Conservation Institute (CCI)

The Canadian Conservation Institute is engaged in the conservation of cultural artifacts, technical consultation on the preservation of collections, conservation research, and training of museum/gallery/archive and conservation personnel. Conservators examine, stabilize and propose proper storage and handling of historical documents, paintings, polychrome sculptures, fine arts on paper, textiles, furniture and wooden objects, as well as a large variety of ethnographic and archaeological specimens from across the country. Four regional advisory committees establish conservation priorities. Conservation research staff are engaged in many projects dealing with the deterioration of materials and the development of new or improved methods of conservation.

Mobile Exhibits Program

The mobile exhibits program includes museumobiles and the discovery train. Museumobiles exhibit artifacts and related materials mainly in smaller communities across Canada which lack ready access to major museums. Each museumobile caravan, consisting of three 45-foot trailers, depicts the geographic, archaeological, social and natural history of a region of Canada. The nineteen-car discovery train extends the scope and scale of the mobile exhibits program by travelling coast-to-coast each year, carrying displays of Canada's geography, history, and social and cultural development.

National Inventory Program

The national inventory provides Canadian museums with an easily retrievable record of the contents of collections in museums across Canada and with museum records management assistance. The service, employing a computer, provides information on the fine and decorative arts, history (social), ethnology, ornithology and archaeological sites and specimens. Computer terminals are situated in 30 locations from Victoria to Saint John's. The service, currently contains information on over 1,000,000 artifacts with more being added daily.

International Program

The International Program promotes interest in international museum activities and facilitates international exchanges of exhibitions to and from Canada. The program's functions include: liaison with Canadian and foreign museums, the Cultural Affairs Division of the Department of External Affairs, and foreign embassies; negotiation for and coordination of tours of international exhibitions within Canada and tours of Canadian produced exhibitions abroad; dissemination of information on international exhibitions and activities; assistance in finding sources of funding for international exhibitions and activities.

National Gallery of Canada

Elgin and Slater Streets
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0M8

Director ..... Dr. Hsio-Yen Shih

The gallery's collections have been built up along international lines and give the people of Canada an indication of the origins from which their own tradition is developing. The collection of Canadian art, the most extensive and important in existence, is continually being augmented.

The collections include many Old Masters, among which are 12 acquired from the famous Liechtenstein collection; the Massey collection presented to the gallery during 1946-50 by the Massey Foundation; a growing collection of contemporary art, prints and drawings; and diploma works of the Royal Canadian Academy. There are now more than 18,000 works in the collection. The services of the gallery include the operation of a reference library which contains more than 50,000 volumes and periodicals on the history of art and other related subjects. The library is open to the public.

An active program of exhibitions, lectures, films, and guided tours is maintained for visitors to the gallery in Ottawa. The interests of the country as a whole are served by circulating exhibitions, lecture tours, publications, reproductions, and films prepared by the National Gallery staff. Promotion of, and information on, art films are handled by the Canadian Centre for Films on Art, and their distribution by the Canadian Film Institute. The gallery promotes interest in Canadian art abroad by participating in international exhibitions and by preparing major exhibitions of Canadian art for showing in other countries. At the same time, it brings important exhibitions from abroad for circulation in Canada.

National Museum of Man

Victoria Memorial Museum Building
Metcalfe and McLeod Streets
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0M8

The National Museum of Man is concerned with the archaeology, ethnology, physical anthropology, ethnohistory, folklore, and history of Canada. These study collections, which are open to research by properly qualified students, include 980,000 archaeological specimens, 42,000 ethnological specimens, and 2,895 in physical anthropology. Folksong collections include recordings of 4,500 Indian, 14,000 French-Canadian, 5,000 British-Canadian songs, and 2,448 New Canadian folksongs. The historical collection now being assembled totals 44,500 specimens. Scientific and educational publications are available for distribution.

Canadian War Museum

330 Sussex Drive
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0M8

Chief Curator ..... L.F. Murray

The Canadian War Museum, a component of the National Museum of Man, is concerned with research collections, exhibits, and publications in Canadian military history.

National Museum of Natural Sciences

Victoria Memorial Museum Building
Metcalfe and McLeod Streets
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0M8

Director ..... Dr. Louis Lemieux

This museum deals with the sciences of botany, geology, paleobiology, and zoology. Five main exhibition halls on the birds and mammals of Canada, prehistoric animals, geology and the evolution of animal life are maintained in the Victoria Memorial Museum Building. Large research collections are held in other buildings in Ottawa. These collections are open to study by qualified students including post-doctoral fellows and other contractees sponsored by the museum.

The national herbarium contains 415,433 sheets of vascular plants, and 255,562 sheets of cryptogamic plants.

The national zoological collections include 2,600,000 molluscs; 600,000 crustaceans; 650,000 other invertebrates; 250,000 fishes; 80,000 reptiles and amphibians; 79,000 birds; and 44,000 mammals.

The palaeontological collections include 29,046 vertebrate fossil specimens. There are 25,800 specimens of gemstones and minerals in the National Minerals Collection, and 70,000 specimens of rocks and ores from many regions of the world in other museum collections.

Scientific and popular publications are available on these subjects.

National Museum of Science and Technology

1867 St. Laurent Blvd.,
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0M8

Director ..... Dr. D.M. Baird

The National Museum of Science and Technology is designed to increase the scientific literacy of Canadians and visitors, and to familiarize them with the language, events, and history of science. Scientific principles and displays are demonstrated by means of artifacts and texts, which correlate these principles with the development of technology. Emphasis is on ground transportation, aviation, agriculture, shipping, and industrial technologies which have been so close to the history of this nation.

The museum displays are colourful and inventive, designed to involve people in the learning process. Visitors are invited to do such things as: participate in experiments and in making things work; explore the technological park; push a button or wind a crank to learn some physical law; or sit in the driver's seat of a giant steam locomotive.

Museum collections are made available to other museums in Canada and abroad, with a view to bringing the story of science and technology to the widest audience possible.

National Aeronautical Collection

The national aeronautical collection, part of the Science and Technology Museum, is located in aircraft hangars at Rockcliffe Airport. There some 65 of Canada's national collection of about 100 aircraft are displayed, together with one of the finest engine collections in the world and other artifacts relating to the development of aviation.

Historical Background

Provision for the creation of the Public Archives was first made by an Order in Council of June 20, 1872 which appointed an officer of the Department of Agriculture to take charge of historical archives. In 1912, the Archives Branch was established under statute as the Public Archives of Canada (now Public Archives Act RSC 1970 c. P-27). The archives also administers the Public Records Order (OIC P.C. 1966-1749, published in Public Archives Records Scheduling and Disposal, Ottawa, 1974 Appendix "A".)

The archives is designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1952-1903, March 31, 1952). The Secretary of State is designated as the appropriate minister for the purposes of the same Act (OIC P.C. 1963-678, April 30, 1963).

Overall Responsibilities

The objectives of the archives are to acquire, and preserve historical material relating to the history of Canada, and to provide a records management and microfilming advisory service to government departments and agencies.

Organization and Programs

The Public Archives is composed of three branches: Archives, Departmental Administration and Records Management.

Archives Branch

The branch acquires, organizes, and preserves historical material, and provides research facilities, advice, assistance and a reference service to researchers and government departments.

Documents in the Public Archives may not be taken out on loan; they must be consulted in the building, but the "Search Rooms" are open 24 hours a day for accredited researchers. Documents on microfilm, however, can be borrowed on inter-library loan. Reproductions of archival material may be obtained at a very reasonable rate.

The Archives Branch maintains offices in London, England, and Paris, France. This branch comprises eight divisions.

Manuscript Division

This division is responsible for all primary textual documents, originals or copies, other than records of the Government of Canada. The division acquires, arranges, and preserves private papers and corporate records of a permanent value. The division consists of several sections and units, including arts, business, ethnic, genealogical, judicial, labour, medical and scientific, military, political, public affairs, scholastic, and sports archives.

Public Records Division

This division is responsible for the selection, custody and control of the historical public records created and collected by the Government of Canada.

Machine Readable Archives Division

This division preserves EDP records of the Government of Canada and private sources.

Picture Division

This division is responsible for the custody and archival servicing of documentary visual records of national or cultural significance. Included in its holdings are paintings, drawings, prints, heraldic devices, and miscellaneous graphics which provide a visual insight into Canadian development from the year 1500 to the present. It is also responsible for the National Medal Collection.

National Film Archives

This archives preserves audiovisual materials of national interest. The collection includes films, video tapes, and sound recordings as well as posters, still photographs and books of related interest.

National Map Collection of Canada

This collection has custody of approximately 750,000 cartographical items, including atlases, maps, charts, plans and related material. The collection maintains a virtually complete cartographical record of Canada from the year 1500 to the present, plus a comprehensive collection of current foreign material.

National Photography Collection

The National Photography Collection became an autonomous division of the archives in 1975. It is currently responsible for more than 5,000,000 photographs documenting Canadian history and the history of photography in Canada.

Library

The library contains some 100,000 volumes on Canadian history, 18,000 brochures, 1,500 different periodicals, 800 posters, and 1,000 scrapbooks of press clippings.

Departmental Administration

Departmental Administration provides central management services for the archives as well as common administrative, financial and personnel services for both the Public Archives and the National Library. It has extensive publication, exhibition, restoration and reprography programs. It also provides technical advisory services to government departments and agencies (where microfilm applications are involved), and operational microfilm service to government departments and agencies. It provides records conservation, picture conservation and reproduction services for both the Archives and National Library.

Central Microfilming Unit

This unit provides operational microfilm service to government departments and agencies on a cost recovery basis.

Other Services

In accordance with the Laurier House Act (RS 1952, c. 163), the Dominion Archivist has "the care, custody and control of Laurier House". Departmental Administration administers Laurier House, a historical museum located at 335 Laurier Avenue East, Ottawa.

Records Management Branch

Located at Tunney's Pasture, Ottawa, the branch stores and maintains dormant records. It provides a reference service, terminal destruction or disposal of records, and an advisory service on records management. The branch also publishes records management manuals. It administers six regional records centres across Canada: Halifax (902) 426-5940; Montréal (514) 341-4114, 341-4115; Toronto (416) 675-2546, 667-4534; Winnipeg (204) 786-8647; Edmonton (403) 425-5201; and Vancouver (604) 939-4488.

Historical Background

The Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council was established on June 29, 1977, by Act of Parliament — the Canadian Government Organization (Scientific Activities) Act — and came into being on April 1, 1978.

Overall Responsibilities

The council's objective is to promote and assist excellence in Canadian research and scholarship in the social sciences and humanities. For that purpose it: supports such independent research as in the judgement of scholars will best advance knowledge; assists in and advises on maintaining and developing the national capacity for research; encourages research on themes considered by the council to be of national importance; and facilitates the communication and exchange of research results.

Organization and Programs

The council is governed by 22 members, including the president. In choosing the council members, the government endeavours to strike a balance between the requirements of researchers and the public interest, as well as between the university community and society in general. As a result, 12 council members come directly from universities, and 10 have ties with various other social spheres. Their mandate in principle is three years, with a one-third replacement ratio every year.

The council's programs are as follows:

Scholarships and Fellowships

Special M.A. Scholarships

- Available to Canadian students of exceptional promise for Master's studies at a Canadian university.

The Queen's Fellowships

- Available to Canadian students of exceptional promise for a Master's program in Canadian studies at a Canadian university.

Doctoral Fellowships

- Available to Canadian citizens or to landed immigrants of at least one year standing, for doctoral studies at a Canadian or foreign university.

Leave Fellowships

- Available to university scholars who, during a leave of absence, wish to engage in some form of creative scholarship.

Grants

Research Grants

- Available to Canadian university professors and private researchers, Canadians or landed immigrants, for advanced research in the fields of social sciences and humanities.

Negotiated Grants

- Available to groups of researchers, Canadians or landed immigrants, to carry out broad collective research or major editorial projects.

General Research Grants

- Available to Canadian universities to cover requirements of their faculty for travel to conferences abroad and small research expenses.

Aid to Scholarly Publications

- Available for the publication of Canadian learned journals or unpublished manuscripts in the fields of social sciences and humanities.

Conference Grants

- Grants available to Canadian university scholars, through a learned society or a university, allowing for the participation in conferences.

Subsidies to learned societies to permit attendance at their annual meetings.

International Scholarly Exchanges

- Thirteen programs, some of which are administered on behalf of the Department of External Affairs, to facilitate the exchange of lecturers, researchers and students between Canada and several countries. The programs vary as to their objectives, their scope, and the nature of support provided.

Minister

Solicitor General of Canada

Principal Officers

Deputy Solicitor General .....	P.-A. Bissonnette
Assistant Deputy Ministers
Policy .....	Art Wakabayashi
Police & Security .....	Robin P. Bourne
Programs .....	Reeves Haggan

Historical Background

The present department was created in 1966 by the Department of the Solicitor General Act (now RSC 1970 c. S-12).

Overall Responsibilities

The duties, powers and functions of the Solicitor General of Canada extend to and include all matters over which the Parliament of Canada has jurisdiction, not assigned by law to any other department, branch or agency of the Government of Canada, relating to:

- (a) reformatories, prisons and penitentiaries;
- (b) parole and remissions; and
- (c) the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Organization and Programs

The ministry secretariat has three branches: Policy; Police and Security; and Programs.

Policy Branch

This branch identifies and proposes means of resolving policy issues and in so doing relies on research, statistical demonstrations, consultation information available from the other branches of the Secretariat and program experience and information from the agencies within the ministry. The branch devises means of testing the effectiveness of ministry programs on a continuing basis, in relation to and in cooperation with other components of the criminal justice system — federal, provincial and private.

Police and Security Branch

This branch monitors and analyzes internal security information on international terrorism, collective violence, and potentially violent social unrest. It is increasingly involved in police policy.

Among those projects which were undertaken are:

- (a) the development of contingency planning procedures in the event of internal security crises such as riots, the hijacking of aircraft, kidnapping and the holding of hostages;
- (b) studies to assess Canada's vulnerability to possible acts by international terrorist organizations;
- (c) studies on establishing national police research and training capabilities;
- (d) the formulation of government policy recommendations on the physical security of information and property; and
- (e) studies on the practical implementation of legislation such as the Protection of Privacy Act (an Act to amend the Criminal Code, the Crown Liability Act, and the Official Secrets Act).

Programs Branch

This branch includes the Research and Statistics Division, the Library, the Communication Division, and the Consultation Centre.

Research Division

The division comprises the following:

- (1) Research Planning and Liaison — responsible for maintaining contact with the division's clients and ensuring that the results of research are fed back into the system in a meaningful way.
- (2) Research Program Management — responsible for the research management functions related to project decision-making and project control including project design, monitoring and project evaluation.
- (3) Research Resources — responsible for managing the divisions intramural research personnel, establishing and maintaining contact with the Canadian research community and encouraging the development of criminological research manpower within Canada.

Statistics Division

The division responds to requests for information and provides a statistical analysis capability within the secretariat.

This division was also established to develop better management information systems (e.g. studies to determine the status of criminal justice information systems throughout Canada, and the development of the Inmate Record and Temporary Absence Systems).

Library

The library serves regional offices and institutions during the year and together with the Research Division is planning for a Documentation Centre that would become the clearing house for all Canadian criminological research.

Communication Division

The division is responsible for internal and external communication. The division publishes departmental reports and answers queries from the general public.

Consultation Centre

The centre fulfils its responsibilities through broadly based policy consultations, demonstration projects, consultative studies and reviews of provincial correctional systems, and through consultation on specific problems or needs.

Historical Background

The Canadian Penitentiary Service was established by Section 3 of the Penitentiary Act (SC 1960-61 — now RSC 1970 c. P-6). The service is designated as a department and the Solicitor General as the appropriate minister within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1965 — 2286, December 22, 1965). A number of subsequent reorganizations took place within the ministry, most recently the combination of the Canadian Penitentiary Service and the National Parole Service to form the Correctional Service of Canada.

Overall Responsibilities

The service is responsible for all federal institutions, administers sentences imposed by the courts, and prepares offenders for their return to society. The service also monitors the release of offenders when parole is granted. Case management of each offender, formerly with the National Parole Service, is now the responsibility of a new division in the Offender Programs Branch.

Organization and Programs

The Commissioner of Corrections, under direction of the Solicitor General, is responsible for the control, security, and management of the service, and related matters in all five regions and headquarters in Ottawa.

Programs for rehabilitating inmates, focussed on occupational and social development, include community-based programs. Industrial training is offered at trade schools within the institutions, and on-the-job training in the outside community. Opportunities for upgrading and extending educational levels are also available in the institutions, and through community universities and colleges. Day parole or temporary passes are required for courses outside an institution. Medical, dental, and psychiatric treatment is provided.

Organization of the service is national and regional. Headquarters for the service is in Ottawa.

Historical Background

The National Parole Board was established by section 3 of the Parole Act (SC 1958 c. 38, now RSC 1970 c. P-2). (The Parole Act replaced the Ticket of Leave Act.)

The board is designated as a department, and the Solicitor General as the appropriate minister within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1965-2286, December 22, 1965).

Overall Responsibilities

The National Parole Board has the exclusive jurisdiction and absolute discretion to grant, refuse, or revoke parole (subject to the Parole Act, Penitentiaries Act and the Prisons and Reformatories Act) for any adult inmate in a federal or provincial institution who is serving a sentence under any federal statute.

Although eligibility for parole is based on the type and length of sentence, the board is not a reviewing authority and is not concerned with the propriety of the conviction or the length of the sentence; this is the function of the court. In addition, the board has no jurisdiction over a child under the Juvenile Delinquents Act, or over an inmate serving a sentence for a breach of a provincial statute (for example, a liquor control act).

The board may grant or refuse unescorted "temporary absences" and is responsible for inmates released on mandatory supervision.

Through the Parole Act, the board is involved in the pardon granting process under the Royal Prerogative of Mercy, when asked to do so by the Solicitor General. This concerns free pardons, ordinary pardons, and remissions of fines, forfeitures, or penalties.

Under the Criminal Records Act, the board also has specific responsibilities for investigations and recommendations concerning pardons of people convicted and subsequently rehabilitated. Under the Act, a pardon may be granted two years after the end of a sentence for a summary offence, or five years after the end of a sentence for an indictable offence.

Organization and Programs

There are 26 members who are appointed by the Governor in Council for a period not longer than 10 years. A member may be reappointed. One of the members is designated as chairman and another as vice-chairman. The chairman is the chief executive officer, supervising and directing the work and staff of the board. The chairman may establish divisions of the board, consisting of two or more members, that may carry out the duties and functions of the board, exercising all the powers conferred on the board.

The National Parole Service, which does case preparation and supervision, was formerly with the board and is now integrated with the Correctional Service.

Executive Secretary to the Board

Under the authority of the chairman of the board, the executive secretary is responsible for directing and planning administration and general management of the head office and the regional offices. This involves looking after a staff of 260 person-years and a budget of $6.5 million, spread over nine responsibility centres in Ottawa and five in the regions. In the area of the board's internal operations, the executive secretary ensures direction in terms of planning objectives and developing policies recommended by the executive committee. In addition, the executive secretary makes sure that the analysis and presentation of cases respond to the needs of the members of the board who must study the cases and make the decisions. Through the division directors, qualitative control of human and financial resources, as well as communication and general public education, are ensured.

Case Management Division

The Case Management Division has responsibility for establishing and maintaining uniform administrative procedures and practices within the division and exercising a functional control in this regard over the case managers in the five regions. The director of this division also acts as a consultant and adviser to the board on professional, procedural and technical problems related to case management.

Registrar's Office

Monitoring, processing, recording and notification of case files is the responsibility of the Registrar's Office. This office also has responsibility for preparation of replies regarding parole for the Minister's signature and for direct reply.

Historical Background

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (R.C.M.P.) was established in 1873 as the North West Mounted Police by An Act respecting the Administration of Justice, and for the establishment of a Police Force in the North West Territories (SC 1873 c.35 — now the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act RSC 1970 c. R-91). The Force was set up to police a territory from the western boundary of Manitoba to the Rocky Mountains, then known as the North West Territories.

Overall Responsibilities

Laws made by, or under the authority of the federal government, are enforced by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in all provinces and territories of Canada.

The enforcement of the Criminal Code and the administration of justice within the provinces are the responsibility of the provincial governments. The R.C.M.P. enforces criminal and provincial laws within all provinces except Ontario and Québec. The Yukon and Northwest Territories are policed exclusively by the R.C.M.P. where police jurisdiction over criminal offences, federal statutes and territorial ordinances has been assigned to the Force.

Organization and Programs

There are 13 operational divisions, alphabetically designated, with a headquarters for each located in provincial or territorial capitals, except "C" Division, which is in Montréal, and "A" Division which is in the National Capital. The R.C.M.P. are under contract to provide policing services to nearly 200 municipalities across Canada. The Air and Marine Services within the Force provide support to operational divisions as do two training divisions: "N" at Rockcliffe, Ontario, and the R.C.M.P. Academy at "Depot", Regina, Saskatchewan. Headquarters is located in Ottawa.

“A” Directorate

This directorate plans and directs the policies and programs of the Force relating to the organization and management of personnel.

Training and Development Branch

The branch is responsible for basic recruit training and other specialized courses. The residence and classroom facilities at Rockcliffe, Ontario, which house the Canadian Police College and other internal training courses, are used throughout the year.

Research continues in the development of new course training standards and when necessary in updating those already established.

Staffing and Personnel Branch

The Personnel Management Section coordinates all matters dealing with civilian and regular members: succession planning, service problems, transfers and promotions.

The Policy, Planning and Evaluation Section develops and coordinates systems to forecast human resources needs of the Force; manages a performance evaluation program; and develops policy concerning staffing and personnel branch operations.

The Recruitment Section coordinates the hiring of all recruits for employment as members of the Force, ensuring that all personnel requirements are continually met.

Staff Relations Branch

This branch is responsible for: division staff relations representatives, appeals and grievances, internal commendations, long service awards, suggestion award program, internal staff relations newsletter.

“Air” Directorate

The RCMP operates 26 aircraft at different locations across Canada. The aircraft are used as a support service for operational policemen. The directorate is responsible for pilot training, aircraft technician training, flight and maintenance standards, and provides technical expertise on all air services matters.

“C” Directorate

Contract Policing Branch

This branch provides a support service to the Northwest Territories, Yukon Territories and those eight provinces where police services are provided under contract. The branch plans and coordinates the program forecast cycle and determines a variety of operational policies and procedures for rural and municipal policing areas; develops and coordinates policies, equipment identification, and other matters related to violent type crimes and tactical functions of the Force; plans, develops and coordinates Force policies and programs relating to crime prevention and police community relations; and evaluates equipment and plans, develops and coordinates policies on all matters related to traffic law enforcement.

Federal Policing Branch

The International Criminal Police Organization, Interpol, was founded in 1923. Since its post-war reorganization, 126 nations have become members. Canada joined Interpol in 1949 and the R.C.M.P. administers the National Central Bureau of Interpol for Canada. This bureau coordinates the exchange of criminal investigations and information between all accredited Canadian police forces and National Central Bureaus located at each of the 126 member nations, as well as with Interpol Headquarters at Paris, France.

Police service dog teams are deployed across Canada to assist investigators in tracking or searching for missing persons, lost or stolen items, criminals, illicit alcohol, controlled drugs or narcotics. Some teams are employed as part of existing control systems at ports of entry and assist the Department of Transport.

The Migratory Birds Convention (MBC) Act Section enforces the MBC Act and related wildlife statutes, the Canada Shipping Act and regulations regarding small vessels.

The Immigration and Passport Section investigates offences described in the Citizenship Act, the Immigration Act, and related offences in the Criminal Code.

Native Policing Branch

A Native Policing Branch was established January 1, 1976, at Headquarters Ottawa. The branch provides support services to the field in the development, implementation and coordination of policies, strategies and programs directed towards the provision of effective policing services to native communities. Native Policing Branch also performs a catalytic function in the recruitment and staffing of indigenous person in the Force. Field coordinators have been appointed at Victoria, Vancouver, Whitehorse, Yellowknife, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Fredericton, Halifax, Charlottetown and St. John's. Through research and consultation with detachments, provincial native organizations and support services of Headquarters, specific programs are being developed to meet regional needs. The joint efforts of this branch and the field coordinators will culminate in an improved standard of policing to the native community.

National Crime Intelligence Branch

The Force combats organized crime by seeking out, identifying and gathering criminal intelligence on organized crime figures and on revolutionary and/or terrorist organizations engaged in criminal acts.

N.C.I. sections, located throughout Canada, work very closely with their counterparts in provincial, municipal or regional police forces. The N.C.I. Sections form part of the Criminal Intelligence Service Canada.

Criminal Intelligence Service Canada

Criminal Intelligence Service Canada (C.I.S.C.) is a nationwide organization composed of regular, associated and affiliated members including the R.C.M.P., the Québec Police Force, the Ontario Provincial Police and municipal and regional police forces.

C.I.S.C. provides facilities for the collection, analysis and dissemination of criminal intelligence to effectively combat the spread of organized crime in Canada.

Commercial Crime Branch

The activities of the branch centre on business-oriented crimes: offences relating to rights of property, fraudulent transactions respecting contracts, corporate frauds, tax frauds, bankruptcies, fraudulent securities and other promotions, counterfeiting, frauds where the Government of Canada is the victim, and corruption of public officials.

At Headquarters Ottawa, the branch monitors the activities of all commercial crime sections located in most major Canadian centres and provides guidance, assistance and liaison, on the national and international scene with foreign enforcement agencies, as well as with various commissions and departments of the Canadian federal and provincial governments. (Commercial crime sections are staffed with peace officers who have obtained varying levels of education and experience in such disciplines as law, accounting, commerce and business administration.)

Specialized counterfeit sections and counterfeit specialists are located in major centres, engaged in the detection and prevention of counterfeiting in Canada.

Drug Enforcement Branch

This branch controls and reduces the availability of illicit drugs in Canada, at the same time assisting the Department of National Health and Welfare in controlling the marketing and use of legal drugs in this country.

Suppressing the trafficking and use of heroin is the top priority. Canada supports a heroin addict population of approximately 16,000 to 20,000 and the cost of this support to Canadian society is staggering. Most of the money used to purchase illicit drugs is derived from the commission of crimes. There are few large urban communities that are not infected with heroin abuse and recently the illicit use of heroin has spread to numerous smaller centres so rapidly as to suggest a substantial increase in the addict population in the near future.

The detection of illicit laboratories has become a major area of investigation. These illicit laboratories produce such well-known drugs as methamphetamine (speed), M.D.A. and phencyclidine (P.C.P.). This illicit chemical production has caused Canada to become known as a "source" country as well as a "victim" country and is expected to be a growing drug law enforcement problem in the future.

The Drug Enforcement Branch has established excellent cooperation with foreign drug enforcement agencies which has proved very beneficial in the fight against drug abuse in Canada and has resulted in the arrest and successful prosecution of many international and national drug traffickers by the branch.

Customs and Excise Branch

This branch protects federal revenue and Canadian industry in the area of customs and excise through an enforcement program.

Its prime responsibility is the detection and apprehension of suspects who are:

- (a) involved in smuggling goods into Canada for personal and commercial use or for re-sale, contrary to the Customs Act;
- (b) involved in the unlawful manufacture of spirits and tobacco products, contrary to the Excise Act; or
- (c) involved in the unlawful export of goods, contrary to the Export and Import Permits Act.

Emphasis is on cases of organized crime and commercialization, and on personal smuggling cases where a commodity of substantial value has been smuggled.

The branch is responsible for imposing voluntary penalties and entering prosecution when required for breaches of the above Acts.

Special "I" Branch

This branch provides a support service to all criminal investigations in the areas of technical, electronic and specialized photographic equipment. Special "I" Branch must also attend to the increasing demands caused by Part IV, Chapter 1, of the Criminal Code. There are sections in all major centres in Canada with the exception of "M" and "G" Divisions.

Special "I" Branch also supports criminal investigations by interviewing and conducting polygraph examination of suspects and witnesses. There are polygraph examiners in all divisions except "A", "C", "O", "L", "G" and "M".

Monitoring and Analysis Branch

This branch performs three functions:

- (a) it coordinates the planning and estimates processes (policies, objectives and goals, program forecast, Main Estimates and Supplementary Estimates) as they relate to criminal operations of the Force;
- (b) it provides services necessary for the maintenance of existing telecommunications facilities in the R.C.M.P. and the upgrading or development of new telecommunications systems; and
- (c) it acts as a repository for R.C.M.P. administrative files (Data Centre).

"L" Directorate

This directorate comprises the Crime Detection Laboratories, Scientific Services and Identification Services.

Crime Detection Laboratories

The laboratories provide technical and scientific assistance to all law enforcement agencies in Canada. This assistance is provided from strategically located regional laboratories at Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Ottawa, and Sackville. The staff of the laboratories conduct the forensic examination of physical evidence and present expert evidence to the criminal courts of Canada in the fields of chemistry, toxicology, serology, alcohol, hair and fibre identification, document examination, firearms and tool mark identification, and counterfeiting.

Science and Technology Advisory Group (S.T.A.G.)

The S.T.A.G. sector, consisting of senior personnel from the various scientific and technical disciplines within the directorate, is responsible for establishing the methods of analysis or operation and standards of performance for the laboratory sections and some identification services. These functions include the conduct or supervision of research projects and development work, consultation and training, as well as some active case work. Another significant proportion of the work consists of equipment evaluation studies.

Identification Services

As a central repository for a broad range of filed records and identification data submitted by police departments and penal institutions throughout Canada, Identification Services supports criminal investigations and assists in the administration of law as well as the prevention and detection of crime. These records and identification facilities are available to all police departments and penal institutions throughout Canada 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Official Languages Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the centralized planning, implementation, coordination and monitoring of a unified program developed to meet the requirements of the Official Languages Act throughout the R.C.M.P.

"P" Directorate

The Protective Policing Directorate has five basic objectives:

- (a) to provide the Government of Canada with advice on security requirements for all its facilities and assets; this includes information, property, equipment, personnel and essential services;
- (b) to coordinate and provide protection to dignitaries, both Canadian and foreign. This protection extends to embassies, consulates and trade missions;
- (c) to provide security at designated international and domestic airports, under agreement with the Ministry of Transport;
- (d) to research, develop, test and evaluate security equipment, materials and concepts, on behalf of the Government of Canada; this includes locks, and security of EDP equipment, personnel, and buildings;
- (e) to develop and implement policies and procedures for processing all requests received by the R.C.M.P. relating to personal information, in compliance with the Canadian Human Rights Act, and to ensure the protection of classified or otherwise sensitive information by way of exemptions provided for under the Act.

"S" Directorate

This directorate provides and manages the financial resources, accommodation, material and equipment requirements of the Force.

"R" Directorate

This directorate is responsible for records management, directives and manuals, forms and graphics, library service.

Northern Work

The policing of Canada's North is carried out by the members of the Force in two divisions: "G" Division which looks after the Northwest Territories and "M" Division which looks after the Yukon.

"G" Division

The headquarters of "G" Division was moved from Ottawa to Yellowknife, Northwest Territories, on August 16, 1974. Suitable and adequate facilities were added by the construction of a new wing to the Henry Larsen Building in Yellowknife which houses the administrative offices and certain operational units. Modern training facilities have also been provided and members of both "G" and "M" Divisions can attend in-service training courses which primarily deal with unique northern requirements.

"G" Division acts as both a federal and territorial force under contract with the Territorial government. Besides the division's headquarters at Yellowknife, there are three sub-divisions: Yellowknife, Inuvik and Frobisher Bay, with a total of 32 detachments. Air detachments are also located at Yellowknife, Inuvik and Frobisher Bay and provide vital support service to policy operations.

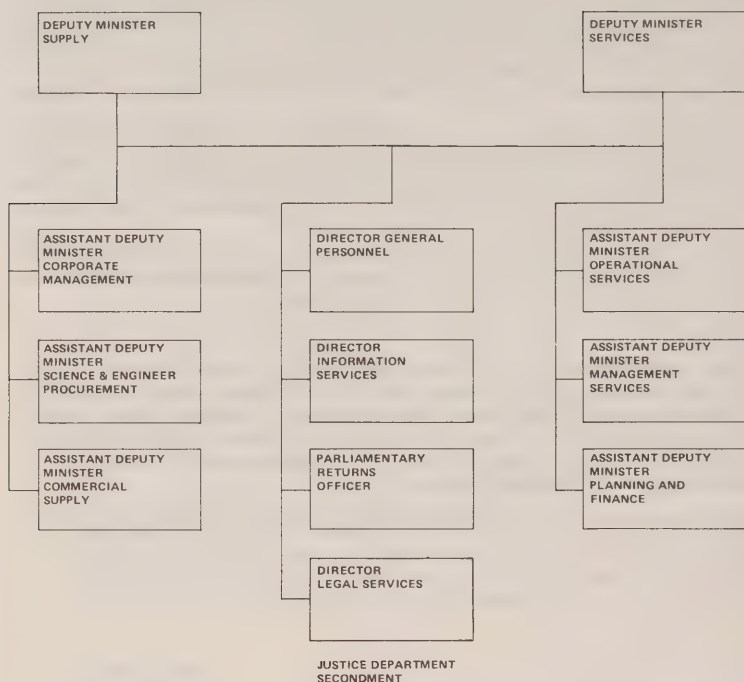

Telecommunication facilities are continually being updated and improved. A computer terminal has been installed at Yellowknife which provides access to the Force's Ottawa computer as part of the C.P.I.C. system.

"M" Division

With its headquarters at Whitehorse, "M" Division polices the entire Yukon Territory, three small areas of northern British Columbia and a small parcel of the southwestern portion of the Northwest Territories. Apart from some bylaw enforcement officers within the City of Whitehorse, the R.C.M.P. is the only law enforcement agency within "M" Division responsible for the enforcement of the Criminal Code, federal statutes, and territorial ordinances.

Historical Background

The Department of Supply and Services was established April 1, 1969 by the Government Organization Act 1969. The present department was formed through the amalgamation of the Department of Defence Production; the Department of Public Printing and Stationery; the Ship-building Branch of the Department of Transport; the Office of the Comptroller of the Treasury; the Central Data Processing Service Bureau of the Treasury Board; and the Bureau of Management Consulting Services from the Public Service Commission.

Overall Responsibilities

The Department of Supply and Services is the purchasing, supply, printing and accounting arm of the government. It provides major common services in the areas of procurement, warehousing, distribution, printing, publishing, accounting, payment and audit, and management advisory services.

Organization and Programs

The department is divided into two administrations: Supply, Services.

Supply Administration

The Supply Administration is organized into three services: Science and Engineering Procurement, Commercial Supply, and Corporate Management. Collectively they provide to departments and agencies a variety of services which include: requirements definition, science and engineering acquisition, commercial acquisition, maintenance and repair, warehousing, traffic management, assets management, stocked item supply, security, and printing services.

Science and Engineering Procurement Service

This service is engaged primarily in the procurement of items of a complex and often unique nature such as aircraft, ships, and electronic equipment (including electronic data processing). This service is responsible for implementing the government policy of contracting research and development requirements to the private sector.

Commercial Supply Service

This service is involved mainly in commercial type commodities: such as vehicles, pharmaceuticals, furniture and typewriters. In addition to the central purchasing operation, under the Director General, Regional Operations, there are seven regional offices, seven district offices and six sub-offices in Canada as well as an office in Washington, D.C. and two in Europe.

Printing and Publishing (i.e. in-house print production as well as that contracted out to the private sector) also is included in this service. Printing for both Houses of Parliament is one of the important functions of the Printing Service.

Warehousing, distribution, maintenance, and repair are also responsibilities of the Commercial Supply Service. Also included is traffic management which arranges travel, accommodation and removal for public servants as well as auditing those aspects of contracts where freight costs are involved. The Security Services Branch and the Canadian Government Expositions Centre also fall under the direction of the Commercial Supply Service.

Corporate Management Service

This service exerts its main influence in the fields of central planning, policy formulation, supply systems development, research, and supply audit for the Supply Administration as a whole. It also contributes indirectly to the other services through the development of specifications and standards, quality determination, cataloguing, and data processing services. In addition, it is responsible for certain contractual advisory services, and management of production assets. Customer and supplier relations also come under this service and much importance is placed on maintaining good relations with industry with respect to purchasing policies.

Services Administration

The Services Administration is responsible for providing a broad range of management and administrative services to the government as a whole and to other departments and agencies.

Acting on behalf of the Receiver General for Canada in accordance with the Financial Administration Act, the Services Administration is responsible for making all payments from the Consolidated Revenue Fund, reconciling paid cheques and other instruments, maintaining the central fiscal accounts of Canada and preparing the annual Public Accounts for presentation to the House of Commons by the Minister of Finance.

It also provides management and advisory services in the areas of management consulting, audit, and computing. It provides administrative services in connection with pay, pensions and other employee benefits as well as financial management and statistical reports to other departments of government. It also provides a variety of other accounting and administrative services.

The administration comprises three sectors: Operational Services, Management Services and Planning and Finance.

Operational Services

This sector is responsible for administering the public service payroll; superannuation and other employee benefit plans; the financial management reporting services to government departments and agencies; and the issuance of Receiver General cheques.

Operational Services carries out its responsibilities through four branches.

The Payments Services Branch is responsible for the development of policy, procedures and systems required to effect all cheque disbursements, other than compensation, for the Government of Canada.

The Compensation Services Branch administers the Public Service Superannuation Act, public payroll services, and various employee benefit plans.

The Operations Branch, with functional direction from the two branches already mentioned, executes the services of the Operational Services sector through its field offices across Canada.

The Data Processing Branch provides data processing services in support of the programs carried out by the sector.

Management Services

This sector is responsible for three bureaus which provide professional and advisory management, and computer services and for the Government of Canada Accounting Branch.

The Audit Services Bureau provides a wide range of professional auditing services to departments and agencies of government on request. It is one of the largest organizations of its kind in Canada, with offices located in 12 centres across Canada and one in London, England. The bureau audits government contracts (where the determination of contract costs and the evaluation of contractors' cost projections and budgets is required), cost-sharing agreements with the provinces, subsidies, subventions and grants programs. The bureau also performs internal and operational audits of government departments and agencies on a contract basis.

The Bureau of Management Consulting offers broad consulting services: organization analyses, financial management, accounting, data processing, feasibility studies, personnel consulting services, operational research, operations and methods studies, and space planning studies to government departments. These services are provided to departments and agencies of government in Canada on a fee-for-service basis.

The Advisory Bureau for Computing provides advisory services in the field of electronic data processing to government departments and agencies. In addition, it operates the Personnel Applications Centre which has responsibility for the government's central personnel records system and the Official Languages Information System.

The Government of Canada Accounting Branch is responsible for the Public and Fiscal Accounts of Canada, the reconciliation of all government cheques and the production of financial reports for the departments and agencies of government.

Historical Background

Canadian Arsenals Limited is a legally chartered Crown corporation under Part 1 of the 1934 Companies Act. It was incorporated by the Dominion of Canada under letters patent dated September 20, 1945, on the recommendation of the then Minister of Reconstruction.

Overall Responsibilities

The company's main role is to maintain in Canada a centre of excellence for the filling and loading of high explosives and propellants and a production capacity for medium and large-caliber ammunition and additional military material for Canadian defence needs, as well as to form the base from which production capacity could be expanded in the event of war.

Organization and Programs

The duties of the company are:

- (a) to convert munitions and military materiel plants from a wartime footing to peacetime production;
- (b) to assist in the liquidation of plants and equipment belonging to the Government of Canada which have been declared surplus;
- (c) to form the base from which production capacity could be expanded in the event of war;
- (d) to provide a military hardware and other additional military item production capability via the operation of arsenals and other plants;
- (e) to exercise and perform within and outside Canada any power or duty that may be delegated to the company by the Minister of Supply and Services or any other Minister of the Government of Canada or by Order in Council;
- (f) to acquire, retain, maintain or dispose of real or moveable property, particularly land and buildings;
- (g) to recruit staff or use the services of firms or other companies for the management of the company's affairs; and
- (h) to utilize the services of consultants to examine the condition, worth and future prospects of any company and any asset, property or right.

Historical Background

Crown Assets Disposal Corporation is successor to War Assets Corporation which was created by the Surplus Crown Assets Act of 1944 (now RSC 1970 c. 5-20, sec. 6[1]). In 1949, the Act was amended in order to establish the present corporation. CADC, a Crown corporation, is designated as an agency corporation (Schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. CADC is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The corporation provides a specialized sales service to government departments, certain agencies and Crown corporations in the disposal of their surplus goods located in Canada and abroad. It acts as agent for the United States, British and other governments in the sale of their surplus assets located in Canada, and has arrangements with certain European governments for the disposal of Canadian military surplus located in their countries.

Organization and Programs

The corporation operates in much the same way as a private company. Executive control is vested in a board of directors of which the president and general manager is chairman. Sales, accounting, administrative direction and services are provided by head office in Ottawa. Six regional sales offices conduct the sale of general surplus assets located in their respective territories and provide assistance to head office in the sale of specialized equipment.

The corporation is self-sustaining and meets the cost of administrative expenses through fees fixed annually by the Governor in Council. Net proceeds of sales, excluding sales made on behalf of certain agencies and foreign governments, are remitted to the Receiver General.

Historical Background

The Ottawa Mint was established originally in 1908 by Royal Proclamation as a branch of the Royal Mint, London, under the provisions of the United Kingdom Coinage Act. In 1931, the Mint was established under statute as a branch of the Department of Finance. In 1969, the Mint was established as a Crown corporation under Part X of the Government Organization Act, 1969 ( now the Royal Canadian Mint Act RSC 1970 c.R-8).

The Mint, a Crown corporation, is designated as an agency corporation (Schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (RSC 1970 c. F-10). The master, officers, and employees of the Mint are not part of the Public Service of Canada but are deemed to be employed in the Public Service of Canada for the purpose of the Government Employees' Compensation Act and any regulations made pursuant to Section 7 of the Aeronautics Act. The Mint is deemed to be a public service corporation for the purpose of the Public Service Superannuation Act. The Mint is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

Section 4 of the Act authorizes the Mint:

- to produce and arrange for the production and supply of coins of the currency of Canada;
- to produce coins of currency of countries other than Canada;
- to melt, assay and refine gold, silver and other metals;
- to buy and sell gold, silver and other metals;
- to assay, refine, store and otherwise deal with gold, silver and other metals for the account of Her Majesty or others;
- to prepare and store shipments of coin, gold, silver and other metals and to move such shipments to or from the Mint;

- (g) to make medals, plaques and other devices; and
- (h) to do all such other things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the objects and the exercise of the powers of the Mint.

In addition, the Mint may:

- (a) acquire and hold real property or any interest therein and alienate the same at pleasure;
- (b) enter into contracts in its own name or in the name of Her Majesty; and
- (c) make grants in lieu of taxes to any municipality in Canada in amounts not exceeding the taxes that might be levied by that municipality in respect of real property under the control, management or administration of the Mint if the Mint were not an agent of Her Majesty (SC 1968-69, c.28, s.73).

Organization and Programs

The head office, located in Vanier, is concerned with overall management and control, the development of corporate policies and planning, and the provision of common services to the three Mints.

Coins

All coins of the currency of Canada that are produced at the Mint or supplied by the Mint are delivered to the Minister of Finance or his designate. The Mint stores and ships coins of the currency of Canada as instructed by the Minister of Finance. All amounts received from the issue of Canadian currency coins for circulation in Canada are paid into the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

Historical Background

The Department of Transport was established in 1936 by the Department of Transport Act (now RSC 1970 c. T-15). The 1936 Act amalgamated the functions of the Department of Railways and Canals, the Department of Marine, and the Civil Aviation Branch of the Department of National Defence.

Overall Responsibilities

The Minister of Transport has jurisdiction over all government railways and canals (except the Trent and Rideau canals). This involves the management and direction of the personnel they employ, the works and property that come under their control and any of the tolls levied in the use of public canals.

The Minister has and may exercise the same powers vested in the Minister of Marine and those powers related to civil aviation vested in the Minister of National Defence prior to November 2, 1936, and the powers vested in him by any other applicable acts and regulations.

The complete control, regulation, management and supervision of specific public bodies, services and properties of the Crown is assigned or designated to the Minister by the Governor in Council.

Organization and Programs

The major elements of the present organizational structure of Transport Canada include three sectors, a Coordination Group, and six Crown corporations.

The composition and general role of each sector is as follows: the Operations Sector, composed of the Air, Marine and Surface Administrations, provides the department with its operational core in support of aeronautics, marine and surface transportation; the Planning and Development Sector, composed of the Strategic Planning, and Research and Development Groups, provides the department with a systematic long term planning capability; and the Services Sector, composed of the Personnel, Finance, Legal and Public Affairs Groups, provides a comprehensive personnel, finance, legal and public affairs function.

The Coordination Group provides a bridge between the Operations and the Planning and Development Sectors.

The Review Group, the newest addition to the organization of the department, facilitates effective and efficient management of departmental operations and administration, development and maintenance of the Transport Program.

Six Crown corporations operate within the ambit of the Canadian Marine Transportation Administration. They are as follows: the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority; the Atlantic Pilotage Authority; the Laurentian Pilotage Authority; the Great Lakes Pilotage Authority; the Pacific Pilotage Authority; and the National Harbours Board.

Canadian Surface Transportation Administration

This administration directs the formulation and implementation of surface transportation policies and programs and the management of all operational, developmental and regulatory activities of Transport Canada in support of railways, urban transportation, motor vehicle safety, highways and ferries.

Coordination Group

This group coordinates, develops and advises on departmental policy and maintains intergovernmental, interdepartmental and other external relations related to the current operations and activities of Transport Canada.

Review Group

This group facilitates effective and efficient management of departmental operations and administration through development and maintenance of the transport program, conducting of systematic studies and evaluations of all aspects of departmental operations; the provision of independent financial and personnel audit programs; and the provision of consultative and advisory management services including development and coordination of management information policies and systems.

Planning and Development Sector

Strategic Planning Group

This group provides overall guidance for strategic planning in Transport Canada, directs the conduct of longer term multimodal planning to determine future transportation opportunities and issues and develops appropriate objectives, policies, strategies and other changes to meet them.

Research and Development Group

This group directs the overall planning and implementation of Transport Canada's scientific research and development programs, and monitors, coordinates and influences the conduct of all transport related research and development, and demonstration projects conducted by federal departments.

Services Sector

Personnel Group

This group plans and directs the development and implementation of departmental personnel policies and programs to ensure the effective utilization of manpower resources throughout Transport Canada.

Finance Group

This group provides Transport Canada with systems of financial management, materiel management, contract review and administrative and computer services and provides advice and guidance on financial matters affecting the department.

Legal Group

This group is composed of lawyers seconded to Transport Canada from the Department of Justice. They provide legal services to the department in respect of all federal statutes administered by the Minister of Transport and advise Transport Canada group heads in respect of their day-to-day operations and legal questions arising in the broad context of the development of policy in the department.

Public Affairs Group

This group advises Transport Canada officials on all public affairs matters, establishes policies, procedures and standards for all departmental publications and audiovisual products and directs the coordination of ministerial liaison and the public affairs plan.

Historical Background

Air Canada was incorporated by the Air Canada Act (RSC 1970 c. A-11) and was reorganized under the Air Canada Act, 1977 which repealed the former Act. The company provides publicly-owned air transportation services within and outside Canada. Its common shares are registered to the Minister of Finance and are held by him in trust for Her Majesty in right of Canada. Air Canada, a Crown corporation, is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule D) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. It is not an agent of the Crown.

Overall Responsibilities

Air Canada provides passenger, mail and air cargo service and operates door-to-door package delivery services. Its aircraft serve all provincial capitals and major business and commercial centres of Canada as well as providing airline service to points in the United States, Great Britain, Ireland, France, Germany, Switzerland, Denmark, Bermuda, the Bahamas, Antigua, Barbados, Jamaica and Trinidad.

Historical Background

The Canadian National Railway Company was incorporated to operate and manage a national system of railways, including the Canadian Northern Railway System, and the Canadian Government Railways. In 1923, the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada was amalgamated with the Canadian National Railway Company and since 1923 a number of railway lines and undertakings acquired by the government have been entrusted to the company for operation and management, including the Newfoundland Railway and steamship services in 1949, the Témiscouata Railway in 1950, and the Hudson Bay Railway and the Northwest Communications System in 1958. The Canadian National Railways Act, 1919, was repealed in 1955 and replaced by the Canadian National Railways Act (SC 1955 c.29, now RSC 1970 c. C-10).

The National Railways, a Crown corporation, as defined by the CN-CP Act is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule D) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

The Canadian National Railway Company is operated and managed by a chairman, a president and chief executive officer, and a board of directors. The chairman and directors are appointed by the Governor in Council and the president and chief executive officer by the board of directors subject to approval by the Governor in Council.

In 1978, Parliament enacted legislation which altered the financial structure of Canadian National. The purpose of the legislation was to make CN's financial structure more comparable with those of other major business corporations, to place the responsibility for its financing more clearly in CN's own hands, and thereby make it more accountable for the success of its operations.

Overall Responsibilities

Canadian National is a diversified company formed to operate a national railway system and other transportation and related enterprises. The system comprises Canada's largest railway system, as well as trucking and bus lines, telecommunications services, a chain of hotels, ferries and coastal vessels, a dockyard, and national and international consulting services.

Organization and Programs

CN Rail is accountable for the management and marketing of the system's Canadian railway freight services (except those in Newfoundland), operation and maintenance of railway facilities (including services provided under contract for VIA Rail Canada Inc. and other CN divisions), and related activities.

CN Holdings is accountable for the management of CN's Telecommunications Division and subsidiaries, its Express, Trucking, Hotels and Tower, and Newfoundland Transportation Divisions and those of CN Marine Inc. and ancillary services.

Grand Trunk Corporation was incorporated in the United States in 1971 as a holding company encompassing three railway companies owned by Canadian National: the Grand Trunk Western Railroad, the Central Vermont Railway and the Duluth, Winnipeg and Pacific Railway. The railways operate in 13 midwest and New England states with connections to adjacent Canadian provinces.

Another notable facet of Canadian National operations is CANAC consultants Ltd., CN's international consulting subsidiary. The company provides expertise on a contract basis for transportation projects abroad. In 1977, Canaven Ltd. was formed as a CN subsidiary to participate in a consortium relative to a major railway project in Venezuela. Another subsidiary, Canalog Logistics, offers transportation consulting services in North America.

Historical Background

The Canadian Transport Commission was established on September 19, 1967, pursuant to the National Transportation Act (RSC 1970 c. N-17). It is successor to the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada, the Air Transport Board, and the Canadian Maritime Commission. The commission is designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1967-1768, September 18, 1967). A western arm of the commission was established in Saskatoon in July, 1979, with James McDonough as senior commissioner for Western Canada.

Overall Responsibilities

The commission is required to perform all the regulatory and other functions vested in it by the National Transportation Act, the Railway Act, the Aeronautics Act, and the Transport Act, and other miscellaneous statutes with the general object of coordinating and harmonizing the operation of all carriers engaged in transport (railways, water, aircraft, extra-provincial motor vehicle undertakings, and commodity pipelines). In addition, the commission must undertake programs of study and research to achieve the objectives of the national transportation policy.

The commission is a court of record and consists of no more than 17 members who are appointed by the Governor in Council for terms not exceeding 10 years. For the purpose of performing its duties, the commission must establish committees consisting of no less than three commissioners each; and any such committee shall, in accordance with the rules and regulations of the commission, exercise all the powers and duties of the commission, subject to review by the commission in certain instances.

Seven such committees have been established. (The names are listed along with each committee chairman at the beginning of the text.)

The General Rules of the Commission, including rules of practice and procedure, were adopted on September 20, 1967, and published in the issue of October 14, 1967, of the Canada Gazette. Subsequent amendments to the General Rules were published in the issues of the Canada Gazette dated November 16, 1968, December 6, 1969, January 24, 1970, July 11, 1970, February 20, 1971, and March 22, 1972.

Principal Officers

Chief Commissioner .....	W.E. Jarvis
Assistant Chief Commissioner .....	R.L. Kristjanson
Commissioners .....	C.W. Gibbings
	J.L. Leibfried
	F.M. Hetland

Historical Background

The Canadian Wheat Board was established in 1935 by the Canadian Wheat Board Act.

Overall Responsibilities

The original Act established the board as a marketing organization to purchase wheat from producers on a voluntary basis. In 1943 producer sales to the board became compulsory for interprovincial or export shipment of wheat under authorization of a regulation approved by the Governor in Council. The board's powers were extended to oats and barley in 1949.

Since the Domestic Feed Grains Policy initiated in 1974, producers may sell feed grades of wheat, oats, and barley directly to interprovincial markets. The Wheat Board retains sole responsibility for exports of these grains and for their sale for human consumption in Canada.

The Wheat Board's powers include authority to buy, take delivery of, store, transfer, sell, ship, or otherwise dispose of grain. It purchases grain produced only in a designated area, which includes Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and the eastern part of British Columbia. Deliveries of all grains within the designated area are controlled by a quota system, and the board controls all grain transportation from primary elevators to domestic processing plants and export ports.

Chairman .....	Pierre A.H. Franche
Vice-Chairman .....	Jacques Auger
Members .....	Dr. S.H. Weyman
	J.H.W. Cavey

Historical Background

The National Harbours Board was established in 1936 by the National Harbours Board Act (now RSC 1970 c. N-8). The board, a Crown corporation, is designated as an agency corporation (Schedule C) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act. The board is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The board has jurisdiction over the harbours of St. John's, Nfld.; Halifax, N.S.; Saint John, and Belledune, N.B.; Chicoutimi, Baie des Ha! Ha!, Québec, Sept-Îles, Trois-Rivières and Montréal, Qué.; Churchill, Man.; Prince Rupert and Vancouver, B.C.; and the government grain elevators at Prescott and Port Colborne, Ont. Prior to the establishment of this board, each of the national harbours was operated under the jurisdiction of a local board of harbour commissioners.

Organization

The board makes regular visits to each of the properties under its control. The head office of the board has a secretariat, administrative and special services, finance and property management services, research, planning and development, technical services, harbours and wharves and police and security branches, which provide the board and the ports with professional services.

However, responsibility for the day-to-day operations at each port is vested in a port general manager.

Local port authorities representing interests of the business community, labour and the three levels of government are appointed by the Minister of Transport. These authorities advise the port general manager in such matters as planning of facilities, and rates.

The general manager reports to the board through a member of the local port authority who is appointed chief executive officer of the port.

Historical Background

The company was incorporated in 1947 under the title of the Northern Transportation Company (1947) Limited, the date being omitted from the name in 1952. Previously chartered under an Alberta statute, the company was wholly owned by Eldorado Nuclear Limited. On September 30, 1975, shares were transferred to the Minister of Transport in trust for Her Majesty in right of Canada.

The Northern Transportation Company Limited was declared an agent of Her Majesty under the Government Companies Operations Act (RSC 1970 c. G-7) on July 13, 1949, and is designated as a proprietary corporation (Schedule D) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (RSC 1970 c. F-10).

Organization and Programs

Northern Transportation Company Limited, a Canadian company, has operated throughout the Mackenzie River Watershed since 1934, and along the western Arctic coast and adjacent islands since 1957. Since 1975, the company has also served the west coast of Hudson Bay and Southampton Island in the eastern Arctic.

The company's route system extends over 8,000 kilometers. It forms the principal transportation link for the movement of bulk petroleum products and dry cargoes to isolated northern communities and to exploration and mining sites throughout its operating areas. Goods originate primarily from Canada's three most northerly railheads located at Fort McMurray, Alberta, Hay River, Northwest Territories, and Churchill, Manitoba. Northern Transportation's marine fleet consists of three coastal ships, 26 tugs and 167 dual purpose barges, grossing in aggregate 90,000 tonnes of cargo capacity.

The company's principal objective is to provide general transportation services throughout northern Canada and the Arctic, together with related intermodal services.

A wholly owned subsidiary, Grimshaw Trucking and Distributing Ltd., provides a general merchandise trucking service from Edmonton and Calgary to a number of northern communities in Alberta and three major centers in the Northwest Territories. Grimshaw Trucking operates 67 tractors and 166 trailer units. Marine and trucking operations interface at Fort McMurray in Alberta and Hay River in the Northwest Territories.

Yellowknife Transportation Company Limited, a wholly owned subsidiary, is presently inactive.

Historical Background

The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority was established in 1954 by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority Act (RSC 1970 c.S-1).

The authority, a Crown corporation, is designated a proprietary corporation (Schedule D) within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1954-1300, 1 Sept 1954; SOR/54-402). The authority is an agent of Her Majesty.

Overall Responsibilities

The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority is incorporated for the purposes of:

- (a) acquiring lands for and constructing, maintaining and operating all such works as may be necessary to provide and maintain, in Canada or in conjunction with works undertaken by an appropriate authority in the United States, a deep waterway between the Port of Montréal and Lake Erie;
- (b) constructing, maintaining, and operating all such works in connection with such a deep waterway as the Governor in Council may deem necessary to fulfill any obligation undertaken pursuant to any present or future agreement;
- (c) acquiring lands for, and constructing, maintaining and operating, alone or jointly or in conjunction with an appropriate authority in the United States, bridges connecting Canada with the United States as authorized by the Act, and in connection therewith, or as incidental thereto, acquiring with the approval of the Governor in Council shares or property of any bridge company and operating and managing bridges; and
- (d) acquiring lands for, and constructing or otherwise acquiring, maintaining and operating such works or other property as the Governor in Council may deem to be necessary incidental to works undertaken pursuant to the Act.

Organization and Programs

The three members of the authority as well as its legal and economics services and its planning group are located in Ottawa. Central services, located in Cornwall, Ontario, include operations, personnel administration and finance. The headquarters of the Eastern section, which extends from Montréal to Lake Ontario, is at St. Lambert, Québec. The Engineering Services Branch is also located there. The Western section, which operates the Canadian-owned Welland Canal, is at St. Catharines, Ontario.

Deep Waterway Program

The deep waterway supports itself from tolls levied upon the users of the two sections under a Canada-U.S. agreement. The Montréal-Lake Ontario section is comprised of seven locks, together with bridges and other ancillary structures. The five Canadian locks are owned and operated by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. The other two locks are in the United States, and are owned and operated by the U.S. Seaway entity, the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation. The Welland Canal Section comprises eight locks between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

Historical Background and Overall Responsibilities

VIA Rail Canada Inc. was formed on January 12, 1977, and given the status of a railway company by the Parliament of Canada in March through Appropriation Act 1, 1977. Initially established as a subsidiary of Canadian National, VIA became a separate Crown corporation on April 1st, 1978. It is a Schedule "D" Crown corporation under the Financial Administration Act.

VIA was created to manage rail passenger services in Canada, with the exception of commuter services. On April 1, 1979, VIA became fully responsible for all inter-city passenger trains previously operated by CN or CP Rail. It also has responsibility for the management of related facilities, such as bus services with complement passenger train services.

VIA operates under contract with the federal government to provide rail services including marketing, the performance of on-board services, reservations, ticketing and station duties and VIA, in turn, negotiates contracts with the railways for the operation of trains and the maintenance of equipment.

It is the responsibility of VIA to acquire rolling stock and the facilities to provide passenger services, and to prepare programs for equipment modification or the acquisition of new equipment and facilities.

Historical Background

The Treasury Board and its secretariat were separated from the Department of Finance and proclaimed a department under the Government Organization Act, 1966. First created on July 2, 1867, by Order in Council number three, the board received statutory approval in 1869. The board is a Committee of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada, consisting of its own minister (i.e., the President of the Treasury Board) as well as the Minister of Finance, and four other Cabinet Ministers nominated from time-to-time by the Governor in Council. The secretariat is the operational arm of the board.

Overall Responsibilities

The functions of the board, as set out in the Financial Administration Act, are: to advise Cabinet on the selection of programs and projects that will achieve the government's objectives in the most effective manner in accordance with its priorities; and to promote the efficient use of manpower and material resources needed by departments and agencies to carry out their programs and projects.

The secretariat:

- examines the proposed spending programs of all government ministries, departments and agencies and keeps under constant review the development of approved programs to ensure effective expenditure management;
- makes recommendations to the Treasury Board on proposed expenditures;
- recommends public service personnel management policy to the board in the areas of manpower utilization, compensation, pensions and insurance, and staff relations, and negotiates the terms of collective agreements with the bargaining agents who represent public service employees;
- develops policies for effective administrative management and promotes efficient administration throughout the public service;
- develops, communicates, implements and evaluates the government's official languages policies and programs and ensures the proper application of the Official Languages Act within the public service; and
- upon direction from the President of the Treasury Board, develops and implements programs designed to achieve the government's objectives in specific areas applicable to the public service as a whole.

Organization and Programs

The secretariat is composed of four branches: Program; Personnel Policy; Administrative Policy; Official Languages.

Program Branch

On the basis of the analysis of departmental plans and programs, the Program Branch recommends to the government the acceptance or modification of specific expenditure proposals, in order to: reflect the government's priorities; increase the effectiveness of existing and proposed programs; increase the efficiency with which the person-year resources, facilities, equipment, materials and supplies are used in the operation of programs; and to develop the estimates for the approval of Parliament.

Estimates

The estimates for any one fiscal year are determined as a result of a review of departmental "program forecasts." This review takes place over a period of approximately three months in the spring and early summer of each year and culminates in the approval by the government of an expenditure plan for the coming fiscal year. In the autumn, this plan is used by departments and agencies as the basis for the preparation of their main estimates submissions. These submissions are reviewed by the board and are submitted to the government for final approval in December. When finally approved, the main estimates are printed and tabled in Parliament, usually in early to mid-February.

The need for supplementary estimates may arise because of unforeseen items. These supplementary requirements are reviewed by the board and recommended to the Cabinet for approval.

The main estimates of each department are referred for consideration to the appropriate Standing Committee of the House on or before March 1. These items are considered by the committees and reported back to the House. An Appropriation Act is introduced and, on approval by Parliament, Royal Assent is given and the expenditures included in the Act may take place.

Under the present Standing Orders, the fiscal year is divided into three supply periods. At the end of each period, the Speaker is required to dispose of any item of business relating to the estimates then before the House. The main estimates are usually approved during the period ending not later than June 30.

The Estimates Blue Book incorporates the expenditure items for which parliamentary authority is being sought in the Appropriation Act as well as forecasts of outlays for many items, such as interest on the public debt, family allowances and old age assistance payments, which have been previously authorized by Parliament in the statutes.

Personnel Policy Branch

The role of the Personnel Policy Branch is to develop and ensure the application of personnel management policies in order that the human resources needed to carry out programs effectively are determined, are obtained at competitive rates of pay, and are developed and used efficiently with due regard for the individual and collective rights of employees.

In fulfilment of its role, the branch has primary responsibility for the development, implementation and evaluation of personnel management policies, programs, standards and systems in the areas of: human resource planning and utilization (including training and development); organization; senior management complement; Temporary Assignment Pool (TAP); staff relations (including negotiation and administration of collective agreements, consultations and grievances); classification of positions and employees; determination and regulation of the pay of public servants; pensions and benefits; health and safety; analysis and data services in support of the above; personnel management information systems.

Administrative Policy Branch

Since its creative in 1970, the Administrative Policy Branch has been responsible for the "development, interpretation, dissemination, review and evaluation of policies, guidelines and regulations in administrative inputs." The branch serves the Treasury Board, in its capacity as the Cabinet committee on management, to ensure that the government's operations are conducted in a way which will meet public expectations for prudent administration.

The policies and guidelines issued by the branch pertain to all "housekeeping" activities of the government in the fields of transportation and communication; information; professional and special services; rentals; purchased repair and upkeep; utilities, materiel and supplies; construction and acquisition of land, buildings, and equipment; and construction and acquisition of machinery and equipment. Total annual expenditures on these items amount to $6 billion per year. The Administrative Policy Manual contains all directives of an administrative nature issued by Treasury Board. The purpose of the policies is to ensure that probity and prudence in the acquisition, utilization and disposal of key resources (property, materiel, services and information) prevail throughout the public service, and to guide departmental managers in the efficient and effective management of these key resources in support of departmental programs.

Official Languages Branch

In accordance with the revised policies on Official Languages in the Public Service issued in September, 1977, the Official Languages Branch is responsible for producing general guidelines and criteria to provide overall direction to federal departments and agencies; providing technical and specialized assistance as required; reviewing the annual plans and reports of departments on their official languages program and recommending action as appropriate; auditing and evaluating departmental official languages activities; and monitoring the overall progress of the public service towards the achievement of official languages objectives.

The branch manages the Official Languages Information System; consults employee representatives through the Official Languages Committee of the National Joint Council; and prepares an annual report to the government on the status and evaluation of official languages policies and programs in the public service.

Administration Branch

Administrative support is provided jointly to the Treasury Board Secretariat, the Office of the Comptroller General, and the Department of Finance by the Administration Branch.

The branch consists of four divisions: Personnel Services, Language Services, Administrative Services and Financial Services.

Submission Control Unit

The unit acts as a central clearing point for all submissions received by the Treasury Board Secretariat.

Historical Background

Bill C-10, an amendment to the Financial Administration Act, created the post of Comptroller General of Canada, and received Royal Assent June 30, 1978. As chief financial administrator of the federal Public Service, the Comptroller General reports directly to the President of the Treasury Board, carrying the rank and status of a deputy minister.

Overall Responsibilities

In general terms, the Comptroller General is responsible for the quality and integrity of the financial administrative policies and practices in use throughout the federal Public Service.

Organization and Programs

The office is divided into three branches: Financial Policy, Program Evaluation, and Management Practices.

Financial Policy Branch

The branch develops and interprets the generally accepted accounting and reporting principles and practices of the Government of Canada, as well as government-wide policies for departments on financial and operational management, internal audit, and related planning, reporting and control systems. In addition, the branch is the focal point for the professional development of staff throughout the government who are responsible for the application of these policies and systems.

Prominent in its activities are responsibility for the form of the estimates and of the public accounts and the coordination and formulation of the government's response to the Auditor General's annual report and the presentation of this response to the Public Accounts Committee.

Program Evaluation Branch

The branch provides the leadership and technical advice necessary to ensure that the periodic, critical and objective examination of programs becomes an established practice in the management of all government departments. The branch has further functions: to advise Cabinet Ministers on program evaluation; to define government-wide policies and standards for this activity; to assure that the departmental strategic planning processes required to make program evaluation effective are in place; and to prepare related training policies and curricula.

Management Practices Branch

The branch works directly with deputy ministers and other senior managers in line departments to ensure that each department has in place an integrated set of management practices and controls. In the longer term, the branch will verify that such processes remain effective, and will act as a catalyst to bring about further improvements. The branch is based on an approach to management processes which ties together financial and non-financial planning and reporting which each department can tailor to its needs. It provides a focus for issues of management process, thus raising the visibility and attention paid to such issues. Finally the branch provides advice in the development of management processes based upon its knowledge of integrated management processes in departments.

Historical Background

Statistics Canada was established in 1918 as the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The Statistics Act changed the name of the department in 1971 (SC 1970-71-72 c. 15). Statistics Canada is designated as a department within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act (OIC P.C. 1965-29, January 6, 1965, Statistics Act sec. 39).

Overall Responsibilities

The department's duties are:

- to collect, compile, analyze, abstract, and publish statistical information relating to the commercial, industrial, financial, social, economic and general activities and condition of the people;
- to collaborate with departments of government in the collection, compilation and publication of statistical information, including statistics derived from the activities of those departments;
- to take the census of the population of Canada and the census of agriculture of Canada as provided in the Act;
- to promote the avoidance of duplication in the information collected by departments of government; and
- generally, to promote and develop integrated social and economic statistics pertaining to the whole of Canada and to each of the provinces thereof and to coordinate plans for the integration of such statistics.

Organization and Programs

The department is organized into five fields:

Corporate Management

This field provides the department with regional data collection facilities, and is responsible for all administrative functions such as finance and personnel.

Economic Statistics

This field is responsible for the System of National Accounts, as well as for structural model development and operation, as well as the development of standard classification systems necessary for the integration of the bureau's output. Through its survey activities the field measures the production and distribution of goods and services, the costs of producing these goods and services and the prices at which they are disposed of, the international exchange of goods, the financial operations involved in carrying out these activities, and the ownership and control of capital. It also administers the Corporation and Labour Union Returns Act.

Census and Household Surveys

This field measures the attributes, behaviour and attitudes of individuals, households and families, especially demographic and socio-economic attributes. The field is also responsible for estimating and projecting basic demographic dimensions of the Canadian population.

Institutions and Agriculture Statistics

This field measures the social and economic characteristics and activities of public and private institutions concerned with: health and vital events, education, science and culture, crime and the administration of justice, social security, and the income and expenditures of institutions, departments and agencies of the three levels of government in Canada. Agricultural statistics are an additional responsibility.

Marketing Services

This field is responsible for the specialized informational, promotional, and marketing research functions of the department.

Department of Veterans Affairs

Department of Veterans Affairs

Head Office

Veterans Affairs Building
284 Wellington Street
Ottawa, Ont.
K1A 0P4

Minister

Minister of Veterans Affairs

Principal Officers

Deputy Minister .....	W.B. Brittain
Assistant Deputy Minister, Finance, Personnel and Admin. ....	N. van Duyvendyk
Assistant Deputy Minister, Veterans Services .....	R.C. Adams
Director, Veterans' Land Act. ....	D.E. Keen

Historical Background

The department was established originally in February, 1918, as the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. In 1928, the Department of Pensions and National Health was established as a result of the amalgamation of the Department of Health with the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. In 1944, the organization of the department was changed and a portion was transferred to the Department of National Health and Welfare while the remainder became the Department of Veterans Affairs (RSC 1970 c. V-1).

Overall Responsibilities

The department provides support for the economic, social, mental and physical wellbeing of veterans, certain civilians and their dependants.

Organization and Programs

Departmental Administration

This program involves the operation of the offices of the Minister, deputy minister, assistant deputy minister (FPA) and managerial support functions (financial management, personnel administration, policy, planning and evaluation, public relations, administrative services and official languages advisory services).

Veterans Services

The department is responsible for the administration of federal legislation which provides benefits to veterans (and certain civilians), their dependants and survivors. These benefits, together with the identification of eligible persons, are specified in legislation and include: medical and dental services, prosthetic appliances, income support programs, emergency financial assistance and counselling services for veterans, their dependants and survivors; educational assistance for veterans and orphans; and burial grants for veterans. Where direct assistance is not possible, a referral service to other sources of aid is provided.

Veterans' Land Administration

The Veterans' Land Administration assists veterans or their heirs, devisees, or personal representatives, to acquire title to properties on which the veterans have been established. This responsibility includes property management services and other services such as post-loan counselling, real estate appraisal, construction supervision and the administration of sales contracts relating to properties, the titles of which are in the name of The Director, The Veterans' Land Act. This program is also responsible for the Administration of the Veterans' Housing Assistance Programs.

Regional Offices

The department has treatment institutions and facilities in six major urban centres across Canada, and maintains administrative offices in the larger cities. The offices in Canada are shared with the Canadian Pension Commission and the Bureau of Pensions Advocates.

The Veterans' Land Administration is divided into four regions: Western, Ontario, Québec and Atlantic; regional headquarters are located at Saskatoon, Toronto, Montréal and Saint John (N.B.).

Services outside Ottawa are provided through the following 31 regional and district offices.

Historical Background

The Bureau of Pensions Advocates was established under Part II of An Act to amend the Pension Act (RSC 1970 c. 22 [2nd Supp]). Prior to March 31, 1971, the bureau had been the Veterans Bureau Branch within the Department of Veterans Affairs. Today the bureau is not part of the department but it does, from time-to-time, make such reports to the Minister as he may direct.

Overall Responsibilities

The bureau provides a legal aid service, which includes the acceptance of claims, the searching of records, the identification of evidence, the counselling of applicants and the preparation and presentation of claims to the adjudicating bodies (Canadian Pension Commission and Pension Review Board). These services are provided by professional advocates and support staff located in 18 cities throughout Canada.

The relationship between the bureau and an applicant or pensioner requesting assistance is that of a solicitor and client. The bureau is not required to disclose any information or material in its possession relating to an applicant or pensioner in any proceedings before the Canadian Pension Commission, an Entitlement Board, or the Pension Review Board.

Historical Background

Formerly the Board of Pension Commissioners, the Canadian Pension Commission was established originally in 1916 as the first organization created to deal solely with war pensions (the work of paying and administering pensions for war service in the Canadian Armed Forces formerly performed by the Pensions and Claims Board of the Department of National Defence). In 1933, an amendment to the Pension Act abolished the Board of Pension Commissioners and created the Canadian Pension Commission with powers and functions similar to its predecessor. The present membership on the commission allows for up to 14 commissioners and for 10 ad hoc commissioners.

Overall Responsibilities

The commission has full and unrestricted power and authority, and exclusive jurisdiction to deal with, and adjudicate upon, all questions relating to the award, increase, decrease, suspension, or cancellation of any pension under the Pension Act (with respect to disability or death incurred on or attributable to military service with the Canadian Armed Forces since the commencement of World War I), and to the recovery of any overpayment which may have been made. In addition, the commission considers (under special authority contained in the Act) applications for the supplementing to Canadian rates of pensions awarded Canadians who, domiciled in Canada at the outbreak of World Wars I or II, served with the Imperial or Allied forces during either of those two wars, as a consequence of which they were awarded pensions by the governments of those countries. Under the terms of the Act, the commission also considers applications for pension at Canadian rates from such Canadians whose claims have been rejected by the government of the country in whose forces they served.

Entitlement Boards, each consisting of three commissioners, travel to various centres across Canada in order to hold hearings to consider appeals made by applicants who are dissatisfied with the commission's decisions made at the first level of adjudication.

The commission also administers:

- (a) the Compensation for Former Prisoners of War Act which came into effect on April 1, 1976 and provides for the payment of compensation to eligible persons who were prisoners of war for three months or more during and following World War II.
- (b) the Halifax Relief Commission Pension Continuation Act. The Halifax Relief Commission, established to assist victims of the Halifax Explosion which occurred in 1917, was incorporated by an Act of the General Assembly of Nova Scotia in 1917 and confirmed by an Act of the Parliament of Canada in 1918. By 1975, the role of the Halifax Relief Commission had greatly diminished and, in early 1976, legislation was passed by the Government of Nova Scotia and by the Government of Canada which dissolved the Halifax Relief Commission, transferred the funds to Canada and authorized the Canadian Pension Commission to continue to pay the pensions, grants, and allowances which were in effect, and to make such payments to any person the Canadian Pension Commission determines is eligible.
- (c) Parts I to X of the Civilian War Pensions and Allowances Act which makes provision for a number of groups who were specially engaged during World War II (including merchant seamen, auxiliary services personnel, fire-fighters who served in the United Kingdom, special constables with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, overseas welfare workers, and others in this category).

The commission is responsible also for the:

- (a) authorization and payment of monetary grants accompanying certain gallantry awards granted members of the Canadian Armed Forces;
- (b) adjudication upon claims for pension for injury or disease made by certain members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police;
- (c) expressions of opinion under the Defence Service Pension Act;
- (d) claims under the Special Operators War Service Benefits Act, and the supplementing of pensions paid under the Women's Royal Naval Services and the South African Military Nursing Service (Benefits) Act;
- (e) claims made under the Civilian Government Employees (war) Compensation Order;
- (f) claims made under the Flying Accidents Compensation Order;

- (g) administration of certain trust funds donated to the commission for relief of urgent cases of emergency and distress;
- (h) provision of advice under the Penitentiary Inmates Accident Compensation Terms and Conditions; and
- (i) claims under the Special Indemnity Plan for Dependents of Canadian Forces Attachés.

Organization and Programs

In addition to the executive officers, there are three main branches at the commission's head office: the Medical Advisory Branch, the Operations Branch, and the Secretariat Branch.

Medical Advisory Branch

This branch is responsible for reviewing medical evidence and for providing medical advice to the commission on such matters as the relationship of a disability to service, and the assessment of pensionable disabilities.

Operations Branch

This branch is responsible for the general operations of the commission. This includes the direction of district offices, and the processing of dependent's pensions and other ancillary benefits.

Secretariat Branch

This branch is responsible for the recording, promulgation and implementation of policy decisions, inquiries and correspondence and the provision of direct support services to the commission.

Historical Background

The board was established under section 75 of An Act to amend the Pension Act (RSC 1970 c. 22 [2nd Supp.]).

The board, an appeal tribunal, is independent of the Canadian Pension Commission and the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Overall Responsibilities

The board has the authority to determine any questions of law or fact as to whether a person is entitled to an award under this Act and the amount of any such award. The decision of the board is final and binding for all purposes of this Act (meaning the Pension Act). The board also is authorized to entertain any request for an interpretation of the Pension Act made by the Canadian Pension Commission, the Chief Pensions Advocate, or any veterans' organization incorporated by or under any Act of Parliament.

The board may sit and hear appeals only in the National Capital Region.

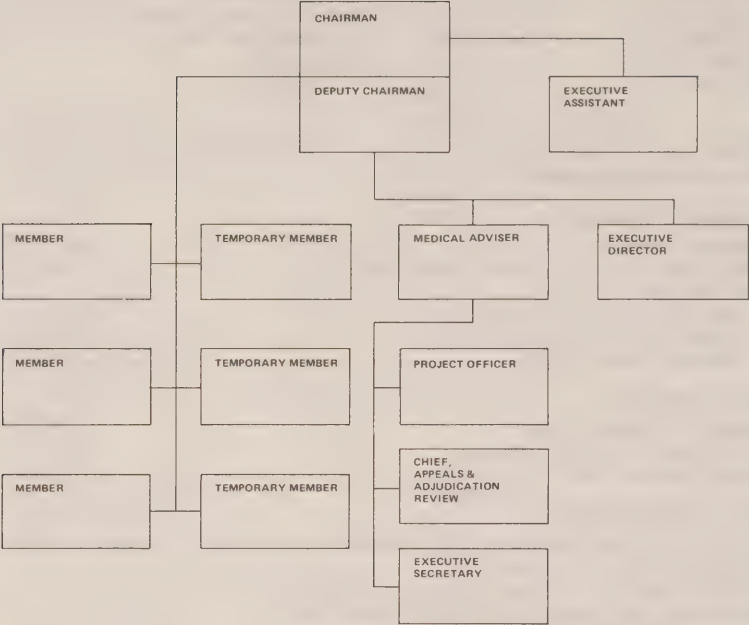

Any applicant who is dissatisfied with a final decision of the Canadian Pension Commission may appeal that decision to this board

Additional Information — may be obtained from the Registrar, (613) 995-7464. The reports of the board are published under the title of Pension Review Board Reports/Recueil des arrêts du Conseil de révision des pensions. The reports, which contain significant or precedent-making decisions, are available free of charge from Public Relations Directorate, Department of Veterans Affairs, Ottawa K1A 0P4, (613) 992-4234.

Historical Background

The War Veterans Allowance Board was established in 1936 to replace the War Veterans Allowance Committee as the agency responsible for the administration of the War Veterans Allowance Act, which was enacted in 1930.

The Act was designed to provide an allowance for war veterans who, because of the rigors of theatre-of-war service, were deemed to be "pre-aged" and thus were unable to support themselves and their families. These veterans suffered in varying degrees from the after-effects of the physical and psychological stresses of their service; many had not been wounded, but they were casualties of the war.

Overall Responsibilities

The board acts as a court of appeal for applicants and recipients who are aggrieved by any decision of a district authority. The board may on its own initiative review any adjudication made by a district authority, and alter or reverse such adjudication. The board may, at any time, review and alter its own former decisions. It also advises the Minister in matters requiring regulations by the Governor in Council.

Allowances

From 1930 until the spring of 1973, the allowances were subject to a means test, with the amount of other income and assets being limited. Now it is a "modified income-tested" program, which ignores the assets themselves but takes into account the income they produce.

Since October 1, 1973, and quarterly thereafter, the income levels are increased in accordance with the increase in the cost-of-living, except the escalation for orphans' income levels continues to be on an annual basis. As of January 1, 1978, the maximum allowance payable to a single recipient is $253.28 a month, and a recipient at the married rate could be paid a maximum allowance of $432.08 a month. In effect since April 1, 1974, the rates for orphans were increased to $125.00 per month for each orphan, less any amount payable under the Family Allowances Act, 1973, for that orphan. Effective January 1, 1975, and on January 1 of each succeeding year, the income level will be increased in accordance with the rise in the cost-of-living.

Since April 1, 1974, the allowance paid on behalf of a child of a widow, widower or unmarried veteran or an allowance paid to an orphan is continued to age 25 as long as the child or orphan continues his education; otherwise, the allowance paid is discontinued at age 17.

Since October 1, 1974, the Act provides for the payment of an additional monthly allowance (less family allowances paid to the child under the Family Allowances Act for each dependent child of a widow, widower or unmarried veteran after the first, and for each dependent child of all other recipients.

Similar benefits were made available in 1962, under Part XI of the Civilian War Pensions and Allowances Act, to merchant seamen, ferry pilots, special operators, auxiliary workers and others who, during World War I or World War II, served in the para-military organizations specified in that Act.

Certain categories of income and casual earnings up to specified amounts are exempt from the income calculations; and veterans who are WVA recipients, or would be but for the receipt of Old Age Security, are eligible for free treatment for any condition.

Additional Information — enquiries concerning allowances should be directed to the Executive Secretary (613) 992-3385.

Parliamentary Committee — Standing Committee on Veterans Affairs.

Auditor — Auditor General of Canada.

Glossary of Terms

Italicized words are defined elsewhere in the glossary.

Act — see legislation.

Address to His Excellency the Governor General — a synonym for Order of the House.

Adjournment — the end of the sitting (of the House) with the object of holding that sitting the following day or at some later date. The term will often be used — The House is adjourned until . . .

Administration — sometimes referred to as the federal administration; both are used synonymously to mean the Government of Canada.

Advisory Board/Council — a branch of government that generally makes recommendations to a Cabinet Minister, but does not implement those recommendations. Boards and councils are often composed of members who represent interest groups. Secretariat services are generally provided by the Minister's department, and funds come from departmental program monies, or through a contribution or grant. Some boards/councils have no federal representation, some have a few, and others are exclusively composed of federal public servants.

Agencies of the State — a synonym for a branch of government.

Agency — a synonym for a branch of government, and a term used in the federal government to mean any legal entity which is not a department or a Crown corporation. The term should not be confused with an Agency corporation.

Agency corporation — an agency corporation is defined as a Crown corporation that is an agent of Her Majesty in right of Canada, and is responsible for the management of trading or service operations on a quasi-commercial basis, or for the management of procurement, construction, or disposal activities on behalf of Her Majesty in right of Canada. A complete list of agency corporations is appended to Schedule C of the Financial Administration Act. Additions and deletions are published in Part II of the Canada Gazette.

Agent of Her Majesty (in right of Canada) — a term applied to a branch of government that has a contractual arrangement to act as an agent on behalf of the Government of Canada. The arrangement changes from agent to agent. Each is outlined in the enabling legislation (i.e. the Act of Parliament that created each branch of government).

Appointments by order in council — often referred to as order in council appointments or appointees. These officers are designated by the governor in council to perform certain statutory functions. Heads of agencies are all appointed by order in council. All appointments are published in Part I of the Canada Gazette.

Appropriation Act — an Act of Parliament that authorizes the expenditure of public funds for specific purposes.

Blue Book — a term applied to federal government publications bound in blue paper; however, the term generally refers to the Main Estimates which are traditionally tabled in the House some time in February by the President of the Treasury Board.

Branch of government — any part or portion of the federal government the head of which reports to or through a Cabinet Minister.

British Commonwealth — see Commonwealth.

British North America Act — Canada's written constitution.

By, under, pursuant to — The terms as used in the Organization of the Government of Canada have the following meanings:

- (a) by — indicates that the Act bears the same name as the branch of government (e.g. Air Canada was created by the Air Canada Act);
- (b) under — indicates that a section of the Act created the branch of government (e.g. the Maritime Pollution Fund was created under section . . . of the Canada Shipping Act).
- (c) pursuant to — indicates that the Act contains an all encompassing phrase such as "The Minister may create as many advisory boards as he deems necessary for the . . ." The Act is the authority; however, the device generally used to create the branch of government is an order in council.

Cabinet — a popular name for the Canadian Ministry. The term — the Cabinet — is more commonly applied to the government of the day. The Cabinet is the deliberative body summoned to meet at the behest of the Prime Minister to discuss, in private, questions of government policy.

Cabinet Minister — a synonym for the official title Member of The Queen's Privy Council for Canada.

Canadian Ministry — the official term used by the Orders in Council Office (of the Privy Council Office) for the list of members of the Cabinet.

Capital Budget — those amounts intended to be used for the acquisition or building of or construction of fixtures, buildings, furniture that have a long life and are of significant value.

Civil Service — former name of the Public Service.

Commission — can be used as a synonym for branch of government.

Commission of Inquiry — sometimes used as a synonym for a Royal Commission.

Committee of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada — can mean both the Cabinet, and the Treasury Board.

Committees — after receiving second reading, each bill is usually referred to a committee to undergo detailed study and possible amendment. In both Houses, committees are of five main types: Standing Committee, Standing Joint Committee, Special Committee, Special Joint Committee, and Committee of the Whole House.

Standing and Standing Joint Committees — standing committees are provided for in the Rules of the Senate and in the Standing Orders of the House of Commons. There are also standing joint committees (i.e. having both Senate and Commons membership). Committee names suggest the subject matter with which each is concerned (e.g. Agriculture, Public Accounts, Regional Development, Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs). In the Senate, a Selection Committee, and in the House of Commons, a Striking Committee, place the members on the committees. Most standing committees consist of 20 members. Members may serve on more than one committee. In the House of Commons committees all political parties are represented in approximately the same proportion as their relative membership in the House. Standing committees are investigatory and legislative in nature. They inquire into and study all matters referred to them. They may send for persons, papers and records and they report to their respective Houses. As a rule, committee meetings are open to the public.

Committee of the Whole House — consists of all the Members of the House of Commons. When the House resolves itself into a Committee of the Whole, the entire House is acting as a committee and is presided over by a chairman, not by the speaker. The special function of this committee is the discussion of details and to this end procedure is more flexible. In the House of Commons, Committees of the Whole study in detail all bills dealing with Supply, Ways and Means, and certain other public interest bills which the House decides to refer to a Committee of the Whole. The Senate seldom resolves itself into a Committee of the Whole, relying almost exclusively on its standing committees for the detailed examination of bills.

Special Committee and Special Joint Committee — special committees function in the same manner as standing committees, but they are created in response to specific circumstances and needs. The field of inquiry of special committees is generally narrower in scope than that of the standing committees, as they are usually appointed to consider a particular topic, petition or bill. They exist from their appointment until they have presented their final report.

Commonwealth — British Commonwealth, Commonwealth of Nations, or British Commonwealth of Nations means the association of countries named in the schedule to the Interpretation Act. (The schedule is amended whenever the occasion arises. Amendments are made by order in council, and the proclamation is issued and published in Part I of the Canada Gazette.)

Constitution — see British North America Act.

Corporate agency — a synonym for Crown corporation.

Corporation — can be used as a synonym for a branch of government having corporate form, or a Crown corporation.

Council — can be used as a synonym for branch of government. Sometimes used to mean the Queen's Privy Council for Canada.

Crown — a synonym for the Queen, her representative, the Governor General, or the government as a whole.

Crown corporation — any agency of the federal government that reports to or through a Minister of the Crown. The expression also includes those agencies as listed in Schedule B (Departmental corporation), Schedule C (Agency corporation), and Schedule D (Proprietary corporation) of the Financial Administration Act. Crown corporations are established either by an Act of Parliament, or by letters patent under the Canada Corporations Act pursuant to the enabling legislation.

Delegated legislation — regulations made by the Executive. The expression means that an administrative authority is allowed to make a regulation only when Parliament has delegated to it the power to do so.

Departmental corporation — a Crown corporation that is a servant or agent of Her Majesty in right of Canada and is responsible for administrative, supervisory or regulatory services of a governmental nature.

Departmental Ministers — Ministers of the Crown who occupy offices created by statute to which are attached powers, duties and functions defined by statute; have the supervision and control over a portion of the public service known as a department; are limited in number by the number of statutory ministerial offices; have salaries provided for by title in the Salaries Act; and seek appropriations from Parliament to cover the cost of the activities for which they are responsible.

Deputy head — means the non-elected head of a department, a person having by law the status of a deputy head, and includes the chairman, president, or other chief executive officer of any branch of government other than a department, as listed in Schedule A of the Financial Administration Act. This includes such titles as: Chairman, Chief Commissioner, Chief Statistician, Clerk of the . . . , Commissioner, Deputy Minister, Deputy Postmaster General, Deputy Solicitor General, Director General, Dominion Archivist, Governor, Master, National Librarian, Parliamentary Librarian, President, Secretary, Secretary-General, Secretary of the . . . , Superintendent of . . . , Under-Secretary of . . .

Deputy Minister — see Deputy head.

Designated by the Governor in Council — means that a Member of the Queen's Privy Council has been given certain statutory responsibilities (i.e. contained in an Act of Parliament). The method of designation, called an order in council, is an administrative device used to carry out an executive order.

Director General — when the title is used to mean a senior principal officer then it is used as a synonym for a deputy head.

Dissolution — means the Parliament ceases to exist until a general election is held and a new Parliament convened.

Enactment — means an act or regulation or any portion of an act or regulation.

Estimates — see Blue book.

Executive — that portion of the Government of Canada that executes the law.

Executive power — in law, executive power is exercised through the Governor in Council.

Ex officio — means that by virtue of one position, the incumbent automatically fills another (e.g. the Minister of Justice by virtue of his position is also Attorney General of Canada). The concept is expressed "The Minister of Justice is ex officio Attorney General of Canada."

Federal administration — see Administration.

Federal boards, commissions, and other tribunals — for the purposes of the Federal Court Act the above expressions mean any body or person having, exercising or purporting to exercise jurisdiction or powers under an Act of Parliament of Canada other than a superior, district or county court of a province or other body set up by provincial legislation.

Fiscal year — the period beginning on the 1st day of April in one year and ending on the 31st day of March in the next year.

Government of Canada — formal, legal title applied to the federal government, generally used to indicate everything emanating from or sanctioned by. See Cabinet.

Governor — used in the context of a branch of government that has a corporate form. No connection to governor general, or governor in council. The term is widely used in banking and academic circles.

Governor General — representative of the Queen in Canada.

Governor General's Council — synonym for Governor in Council.

Governor General in Council — synonym for Governor in Council.

Governor in Council — The governor in council — the Governor General acting on the advice of the Privy Council — is the formal executive body which gives legal effect to those decisions of Cabinet that are to have the force of law.

Governor of Canada — see Governor General.

Grants and contributions — a grant or contribution is a payment other than for goods and services made for the purpose of furthering program objectives. A grant differs from a contribution in that a contribution is subject to audit by a representative of the federal government, while a grant is not.

Great Seal of Canada — is issued in the name of the reigning sovereign, the seal is affixed to formal documents (such as proclamations, commissions, land grants). The phrase generally used is "...by instrument under the Great Seal of Canada is ...", or "...appointed on the advice of the Prime Minister by commission under ...".

Green Paper — statement of proposed policy; basis of discussion.

Hansard — popular name given to the Debates of the House of Commons, and/or the Debates of the Senate.

House/Houses — a term used in an either/or situation for either the House of Commons (The Lower ...), or the Senate (The Upper ...).

Instrument of advice — can mean a letter, however when the term is used in connection with ministerial appointments, it means a letter from the Prime Minister to the Governor General in which Cabinet changes are made.

Judiciary — is that portion of the Government of Canada that interprets the law.

Legal entity — for the purposes of the Estimates Special Votes and Special Vote Structures, a legal entity is defined as a unit of government operating under an Act of Parliament and responsible to a Minister of the Crown.

Legal name — means that name which appears in the enabling legislation (act) Proclamation, Order in Council, or other instrument used by the government to bring into existence a branch of government.

Legislation — statutes adopted by Parliament in the exercise of its legislative powers are originally introduced as bills and may originate in the House of Commons or Senate. All bills must be read three separate times in each House, be adopted by both Houses, and receive Royal Assent in order to become law. Some laws are in force upon Royal Assent. Others must be proclaimed in force by Order in Council. All Proclamations appear in Part I of the Canada Gazette.

Legislative power — the power to enact general rules of conduct, which confer legally enforceable rights on citizens and impose legally enforceable obligations upon them.

Legislature — that portion of the Government of Canada that enacts laws.

Letters Patent — an official document giving a person or a corporation authority from a government to do some act or have some right.

Maritimes, Maritime provinces or regions — includes Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick. (see also Atlantic Provinces)

Member of Parliament — can mean a member of either House, but commonly understood to mean a member of the House of Commons.

Member of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada — see Queen's Privy Council for Canada.

Minister Designated — see Designated by

Ministers of State for Ministries — preside over each ministry of state established. A Minister of State is appointed by commission under the Great Seal of Canada. This Minister holds office during pleasure during the existence of the ministry and is responsible for the management and direction of the ministry. In addition to the powers, duties and functions specified in the proclamation establishing the ministry, the powers, duties and functions of the Minister, extend to and include such other matters as are assigned or transferred to the Minister or the Ministry by or pursuant to any Act of the Parliament of Canada.

Ministers of State — a Minister of State appointed by commission under the Great Seal, other than a Minister who presides over a Ministry of State,

- (a) may be assigned by the governor in council to assist any minister or ministers having responsibilities for any department or other portion of the Public Service of Canada in the carrying out of those responsibilities; and
- (b) shall exercise or perform such of the powers, duties or functions of any minister or ministers having responsibilities for any department or other portion of the Public Service of Canada as may be assigned or transferred to him pursuant to any Act of the Parliament of Canada. Where a Minister of State referred to in section 23 of the Minister and Ministries of State Act is assigned to assist a Minister having responsibilities for any department or other portion of the Public Service of Canada, or has assigned or transferred to him any powers, duties or functions of any such minister, the Minister of State shall, in providing such assistance or in exercising or performing such powers, duties or functions, make use of the services and facilities of that department or portion of the public service.

Ministries of State — where it appears to the governor in council that the requirements for formulating and developing new and comprehensive policies in relation to any matter or matters coming within the responsibility of the Government of Canada, warrant the establishment for the time being of a special portion of the Public Service of Canada, presided over by a minister charged with responsibility for the formulation and development of such policies, the governor in council may, by proclamation, establish a Ministry of State for that purpose.

A proclamation establishing a Ministry of State shall:

- (a) state the name of the ministry;
- (b) specify the matter or matters in relation to which the minister for the ministry is to formulate and develop policies, and
- (c) specify the powers, duties and functions to be assigned to the minister for the ministry in relation to the formulation and development of those policies.

The governor in council may, by proclamation, from time to time, change the name of a Ministry of State or vary any matter set out in the proclamation establishing the Ministry.

The governor in council may, by proclamation, terminate the existence of a Ministry of State.

Ministry — means those Members of the Privy Council that make up the Cabinet. However, the term also can mean a minister's portfolio (i.e. a minister's total responsibility). Ministry used in this sense does not have the same meaning as ministry of state.

Ministry of the Day — a synonym for the Cabinet.

Notice Paper — see Order Paper

Office of Her Majesty — a term used to signify those individuals appointed by order in council to hold office in any branch of government.

Order in Council — is an order of the governor in council.

Order in council appointments — see designated by the governor in council.

Order of the House — is when the House of Commons adopts a motion for the production of papers with or without debate. The order is recorded in Votes and Proceedings. These in turn are revised and printed in a bound volume known as Journals of the House of Commons of Canada.

Order Paper — is the popular name given to Order of Business and Notices (the daily agenda of the House of Commons).

Parliament of Canada — constitutes the Queen, the appointed Upper House called the Senate, and the elected Lower House called the House of Commons.

Parliamentarian — is an authority on the rules and usage of parliamentary procedure.

Parliamentary Secretary — is a Member of Parliament appointed to assist a Cabinet Minister in his duties. Appointments are for one year.

Person-year — a period of time worked by one person in one year if employed full-time, or equivalent, such as two persons working six months.

Portfolio — is often used as a synonym for ministerial responsibilities (both statutory and non-statutory), for example, Transport portfolio.

Precedence — the phrase used is "according to precedence", and, when applied to the Canadian Ministry means that except for the Prime Minister, Cabinet Ministers' names are listed in order of seniority according to when each was sworn to the Privy Council.

Prime Minister — chief executive, and head of government; sometimes referred to as the First Minister.

Privy Council — is the short informal name for the Queen's Privy Council for Canada. The title is not to be confused with the Privy Council Office. The Privy Council is an advisory body to the Crown. Membership is determined by the Governor General on the advice of the Prime Minister, and no Minister may hold office without first being sworn to the Privy Council. Membership is for life, although by convention only those Privy Councillors who are also members of the Cabinet may advise the Crown.

Privy Council Office — is the Prime Minister's department.

Privy Councillors — are members of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada. Membership is for life. A member is styled Honourable, and may use the initials P.C. after his name. Being a member does not necessarily mean being a member of the Cabinet.

Pro forma bill — the introduction of such a bill in each House at the start of every session is the perpetuation of the claim of Parliament to sit and act without leave from the Crown.

Proprietary corporation — is defined as a Crown corporation that:

- (a) is responsible for the management of lending or financial operations, or for the management of commercial or industrial operations involving the production of or dealing in goods, and the supplying of services to the public; and
- (b) is ordinarily required to conduct its operations without parliamentary appropriations.

Prorogation — means the act by which a session of Parliament is brought to an end.

Public corporation — is a synonym for a Crown corporation.

Public officer — includes any person in the Public Service of Canada:

- (a) who is authorized by or under an enactment to do or enforce the doing of an act or thing or to exercise a power; or
- (b) upon whom a duty is imposed by or under an enactment.

Public officers — every public officer appointed before, on or after the 1st day of September, 1967, by or under the authority of an enactment or otherwise, shall be deemed to have been appointed to hold office during pleasure only, unless it is otherwise expressed in the enactment or in his commission or appointment.

Public organization — means a branch of government when used within the context of the federal Public Service.

Public Service — means those branches of government as listed in Schedule I, Part 1 of the Public Service Staff Relations Act (additions and deletions to the Schedule are published as SOR's in the Canada Gazette Part II, but the references are also indicated in the latest Table of Public Statutes [found at the back of the most recently published Statutes of Canada]).

Pursuant to — see By, under

Queen — see Sovereign

Queen's Advisers — are the members of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada.

Queen's Printer — is the title held by the Deputy Minister of Supply (Department of Supply and Services), every copy of an enactment having printed thereon what purports to be the name or title of the Queen's Printer and Controller of Stationery of the Queen's Printer shall be deemed to be a copy purporting to be printed by the Queen's Printer for Canada. (SC, 1967-68 c. 7 sec. 24; SC 1968-69 c. 28, sec. 105).

Queen's Privy Council for Canada — the formal name for the Privy Council. The council aids and advises the Government of Canada.

Regulation — The general meaning of any exercise of legislative power under the authority of a statute. A regulation, therefore, has the force of law. Includes an order, order in council, order prescribing regulations, rule, rule of court, form, tariff, of cost or fees, letters patent, commission, warrant, proclamation by-law, resolution or other instrument issued, made or established (a) in the execution of a power conferred by or under the authority of an Act, or (b) by or under the authority of the governor in council.

Repeal — includes revoke or cancel.

Right Honourable — the Governor General, Prime Minister and Chief Justice of Canada can use this title for life upon assuming office (see Table of Titles available from Secretary of State).

Royal Assent — the Clerk of the Parliaments endorses on every Act, immediately after the title, the day, month and year when the Act was assented to in Her Majesty's name; this endorsement is taken to be a part of the Act, and the date of assent is taken to be a part of the Act, therefore the date of assent is the date the Act commences, if no other date is provided.

Royal Commission — a task force. Only three Acts allow for these commissions to be established: the Inquiries Act, the Canada Shipping Act, the Territorial Lands Act.

Secretary, Secretary-General, Secretary of the . . . — a synonym for deputy head when the title is used for the senior principal officer.

Servant of Her Majesty — a term used to signify an individual appointed under the Public Service Employment Act.

Sovereign — head of State in whom formal executive power is vested.

Statute — See legislation.

Statutory Instrument — means any rule, order, regulation, ordinance, direction, form, tariff of costs or fees, letters patent, commission, warrant, proclamation, by-law, resolution, or other instrument issued, made or established. (For a more detailed description refer to An Act to provide for the examination, publication and scrutiny of regulations and other statutory instruments — short title Statutory Instruments Act).

Subordinate legislation — a synonym for delegated legislation.

Unclassified Crown corporation — a term used in the Canada Yearbook to group those Crown corporations which are not included in the Schedules of the Financial Administration Act.

Under — see By

Votes — when used in connection with the Estimates, votes refer to items which Parliament is asked to approve through Appropriation Acts. Generally speaking, there is usually only one vote for each program. Exceptions are outlined in the Preface to the Estimates.

Votes and Proceedings — the official record of the proceedings of the House.

White Paper — a statement of final, decided policy.
